HALLOWE'EN'S FESTIVITES

Young and Old Made Merry at Gatherings in the City and Borough.

MANY HOUSE PARTIES

Games and Pranks and Lots to Eat —Some Masquerade Affairs.

Following are some of the Hallowe'en parties in the city and borough last night:

Mrs. Lee Roberts, of Embree Crescent, Westfield, gave a delightful masquerade party at her home, last night, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. G. Harold Whitney, of this city, who recently returned from their honeymoon. Forty young people from Westfield and Plainfield were in attendance. The festivities proper were held in the spacious attic of the house, which looked like a harvest festival in decoration of corn husks, pumpkins and fruits, while lanterns and lighted pumpkins were the "shining lights" of the evening. The masqueraders were garbed in sheets and pillow cases and made the scene still more picturesque. They ducked for apples, roasted chestnuts and enjoyed other old fasioned games. Vocal solos, farm ballads and the "Tale of Hickory Bend" by one of the guests, contributed to the enjoyment of the evening. At the conclusion of the fun, refreshments of pumpkin pie, apples, cider and chestnuts were served. Wooden platters were used by the participants and they afterward did service in a "platter rolling" contest to decide the championship between Westfield and Plainfield. The latter were outdone and the laurels, for this year at least, rest with the Westfield contingent.

A masquerade party at Miss Mabel Cook's home, 149 East Fifth street, started spookishly. The guests were met at the basement door by two "ghosts," in very ghastly white, and led through the cellar to to the basement rooms in which the party was held. Miss Cook and Miss Edith Runk were the phanton guides.

Fortune telling and dancing were the chief feature of the evening. Refreshments were served at a late hour. Among the guests, in costume, were:

Miss Cook, Indian squaw; Miss Runk, Queen of Hearts; Miss Carolina Lambert, old maid; Miss Lambert, old Black Mammy; Miss Corine Tennyson, Japanese girl; Miss Edith Richards, gypsy; Miss May Chamblyn, Topsy; Miss Jessie MacMurray, Peter Pan; Miss May Fitz, College girl; Miss Winifred Hammond, Red Riding Hood; Miss Eleanor Bold, flower girl; Miss J. Hill, flower girl; Miss F. Hill, marketwoman; Mrs. G. Linberry, Red Cross; nurse; Miss Day, witch.

Frank Wikoff, of West Fourth street, was tendered a surprise party at his home, last night, that was a combined Hallowe'en and birthday affair. It was arranged by Mrs. Wikoff and was attended by thirty-five friends. Dancing was the feature of the gathering and guests contributed both vocal and instrumental music. Refreshments were served at midnight. Mr. Wikoff received a wide assortment of presents in honor of the natal day end of the affair.

A delightful Hallowe'en party was given by Miss Bessie VanNest, of Whitewood avenue, to fifteen of her friends. Games appropriate to the occasion were played and the refreshments were in keeping also.

Among the Hallowe'en festivities last night was a masquerade dance held at the Plainfield Camera Club rooms. There were about fifty in the company and all were attired in fantastic dress. Some of the masks were so clever that it was impossible to tell who the masqueraders were. The affair was arranged by Mr. and Mrs. Louis M. Hummer, of East Fifth street, and among those present were many who formed a dancing class that met at the rooms last winter.

Mr. and Mrs. English, of East Seventh street, gave an informal children's Hallowe'en party, last night, when the usual games were enjoyed.

The Sagamore Club gave a delightful Hallowe'en dance in E. C. Martin's barn on Albert street, last night. There were about forty members and friends of the club present and dancing was continued until a late hour. The barn was decorated with autumnal foliage and everyone had a jolly good time.

A Hallowe'en surprise party was given to Miss Beulah VanWinkle at her home at Park avenue and East Seventh street, Tuesday night. All kinds of games were played and prizes were given to the winners. About fifty young people attended. The affair was arranged by Miss Helen McCullom.

LIKELY TO FAVOR COUNTY COMMISSION

BOROUGHITES TO VOTE TO ABOLISH BOARD OF FREEHOLDERS.

The voters of North Plainfield will have the opportunity, on Tuesday, of expressing their opinion on the proposition to abolish the County Board of Freeholders and adopt the county commission plan of government. There are many reasons advanced why the freeholders should be done away with and a commission elected to look after the work now delegated to the former. The adoption of the commission idea by Hunterdon county resulted in a saving of $40,000 in the county expenses during the first year.

There is hardly any doubt that a big majority will be registered in favor of the change.

When asked to give his opinion former Senator Charles A. Reed said:

"I think the Board of Freeholders should be abolished, and a commission elected because by the present system of electing one member of the board from each township the several townships do not get the proportion of improvements they rightfully deserve. For instance, take this place. We pay about $20,000 in taxes, and what do we get? Very little, indeed, of what we should have. The borough is represented by one member of the board."

Mayor Smalley also favors the change.

MERRIMENT BY JACKIE IN THE CITY COURT

HARRY WILSON'S TALE BREAKS UP DIGNITY OF THE SESSION.

Smiling broadly above his service blouse, Harry Wilson, a naval jackie with the traditional taste and prodigality, enlivened the session of the city court this morning. He said so many funny things he broke up the court completely.

Harry was taken in by Patrolman Payne at midnight while working the nightbell at the home of Dr. W. K. Browning, Park avenue and Sixth street. Judge Runyon was walking home when Harry fell into the hands of the cop and he was curious to discover what the husky jackie thought he needed a physician for. When he asked Harry, the latter smiled sheepishly.

"You see, I didn't know where I was and I couldn't see a blessed soul on the street to ask. All I could see was electric lights. So I went up and pushed the button to ask where the main street was. And what got me was the way the woman in the house answered back through the button."

When the laugh that went up sounded Harry's sheepishness increased. He evidently hasn't figured out yet that a speaking tube must have worked somewhere when the button was answered.

"I wasn't disorderly, was I?" anxiously queried Harry. "I could navigate all right only I was trying to navigate without a compass overland."

He couldn't remember how he got to Plainfield. He remembered being in New York, and when he woke up again he was in a field near the hospital. When Harry got to that part of his tale he was joyfully recognized by the police as the man for whom the hospital authorities begged headquarters to send the patrol wagon early in the evening. He scared the nurses by his appearance. When the wagon reached Park avenue and Randolph road Harry had disappeared. He said he thought he was in the Bronx when he woke up.

Harry told the judge he had spent $720, the savings of four years, in the month since he was discharged from the service.

"I'm going back into the service to save some more," he said. "I've got my discharge papers at the Y. M. C. A., and ——."

The laugh that went up shook the room. Harry grinned.

"There's a saloon next door," he said, and Judge Runyon smoked as he waved him away. Harry went out with a nautical roll that put the finishing touch to his performance.

D. A. R. Go On Pilgrimage.

Members of General Frelinghuysen Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, of Somerville, went on a pilgrimage to Haddonfield Tuesday, where they were the guests of the Haddonfield Chapter. Upon their arrival at Haddonfield the women took a drive over the historic "King's Highway." After the drive they were escorted to the Haddonfield Inn. This building is where the provincial council sat in the days prior to the Revolutionary War, and it is now owned by the State of New Jersey.

SALOONS IN THE FIGHT

Barrooms Posted With Circulars For Democratic Assembly Nominees.

HAGUE, A "LIBERAL"

One of the Trio Backed By Anti-Bishops' Law Gang Comes Out for "Liberal Legislation."

Those who go into the saloons of Elizabeth from now till Election Day will be struck by the prominent display of this circular:

"We request all citizens without regard to party to support and vote on Election Day, November 6, only for such candidates as have pledged themselves to support a Liberal Policy on Laws in our next Legislature.

"We recommend the following candidates for your support:

"JOSEPH T. HAGUE,
"JAMES E. DESMOND,
"HARRY C. COULTER."

In some sections of Elizabeth the circulars have been plastered about the walls of saloons in such profusion as to indicate that an attempt at repapering the establishments had been given up only because the supply of circulars had given out.

Coming directly on the heels of Assemblyman Perkins' announcement of his vote and present opinions concerning the bishops' bill in the heart of the Democratic strongholds the circulars may have some significance. Perkins said that he had nerve enough to vote for the bill and did not deem a man who had not nerve enough to announce his opinion worthy of the confidence of voters.

The wisdom of the distribution of these circulars is questioned by many. Some of those who are well able to judge of the real state of affairs in the Democratic camp say that the campaign argument finding expression in such blind appeals as the above will prove disastrous to the interests of the candidates named.

In a noonday Democratic mass-meeting at the Singer factory at the Port yesterday Joseph T. Hague came out strongly for "liberal legislation." About a thousand employees of the great plant listened to him and the other speakers.

"If elected," he said, "I pledge myself to do all in my power for the enactment of liberal laws; for law that will not interfere with your rights as long as you do not encroach upon the rights of others. What has Republican legislation done for you? Nothing. They have done nothing but pass laws in the interests of the corporations, and last year they even went so far as to pass a law that interferes with your personal liberty. The equal taxation law in itself was good, but it was offset by the passing of the Avis bill."

He spoke if the errors that he had seen while in the Legislature himself.

P. J. Ryan, candidate for Mayor in Elizabeth, also spoke. He said that all that he had to offer them was his past record, which he thought would bear the closest scrutiny. He said that it was during his administration that Sunday ball was first permitted. He said that the courts had called him down for taking that stand, and then he went to the courts and proved that Sunday ball was all right. He said that he did not care to take all the credit for it, as Chief of Police George C. Tenny had also been instrumental in obtaining it for them. He said that he had lost the election two years ago because of circumstances beyond his control.

MORGAN GETS CONTRACT.

Poughkeepsie Man Successful Bidder for Sewer Work.

Peter Morgan, of Poughkeepsie, the lowest bidder for the construction of the southside sanitary sewer, met with the Councilmanic street committee, last night, and after discussing the matter, the committee decided to recommend at the November meeting of the Common Council, that the contract be awarded to Mr. Morgan. The latter was in town yesterday looking over the ground and learning more in detail about the contract and stands willing to execute the contract if he gets it.

The contract for the pumping station will probably go to Warren B. Travell, he being the lowest bidder on that part of the work, and the committee will recommend that he be given the contract. It understood that he is bidding on the Ingersoll-Rand Company type of pumping station.

Home Mission Conference.

There will be a home mission conference of the Baptist women of the East New Jersey Association, at the North Baptist church, Jersey City, tomorrow morning, at 10:30 o'clock and at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

INTERESTED IN REVIVAL

Despite Unfavorable Weather Conditions, Many Attend Evangelistic Services.

SOME GIVE TESTIMONY

Dr. Wharton Preaches—Dr. Chambliss Prays—William Holmes Leads Choir.

The evangelistic service at the First Baptist church, last night, was largely devoted to testimony, prayer and song, while Rev. Dr. Henry M. Wharton, who is in charge, gave another one of his informal talks. Stormy weather conditions doubtless kept many away, but there was a good attendance nevertheless. Following the song service, which was led by William Holmes, of the First Baptist church choir, there were several requests for prayer. All were remembered in an earnest petition by Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss. There were requests for prayers for members of Sunday-school classes, wives, husbands, friends, sons, daughters and "backsliders." Before Dr. Wharton began his talk, Mr. Holmes sang very earnestly "Softly and Tenderly Jesus is Calling."

The evangelist read selections of the Scriptures from the eighth chapter of the Acts of the Apostles, beginning at the twenty-fifth verse, which contains the story of Philip meeting the man of Ethiopia, an enunch of great authority, who was converted while on his way to Jerusalem. He took his text from a portion of the thirty-ninth verse, "And he went on his way rejoicing." In part Dr. Wharton spoke as follows:

"That was the man brought to Christ. The way to be happy in this world is to seek to make others happy. I heard Dr. Judson tell a story of a little girl who was running after her pet dog, the animal seemed to be running away from home, and the girl was crying as though her heart would break. When Dr. Judson asked her what she was crying about she said that her dog would be lost and she would be lost and she didn't know what to do. Dr. Judson then advised her to start and run home, adding that the dog would follow her. She did so and it happened that the dog not only followed his owner but overtook her and got home before she did.. In relating the incident, Dr. Judson said that it made him happy all day long when he thought how he had helped the little girl.

"In the intensely interesting chapter I read tonight we have both the divine and human side. We see God planning for the conversion of a soul. He knew that the man from Ethiopia would leave for Jerusalem and he sent Philip out to meet him. He sent the message to Philip's heart and he obeyed the summons."

In connection with this Dr. Wharton related an incident telling how a young physician was strangely led by a woman to a service he was holding to deliver a telegram and although he was an infidel, he was converted and became a useful man. Continuing he said:

"In the second place we see God's child carrying out His plan. Philip asked no questions but obeyed. What if he said 'there is no use going to meet that man I will stay here.' There would have been a lost opportunity to save a soul. When Philip met the man from Ethiopia I imagine he was much embarrassed, because he rode in a carriage, but the Spirit spoke to him a second time telling him to go near. God wants us to go near the world but not to partake of its harmful pleasures. I believe that the unsaved of this world are more anxious to have us talk to them about their soul's salvation than we are to talk to them. When Philip found the man reading he asked him if he understood what he was reading. He replied in the negative, and then invited Philip to explain it to him. There we see Philip anxious and willing to do all possible to save that soul.

"In the third place we see the man willing and anxious to learn. If there is one here tonight willing to do as much, salvation is yours. Philip Baptized the Ethiopian and he went away rejoicing and happy, while Philip rejoiced in the fact that he had led a soul to Christ. If you don't know that joy of leading a soul to Christ, try it tonight."

Dr. Wharton then related another story about his early ministry, where he was used of God to lead an unconverted young man to Christ. He was on his death-bed, and because he had lost so many opportunities to accept Christ when well and strong he would not listen to religious teaching, preferring to go into eternity as he had lived. Dr. Wharton visited the young man every day, talked and prayed with him and finally rejoiced to see him converted and die a Christian. The boy's mother also rejoiced. She was afraid to have her son die un-

WOOD ON HIS RECORD

4th District Republican Congressional Nominee Recites Account of Stewardship.

ATTENTIVE TO DUTIES

Voted for All Good Measures and He Names Them—Appeal For Support.

Congressman Ira W. Wood, of the Fourth Congressional District, who is a candidate for re-election, has sent a circular letter to every voter in Somerset, Hunterdon and Mercer county setting forth his record in the last session of Congress. His record shows that he did not let dust collect on his congressional seat. Here is what he says for himself:

"For two years I have had the honor of serving as the Representative of this district in Congress. If my record meets with your approval, I should appreciate very much your influence, support and vote.

"I have been very much gratified in having been able to secure the enactment of some measures of considerable interest to the district. An appropriation of $30,000 was made for the Princeton Battle Monument. $125,000 were appropriated for the enlargement of the postoffice building in Trenton. A survey was authorized by the last River and Harbor Bill of Perriwig Bar and a favorable report made on the same by the War Department. The number of rural delivery routes has been increased from seventen to forty-three. Trenton has been established as a first-class delivery postoffice.

"I have endeavored to bring the benefits of the Agricultural Department, which is doing such splendid work for the farming industry, home to the farmers of my district by the distribution of large quantities of Farmers' Bulletins, Agricultural Year Books and other publications. I have endeavored to serve in every way the interests of the veterans who deserve so well of the Republic. I hove voted for all the measures that have made such a splendid record for the first session of the Fifty-ninth Congress—the railroad rate regulation law; the pure food bill; the bill for the removal of the tax on denaturned alcohol to provide cheap heat, light and power for the farmers; the naturalization law; and all the other measures that have made this a great session of Congress.

"If again favored with the confidence of the voters I shall vote to maintain the protective tariff, so vital to the prosperity of all in the district. I shall continue, as in the past, to support the measures that have been championed by Theodore Roosevelt. I shall endeavor to serve all the people of all the district without regard to party."

FOWLER SPEAKS TONIGHT.

Tomorrow the Congressional Nominee Will Visit the Shops.

Congressman Fowler will arrive here at 6 o'clock this evening and will dine with the Republican assembly candidates and some local leaders at the Hotel Iroquois. At 8 o'clock he will address a mass meeting at the theatre. The other speakers will include Assemblyman Perkins and Messrs. Moxon and Tillman. Senator Hillery is also expected.

It is Mr. Fowler's intention to spend the night here. All day tomorrow he will put in meeting local voters. It is planned to take him to the Pond Machine Works as usual to shake hands with the men and he will also visit other big plants.

Thirty-two Indictments.

The Union County Grand Jury came into court this morning and presented thirty-two indictments. Not having completed its labors the jury returned to the jury room. It is expected that there will be twenty more indictments, making fifty-two in all. It is probable that the arraignments will take place on Wednesday, following election.

Timbo Ball Tonight.

Saengerbund hall will be the Mecca for hundreds of pleasure seekers tonight as it will be the scene of the Timbo Social Club's annual ball. Every preparation has been made to have it eclipse all others and from present prospects it will. Dancing will commence at 8:30 and the grand march will be at 9:30.

Grace Church Parish Festival.

Rev. Herbert Shipman, assistant rector of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, New York, will speak at the special choral service at Grace P. E. church tonight, at 8 o'clock. It will mark the annual parish festival.

MASKED COTILLION IN ST. MARY'S SCHOOL HALL

AFFAIR GIVEN BY THE CHURCH CHOIR PROVED HIGHLY ENJOYABLE.

One of the most enjoyable affairs that the members of St. Mary's parish have taken part in for many months was conducted in the Parochial school hall, last night, by members of the church choir. It was in the nature of a masked cotillion and was attended by 150 young people. They came in all manner of costumes and disguises and merriment reigned from eight o'clock until well after midnight.

The cotillion was led by Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Courain, of Jersey City, former local residents, and they did it in the manner that has given them a reputation and made their services eagerly sought after. Many new figures were introduced and as on a former occasion when a cotillion was held in the hall, the participants carried long strips of paper with them, so that eventually they were entangled in the fluttering material. Favors of whistling birds, pumpkins and fans were given the dancers, while confetti was thrown about in bewildering clouds.

The masks were keut on until 11 o'clock and the hilarity was increased a hundred fold when identities were revealed. Formal dancing followed and refreshments were served shortly after midnight.

The committee of arrangements from the choir comprised Joseph O'Keefe, Theodore Shirley, Bryan Hanrahan, Miss May Smith, Miss Alice Keely and Mrs. Edward Feiring. Music was furnished by Allen Squier.

SOMERSET CLUB HAS A HALLOWE'EN AFFAIR

EXTENDS THE GLAD HAND TO FULLY 200 GUESTS.

Hallowe'en was observed in rousing good style by the Somerset Club, of the borough, last night, and the members added to their laurels won by delightful entertaining. The headquarters in the building at Somerset street and Manning avenue were "open" all evening and 200 guests enjoyed the hospitality of the organization.

A decorating committee had been busy for several days and the place smacked of Autumn, harvest fields and apple orchards, making it a positive delight to be inside. Those responding to invitations were made to feel at home as soon as they crossed the threshold of the door and the glad hand was extended in large-sized slices. Beside this something substantial was passed out in the form of sweet cider, sandwiches, coffee, cake and pie. There was any quantity of each and if anybody went home without a fourteenth help it was his own fault.

Everybody of any prominence in the borough was on hand and in addition to the contingent that crossed the brook from the city side the guests included Somerset county celebrities. Among the latter were Senator Frelinghuysen, from Somerville, and William W. Smalley, of Bound Brook, candidate for Assembly on the Republican ticket. There were others as widely known but it was one of those affairs where everybody was as good as anybody else and there was no especial particularizing.

During the evening George O. Stevens and Herbert Schutt favored with several vocal selections and Charles J. Ward gave a monologue that was a "knock-out." The rest of the time was devoted to attacks on the refreshment supply and sociability pure and simple.

The committee which arranged and had charge of the affair consisted of David J. Carney, chairman; Robert Trewin, John Schroop, Andrew Love, Jr., and Grover Schuck.

Prisoners Sentenced.

In the Union County Court of Common Pleas at Elizabeth yesterday a number of prisoners were arraigned, pleaded guilty and were sentenced. Henry Cuguelle, for breaking and entering from a car on the Lehigh Valley Railroad, fot two years in State prison. William Lane, alias Arthur Rice, and William Morris, for breaking, entering and larceny, Morris got three years in State prison and Lane two years. William Semlar, for assault, got two years in State prison. Lane and Morris were the two thieves who broke into the residence of James Hastings, 441 Catherine street, Elizabeth, on the morning of October 17, and stole watches and rings valued at nearly $100.

Somerset Teachers' Institute.

The Somerset County Teachers' Institute will be held at Flemington on November 26, 27 and 28. County Superintendent H. C. Krebs, of the borough, will be in charge.

FORECAST ON LOCAL VOTE

REGULARS CONFIDENT

Smith, MacMurray and Fisk Give Their Views—Much Independent Voting Probable.

That Congressman Fowler will carry Plainfield by a much reduced majority it appears to be the consensus of opinion among the politicians. Two of the most reliable political forecasters among the local leaders, neither of whom will allow his name to be used, says that the Republican Assembly ticket will go through with a 1,000 majority and that the Congressional nominee will receive about 550 majority. Much depends, however, upon the attitude of the "New Idea" members. That many of the "New Idea" men will exercise their privilege of independent voting, appears to be believed in some quarters, although the Regulars' leaders declare that the election will be on strict party lines. Some "New Idea" men, however, are known to be openly opposed to Assemblyman Perkins, while others are intending to cut Mr. Fowler in favor of Mr. Martine, who had a good word to say for the friends of Senator Colby when the primary campaign was in full swing.

When City Clerk MacMurray was asked last night what his opinion of the outcome in Plainfield would be, he stated that it was a trifle early to give any figures. He ventured the assertion, however, that the Assembly ticket would receive about 1,000 majority and that Mr. Fowler's majority would not be a hundred less. Union county he believed would give the party about 1,500 majority. On the whole he looks for good round majority for the Republican candidate in the Congressional district.

County Chairman Frank H. Smith said:

"I prefer not to give any figures, but to confine my prediction to the statement that the ticket will go through with the usual majority. That is, it will win by about 1,500 in Union county. Each one of the candidates will run ahead of his colleagues in some district or another while in another district he will run behind. This is due to local conditions. For instance, Perkins and Tillman may be cut in the lower wards of Elizabeth on account of the Bishops' bill, while on the other hand their views on that measure will redound to their credit in Plainfield, where the Bishops' bill receives strong support. Again, Fowler will make a better run in Elizabeth.

"So far as Plainfield is concerned he can not be expected to run as well for Martine has local popularity behind him. That is, a sentimental vote will figure in the fight here to a small extent on account of Martine being a local man. So you see, there will be sort of off-sets wherever you go. That convinces me that the Republican ticket on the whole will go through with the ordinary majority. Of course this is on the presumption that the party vote will be gotten out."

City Chairman Charles J. Fisk asserted that "The Republicans will vote the Republican ticket and the Democrats the Democratic ticket." He does not look for any cutting of magnitude. He objects to the use of the terms "Colbyite" and "New Idea Men" in this campaign, giving as his reason that the factional fight within the party was settled at the primaries. "There are no 'new idea' men and there are no 'Colbyites;' we are all Republicans," said he with much earnestness. Mr. Fisk would not venture to give any figures on the probable result, confining himself to the statement that the ticket would go through in Plainfield with the normal majority.

One well-known citizen, who figured most prominently in the recent primary fight, declared that he had heard that there would be a good deal of cutting done both on the Congressional and Assembly tickets. This he said was not confined to any particular group of men, but that as many regular organization men as "New Idea" men would do some independent voting.

Another very prominent leader in the "New Idea" wing of the party said to a representative of The Daily Press this morning that he had asked twelve Republicans yesterday how they intended to vote in the Congressional fight. He said that each one of the twelve declared he would cast his ballot for Mr. Martine. "I intend to vote for him myself," said he, adding the names of one or two other prominent "New Idea" leaders who would do likewise.

Some of the Democratic leaders claim that Mr. Fowler will not receive 300 majority in Plainfield. They count upon Martine getting the labor vote, basing their claims on the

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY

As a balm for the inconveniences suffered while the parsonage has been in process of remodelling, the women of the Methodist Episcopal church will hold a donation party for the parsonage family. There is much enthusiasm in the affair.

Dr. T. H. Platt's new property on Dunellen avenue is to have a concrete walk. John Fedderman has the contract.

F. R. Holden has returned home after spending a week with his daughter, Mrs. A. R. Tappen, of the township.

Miss Mary Ann Stone is improving rapidly from the effects of the recent accident, in which she broke her arm.

Garretson & Gray have begun on the macadamizing of the new roadway at Lincoln for W. M. Ostrander.

David Lawson has resigned as janitor of Friendship Hall. He gave up the position this morning.

Nelson Cronk has returned from a stay with his daughter, Mrs. Charles Underhill, in New York.

The monthly meeting of the Piscataway school board will be held this afternoon.

Lakeside Council will hold a Hallowe'en sociable after the meeting tonight.

Andrew Johnson has recovered from his severe illness enough to go about.

Mrs. H. L. Pierce has been suffering with a severe cold.

Peter Osborn has been ill with erysipelas of the head.

John Larcey has become a bridge tender at Rahway.

Mrs. J. M. Dayton is visiting at Ridgewood.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD

The storm last night did more to curb the younger element in their Hallowe'en pranks than the entire police could have done. As it was there were a few gates missing this morning. Several informal Hallowe'en gatherings were held in the homes with the usual testing of fate with the old familiar apple peelings and bobbing for apples.

Contractor John Bornmann has started the work of pulling down the candy store on Park avenue and within a few weeks a more modern building, larger and more up-to-date than the old building in which the fathers and some of the grandfathers of the present generation bought their candy, will take its place.

The Suburban Club has issued invitations for the first of its winter club dances to be held Thursday night of next week in the club's hall.

Samuel Parsells, of New Brunswick, has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. William Bartle, of Glenside Park.

The regular monthly communion will be held at Sunday morning's service at the Baptist church.

Lynus Walpole, who has been visiting friends at Perth Amboy, has returned home.

Joseph Perrette's barber shop will be located for a time in the Cook store.

Twilight Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., meets tonight in the library rooms.

Complaints Coming In.

The Union County Board of Taxation is beginning to receive written complaints from Plainfield, as well as all parts of the county regarding the new assessments, and it will keep the members of the board pretty busy from this time until the time taxes become delinquent, treating with property owners. The complaints are of about the usual kind and are no worse than in years past. There is a general feeling among property owners that the tendency has been to levy an equal tax so far as possible and there have been no complaints from some of the largest property owners, who might be expected to kick.

Mrs. Jennie Beardslee a Bride.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Mrs. Jennie Beardslee, of Millstone, and Theodore Hendershot, of Lebanon, Hunterdon county, which took place last Saturday night at the home of Paul Beardslee in Millstone. Rev. Dr. Ferwerda, pastor of the Reformed church at Millstone, performed the ceremony, in the presence of a few relatives. The bride is a relative of Mrs. George White, of North Plainfield, and both she and her husband are known here. The couple will reside at Millstone.

At the Postoffice.

Postmaster E. H. Bird has received a large new roll-top desk for his use. The floor of his private office has been covered with new carpet. The iron fencing to be used for the separation of the various departments has arrived and will be put in position in a day or two. A large flat top desk has also been provided for the registry and money order departments, when and money order departments, where W. B. Sharp and Daniel Clawson are in charge.

C. J. Fisk to Resign.

The Plainfield Board of Health will hold its regular November meeting on Tuesday afternoon. This will probably be the last meeting when Charles J. Fisk, the mayoralty candidate, will preside as president of that body. No successor has been entertained as yet.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The Netherwood Club will hold a business meeting at St. Stephen's church parish house on Monday night.

The entertainment an sale under the auspices of Grace church, will be held in the parish house Wednesday and Thursday afternoons and evening, November 7 and 8.

During the revival services at the First Baptist church, the special series of sermons at the Park Avenue Baptist church have been temporarily given up by the pastor, Rev. A. E. Finn.

The first meeting of the Mission Study Class of the Congregational church will be held tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. M. Whitton on Central avenue. Plans for the winter will be discussed.

There will be communion services on Sunday morning at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian, First Presbyterian and Congregational churches, and in the evening the congregations will unite in the evangelistic services being held at the First Baptist church.

The Order of the Temple was conferred on Former Mayor Charles J. Fisk at a special conclave of Trinity Comandery, No. 17, K. T., Monday night.

NATURE SPARES

The Stricken Rose From Grief.

What a fortunate provision of nature it is, that deprives the rose of mental suffering; for how poignant would be its grief to discover, in the height of its blooming glory, that a canker fed at its heart, and that its beauty and fragrance were doomed forever. Nature always spares the suffering; she is a veritable store-house of pleasing rewards, for those who seek her aid. In the years gone by falling hair and grayness have cast a gloom over the lives of thousands of young women, but thanks to the investigations of scientists the true cause of hair destruction is now known to be a germ or parasite that burrows into the hair follicles. Newbro's Herpicide absolutely destroys this germ, thus permitting the hair to grow as nature intended. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

"Custer's Last Fight" is full of thrilling moments, and one of these is Buffalo Bill's ride for life on his horse "Betsey Baker." This faithful animal carrying Buffalo Bill, Louise

Ramsey, his sweetheart, and his adopter child, little Chrystal, gallops at full speed in view of the audience, on a patented tread mill and lands them safely at Custer's headquarters. "Custer's Last Fight" will be at the New Plainfield theatre Saturday afternoon and night.

Miss Anna Day, who appears this season as "Mary Tudor" in Ernest Shipman's grand production of "When Knighthood was in Flower," has been universally extended the praise of critics and the plaudits of the press wherever she has been presented. By many her portrayal of the character of the wilful "Madcap Mary" is said to be even truer and better than that of America's favorite actress, Julia Marlowe, by whom the play was brought out. "When Knighthood Was in Flower" will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre Election Day, afternoon and night.

The tremendous demand for the musical play "His Honor, the Mayor," by managers throughout the country is evidenced by the number of applications received at the offices of Klaw & Erlanger for this attraction. The remarkable success met with by this production during its long summer run in New York, has spurred the managers of other cities to request that it be presented in their city. The manager of Klaw & Erlanger's booking department is authority for the statement that on August 1 there had been 1,000 written requests for Mr. Aaron's production. Of course it will be impossible to comply with all these demands, but Plainfield has been favored and the play will be seen here Saturday afternoon and night, November 10.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

GOLF.

Boston has also an interest for next season in the future of the Eastern Professional Golfers' Association tournament, held for the first time last week at the Forest Hill Field Club. George Low, the president, has received a letter from G. H. Windeler, of the golf committee at the Country Club, Brookline, tendering that course for the next championship and stating that the club would provide some of the prizes. The offer will probably be accepted, as the professionals would like to play the championship near a different city each season. After this the tournament is to be a spring fixture and decided in May. There is a longer stretch of daylight then, which will give more time for the four ball matches, and a title won in the early part of the season is of more value as a trade asset to a pro than one gained in the late fall. To men who are in golf as a business the latter consideration is not to be regarded lightly. Boston professionals at Forest Hill included Aleck Campbell, Donald and Aleck Ross and John Jones. They expressed an opinion that if the tournament was held in May or June at Brookline it would probably be amalgamated with the open championship of the Massachusetts State Golf Association, of which G. H. Windeler is president. Only the resident starters, of course, would compete for the State title, but the union of the two tournaments would give to Brookline a great golfing week. President Windeler, by the way, with Herbert Jacques, of Boston, left after the Merion match for Nebraska on a shooting trip.

In the final match between Henry H. McClure and Clarence G. Stone, played Monday on the picturesque and sporty links of the Siwanoy Country Club Mount Vernon, for the handsome cup presented by George Semler, Mr. Stone won after a hard fought match by 2 up and 1 to play.

Herbert R. Peck gained on his rivals in the president's cup series at the Oakland Golf Club by finishing second in the October competition. One more handicap remains to be played and Peck is regarded as an almost certain victor. The October event was won by Clarence R. Dean, but as he was not a formidable factor in the series, Peck by finishing second and accumulating two points, thereby gained over nearest opponents Dean returned the low net score of 79, but he had a handicap of 22. Peck's gross score of 94 was the best of the two days' playing.

The monthly meeting of the Eastern Professional Golfers' Association will be held at the Astor House, New York, Monday morning at 11 o'clock sharp. One of the principle topics to be discussed will be the association championship for 1907. One club has already sent in a bid for the event. "Marty" O'Loughlin, the "pro" at the Plainfield Country Club, will attend from this city.

There are a sufficient number of players to compete for the consolation and inconsolables' cups which begins at the Plainfield Country Club, on Saturday, to make it interesting. All players who won points for the Golf Committee cup, but who did not win it, are eligible to contest in Saturday's event. There promises to be a large field.

A woman's team match between the Plainfield Country Club and the Essex County Country Club, scheduled at the local club yesterday afternoon, terminated in a draw. There were three members on each team and the match was started at 1 o'clock. The women after playing for an hour decided that the weather was too disagreeable to continue and all agreed to a draw. Miss Maud VanBoskerck and her partner played seven holes, Miss Margaret Goddard and her partner six holes and Mrs. N. Pendleton Rogers and her partner four holes. The Plainfield women were ahead when the match was called off. Prior to starting the match Miss Margaret Goddard entertained the two teams at luncheon.

Mrs. N. Pendleton Rogers has been devoting a little more time of late to golfing and she frequently makes some exceptional drives and deadly puts, showing that she is still in the game.

All the big golf tournaments for this season have been played and nothing remains but a few odds and ends to close the active schedules of the local clubs. Another month will find very little doing in golf, although many players will visit the courses to follow the sport for the exercise.

Considering the fact that golf is an expensive game the Plainfield Country Club and the Park Golf Club both have large memberships and there are probably no clubs in the Metropolitan district where the members are more enthusiastic over the game than here, and where it is followed with such persistency.

H. Chandler Egan had an erratic record this season until his return to the West after the national championship. On his best game he revealed the superiority in style and achievements that placed him at the top of the rating list last season. The long evenings of July gave opportunity to Egan to practise after his office hours. He went to the Grand Rapids tournament and to the amateur championship, at which he had to defend the title, but the lack of practice led to a defeat in each case. Yet in fourteen public matches this season Chandler Egan won eleven and lost but three.

FOOTBALL.

There will be no football game here on Saturday by the Orange Field Club, the eleven having a contest scheduled with the Crescent Field Club at Elizabeth.

The management of the Alis football eleven is preparing a strong and attractive schedule for the season. Its next important game locally will be with the Orange Field Club on Election Day morning.

Although there has been no football game at Dunellen in two weeks, the town has a fine team and will complete a strong schedule arranged earlier in the season.

While there is still hard feelings of dissatisfaction that football has been given up at the Plainfield High School, a majority of the boys appear to be satisfied. Most of the players have found places on other local teams.

The Carlisle Indians lead the Eastern teams in number of points scored, and they were the "feature" of last Saturday's games by their decisive defeat of Pennsylvania. It was the worst defeat of one of the so-called big four by a team outside of that charmed circle of modern times. Lafayette's scoring machine continues to produce good results. With only five games played the Eastonians rank fifth in total points. Cornell, with seven games, is second to the Indians, with Princeton third and Pennsylvania fourth. Yale, with one game less, has scored fewer points than any of the big university elevens; but, on the other hand, the Blue's list of games shows not a contest in which the Elis have not scored at least twice. Princeton has scored but once in three games, Harvard in two and Pennsylvania in three. Cornell has scored only once in one game and has been shut out in one. In the matter of no scoring by opponents, every Eastern team has fallen by the wayside except Yale and Dartmouth. There has been discouraging moments in some of the games played by these two, but it also is discouraging to opponents to feel that they are up against a defence that has not permitted of scoring.

The Army and Navy are in the same boat in the matter of defence. Each has been scored on only once, and five points are all that have been made by their respective antagonists. Only Harvard has been able to get across the Army's goal line, and that because of lack of vigilance by an official, and only Princeton has been able to invade the territory back of the Navy goal. The Fordham eleven is one of those which have been scored on only once, and the New Yorkers after beginning with a defeat has been tacking up the points in wholesale lots.

Next Sunday's New York World.

European courts are, just now, being charmed by a young American girl not yet out of her teens. She has fairly hypnotized the effete monarchs and their courts by her great charms, and is having unprecedented honors showered upon her. She is a New York girl, and it will be a matter of pride for New Yorkers, as well as all Americans, to read about her and see her picture. Among many other most interesting pictures, this will be a part of next Sunday's New York World.

School Boy Pranks Stopped.

The tendency of many school boys to congregate at the postoffice for the 5:30 o'clock mail every night and use the office for a playground, has called forth prompt action on the part of the postoffice employes and the practice has been stopped, much to the convenience of older people who call for their mail.

CANDIDATES UNMASKED.

The saloonkeepers have entered the Assembly fight and it behooves all friends of good government to work with might and main to defeat their machinations. In every barroom in Elizabeth is posted a circular in which the owner of the place urges the voters to cast their ballots in favor of the Democratic candidates for the Assembly. The party nominees are Joseph T. Hague, James E. Desmond and Harry C. Coulter. Hague has unmasked himself by coming out openly for "liberal" legislation. By "liberal" laws, he simply means a restoration of conditions prevalent previous to the enactment of the excellent excise measure, commonly known as the "Bishops' bill." His colleagues have not been guilty of so bold an effrontry, but "silence lends consent" and it is reasonable to presume that in the absence of their repudiation of the saloonkeepers' united action, they too favor "liberal" legislation.

These men may secure some votes in the lower wards of Elizabeth by their sacrifice of good principles, but whatever gain they make there will be off-set in this city, where law-abiding citizens constitute an overwhelming majority. The people of Plainfield have enjoyed the benefits of strict excise regulations long before the "Bishops' law" was ever thought of, and they will not surrender their manhood by voting for such men when they know that their election means a return to lawlessness and disorder throughout the State on the Sabbath day. The repeal of the statute means that the side-rooms of saloons will be thrown open again to women and young girls, leading to their downfall. It means, moreover, a "wide-open" Sunday; in other words the sale of liquor on God's day. In fact it means a hundred and one things that will reflect on the good name of the State of New Jersey.

ABOLISH FREEHOLDER BOARD.

It is not to be doubted that the voters of North Plainfield will give their endorsement to the proposition to substitute a commission in place of the Board of Freeholders as the governing body of Somerset county. Under the present conditions, ten men chosen from various sections constitute the board. The change provides for the substitution of three men, elected by the county at large and not by districts, who will have the same powers.

North Plainfield contributes about $20,000 annually to the receipts of the county. This sum together with about $120,000 more is entrusted to the freeholders to spend as they see fit. The borough has one vote in ten in any matter concerning expenditures of this big sum, although its contribution is larger than that of any other place in the county. A change in the method of electing the governing body will bring about more equitable results. That is why the boroughites favor it.

Thousands of homeward bound Brooklyn residents were delayed at the Manhattan end of the Brooklyn bridge at six o'clock last night because of trouble in the power houses. —N. Y. Herald.

And it is so easy to move to Plainfield.

Councilmen Ridiculed.

Some Westfield humorist who refuses to take the town solons seriously has had a lot of small yellow discs printed to travesty the $30 gold badges which the councilmen recently voted for themselves. The discs bear this inscription: "Gold Badge, $30, Councilman, 1906. Hully Gee!" The imitation badges have been distributed and the irreverent townspeople are wearing them to flout the statesmen who have the real ones.

saved, but when converted she said that knowing he could not get well, she could let him go.

"The joy of winning souls for Christ is one of the greatest," said Dr. Wharton, "and it is our privilege to do this grand and glorious work for Christ."

During the service an opportunity was given for those present to testify by quoting a passage of Scripture, and many responded. At times there would be several on their feet at once, each anxious to bear testimony to the saving power of Christ. The service closed with a hymn and the benediction by Dr. Wharton. The services will be continued tonight at 7:45, when a much larger congregation is anticipated.

Silver Cross Circle Holds a Tea and Entertainment.

The Silver Cross Circle, King's Daughters, gave a Hallowe'en tea, sale and entertainment at the home of Mrs. Edward T. Wilson, on Sycamore avenue, the borough, yesterday afternoon. The stormy weather kept a great many away, but the affair was a success nevertheless and about $50 was netted for the treasury.

The home was appropriately decorated with corn-stalks, pumpkins and autumnal foliage, while the members of the Circle, assisting, were dressed in Puritan costume. During the afternoon coffee and crullers were served, Mrs. S. Fullerton Weaver and Mrs. H. E. Butler being in charge. There was also a sale of candy, cake and useful articles. Mrs. F. W. French and Mrs. William J. Roome, Jr., had charge of the candy table, and Miss May Shreve and Mrs. Clifford W. McGee were at the cake table, while different members presided at the useful articles' table. An enjoyable feature were the soprano solos by Miss Agnes Bailey, accompanied on the piano by Miss Sarah Mae Howell.

The officers of the Circle are as follows: President, Miss Helen Phillips; secretary, Miss Susie Suffern; treasurer, Miss Marion McCutchen. The proceeds from yesterday's affair will be used toward keeping the Circle's pledge in support of the city nurse.

BROKE DOOR PANEL.

Then Hallowe'en Celebrators Had a Row With Edward McCarthy.

Edward McCarthy, of West Fifth and Division streets, appeared in the city court this morning against John L. O'Keefe, Harry Wierenga, Frank McInierny, James P. Lynch, Thomas Bebout and Charles D. Curran, all boys, who were charged with breaking the panel of his front door last night with a rock brightened with Hallowe'en greetings.

Mr. McCarthy, who said young O'Keefe's family was a lot of loggerheads with him, charged the latter with using all sorts of scandalous language. He filed a separate charge of profanity against him. Judge Runyon laid the case over until Monday, to give the boys' fathers a chance to pay pro rata shares of the expense of repairing the door. The second charge against O'Keefe was vigorously met by the boy, and the magistrate laid the hearing on it over until Tuesday to give both sides a chance to bring witnesses.

Will Lecture on Bermuda.

What promises to be an enjoyable entertainment will be given tonight at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church before the Young People's Association, when Dr. J. S. Mattison, of Brooklyn, will deliver his popular lecture, "A Winter Eden: Bermuda —The Land of the Lily and the Rose." Dr. Mattison has been in Bermuda on twelve different occasions, his last visit being from last November until May, and declares it to be the most delightful land he has ever known in varied travels at home and abroad; a land charming to sense and sight and teeming with hygienic riches for the betterment of certain ills. The lecture will be illustrated with one hundred attractive steropticon views, among them some of the most beautiful ever presented. They were colored by Joseph Hawkes, of New York, the foremost artist of his kind in America.

Death of Mrs. H. E. Ryder.

Mrs. Hobert E. Ryder, formerly of this city, died at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph B. Losey, at Somerville, yesterday afternoon, following a long illness. About a year ago Mrs. Ryder underwent an operation at Muhlenberg Hospital, after which she made her home with her parents. When in Plainfield she lived at one time in Richmond street and later in Netherwood. She was for some time the leading soprano soloist at Trinity Reformed church. She made many friends while a resident of Plainfield, and she was held in high esteem for her many lovable qualities. She is survived by a husband, who is engaged in business in New York.

Mrs. V. L. Frazee, of East Front street, is visiting Mrs. F. G. Neighbor in Orange.

Francis M. Bacon, of West Sixth and New streets, who has been seriously ill with pneumonia, is slightly improved.

Mrs. H. C. Compton, of West Front street, is improving from a severe illness which has detained her at home for several weeks.

Fire Drills Resumed.

The first fire drill of the present term was conducted by Superintendent Krebs in the Somerset school, yesterday morning. The pupils were apprised of the fact that it would take place some time during the morning and the last one was out of the building in exactly one minute and ten seconds. From now on the drills will be held at irregular intervals and will come without any previous announcement.

Suspicious Pair Released.

Frank Branch and Thomas Bevier, who were arrested yesterday under suspicion of being flim flammers, were released under suspended sentence by Judge Runyon in the city court this morning. Drunkenness was the only thing that could be proved against them. Bevier was at first fined $3, but he promised to leave town at once if released, and the fine was remitted. He lives in Cuba, N. Y.

HALLOWE'EN FESTIVITIES

Miss Ida Tier, of Bank place, was given a Hallowe'en surprise party, last night, about fifty young people calling at her home. All were masked and it was sometime before it was known who was who. The evening was given up to dancing and playing games and at a late hour refreshments were served.

Miss Grace Woolston entertained a few friends at her home last night, when the usual Hallowe'en games were played and refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rowley gave a "spook" party at their home on Grove street that was attended by seventy-five friends. There were all manner of ghostly objects placed about the rooms and hallways and wierd effects helped to make the guests realize that it was a "creepy" affair. Games, music and a supper were features.

Miss Laura Lee, a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Leek, of East Fifth street, was the guest of honor at a masquerade party. She was taken out to dinner and knew nothing of the affair until she was brought into the midst of it. The affair was a most delightful one, and vastly enjoyed by the two-score guests. The rooms were lit only by jack-o'-lanterns, many of which shone grotesquely from tables, shelves and stands. Mr. Leek created much merriment dressed as a boy.

Dancing and round games were the features. Refreshments were served. A number of prizes were won.

The Misses Anna and Sarah Hopewell, of East Fifth street, were hostesses for thirty or more friends at a Hallowe'en party. The guests came with their faces concealed in masks and they were kept on until 10 o'clock, all manner of fun being occasioned by it. Dancing predominated in the enjoyment and there was also plenty of music, games and other features. The refreshments were appropriate to the Hallowe'en spirit.

MIDDLESEX DEMOCRATS FIGHT FOR PURE BALLOT.

The Democrats of Middlesex county are putting up a strenuous battle against bribery at the coming elections, and as in this county they are the only party to manifest any interest in the fight against political corruption.

They have repealed repeatedly to the Republicans to co-operate in stamping out bribery, but as in Mercer, they have been unsuccessful.

The plan of the Democratic clubs is to have ten of their men at every poll in the county this year, to watch the Republican ward workers and make criminal charges when they get the first intimation that bribery is being employed. In New Brunswick the Democratic club has asked Mayor Drury W. Cooper to call a special meeting of Common Council to select 24 special policemen to enforce the anti-bribery and 100-foot laws at the polls. It is believed that Mayor Cooper, who is an independent Republican, will accede to the request, which will put the matter up to the common council, seven of whose members' terms expire this fall.

The Republicans who supported Colonel Fordyce at the primaries have been slow in coming around for Jackson. Many have openly declared their intention of voting for Silzer, while others will vote for neither. At any rate, Middlesex, being a normally Democratic county, there is nothing in the present prospects to justify the Republican assumption of a walk-over except the fact that that party has money while the Democrats have none.

BEGINNING DEDICATION OF NEW PARISH HOUSE.

Bishop to Be at St. Stephen's This Afternoon; a Reception Tonight.

Ceremonies attendant on the dedication of the new parish house of St. Stephen's P. E. church, Netherwood, were begun this morning with two celebrations of the holy communion. There was a low celebration at 6:45 o'clock and a high celebration at 10.

Bishop Scarborough will conduct the actual dedication service this afternoon, at 4 o'clock. He will be assisted by Rev. A. S. Pell, the rector, and several visiting clergymen. The Bishop will deliver the address.

A reception will be held in the parish house tonight at 8 o'clock, under the auspices of the vestrymen and their wives. Bishop Scarborough will be present and it is expected to speak informally. Senator Colby, who was one of the chief benefactors of the parish in its effort to erect the parish house, was expected to attend the reception, but he will be unable to come on account of a pressing engagement.

CATHOLIC SISTERS VISIT THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

Two Parochial School Instructors at the Plainfield High School.

Sisters Mary Esther and Paulina, who are in charge of the Parochial School, of St. Mary's Parish, were visitors at the Plainfield High School this morning. Their purpose was to get acquainted with the methods employed there in the teaching of children. They seemed to be much gratified with the methods used and expressed their pleasure over the courtesies extended. So far as known this is the first time representatives of the Parochial School have visited the public schools.

Sometime ago, Father Hogan, rector of St. Mary's church, delivered an address to the pupils of the high school, which kindness won for him many warm words of esteem.

Judge Lectures Youth.

Edward Mattox, the youth arrested Tuesday for annoying German Polack, a West Third street grocer, was arraigned in the city court this morning. He denied being a member of a gang who have made it a practice to throw Polack's things around, but acknowledged overturning a soda water box Sunday night. Judge Runyon gave him a talking to, got his promise to help restrain the other youths of the neighborhood, and suspended sentence. J. P. Owens appeared for Polack.

Quartette of Annoyers Arrested.

John Consoli, who keeps a fruit stand on the Somerset street bridge over Green brook, complained to Chief Weiss, yesterday, that a gang of boys had been making life miserable for him by stealing his stock and using him generally for a good thing. The officer took to the trail and rounded up Harry Hansen, Percy Haberle, William Rutledge and William Morris as the culprits. They will appear on Consoli's charge before Mayor Smalley tonight.

Admits Killing.

Somerville, Nov. 1.—Clarence E. Case, counsel for Miss Florence Illario, who is on trial for her life in the Somerset court, for the killing of Alexander Depavlo, told a harrowing tale to the jury yesterday in opening the case for the defense. He admitted that there was a killing.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Nov. 4.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—The blessedness of communion with Christ.—John xiv, 15-26.

Communion with Christ is one of the greatest blessings that result from Christian discipleship. There are various ways of communing with Christ. We may commune with Him in prayer. Prayer is not simply petition. It does not consist simply in asking for things desired, but also in holding communion with the Father or the Son, to whom we pray. We talk to them as child to parent or as friend to friend, and not the least of the blessings of prayer is this communion and fellowship with the Saviour. "A little talk with Jesus, how it smooths the rugged road." We may commune with Christ through His word. In the Scriptures He speaks to us, and in listening to Him we enjoy the best of fellowship with Him. In the celebration of the Lord's supper we hold communion with Christ. It is called the "communion" not only because Christians enjoy each other's fellowship in the performance of this sacrament, but also because the true disciple communes with Christ through the emblems that represent His broken body and shed blood. But the chief avenue of communion with Christ is through the Holy Spirit. At Christ's departure from the earth He sent His Holy Spirit to abide as His representative in the hearts of believers, and through the indwelling Spirit we have the sweetest communion with the Master. In all these ways we should be faithful in communing with Him who is the source of our spiritual lives.

The blessedness of communion with Christ cannot be overestimated. The intercourse of friend with friend is one of the chief sources of the happiness of life, and how much greater is this happiness when the friend is Jesus Christ our Saviour and our Redeemer. To hold communion with the good and great of the earth through personal intercourse or through their written words is a source of untold blessing; but He is the greatest of the great, the best of the good, and communion with Him consequently produces far greater happiness.

In the results of communion with Christ we see its blessedness.

1. Such communion comforts us amid life's troubles and afflictions.

What a friend we have in Jesus,
All our sins and griefs to bear;
What a privilege to carry
Everything to God in prayer!

2. It is a source of knowledge. In our intercourse with Him through the spirit we are taught concerning spiritual things. The spiritual knowledge and discernment of many who are ignorant and unlearned are sometimes remarkable. But it is easily explained. They live close to the Master, and He reveals many things to them. Spiritual things are spiritually discerned, and if we would attain to unusual spiritual knowledge it must be through a life of fellowship with the Holy Spirit, who dwells within us. "He will reveal all things unto you."

3. Communion with Christ is an inspiration to Christian service. We cannot live in loving fellowship with Him who died for us without wanting to do more for Him.

4. It deepens our faith; constant communion with the living Christ keeps ever before us His reality, which is a great support of faith. To many Christians Christ is not as real as He ought to be and the cause is largely from their neglect to commune with Him as they ought. Let us not miss the sweetest and best joys of our Christian lives by neglect of communion with Christ; but let us live in daily fellowship with Him.

BIBLE READINGS.

Ex. xxv, 21, 22; Matt. xi, 28-30; xxviii, 19, 20; Ps. xcii, 1; John xv, 1-14; xvii, 20-26; Acts ii, 1-4; I Cor. x, 16, 17; Gal. ii, 20; I John iv, 11-21.

Younger Officers.

The feeling is growing that the young people of our churches must be induced to join the Christian Endeavor society and that one reason why it is difficult to do this in some places is that so many who are of older years are in the positions of leadership in the local societies. This condition can be remedied. In fact, it must be. The very life of the Christian Endeavor society depends upon it. We can have a young people's society only when we have a society of young people. This has been said before. But it needs to be said again and again; for in some churches the situation is so serious as to cause alarm. Give the young people a chance with the young people's society. Put them into places of responsibility and leadership—Rev. W. Knight Chaplin.

"Seed Sowers."

Endeavorers of the Japanese church of Honolulu have organized themselves into a band which they call "Seed Sowers," whose purpose it is to distribute tracts throughout the city. There are twelve companies of these Seed Sowers. They preach in the streets, with a choir of singers, on Saturday evenings, and if any member of the band is unable to distribute tracts on the Sunday following he contributes a sum of money toward the expenses.

In the Midweek Meeting.

A few years ago President Walden of the Australasian Christian Endeavor union obtained from fifty societies the statistics of the midweek prayer meetings of their churches and found that the Endeavorers furnished 75 per cent of the attendance.

Australian Growth.

Australia now has 85,000 members of Christian Endeavor societies and expects to reach 100,000 during the present year.

Nov. 4: "Church Extension."

By REV. WALTER J. YATES, D. D.

Houses for worship are essential conveniences.—Luke iv, 15; John xvii, 20; Acts ix, 20. God honored the building of the tabernacle.—Ex. xl, 34-35. God honored the building of the temple.—I Kings viii, 10, 11. God honored the building of a synagogue.—Luke vii, 1-10. Liberality is a mark of love.—Ex. xxxvi, 3-7.

Many of our older people remember the beginnings of this society and its work and have followed its progress with deep interest through all the years of its history, but there will always need to be a retelling of the story of all such enterprises, for there is ever a new generation coming forward to whom the familiar things of the fathers are strange and who need to have the whole explained anew.

Our leaguers should know how and why the Church Extension society was founded and its magnificent work of many years should have proper telling. Its present claims and opportunities for usefulness should be well considered and all our young people set aside a certain part of their income regularly for this benevolence.

Many churches in the east, and not a few of them with large congregations, have in the pressure of some exigency been saved from forced sale and the consequent dispersal of the people by timely gifts or loans from this society.

But its chief work has not been of this character, nor does it make its strong appeal for support on this ground. At the close of the civil war the Pacific slope was widely separated from the east by lofty mountain chains and a vast stretch of plains roamed by great herds of bison and entirely unsettled. As you left St. Louis you plunged almost at once into the wilderness. Omaha was the farthest outpost of civilization. The Central Pacific and Union Pacific railroads were built after the most strenuous exertions and connected the two extremes. This gave an opening into the vast waste for homes and towns where before had been only roaming Indian tribes. Soon the tides of immigration began to fill up the territory thus opened, until five great centers of population have been built between the Mississippi and the mountains.

As the people began to push into the newly opened lands there was need of the preacher following with the gospel. Where the home was founded there must be church also. It was the glory of early Methodism that she followed the pioneer into the wilderness, and where he built his log cabin in the days of Asbury and his fellow workers there you would find the circuit rider, with his saddlebags and Bible, holding service and saving souls. Methodism in these later days has been no less aggressive and heroic. The fathers traveled on horseback and forded rivers and slept in the woods. The sons have toiled no less diligently, if in a different way, made necessary by the changes of conditions.

The story of the building of the great new west is one of the romances of history. Where the new town sprung up, either on the railroad or as mining camp or as permanent home of the settler, there came the preacher, selected a lot for a church, called the people together to worship, took a collection for a building fund and went to work. But these people were almost invariably poor and could do little beyond making for themselves the poorest kind of a log or sod house at first and so could not do all needed for a church, however willing they were. So the Church Extension society's work came in right there and helped when they got to the limit of their ability. The strongest work of the society has been just this kind of aid on the frontiers or in the mountains in the west, and also in the south.

In the south was dire need among both white and colored after the war, and but for the help of this society our land could not have the prosperity it now enjoys.

The need for its work has not passed, but may have changed somewhat in character. Its collections should not be less, but knowledge of present needs should rather increase its income.

Ability a Divine Trust.

He who gives beauty to the stars, fragrance to the flowers and life to the child gives gifts and graces to mankind. "To every man according to his ability." The eagle has no song, the lark has, yet both are of God and have their place in His created realm. So each human life fills its place and has its opportunity. By our own will we improve or abuse, multiply or stultify, double or decrease, our power.

We determine our usefulness, measure our happiness and fix our destiny. How important, then, that we wisely invest our ability, so that in our being and doing for Christ and humanity we may be pleasant in manner, practical in service, patient in spirit, pure in life and prayerful in heart, thus seasoning all centers of society and illuminating the lives of those with whom we have to do!—Rev. W. F. Wilson.

Way of Duty.

Our duty is never completely hidden from us. God will always give us light enough to see our next duty. This is a great truth and the understanding of it brings much peace, for the serious problems of life are generally the deciding of what is our duty. Now any one who is honest with God and willing to walk in the path of duty when it is indicated may know clearly and beyond a peradventure what is his duty. It is possible for each of us to be certain whether or not he is at present at the post of duty. By His providences, by His word, by His spirit and by the reasoning faculties [illegible] he has endowed us, God will surely show the way of duty to any earnest soul.—William T. Ellis.

THE DELUGE

By DAVID GRAHAM PHILLIPS, Author of "THE COST," etc

COPYRIGHT 1905 by the BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY

We had evidently caught the household stripped of "lugs," and sunk in the down-to-the-heel slovenliness which is called "comfort." Joe was crimson with confusion, and was using his free hand to stroke, alternately, his shiny bald head and his heavy brown mustache. He got himself together sufficiently, after a few seconds, to disappear into his den. When he came out again, pipe and ragged jacket were gone, and he rushed for us in a gorgeous velvet jacket with dark red facings, and a showy pair of slippers.

"Glad to see you, Mr. Blacklock"—in his own home he always addressed every man as Mister, just as "Mrs. B." always called him "Mister Ball," and he called her "Mrs. Ball" before "company." "Come right into the front parlor. Billy, turn on the electric lights."

Anita had been standing with her head down. She now looked round with shame and terror in those expressive blue-gray eyes of hers; her delicate nostrils were quivering. I hastened to introduce Ball to her. Her impulse to fly passed; her lifelong training in doing the conventional thing asserted itself. She lowered her head again, murmured an inaudible acknowledgment of Joe's greeting.

"Your wife is at home?" said I. If one was at home in the evening, the other was also, and both were always there, unless they were at some theater—except on Sunday night, when they dined at Sherry's, because many fashionable people did it. They had no friends and few acquaintances. In their humbler and happy days they had had many friends, but had lost them when they moved away from Brooklyn and went to live, like uneasy, out-of-place visitors, in their grand house, pretending to be what they longed to be, longing to be what they pretended to be, and as discontented as they deserved.

"Oh, yes, Mrs. B.'s at home," Joe answered. "I guess she and Alva were about to go to bed." Alva was their one child. She had been christened Malvina, after Joe's mother; but when the Balls "blossomed out" they renamed her Alva, which they somehow had got the impression was "smarter."

At Joe's blundering confession that the females of the family were in no condition to receive, Anita said to me in a low voice: "Let us go."

I pretended not to hear. "Rout 'em out," said I to Joe. "Then, take my electric and bring the nearest parson. There's going to be a wedding right here." And I looked round the long salon, with everything draped for the summer departure. Joe whisked the cover off one chair, his man took off another. "I'll have the women-folk down in two minutes," he cried. Then to the man: "Get a move on you, Billy. Stir 'em up in the kitchen. Do the best you can about supper—and put a lot of champaigne on the ice. That's the main thing at a wedding."

Anita had seated herself listlessly in one of the uncovered chairs. The wrap slipped back from her shoulders and—how proud I was of her! Joe gazed, took advantage of her not looking up to slap me on the back and to jerk his head in enthusiastic approval. Then he, too, disappeared.

A few minutes of silence, and there was a rustling on the stairs. She started up, trembling, looked round, as if seeking some way to escape or some place to hide. Joe was in the doorway holding aside one of the curtains. There entered in a beribboned and befrounced tea-gown, a pretty, if rather ordinary, woman of forty, with a petulant baby face. She was trying to look reserved and severe. She hardly glanced at me before fastening sharp, suspicious eyes on Anita.

"Mrs. Ball," said I, "this is Miss Ellersly."

"Miss Ellersly!" she exclaimed, her face changing. And she advanced and took both Anita's hands. "Mr. Ball is so stupid," she went on, with that amusingly affected accent which is the "Sunday clothes" of speech.

"I didn't catch the name, my dear," Joe stammered.

"Be off," said I, aside, to him. "Get the nearest preacher and hustle him here with his tools."

I had one eye on Anita all the time, and I saw her gaze follow Joe as he hurried out; and her expression made my heart ache. I heard him saying in the hall, "Go in, Allie. It's O. K.;" heard the door slam, knew we should soon have some sort of minister wth us.

"Allie" entered the drawing-room. I had not seen her in six years. I remembered her unpleasantly as a great, bony, florid child, unable to stand still or to sit still, or to keep her tongue still, full of aimless questions and giggles and silly remarks that she and her mother thought funny. I saw her now, grown into a handsome young woman, with enough beauty points for an honorable mention, if not for a prize—straight and strong and rounded, with a brow and a keen look out of the eyes which it seemed a pity should be wasted on a woman.

"From what Mr. Ball said"—Mrs. Ball was gushing affectedly to Anita—"I got an idea that—well, really, I didn't know what to think."

Anita looked as if she were about to suffocate. Allie came to the rescue. "Not very complimentary to Mr. Blacklock, mother," said she good-humoredly. Then to Anita, with a simple friendliness there was no resisting: "Wouldn't you like to come up to my room for a few minutes?"

"Oh, thank you!" responded Anita, after a quick, but thorough inspection of Alva's face, to make sure she was like her voice. I had not counted on this; I had been assuming that Anita would not be out of my sight until we were married. It was on the tip of my tongue to interfere when she looked at me—for permission to go! "Don't keep her too long," said I to Alva, and they were gone.

"How far off is the nearest church?" I cut in.

"Only two blocks—that is, the Methodist church," she replied. "But I know Mr. Ball will bring an Episcopalian."

"Why, I thought you were a devoted Presbyterian," said I, recalling how in their Brooklyn days she used to insist on Joe's going twice every Sunday to sleep through long sermons.

She looked uncomfortable. "I was reared Presbyterian," she explained confusedly, "but you know how it is in New York. And when we came to live here, we got out of the habit of church-going. And all Alva's little friends were Episcopalians. So I drifted toward that church. I find the service so satisfying—so elegant. And—one sees there the people one sees socially."

"How is your culture class?" I inquired, deliberately malicious, in my impatience and nervousness." And do you still take conversation lessons?"

She was furiously annoyed. "Oh, those old jokes of Joe's," she said, affecting disdainful amusement.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—W. J. Roome, of North Plainfield, has purchased a handsome new automobile.

—The Union County Board of Freeholders will hold its November meeting in the Court House, Elizabeth, this afternoon.

—James Patterson, of the Potter Press Works, has returned from Washington, where he has been erecting presses in the Government Printing Office.

—Lester B. Harris, who recently purchased L. E. Hart's residence property on West Front street, is making extensive improvements about the place.

—G. Emerson Mowen, of The Sabbath Recorder Press, is still detained at his home by a severe illness and it will probably be some time before he can return to work.

—The work of remodelling the Dime Savings Institution was started this week and will be pushed rapidly. The banking institution hopes to take possession of its own building early in the new year.

—Verdella Dunham, the colored man, who was struck on the head with a brick while at the new telephone building, is still at the hospital, but very much improved. He will be able to return to work in a short time.

POINTS FOR THE BUYERS

Have you ordered your winter supply of coal yet. TenEyck & Harris, the coal merchants, will supply you at lowest prices.

Have you seen the fine stock of jewelry at Charles E. Vail's store in Park avenue? If not do so at once and you will see just what you want at reasonable prices.

Dudley Miller, the Park avenue druggist, makes a specialty of prescription work, and all prescriptions left there will be accurately and quickly compounded at reasonable prices.

The Dime Savings Institution is now located in the building formerly occupied by The Plainfield Trust Company, where it will be glad to see all of its old friends and many new ones.

S. Scheuer & Co., of West Front street, always carry a stock of first-class groceries, the best meat, fruits and vegetables. If you have never traded at this store you have no idea how much money you can save. The firm buys in such large quantities that it can afford to sell at lower prices than others. Just remember this when shopping.

Alvord Cook, of Rahway, was in town yesterday calling on friends.

Letter-carrier Daniel Shea, of West Front street, is taking his annual vacation of fifteen days.

BOWLING.

Members of the Park Club bowling team are now practicing on the club alleys every night in preparation for the season's bowling tournaments. Captain F. O. Ball is expecting to make a fine record this year. Saturday night the team will roll Princeton on the home alleys.

Lou Wiltse, who has taken charge of the Somerset bowling alleys in Somerville, has hatched out an idea for an intercity series between Plainfield and Somerville pin knights. Since Wiltse took charge of the Somerset alleys the sport has experienced a boom in that town and the projected series should awake matters in both towns. If Wiltse wants a series there is no doubt that he can be accommodated by applying to Warry McLaughlin.

Billy Leland, the old standby on McLaughlin's alleys, is hitting the pins at a lively gait these days, and is averaging around the 190 mark.

"Doc" Voehl, although late in breaking in the game, exhibits his old time form and finds no trouble in landing near or over the 200 mark in his exhibitions.

The Newark News bowlers, who administered a stinging defeat to local newspaper men last Saturday, will try conclusions with the Hoboken scribes in a three-game match next Saturday.

Kritchon, bowling for Baltimore, in the Eastern League, Tuesday night, rolled up 267.

Frank Blatz is in great demand this season. Three bowling teams have put in a bid for his services, the Westfield Club and the Elks and Knights of Columbus teams of this city.

Among local bowlers who are piling up good scores nowadays is Judge Runyon. If he sticks to steady work, he will find no trouble in registering in the 200 class.

Jack Todd went 300 one day last week—150 in two games—pretty good for a beginner.

Matters in Scotch Plains are warming up and negotiations are now going on for a series between the Suburbans and Scotch Plains.

"Wizard" Johnny Voorheis, who makes his first appearance in Plainfield next Wednesday night, rolls with a "rubber" ball, made from a special composition of wood and rubber.

Joe Norton, the anchor of the Newark News team, is rated as one of the crack bowlers of Newark, but he failed to locate the groove on Snedeker's alleys Saturday in the match against Plainfield, and the best he could do was 168 and 138. He brought along a special ball but it was of no use as the pins stuck to the alleys. However, he is not discouraged and hopes to do better next time.

BASKETBALL.

The Orange Y. M. C. A. claim to have the best basketball team in the State for the present season. Percy Hand, formerly of the Plainfield association team, has been chosen captain and the five is rated very fast. They make no bones in saying that they will clean up every team they meet this year, including Newark and Plainfield.

Liberal support on the part of basketball enthusiasts in Plainfield will encourage the Y. M. C. A. team to make even a better record than last year.

All lovers of basketball will be pleased to learn that last year's first team at the Y. M. C. A. five will represent the association on the local court this year. This fact became known yesterday. The five which played under the triangle last year was one of the best in the State and its record was one to be proud of. The team threatened to disband this fall, but has since changed its mind and will now begin hard practice for a strong list of games scheduled for the winter. Arrangements are now being made to play the P. H. S. team and the Business Men's five, prior to playing the first game in the regular schedule on November 27 with the Rahway Y. M. C. A. five. The local team will consist of Harry Scull, captain; Ray Smith, Fred Letson, Fred Leary and probably Walter Long, certainly a hard one to beat. Many of the favorite teams from Northern New Jersey and New York will be seen on the local court during the season.

"Al" Kaufman Wins.

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 1.—In the heavyweight battle last night at the New Pavilion rink "Al" Kaufman, protege of "Bob" Fitzsimmons, disposed of "Sam" Berger in the tenth round of what was scheduled as a twenty round fight. In the tenth Berger rushed Kaufman to a clinch, but the latter drove a powerful right to the jaw. Berger reeled back, unable to protect himself. He was falling from sheer weakness, when his seconds threw up the sponge.

Will Be Tiger's Star Twirler.

Bert. Heyniger, of Plainfield, who is a member of the pitching staff of the Princeton 'varsity baseball team, and who did such fine work for the team last season, will be the mainstay of the '07 team at the college. The baseball squad is in charge of "Iron Man" McGinnity, of the New York Nationals, who is directing his attention toward the development of pitchers, as both Byram and Doyle, last year's stars, graduated in June.

Basketball Games.

The Y. M. C. A. basketball team will play the Business Men next Monday night. Games with the strongest teams in the Metropolitan district, including the Brooklyn Central, Gordon House, Maxwell House, St. George's, St. Christopher Tigers, and Columbia University, are being arranged.

Hare and Hound Chase.

The Y. M. C. A. boys will hold a hare and hound chase Election Day morning, beginning at 10 o'clock, over a five-mile course. Boys' Secretary Haydon W. Barrows will lead them.

North Jersey Association Issues Schedule For First Season on the Alleys.

PLAINFIELD IS IN IT

Newark, Montclair, Orange, Elizabeth, Passaic, Hudson City and Rahway Other Members of the League.

Members of the Northern New Jersey Young Men's Christian Association League have decided to branch out into a new line of sport, and will hold a championship bowling tournament this season. It will be the league's initial effort in ten-pin competition. Teams from eight associations will form the organization, consisting of Newark, Montclair, Orange, Elizabeth, Passaic, Hudson City, Rahway and Plainfield.

There are to be series of home-and-home matches of three games, with the teams meeting on Monday and Friday nights of each week. The competition will start Monday night, December 10, and will continue until Friday night, March 22. Newark will be represented by a strong team, and Elizabeth is expected to show exceptional strength, too. The prizes will be a trophy for the association winning the championship, and prizes for first, second and third high individual averages, high individual score and high team score. The teams must be composed of bona fide members from each association, and the rules of the American Bowling Congress will govern all matches. The schedule is as follows:

Friday, December 14—Rahway at Newark, Orange at Plainfield.
Monday, December 17—Montclair at Elizabeth, Hudson City at Newark.

Bowling Prize Winners.

CHAMP. BOWLER COMING

"Wizard" Johnny Voorheis Will Give Exhibition in Plainfield Next Week.

FANS ARE JUBILANT

Local Pin Knights Will Measure Their Prowess in Pin Smashing With the World-Beater.

Bowling enthusiasts will have an opportunity of witnessing Johnny Voorheis, the National champion, perform on local alleys next week, when the peerless pin smasher will roll exhibition games with local cracks at "Warry" McLaughlin's bowling academy. The "Wizard" is making a tour of eastern cities, giving exhibition contests and in response to a special request he has consented to pay Plainfield a visit. His appearance here will mark the first time a bowling champion of repute has ever visited here and it is a foregone conclusion that there will be a great outpouring of bowling fans to watch him execute his stunts on the alleys.

Voorheis has met and defeated all of the crack bowlers of the country. Two weeks ago he squelched the aspirations of the mighty Dunbar, of Philadelphia, in one of the greatest matches the Quaker metropolis ever saw. Last week he added to his laurels by humbling "Billy" Weingaith, the pride of Newark, on the latter's alleys, by winning eight out of eleven games, his average being 227. The match with Weingaith was for a purse of $100.

Voorheis is recognized throughout the country as the most skillful pin knight that ever shot a ball down an alley. In recording sensational spares he is considered unbeatable.

His presence in this city will give the fans the chance of their lives to see a real bowler. He will probably appear in twelve games, rolling three each with four of Plainfield's best pin knights. The local team has not yet been chosen but it will probably include Frank Blatz, Doc Voehl and possibly Billy Leland and Chief Kiely. However, announcement will be made in due time of the Plainfield lineup.

In order to accommodate the crowd a limited number of seats will be put on sale in a few days.

Boys Probably Saved His Life.

John Dugan, a seven-year-old boy living on East Seventh street, was knocked down and run over by the front wheels of a heavy delivery wagon on East Fifth street, opposite the Bryant school, this morning. The rear wheels would also have passed over him but the presence of mind on the part of Samuel Hockberger and Harold Leach, two older boys, who pulled him out of the way. The injured lad was taken to his home and later examined by a physician. He was hurt about the chest but not seriously.

HILLERY LAUDS G. O. P.

Assemblyman Perkins Declare He's For Bishops' Bill From Start to Finish—Mayor Presides.

The Republican City Executive Committee conducted the second of its mass meetings in the New Plainfield theatre, last night, and for the first time in the present campaign introduced Congressman Charles N.

Charles N. Fowler.

Fowler, candidate for re-election, to the local voters. An audience of 600 people, in which there was a generous sprinkling of women, listened with close attention to the representative of the Fifth district and also to Senator Thomas Hillery, of Morris county, and Assemblyman Randolph Perkins, who were the other speakers.

The meeting was called to order by former Mayor Charles J. Fisk, who in a few words stated its purpose and took opportunity to read the resolution passed by the city committee in reference to the Colbyites' protest against former Governor Voorhees' remarks at the last Republican rally. He made a very good address. Mr. Fisk introduced Mayor James F. Buckle as chairman of the evening and the latter in turn introduced the speakers, calling on Senator Hillery first.

Mayor James F. Buckle.

As a preface to his remarks, Senator Hillery stated that the present campaign embodies questions of State and national politics but that it was not his purpose to discuss either. He considered his county fortunate, he said, in being in the Fifth Congressional district and having Charles N. Fowler as its representative.

Plunging directly into his address he asserted with emphasis that there never was a time when there were greater returns for labor than at present and that this matter is one for every man to consider seriously before voting against a Republican. The people of the State have undergone an awakening and they realize that the Republicans are to be trusted. They have had their differences but everything is now settled and the party is better than it or any other party has ever been. There was an impression that it had fallen into bad hands but speaking as a member of the State Legislature he declared that he knows it is an independent body.

Y. M. C. A. ANNIVERSARY SPEAKERS ASSIGNED

ELEVEN SPECIAL SERVICES TO BE HELD IN MARKING EVENT.

Plans for the thirty-ninth anniversary observance have been completed by the Y. M. C. A. All the speakers for the special services have been secured and assigned.

The observance will begin Saturday, November 10, with a service at the Seventh-Day Baptist church. W. B. Millar will be the speaker. On the evening of that day E. T. Colton, associate of John R. Mott, the evangelist, will deliver an address to the Y. M. C. A. committeemen, at the association, on the work that is being done in the foreign field.

No less than nine special services on Sunday, the eleventh, will mark the occasion. Mr. Colton will speak at the First Baptist church, F. W. Pearsall at Trinity Reformed church, C. W. Deitrick at Park Avenue Baptist church, J. F. Sproull at Warren chapel, Ben M. Lewis at the Congregational church, George A. Warburton at Grace M. E. church; all at 10:30 o'clock in the morning. Two evening services will be held at the First M. E. church and First Presbyterian church; Mr. Colton will speak at the former and Mr. Sproull at the latter. Mr. Colton will speak at a men's meeting in the theatre in the afternoon at 4 o'clock.

No social affairs will be held.

MISS OHL HURT.

Equestrienne Jumped to Escape a Dangerous Leap on Hunter.

Miss Adele Ohl, of Central avenue, whose riding at the Hippodrome last year made her famous among professional equestriennes, is confined to the house by a sprained ankle and a number of bruises, the result of a hasty leap from a horse last Sunday afternoon.

She was trying the horse, a newly imported English hunter, on her place, when, in bracing itself for a stop in response to her tug at the reins, the horse slid toward a stone wall. Miss Ohl divined that the animal was about to try a jump, and not sure that it could clear the wall among the poles and sticks that lay on the other side, she sprang from the saddle. Her left ankle, encased in a hampering riding boot, turned, and she was thrown against the wall. The horse cleared the wall beautifully, and, launched by the parting tug at the reins given by Miss Ohl as she jumped, landed safely beyond the threatening poles. It galloped around a bit, but was caught unhurt.

Mrs. Howe a Patroness.

Among the distinguished patronesses of the lecture course to be given at Delmonico's, New York, under the auspices of the National Society United States Daughters of 1812, State of New York, is Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, of Boston, mother of Mrs. Florence Howe Hall, of Madison avenue. The course of ten lectures will be given by Miss Janet E. Richards, of Washington, D. C., and will begin November 9, the subject being "Talks on Current History." Mrs. William Gerry Seade, president of the New York Chapter, will give a reception this afternoon to the societies of the State of New York and State of New Jersey at her home, 332 West Eighty-seventh street, New York.

First Prize Stock.

Mr. Fred Endress, 131-135 West Front street, has just received from Swift & Company, Chicago, twelve choice native steers. These steers took first prize at the Inter-State Live Stock Show held at St. Joseph, Mo., September 24 to 29. While these cattle are very choice it did not take this shipment to make his reputation as he always has had the best that money could buy, which accounts for the large business and satisfied customers he has.

Another Landmark to Go.

V. W. Nash, Sr., and William Claassen, who occupy the old building on Park avenue, adjoining Mrs. L. J. Denton, the florist, is planning to vacate the property this month and move to the vacant store in the Marsh building. Afterwards the old structure will be torn down by the New Jersey Central to make room for proposed improvements in its property.

Pauper Goes To Asylum.

Susan Harris, an inmate of the Industrial Home, was taken from there by the police this morning for removal to the State asylum. She had become unmanageable, and worried the Home management with an incorrigible tendency to discard all forms of clothing.

SPOKE ON SAVING POWER

Evangelist Wharton Eloquently Depicts the Unsearchable Riches of Christ.

FRUITS OF REVIVAL

Several Persons Signify Desire to Lead Christian Life at the First Baptist Meeting.

Continued interest was shown in the special services being conducted by Rev. Dr. Henry M. Wharton, at the First Baptist church, that edifice being filled last night with the largest congregation since Sunday. Both downstairs and in the gallery nearly every seat was taken. The service was spiritually a helpful one.

Charles L. Lewis was in charge of the song service. Dr. Wharton at the commencement of the service gave a beautiful exposition of the twenty-third Psalm, after which Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, offered prayer. Mr. Lewis then sang effectively "Over the Line." There were many additional requests for prayer and these were remembered as on previous occasions.

Dr. Wharton took the subject of his discourse the eighth verse of the third chapter of Second Ephesians: "Unto me, who am less than the least of all saints, is this grace given, that I should preach among the Gentiles, the unsearchable riches of Christ." In part the evangelist said:

"The words found in our text tonight remind me of God's Treasury Department, and if we explore them we shall find great riches. In the first place we see the humility of Paul, who considered himself less than the least of all saints. God loves humility, and what a contrast to Paul is the man who declares that he is as good as any church member, even though he himself never goes to church. God can't work with a proud person. In the words of Paul he expresses our feelings for who does not love humility.

"Notwithstanding that Paul said that he was less than the least of the saints, he wants all to understand that he was one of them, a member of the great Christian family and no power was to separate him from God. In the next place he tells of his occupation—that he is to preach the Gospel of the Son of God, and what greater privilege is there than to preach this Gospel.

"I want to talk to you tonight about the unsearchable riches of Christ. Neither men nor angels can calculate your wealth if you possess these riches. In the first place we see the unsearchable riches of Christ's power to save. Do you realize that there are hundreds of thousands of people tonight going to a drunkard's grave and that recruits are expected from your boys and mine. Satin tried to persuade Christ to doubt God's word, but failed, and Christ's power to save is just as strong as ever.

"Secondly, I want you to think of the unsearchable riches of His pardoning love, which is never exhausted. Any one who has not experienced that pardoning love should seek it now.

"In the last place consider the unsearchable riches of His sustaining grace. How many of us when we first started the Christian life were afraid we couldn't hold out? Yet we did hold out with Christ's sustaining grace."

In the conclusion Dr. Wharton related a story of the early conversion of one of the deacons of his church, who when a young man was preparing for the practice of the law. His mind was so centered on his life purpose that he gave no thought of religion, until he was persuaded by his mother to attend a revival service. His mother did not attend meeting that night, but remained at home and prayed for her son. That night when the son returned home and retired he could not sleep, although he was not especially impressed with anything that he had heard at the meeting. He got no rest until he awakened his mother, told her his distress of mind and was that night brought to Christ through the prayers of his mother.

Before the service closed several persons signified a desire to lead Christian lives.

This afternoon, by special request, there will be a meeting for women only at the First Baptist church, and at 4 o'clock Dr. Wharton will speak at a boys' meeting at the Y. M. C. A., and again tonight at the First Baptist church at 7:45 o'clock. There will be no service tomorrow night. Sunday morning and evening Dr. Wharton will preach at the First Baptist church and in the afternoon he will speak at the Sunday-school, prior to addressing a men's meeting at the New Plainfield theatre.

—The Y. M. C. A. directors considered only routine matters at their monthly meeting last night.

GAVE A DINNER IN CANDIDATES' HONOR

CONGRESSMAN FOWLER AND OTHERS ENTERTAINED BY CITY CHAIRMAN FISK

Congressman Charles N. Fowler, State Senator Hillery, State Senator Ackerman, Assemblyman Randolph Perkins and Assembly Nominee Moxon were entertained at dinner last night, previous to the mass meeting, at the Hotel Iroquois. City Chairman Charles J. Fisk, the Republican and Democratic candidate for the mayoralty, was the host and the affair was the most elaborate of the kind that has taken place here in years.

Among Mr. Fisk's other guests were Freeholder Samuel P. T. Wilbur, City Clerk James T. MacMurray, Factory Inspector Andrew McCardell, Councilman Herbert Buxton, former County Chairman Hamilton F. Kean and County Chairman Frank H. Smith.

400 PEOPLE ATTEND TIMBO CLUB'S BALL

Fourth Annual Affair Also Graced by Officeholders of Two Counties.

Successful both from a financial and social point of view, the fourth annual ball of the Timbo Social Club in Saengerbund hall, last night, exceeded even the most sanguine expectations of the committee. It was attended by 400 dancers while something of a political aspect was lent by the appearance of some of Somerset and Union counties best known leaders. Among the latter were Mayor N. B. Smalley, Mayor James F. Buckle, former Mayor Charles J. Fisk, Assemblyman Randolph Perkins, County Registrar Frank H. Smith, Councilmen Herbert Buxton and Frand Randolph, Freeholder Wilbur and Andrew McCardell.

Dancing commenced at 8:30 and an hour later a grand march was held in which 100 couples participated. Suhr's orchestra furnished the music and though the floor was crowded to its capacity the greater part of the time everything was kept in perfect order by the management of Rudolph Kampf.

The committee in charge consisted of Henry Wierenga, chairman; William Doud, Erwin Y. Neighbor, Rudolph Kampf, Frank Schuck and Theodore J. LaRue.

WOMAN SLAYER WAS HERE.

Florence Illario Testifies to a Stay in This City.

Florence Illario, the woman on trial at Somerville for the murder of Alex Dipaolo, was a temporary resident of this city not long before the shooting. She told of two visits here on the stand yesterday.

After a trip to Washington, she testified, Dipaolo took her to his godmother's house, in this city, where she made her home for a time. She went back to Somerville for a few days, but returned to this city for a week longer. She placed in evidence a letter she received from Dipaolo while she was living here.

Milk Up in Dunellen.

By agreement between the dealers, the price of milk in Dunellen and the surrounding county was raised yesterday from seven to 8 cents. The farmers and dairymen have to feed grain to cows at this time of the year, and the cost of keeping them is appreciably increased. The community understands that from close relations to the agriculturist, and the raise is accepted without grumbling.

DEDICATED PARISH HOUSE

Bishop Scarborough Praises St. Stephen's Rector and Flock Warmly.

MARKS THE ADVANCES

"St. Stephen's of Yesterday Not St. Stephen's of Today"—Reception and Supper In New Building.

The new parish house of St. Stephen's P. E. church received its final touch as a component part of the pretty little Netherwood house of worship yesterday afternoon. Through Bishop Scarborough, head of the New Jersey diocese, the Church pronounced it good and fitting, and dropped the eccleciastical mantel over it.

The dedication service was held at 4 o'clock, before a large congregation. Rev. A. S. Peck, the rector; Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, of Grace church; Rev. William R. Mulford, of All Saints' church, Fanwood, and Rev. Harris Rush, of Westfield, took part in the service.

The usual form of blessing for parish houses, prescribed by the prayer-book, was followed. The vested church choir sang a special programme of hymns and canticles.

In his sermon, Bishop Scarborough spoke with warm approval of the parish house idea. It supplied, he said, the opportunity for the needful and helpful social life, which was as much a part of church activity as the spiritual life. It brought the people of the parish together, and welded them into a church family.

The prelate spoke words of warm praise for the rector, whose second year in charge of the parish ended yesterday. The completion of the parish house, the bishop said, was the culmination of a great deal that had been accomplished under Mr. Peck's guidance. St. Stephen's of yesterday was far from being the St. Stephen's of today. The parish had advanced splendidly. The things that had been done, notably the erection of the parish house, enlarged its field and scope much, and the future was rich in promise, the fulfillment of which, by the grace of Providence, was assured.

The new house was gay last night, when a reception and musicale was held to mark the dedication. Miss Edith Hubbard, soloist of the Church of St. Mary the Virgin, New York, sang.

Bishop Scarborough spoke informally. He enlarged on his thought of the afternoon as to the great value of the parish house in church work. The Christian life, he said, was not meant to be a gave St. Stephen's' people a chance to effect the combination of church life and social enjoyment that was intended. He congratulated the parishioners and the people of the community on its erection.

The reception ended with a supper, catered by Mrs. Lena Hellstrom. The affair was arranged and conducted by the vestrymen, assisted by their wives. The vestry is made up of Dr. George Dupuy, Adam C. Hill, R. H. McCready, Alfred Lacey, C. H. Weeks, A. J. Beal, F. L. Hebert and H. S. Guinn.

Senator Everett Colby, who was a liberal contributor to the parish house fund, was unable to be present, but he sent a message of congratulations and regret.

A Hallowe'en Party.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. W. Burnet, of Sandford avenue, entertained the Fortnightly Wrist Club at their home, Wednesday night, and because the club meeting happened to fall on Hallowe'en night, the festivities were appropriate to that event. There were sixteen in the company and all appeared in amusing costumes, some of the guests scarcely being recognized. The evening was spent in playing all sorts of games, features being several vocal solos by Mrs. Burnet and piano selections by her sihter, Miss Mildred Corneil, of Montreal, Can., an accomplished musician. During the evening an elaborate repast was served.

Speakers at Theatre Meetings.

Five theatre meetings have been arraigned by the Y. M. C. A. Dr. H. M. Wharton, the evangelist, will speak next Sunday; the Sunday following, E. T. Colton will be the speaker; on December 10, Dr. S. Parks Cadman, of the Central Congregational church, Brooklyn, will speak; January 20, Dr. W. H. Morgan, of Newark, and March 10, Charles H. Yatman, leader of the summer meetings at Ocean Grove.

Freeholder Wilbur Busy.

Through the efforts of Freeholder S. P. T. Wilbur, culverts have been installed on Grove street near the bridge over Green brook, and Park avenue and Cedar brook, to carry off the surface water.

MAYOR TAKES STEPS TO STOP "THE CLANSMAN"

Colored Men Appeal to Him to Prevent Its Production Here Next Week.

TENDS TO RACE HATRED

He Will Request Manager Counihan This Afternoon to Cancel the Date—Incites to Race Riot.

Acting on the request of members of the colored race here, Mayor James F. Buckle will take steps this afternoon to prevent the production of The Clansman, which is billed to take place at the New Plainfield theatre next Friday night. This morning, his honor declined to make any statement to the effect that the play would surely be stopped but he intimated that as the chief executive of the city he felt it his duty to do all in his power in the name of law and order.

In speaking of the matter, Mayor Buckle, said to a representative of The Daily Press: I anticipate no trouble whatever and there is no room for sensationalism. As I understand it, and I have informed myself on the subject, The Clansman is a play that incites to riot. It shows the negro in a most unenviable light and arouses his blood. It should be remembered that the colored citizens of Plainfield are an unusually intelligent factor and that they contribute much to the taxes. Consequently they are entitled to the respect of the community."

Continuing, the Mayor stated that Philadelphia had as large a proportion of colored men as any big city in the United States and that notwithstanding that fact Plainfield has a proportionally large number. I do not believe that the colored men would resort to violence even if the play was allowed to go on. It insults them, however, and I believe justly so. The play itself it not uplifhting in any sense of the word but is purely a prejudiced attack on the negro.

"This afternoon I will have a talk with Manager Counihan, of the New Plainfield theatre, and I can say now that he is a fair minded man interested in the city as much as any other citizen. Therefore, I am confident that he will cancel the date for the production of that show."

TRINITY ENJOYS A BIG OYSTER SUPPER

MEN OF THE CONGREGATION IN CHARGE OF THE AFFAIR.

"Oysters in Every Style," were the words which greeted those who patronized the oyster supper given in the lecture room of Trinity Reformed church, last night, by the Men's Association, of the church. The men deserve credit for the success of the affair, but in a measure the women of the church were of much assistance, although the men were supposed to be in full charge. The lecture room of the church was attractively decorated with pink and red bunting, and other colors, while a pretty candy booth was an attraction. A long string of roses that looked like real flowers was used with good effect in the decorations.

There were oysters stewed, oysters fried, oysters raw, and oysters creamed, while the accompaniments consisted of coffee, sandwiches, ice cream and cake. The bivalves were prepared and served in the most appetizing way. During the evening one hundred or more suppers were served and the affair was considered a success in every way. During the evening Arthur Mosher's orchestra of three pieces discoursed a programme of popular music, which added to the enjoyment of the occasion.

The committee in charge of the supper consisted of R. E. Bohan, chairman; M. F. Gano, Charles M. Dolliver, P. A. Vroom and William F. Oliver. Assisting the committee were Mrs. Cornelius Schenck, Mrs. R. E. Bohan, Mrs. Winfield Schomp, Mrs. Charles E. Ball, Mrs. Henry Van Name, Miss Gano, Mrs. Frank P. Storr, Mrs. P. A. Vroom and Mrs. William H. Kirch.

Those who waited on the tables were Irving Martin, Ira Vail, John Schofield, LeRoy Dayton, William Nischwitz, William Latourette, Clarence Rittenhouse, Bertram Leggett, Elmer Bohan and Walter Butz.

The candy booth was in charge of William Debele, while Elmer Bohan looked after checking coats and hats and Charles M. Dolliver was at the door to receive tickets.

AN INFALLIBLE WIFE.

Wilson Warwick, Colored, Penitently Bows to Her in Court.

Wilson Warwick, colored, was arrested yesterday afternoon at his home, 429 West Fourth street, on complaint of his wife, who charged him with working off a jag by breaking up furniture. Warwick was penitent and Chesterfieldian when arraigned.

"My wife is infallible," he said, "and I will accept whatever punishment she fixes."

Mrs. Warwick evidently moved to emulation, courteously insisted that her husband choose his own punishment. Diplomatic, as well as polite, Warwick suggested that the matter might be decided by withholding all punishment. Judge Runyon let it go at that.

Mechanic Injured on Railroad.

Roy Biggs, a mechanic, nineteen years old, is at Muhlenberg hospital, suffering with general contusions about the body and a fracture of both bones of the left leg near the ankle. He was riding on an engine yesterday afternoon, with the engineer, who was a friend of his. He was leaning out of the cab when his body came incontact with a bridge at the East End of the town. The engineer stopped his train as quickly as possible, and the young man was taken to the Netherwood station. There the ambulance got him and took him to the hospital. His condition is not serious.

Secretary Warburton to Speak Here.

George A. Warburton, secretary of the railroad branch of the Y. M. C. A., with headquarters on Madison avenue, New York, will be the guest of Rev. Dr. C. W. Parsons, pastor of Grace M. E. church, on Sunday, November 11, and will speak at the church in the morning and possibly at night. Mr. Warburton is a personal friends of Dr. Parsons, in fact it was the latter who started Mr. Wharburton in his present work. He is a born leader and a delightful speaker.

Adding Names to the Registry.

The Union County Board of Elections and Registry met at Elizabeth yesterday and added the names of twenty-five Elizabeth viters to the registry list. Any person whose name is not on the registry list will have another opportunity tomorrow to have it put on when the board will be in session at the court house from 8 to 5 o'clock.

—The Religious Work Committee of the Y. M. C. A. met last night. The theatre meetings were dismissed.

DENIES DESPONSIBILITY.

Col. Collins, for Democrats, Dodges "Liberal Laws" Poster Blame.

Colonel Collins, of Elizabeth, one of the leaders in the Democratic party in that city, said yesterday that the party itself was in no way responsible, either through its leaders or its candidates, for the poster which appeared in Elizabeth saloons asking for the support of the Assembly candidates, Hague, Desmond and Coulter, as advocators of a "liberal policy of laws."

The posters and circulars were the work of the German-American Alliance, Colonel Collins asserted, and were not thought to have greatly injured the party, though certain Democrats, wh supposed the "campaign literature" emanated from the leaders, were somewhat alarmed.

POLITICAL MISTAKE.

Democrats Post Anti-Bishops' Law Posters About the City.

"For Liberal Legislation, Vote for the Following Candidatefor Assembly: Joseph T. Hague, Harry C. Coulter and James E. Desmond."

That is the way posters stuck up on billboards all over the town today read. They are displayed in the interest of the Democratic candidates, and, interpreted, mean an appeal for votes on the issue of the repeal of the Bishops' law. It is believed the Democrats made a political mistake in posting them here. The city is heartily in favor of the Bishops' law, and the posters are likely to cost the Democratic Assembly a number of votes.

Routine Business Transacted.

Chiefly routine business was considered at the November meeting of the Union County Board of Freeholders, held in the Court House, Elizabeth, yesterday. A report was received informing the board that the Westfield bridge is completed and ready for use. The claim of a Cranford man, whose horse fell through a bridge at that place and was injured, was settled, the board giving the man $50. The board adjourned to November 22, for the purpose of paying election bills.

PLAINFIELD

Tuesday, November 6th,

Hours: 9.00 a. m. until 8.00 p. m.

Your Eyes will be examined by THE DAMMERS SCIENTIFIC METHOD, Positively the only absolutely correct way to fit glasses.

(NO DROPS USED.) Those who have been examined for GLASSES by men who claim to examine eyes by the old, incorrect way, which is done by everyone who supplies glasses but us, will be agreeably surprised by our scientific and wonderful methods of Examining Eyes and fitting glasses.

We correct your eye defects by looking in the eyes, taking the exact scientific measurements of the focus and shape of the eyes.

NO QUESTIONS ASKED, no trying glasses on your face, until we have determined your exact optical error.

The old tedious and tiresome way of trying to fit glasses is either putting drops in the eyes, which often causes Blindness, or by trying on a lot of glasses, and asking you "Can you see these letters?" or "Do these glasses make you see better?"

After your Optician does a lot of guessing, and has your eyes all out of shape, you think you have been examined.

Think this over, and you can readily see that you have been doing your own examining, and that is no doubt the reason you have had trouble to get glasses correct.

THIS IS ABSOLUTELY THE HIGHEST CLASS WORK DONE IN FITTING CLASSES IN AMERICA.—DON'T SUFFER WITH HEADACHE.

We have produced astonishing results from brain fag, nervous debility, insomnia, dizziness, nausea, WATERY EYES, blurry vision, and other troubles caused by EYE STRAIN. We have corrected by the use of glasses cross eyes and Astigmatism, by our scientific methods of Examining.

An experience covering every detail of the Optical Business for over a quarter of a century is the continuous record of the great Dammers concern.

Our position in Newark, N. J. and Providence, R. I., as the LEADING EYESIGHT SPECIALISTS is proof of the high confidence in our responsibility, and the reliability of our presentations.

Graft In Abraham's Time.

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 2.—That graft is an institution which dates back to the time of Abraham was the conclusion of Professor Albert T. Clay, of the University of Pennsylvania, who produced photographs of archaeological discoveries to uphold his theory before the American Bible League conference at the Y. M. C. A. Auditorium Tuesday night. Hammurabi, King of Shinar and sixth King of Babylon, was the first man to uncover a grafter, according to the inscriptions which have been deciphered by experts. Just what special form of graft was practised in the days of old is not told in the tablets which have been unearthed, but it is disclosed that Hammurabi wrote to one of his governors that bribery had been charged against an individual and asked for an investigation of the case.

Boni Scattered Gould Wealth.

Paris, Nov. 2.—Before a crowd which taxed the capacity of the court room in the Palace of Justice, the case of Comtesse Boni de Castelane for divorce from her husband was begun Wednesday afternoon. In chronological order Maitre Cruppi, counsel for the cometsse, recounted the history of the unfortunate alliance, which he said had been unhappy from the very honeymoon, owing to the incredible extravagance of the hsuband, who in five years had used up the colossal fortune that the daughter of Jay Gould had brought him. Counsel placed at $8,000,000 the total of the Count's expenditures preceding the appointment of a trustee. The count's demands for money led to quarrels and blows four months after the wedding.

Women Enter U. of P.

Philadelphia, Nov. 2.—The demand for the higher education of women has caused the Board of Trustees of the University of Pennsylvania to install a complete college course with the beginning of the second college term of the fiscal year in the first week of January. After an existence of 157 years, in which the University of Pennsylvania has been recognized as a college for men, the bars will be let down and the gentler sex will be in the same catagory as the men.

Colonel Lewis Perrine, of Trenton, one time Democratic candidate for Congress from the Fourth district, and a life-time leader in that political party, has discovered that in spite of his recent conversion to Republicanism he will not be allowed to vote the Republican ticket Novemvember 6. He forgot to register, and under the new election law his name cannot be added to the list.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY

The Republicans have finished their campaigning, and rest on their oars, except for a bit of personal work here and there. Dr. Brakeley is well satisfied with the outlook. "We haven't the slightest cause for anxious calculation," he said yesterday. But he refused to give figures.

Miss Haynes, Walter Hasleton and Wade Lapham, of Holy Innocents' church, sang in the vested choir of St. Paul's P. E. church, Bound Brook, last night, at a feast day service.

The M. E. Board of trustees and the ladies' Aid Society met after the prayer meeting Wednesday night to talk over further plans for the improvement of the parsonage.

Mrs. Bernard Siriski visited her brother, Joseph Stark, on the battleship Louisiana, in New York harbor Wednesday. Stark is coxswain of the vessel.

The bank organizers did not meet Wednesday night on account of the Republican meeting. The conference will be held next Wednesday.

Lakeside Council held a Hallowe'en sociable after the meeting last night. It was well attended and much enjoyed.

James McMahon and Edward Limepeter have returned to Port Reading after a visit to their friends here.

The Misses Viola and Ethel Tinsman sang a duet at the M. E. prayer meeting Wednesday night.

Miss Hazel Danz, of Brooklyn, has returned home after a visit to her mother, Mrs. L. H. Danz.

John De Mott, of Gladstone, has returned home after a visit to his aunt, Miss Mary B. Dunn.

Miss Lillian Fisher has returned from a visit to friends in Flemington.

Mrs. Adam Herlich and Mrs. Joel Giddes were in Newark Wednesday.

Mrs. DeWitt C. Fulton visited friends in Newark Wednesday.

The W. C. T. U. held a business meeting yesterday.

The Presbyterian Study Class met last night.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD

The local ball team will have to secure new grounds for a diamond next season, as the trustees of the Baptist church have refused to rent the grounds used this season to the club again. The reason given is that the neighbors' garden patches suffered by the small boy tramping down the vegetables in their hunt for lost balls.

Mrs. Joseph Gray is seriously ill at her home on Prospect avenue, and grave hopes are entertained of her recovery. Mrs. Gray has been ill for several days with rheumatism of the heart; later pneumonia developed and her condition last night was considered critical.

The trustees of the Baptist church have started the work of improving the cemetery. All the plots are being cut down to a uniform grade, paths are to be cut out and other improvements made, which will make the old historic spot look much better.

The Hetfield & Weldon crusher has work enough ahead to keep the crusher running all winter if the weather will permit. One contract with the Public Service Corporation calls for sixty thousand tons of stone.

The open season for rabbits begins on the tenth. The local hunters are already beginning to plan where they will enjoy the first day's hunt. Several parties will go to Hunterdon county, as in the past.

The weekly prayer and praise service will be held tonight in the parlors of the Baptist church. Rev. T. Moore-Smith will lead the meeting.

William Sharp's new house at Highland Park is nearly completed and will be ready for occupancy December 1.

The adjourned contract case of Brown-Giniolle will be tried this afternoon in Justice Clark's court.

The Township Committee meets tonight in the town rooms.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Some of the characters at the masked barn dance at Pyatt's were: John Linabury as an Italian; Philip Smith as a French Irishman; Mrs. Jackson as Goddess of Liberty, and Mr. Jackson as a tramp. After the Hallowe'en pranks, dancing was kept up until midnight, when an oyster supper was served.

Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Struthers are still staying at their bungalow on Plainfield avenue, where they have passed the time after business hours.

The painters have finished painting Irving Laing's house, and it is quite an ornament to the neighborhood.

Fred Lounsbury, Jr., has returned home from Philadelphia, where he had gone on business.

Dr. Cooley's men are husking corn on shares, with W. E. Smith. The crop is a large one.

Mr. Jackson's house is being improved by a new coat of paint.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The usual All Saints' Day service was held at Grace P. E. church yesterday morning with a celebration of the communication.

The regular prayer meeting will be held at Warren chapel tonight. The subject will be "Rising Above Discouragement," 2d Cor. 4-15-18.

Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Musson and L. W. Randolph returned home yesterday from Atlantic City, where they attended the State Baptist convention.

THE POWER OF STEAM.

Many May See But It Takes Genius to Realize.

When James Watt saw the steam causing the kettle lid to jump up and down he said "There must be power in that steam that it can lift such a weight."

There was.

Millions prior to him had seen the same phenomenon and regarded it as an unexplained mystery.

Recent scientific research has put its finger on the "cause" of Dandruff, Falling Hair, and consequent Baldness, and has unearthed a tiny germ which eats the life from the roots of human hair.

Newbro's Herpicide destroys this germ and consequently restores the hair to its natural state.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

FOOTBALL.

Poor handling of punts and poor generalship are the two besetting faults of the Pennsylvania team. These shortcomings have had more to do with the poor showing of the Quakers than the system. Last year and the year before Pennsylvania had a versatile and swift attack that kept opponents everlastingly guessing, but it also had a man to make the most of the varied tactics, the same being Stevenson, who was a past master at directing plays. These has been no Stevenson on hand this year, and the selection of plays has been hesitatingly and bunglingly done. Capt. Greene is a hard and tireless worker, but, it is charged, has not shown himself to be a good field general. There has not been any good helping of the man with the ball; generally he has had to go it alone, the interference being weak. The coaches, say one critic, have not been to insistent regarding helping the runner or laid enough stress on hard and low tackling. Good generalship and goon handling of punts, it is declared, would have won both of the games that have been list.

The Yale back field was made over yesterday because of the injury to Howard Roome, of this city, the full-back, which may keep him out of the game for two or three weeks. Cap-. Morse was shifted from right half-back to fullback, as he is the best defensive back at Yale, while Veeder and Knox will be the halfbacks for the West Point game. Rome was the best punter on the squad and he will be missed.

The board of student representatives at Columbia University met Wednesday to prepare a petition for the restoration of football at Columbia. The meeting was called primarily because of a report that had been circulated to the effect that President Butler had written a letter to Dean Sever, of the School of Applied Science, expressing the hope that the students would arrange an interclass game of the new style of football this fall. The students decided to try not only to obtain an interclass game, but also to attempt to get football reestablished as an intercollegiate sport next year. In the first of these efforts failure seems certain, as President Butler has said that no football, whether interclass, interdepartment or any other sort, would be permitted this year. It is said on good authority that Dr. Butler is watching carefully the revised game of football, with the hope that the undesirable features of the old game have been eliminated. If he becomes convinced that excessive training will not be necessary under the new rules, he may allow the game to be played again. The first action of the student board will be to present a petition to President Butler asking him to permit a sopohomore-freshman game. The matter will then be laid before the university committee on athletics. The announcement that a new athletic committee had been appointed was made yesterday. It consists of G. Morris, '07; Robert Le Roy, and F. S. Bangs.

The new rules have brought about a better game and have given more authority to officials, but have not accomplished all that was desired toward improving the work of the officials themselves. Dissatisfaction over the work of officials has been heard, just as in previous seasons, and sometimes there has been reason for the dissatisfaction. When one of the most prominent changes regarding penalties is overlooked, that which makes a team lose half the distance to its own goal line for certain offences, as was the case in the Princeon-Cornell game when E. Dillon was disqualified for slugging, there is carelessness or forgetfulness not calculated to increase respect for the ability of teh official. There is so much for a football official to remember and so much for him to watch on the field that he may be pardoned for consulting the rule book once in a while and for not seeing everything, but enough stress was laid on the penalty that goes with disqualification to keep it always in an official's mind. This question of of regulating and supplying officials is one in which the sub-committee of the rules committee has to make haste slowly and one that cannot be brought up to a perfect stage in a single season.

There is an encouraging sign that the interest in football is on the increase when it is learned that many former college stars are returning to their colleges to help coach the team for approaching struggles on the gridiron. There appears, however, to be a lack of cheering on the part of the undergraduate body at football games and efforts are now being made to stimulate this in future games.

The Orange Field Club will go to Elizabeth tomorrow to play the Crescent Field Club, and the betting seems to be in favor of the local eleven. Election Day morning the O. F. C. will meet Alls on Crescent Oval, when the latter hopes to score a victory.

New York University's football team is hard at work in preparation for the game with Rutgers on Election Day. The game with Stevens brought out the weak points of the team and Head Coach Church has been trying to remedy the defects. The tackles have been drilled in breaking through the line and blocking their men. The new forward pass has been tried, together with a delayed pass, which is expected to work well against Rutgers. Yesterday the 'varsity scored twice against the scrub team in a scrimmage.

GOLF.

Excellent pictures of Robert Abbott, Yale, and Dudley H. Barrows, Princeton, with the other members of the respective golf teams, appeared in the illustrated supplement of last Sunday's New York Times.

The Country Club, of Brookline, Boston, has already offered its course to the Eastern Professional Golfers' Association for its annual championship tournament next year. The matter will be decided at a meeting of the association at the Astor House, New York, Monday morning.

If the present seasonable weather continues play will be possible on the Plainfield Country Club and the Park Golf Club courses until nearly December 1. Thus far there have been no bad storms to damage either course and they are in the very best of condition.

When members of the Plainfield Country Club return to their game next spring they will find the course much more difficult to play than at present. Many extra hazards are planned for and tons of white sand will be placed about the course where the golfer will be apt to land his ball.

There will be play all day Election Day at the Plainfield Country Club, with special events to attract the members. As the day is a legal holiday many New York business men will not go to the city, but remain at home and visit the local golf courses.

Fall Suits and Overcoats

That Reflect Tailoring Skill.

For nearly fifty years as manufacturing clothiers our standard of Quality and workmanship has never been allowed to vary. Our standard of style has been steadily raised.

And never has M. & B. ready-to-wear so strongly appealed to men, no matter what their fancy, as in our present showing of Fall Suits and Overcoats.

When cleverness and talent spend their power, the work is bound to reflect their influence. It is that to which our ready-to-wear garments owe their preeminence.

M. & B. tailormen know the resources of their craft. They know how to infuse that element in fashioning—that "vital spark"—which results in character and distinctiveness, so much appreciated by dressy young men.

NEW LAW FATTENS NEW JERSEY TREASURY

RAILROADS AND CANALS WILL HAVE TO PAY $3,509,000.

The State Board of Assessors filed at Trenton yesterday with the State Comptroller a schedule of taxes assessed against the railroad and canal companies under last year's law providing for the taxation of main stem property at an average rate. The average rate has been figured out to be $1.80 per $100, as against a rate of 50 cents per $100 under the old law.

The assessment for this year amounts to $194,000,000. Taxes that will have to be paid under the new law are $3,509,000, or more than three times as much as last year.

Of this amount the Pennsylvania Railroad Company pays $1,077,000, the New Jersey Central $765,000, and the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western $603,000.

Mrs. Joseph Gray.

The funeral will be held from the Scotch Plains Baptist church, Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Lectured On Bermuda.

A delightful lecture on "Bermuda —The Land of the Lily and the Rose," was delivered by Dr. J. B. Mattison, of Brooklyn, in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue church, last night. It was the first in a series of lectures and entertainments to be conducted by the Young People's Association and was heard by a large audience. Dr. Mattison has been in Bermuda on twelve different occasions and his lecture was illustrated with handsomely colored views taken by himself.

Hot Ashes Started Fire.

A combination of hot ashes and rubbish in the basement of the flat building at 134 North avenue, occupied on the first floor by the Monarch Printing Company, started a fire this morning that led to a still alarm being sent in. Smoke from the smoldering blaze traversed a hallway and passing up through an elevator shaft had the tenants on all the floors in a flurry. Chief Doane sent the chemical engine out and one tank was used in extinguishing the blaze.

Funeral of Mrs. J. J. Unangst.

The funeral of Mrs. Josiah J. Unangst, who died Monday morning, was held at her late home on Richmond street, yesterday afternoon. It was conducted by Rev. J. W. Musson, pastor of Faith chapel, and was attended by a gathering of relatives and friends. Interment was made in Hillside cemetery, four sons acting as pall bearers.

NOT IN SYMPATHY WITH "NEW WOMAN"

CLERGYMAN TELLS PUPILS THE HOME IS THEIR SPHERE.

Upon the invitation of Superintendent Henry M. Maxson, Rev. George A. Warner, rector of Holy Cross church, addressed the pupils of the Plainfield High School, this morning. He took for his subject, "Opportunities," contrasting the days when he attended the country school at his home in Vermont, with none of the advantages of the present day public schools. He complimented the pupils on having such a fine school building, where under the most favorable circumstances it is possible for them to secure an education.

He particularly interested the boys in his remarks concerning athletics, taking occasion to tell them of the efforts being made among the boys in his parish to promote clean, healthful sports. Turning his attention to the girls, Mr. Warner said he wanted to impress upon their minds that the world of today is not in sympathy with the so-called new woman and unless it is a case of necessity he advised the girls to remain in their own particular sphere—the home—where their help and usefulness are always needed.

Mr. Warner was given enthusiastic applause at the close of his address. At his request Superintendent Maxson arranged for a fire drill, and he was greatly pleased to see how quickly the building could be emptied. It required exactly one minute and fifteen seconds for the teachers and pupils to leave the school. Following the drill, Mr. Warner was shown through the building and he again expressed his pleasure at what he saw, declaring it to be one of the finest and beat equipped schools he had ever visited.

In a striking manner, Rev. Mr. Warner compared the old-time school and its crude methods with the systematically conducted school of today with all the modern improvements and advantages. He said that all have equal opportunities in school, and he called attention to the fact that regardless of this there is great difference in pupils. He attributed it to lack of application, and said that grasping opportunities in school is forming character, which counts most in the future.

"It is not the boy who gets along easily," he said, "who is the most successful, but the boy who sees his opportunities, makes good use of them, and applies himself. To quote Judge Lindsay, of the Juvenile Court, of Denver: 'I could not wish for an American boy an easy time, but a hard time.'"

In dwelling on women, he said: "They are the best of God's creation, but they are not always at their best, because they often go outside of their sphere and do the things that men are doing; things God never intended them to do." He emphasized the fact that women influence men greatly, and said that those who have the most influence are the ones who are the most womanly; not those who enter into a business life, but those who can make home attractive.

Peerless Wedding Gown.

Philadelphia, Nov. 2.—How would you like to wear a wedding dress which is unique—not another like it in the United States, and probably not in the world? That is the kind of a wedding dress Miss Ethel Anson Steel, daughter of Mrs. William Steel of Cresheim, Mount Airy, wore when she was married yesterday in Grace church, Germantown, to Mr. Wheeler Hazard Peckham, of New York and Paris. Years ago, when the bride was a little child, her mother decided she should be married in a complete gown of Venetian lace of the "Raphael" pattern, so named because the great Italian artist loved to paint this lovely fabric on the beautiful women in his portraits. Nuns in Venice have almost a monopoly in its making. Its fine, delicate and intricate design must be woven in a damp cellar. It takes months for one nun to make a comparatively small piece and a complete gown costs a great sum With this gown the bride wore a necklace of sapphires and diamonds, a gift of the bridegroom.

Escapes from Siberia.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 2.—Gerschunin, one of the most famous Terrorists and head of the fighting organization during the Sipiaguine and Von Plehve regimes, has escaped from Siberia, concealed in a water cask. His disappearance is a serious menace to personages whose lives the Terrorists are now seeking, as he is a skilled organizer and one of the most remarkable men the revolution has produced. Gerschunin, who is a Hebrew, was condemned to perpetual imprisonment for complicity in the assassination of M. Sipiaguine, late Minister of the Interior, and the attempt on the life of M. Pobedonostseff, former Procurator General of the Holy Synod.

Broke Show Window Pane.

Sentence was suspended, in the city court, this morning, on James Eganey, who was arrested yesterday afternoon, after he had tumbled into and smashed one of the side panes in Weinberger's show window on West Front street. Mr. Weinberger did not appear against him. W. G. DeMeza was his lawyer.

THE LAST TWO DAYS OF THE

ARMOUR'S EXTRACT OF BEEF DEMONSTRATION.

We are serving Free dainty cups of Beef Tea, Bouillion, Soups, etc , also demonstrating the many recipes for Chafing Dish Cooking. We're giving away a silver plated measuring spoon and the famous Armour Cook Book. Don't fail to get them. Remember, the demonstration closes Saturday night.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

Excitement is running high these days over the coming engagement of "Custer's Last Fight," which will be at the New Plainfield theatre Saturday afternoon and night. Tales of its enormous success have preceded it from other cities, and the patrons of the local playhouse have signalized their intention to witness its performance here by an unusual advance sale of seats. The parts are well interpreted by capable actors, many of them well known to Plainfielders. The production has everything that goes to make a successful meledrama and more. The features that are out of the ordinary are a band of genuine Indians from the government reservation, a pack of wolves, horses and dogs. The scenery is beautiful and appropriate and painted by one of the best exterior artists in the country.

Iron Bolt In His Appendix.

Middletown, N. Y., Nov. 2.—The case of Edward Green, of Monroe, a young man recently committed to the State Hospital here, has developed into one of the most remarkable known to surgery. A swelling was noticed in his right side, and on operation revealed the presence of an iron bolt in his appendix. The bolt was nearly five inches in length. It is doubtful if Green will recover. How the bolt got into Green's body is a mystery.

Asleep Twelve Years.

Columbia, Ky., Nov. 2.—Herchall Grider, sixty-three years old, living near Dowena, Russell county, fell asleep twelve years ago and all efforts to awaken him have proved unavailing to this day. During that time he has been fed on liquid nourishment twice a day. The man's pulse and physical condition are said to be normal and his muscles are more supple than those of a man who has had exercise.

EXPOUNDS G.O.P. POLICIES

you," said Mr. Hillery, "to keep it in power because the party that preceded it did not do right; but it ought to be kept in on its own record. It has, and is doing, its level best to solve the problems with which it is confronted. Recently it has had to wrestle with a number of very important questions and among them are the subject of public water supply, over-capitalization, the Morris canal abandonment, life insurance, limited franchises and equal taxation.

"The finances of the State are up in the millions and there has never been a charge against the Republican party that it misappropriated a single cent. It disproves the assertion that a party cannot rule for years and remain pure."

Mr. Hillery then reviewed the history of the party in the past ten years, dwelling particularly on the fact that it had spent millions of dollars in the State for roads, public institutions and schools and yet has an immense surplus. Speaking of taxes, he declared credit is due the Republicans in general and Randolph Perkins in particular for what has been done in this respect. The railroads must now bear a share of the burden in proper proportion and though the change has not been felt this year, it would in the next. The question of taxation, he said, is one that will probably never be satisfactorily settled but the new methods as arranged by the last Legislature have alleviated conditions wonderfully. He expressed himself as being very proud of New Jersey, that it is rich in manufacturing industries, rich in tradition and rich in good men, though magazine writers have endeavored to cast odium upon it. It is prosperous and contented and for these, if nothing else, the Republicans should be kept in charge of its affairs.

Senator Hillery was followed by Assemblyman Randolph Perkins, of Westfield, who is a candidate for re-election. He led off with a few remarks relative to his own and Westfield's admiration for Plainfield and other generalities, and then said:

"Two or three things have happened in Trenton since I have been there and I want to tell you what I know about them. In the first place I want to say that during all the time I attended the sessions I was never but once approached by a lobbyist. In that particular case it was by a man named Rumroy—no relation to the Bishops' bill—and he told me he represented the Pennsylvania Railroad. He explained that he was there in the interests of a certain bill; I acknowledged the fact and that it is all there was to it."

"Not long since a Plainfield paper asked me several questions and one of them was 'why did I not work for the passage of the bill prohibiting coal stoves in railway passenger cars?' To tell the truth about it, I did not give the bill a whole lot of thought. It seemed to me that the man who introduced it was competent to look after it and beside, if I had devoted my time to it, I could not have attended to other matters more important and you would not now be having the railroad pay $18.01 on each $1,000 on property valuation."

This led the speaker to explain fully what the new tax on railroads meant and he told about main stem, second and third class property and its valuation. The total railroad valuation in the State, he said, is $194,856,819, from which there is derived $3,509,731.25 in taxes. He declared that for years the big companies had not been paying a share equal to what was demanded of the ordinary property holder but that now the former had been brought to the mark. Because of this apportionment of the taxes, Union county would receive from the State next year practically double the amount that it received for schools this year, which was $141,000. At this point Mr. Perkins took up the Bishops' bill question, which he has been discussing in various parts of the county and he expressed some annoyance at an editorial in the Newark News of last night, regarding his views as given by himself at Elizabethport a few nights ago. To vindicate himself he wanted the News representative, if there was one present, to know that he favored the Bishops' bill.

"Ladies and gentlemen," said he, "I am for the Bishops' bill from the enacting clause to the last clause."

He then went on to say how important it is to have an Assemblyman who has the courage of his convictions and manhood to express them, referring at times to the courage he displayed at Elizabethport in coming out boldly for the present excise statute. He denied that he had skipped the question of screens when talking about the bill the other night, and as for the matter of allowing Sunday selling, he declared the Bishops' bill had nothing to do with that. According to his statement Sunday selling has been prohibited by statute for many years.

"I am unequivically and irrecocably against the back room," he said, adding that in his mind that was the major feature of the newly-enacted statute. He closed with an appeal to the voters to support Fowler's candidacy and the expression of his belief that the Elizabethan was the man for the place.

As Assemblyman Perkins concluded, Chairman Buckle introduced Congressman Fowler and the representative from the Fifth district was greeted with enthusiastic applause. By way of a starter, he expressed satisfaction at seeing so many women present and asserted smilingly that after them he wanted the Democrats at the meetings.

At the beginning of his address, the Congressman's mind was evidently charged with the fact that Plainfield is the home of his opponent, as he devoted considerable time to talking about the man who votes for friendship. Dwelling on this particular thought, he declared that no voter should cast his ballot out of friendship or sympathy for a candidate, picturing such a course as great an offense against his country as to go over to the enemy in time of war. Furthermore, he said, the duty of a man going to war is no more than he should give to his country from a civic point of view.

"Loyal Republicans and patriotic Democrats," continued Mr. Fowler, "on November 6 you are going to be asked two questions. The first is—Am I in favor of Republican principles or Democratic principles; do I want the gold standard and protection or the silver standard and free trade; do I want the times that have existed since 1896? The second question is—Do you believe in upholding the hands of Theodore Roosevelt in his great work?

"The history of the country for a great many years, except four, has been all right. Those four were under Democratic rule and they were such that nobody wants them back: Grover Cleveland doesn't want them back. In 1892 we were the most prosperous and happy people ever on the globe and then the Democrats came in power. When they entered the amount of money in the country per capita was $24. It quickly fell to $21, whereas now it is $34."

At this point the speaker reviewed the accomplishments of the Republican party in recent times, asserting that it had brought about the eight-hour law and other measures for the benefit of the laboring class, the inspection and rigid supervision of steam vessels, the meat inspection bill and the railroad rate bill.

"The Democrats demand that they should be returned for one thing if nothing else and that is—to curb the trusts. And what are these trusts? It is simply a combining to carry on large enterprises and it could not be done if it was not for these combinations. Corporations are human institutions, however, and there are some that are not doing exactly right. The Republican party is doing its best to search out these evils and it is for the voters to say whether or not it is to be trusted with the task. The Democrats say 'remove the tariff' because it is the mother of trusts. This charge was thoroughly investigated by a commission which went abroad purposely to study tariff conditions and it was found that there is absolutely no relation between the tariff and the so-called trusts.

"Another cry has been sent up time and again that we are selling goods cheaper abroad than what we are at home. That is true only of one-third of one per cent. of the American products sent to foreign markets. There are times when a manufacturer has to get his goods introduced outside of his regular market; then again he has a lot of soiled samples that no one in America wants and he gets rid of them in Europe. You all know that there are occasions when trade is dull and a manufacturer finds stock accumulating. In order to keep his factory going and his men at work, he will take that surplus stock and turn it into cash in some place away from where he has been doing business. It is a very small amount in comparison to what his employes turn out and is something that he could not do at home. It is nothing but the commercial law of all the intelligent nations of the earth and the trade of the world is not as large as that of the United States.

"Bryan said 'open the mint;' McKinley said 'open the mills' and we opened the mills. Just suppose for instance that you should elect a Democratic Congress. Every manufacturer in the country would go over his books and there would be a checking up of orders for raw material. If he could cancel any, he would do so immediately, and thereafter he would order supplies only as they were absolutely needed. You know what that would mean. There would no longer be the cry that 'things were high;' trade stagnation would be the result."

After speaking in favor of a merchant marine and an international banking system based on American methods, the Congressman said:

"My Democratic friends, how are you going to vote on Election Day? Are you going to vote for Cleveland and free trade, Bryan and free silver, or Hearst and hell? No. These should be your motives—what should I do for my home, my State and my country? You should have some better reason for voting the Democratic ticket than 'I do it because my father did.' The Republican party is one of reform and has always stood for what is best for the nation's welfare.

"Those who oppose my candidacy claim that I don't attend roll call in Congress. In answer to that let me say that when you have 140 majority in the House it doesn't make so much difference about responding as there are frequently many calls brought about through filibustering. By filibustering we mean when the minority side notices that many Republicans are absent from the floor and calls for an immediate poll on a bill, hoping to rush it through. It is merely a try and it's only necessary to have enough men present to hold the fort."

In conclusion he gave advice to the young voter as to how to select the men to vote for, stating that he should look at the record of the party to which they were allied with the same care that he would select a wife.

Before the audience was dismissed, Chairman Buckle extended an invitation to the voters to meet the Congressman at a reception to be held in the parlors of the Hotel Iroquois immediately afterward and many of them took advantage of the opportunity. There were fully a hundred men who were introduced to him and who spent an hour in discussing the campaign informally.

LITERARY.

Lewis B. Ely, author of the complete novel "Young Love and Old Hate," fills an editorial position on the St. Louis Republic. Maarten Maartens, author of "A Argyment," writes under a pseudonym. Few people remember that his real name is Joost Marius Willem Van der Poorten-Schwartz. E. Ayrton-Zangwill, author of "The Demi-Man," is the wife of the distinguished Hebrew novelist and sociologist, I. Zangwill. She is an Englishwoman, and as Miss E. Ayrton she contributed to many magazines. E. F. Benson, author of "The Shootings of Achnaleish," won fame by his publication of "Dodo," and has advanced by his recent success, "The Angel of Pain." He is a son of the late Archbishop of Canterbury.

The National Magazine for November has a distinctively harvest festival Thanksgiving spirit. Its editor, Joe Mitchell Chapple, has taken a trip back to his old home in North Dakota, riding through the great wheat fields and rich country of that remarkable State, and he draws a vivid picture of the wealth and grandeur which he found (most of the time looking from the windows of a Pullman) and this he compares with the conditions more than twenty years ago when he went with his father's household goods, and farm machinery and stock into the great wheat State. Senator Hansbrough and W. R. Kellogg are also contributors to the North Dakota articles, which form a great feature of this number.

The Popular Science Monthly for November contains the following articles: "University Control," by Prof. J. J. Stevenson; "The Value of Science," by M. H. Poincare; "Pathogenic Protozoa," by Professor Gary N. Calkins; "The Making of the Grand Canyon of the Colorado," by Professor A. R. Crook; "Notes on the Development of Telephone Service," by Fred De Land; "The Jews a Study of Race and Environment," by Dr. Maurice Fishberg; "John Stuart Mill," by P. F. Bicknell; "Changes of Climate," by Robert DeC. Ward; "The African Pygmies," by S. P. Verner; "The Jubilee of the Coal Tar Color Industry and Sir William Henry Perkin;" "The Royal Society;" "The York Meeting of the British Association."

Judge Shute, Edward Stratemeyer, Everett T. Tomlinson, and Horatio Alger, Jr., occupy prominent positions in the November American Boy with their stirring serials. Scarcely secondary to these are short stories whose very titles should stir up the interest of the boys: "A Visit from the Cheyennes;" "The Lard Eaters;" "The Society of the F. F. F.;" "A Fight With a Panther;" "An Historic Walking Match;" "Tim's Pig;" "For the Glory of St. Mary's," a fine football tale.

The fact is that throughout the dry period of two and a half months, following the earthquake, when all sale of liquor was forbidden in San Francisco, the town was as gay as ever and the police had nothing to do.—Edwin Emerson, Jr., in Sunset Magazine for October.

That the Atlantic keeps in touch with an unusually wide range of interests is strikingly illustrated by the current November issue. The leading place has been given to a summary by S. W. McCall of the work of the Fifty-ninth Congress—the Congress that passed the Rate Bill, authorized free alcohol, and expended eight hundred millions of public money. The Massachusetts Congressman is noted for a habit of speaking his mind without fear or favor, and his fourteen years of national service give him a good basis for judging of the character and significance of the latest session. David C. Brewer of the Supreme Court, who holds the next place in the number, has some interesting things to say about "The Ideal Lawyer." Forty-four years of experience in the law have not destroyed Justice Brewer's belief in his profession. Hosea B. Morse, a veteran in our Chinese Customs Service, describes some of the embarrassing dilemmas which confront the American consul on account of "extraterritoriality."

She Was Left.

Miss Oldham awoke in the middle of the night and found a burglar ransacking her trunk. She did not scream, but, looking him square in the eye, she pointed to the door and said:

"Leave me at once, sir!"

"Oh, that's all right, madam," said the burglar as he backed toward the door. "I had no intention of taking you."

The diamond, in sufficient heat, will burn like a piece of charcoal.

Beards are liable to taxation in some Japanese villages. The origin of the curious custom is unknown.

Unslaked lime is useful in preventing rust because of its extraordinary capacity for absorbing moisture.

Beautiful bronzes and alloys can ben obtained by the electric deposition of metals suitably combined for color effects.

One of the most prolific fishes is the turbot. The number of eggs in five specimens examined by a scientist recently varied from 5,000,000 to 10,000,000.

New South Wales is just two and a half times the size of the British isles. Queensland is equal to three times the German empire and Belgium put together.

The Cathedral of St. John the Divine, now under construction in New York, will, when completed, rank fourth in size among the world's cathedrals. Only St. Peter's in Rome and the cathedrals of Seville and Milan will surpass it in massiveness.

The streets of Nottingham, England, are sprinkled with water in which chloride of alcium has been dissolved and are therefore dustless. One dressing every three or four weeks is enough to keep them so, even in the hottest weather. The cost is very small.

Within the narrow limits of the city of London, with its mere handful of residents—only sufficient to people a small provincial town—there are still so many churches that you might worship at a different one every Sunday of the year without putting foot inside them all.

The city council of Birmingham, England, has increased the number of women health inspectors from four to twenty because of the excellent results achieved in the homes of the poor and in the factories. In the same city the policemen have been taught the principles of "first aid."

New York city consumes nearly 1,000,000,000 units of electricity per annum, while London, with nearly double the population, consumes not more than one-fourth of that amount. The consumption per head of population in New York is stated to be 282 units against only 42 per head in London.

By a somewhat primitive system the town of Thompson Fall, Mont., manages in the hottest weather to keep rooms aat a temperature 55 degrees. Wells are covered at the top, and large pipes tap the current of cold air aa few feet below the surface of the ground, conveying it to different rooms in nearaby buildings.

A MAN OF LETTERS.

Rare Brevity and Beauty of Lincoln's More Notable Addresses.

Nothing would have amazed Mr. Lincoln more than to hear himself called a man of letters, and yet it would be hard to find in all literature anything to excel the brevity and beauty of his address at Gettysburg or the lofty grandeur of his second inaugural. In Europe his style has been called a model for the study and imitation of princes, while in our own country many of his phrases have already passed into the daily speech of mankind.

His gift of putting things simply and clearly was partly the habit of his own clear mind and partly the result of the training he gave himself in days of boyish poverty, when paper and ink were luxuries almost beyond his reach and the words he wished to set down must be the best words and the clearest and shortest to express the ideas he had in view. This training of thought before expression, of knowing exastly what he wished to say before saying it, stood him in good stead all his life, but only the mind of a great man with a lofty soul and a poet's vision, one who had suffered deeply and felt keenly, who carried the burden of a nation in his heart, whose kindness was as great as his moral purpose was strong and firm, could have written the deep, forceful, convincing words that fell from his pen in the later years of his life. It was the life he lived, the noble aim that upheld him, as well as the genius with which he was born, that made him one of the greatest writers of our time.—Helen Nicolay in St. Nicholas.

ADVERTISING.

A picture advertisement to get returns must tell the story at a glance. Folks with money to spend ain't looking for puzzle pictures.

Any advertisement, like a man, must present a good first appearance, but to get the returns there must be something more than mere appearance.

Advertising is like duck hunting—you must advance carefully, shoot at the right time and with the right sort of ammunition in places where there is a possibility of game.—Exchange.

Deep.

"I understand that you said my voice was fishy," challenged the big singer.

"I said it reminded me of a fish," replied the little man who had occupied the front row.

"Reminded you of a fish, eh? And what fish did it remind you of?"

"Why—er — a bass." — Chicago News.

WITH THE TRADES UNIONIST

Trade unionism is increasing at a greater rate in Germany than anywhere. There trade unionism has increased from 1,466,625 in December,1904, to 1,822,343 in December last, nearly 25 per cent. in a year.

Attorney-General Moody has ordered that suit be brought against a number of railroads for 181 alleged violations of the safety appliance law.

The Swedish Trades Union Congress was held recently at Stockholm, with 375 delegates present. The central bodies of the trades unions of Finland, Denmark and Norway were also represented by fraternal delegates. At the time of the last congress, three years ago, the Swedish unions numbered 39,570 members; now the organizations have grown to a membership of 102,000.

The petition of the trainmen of the California Northwestern Railroad for an increase went into effect on October. 1, and will result in giving each of the trainmen an increase of about 20 per cent.

From the standpoint of organized labor, Streator claims to be the most thoroughly organized city in Illinois, if not, indeed, in the United States. Every industry is organized—even the scrubwomen have a union.

Cincinnati,Ohio, City Council is considering an ordinance making $2 per day the minimum wage for city laborers.

The bootblacks of Montreal are organizing with a view to improving their condition and enforcing a general charge of ten cents a shine.

The Ohio law providing that after railway trainmen have worked fifteen consecutive hours they may not be required to give further service until they have had at least eight hours' rest, has been declared valid. Attorney-General Ellis has given an opinion to this effect to the Ohio Railway Commission.

A general wave of agitation for more wages and better conditions is spreading among the railroad employees of every branch of the business in the great freight and passenger carrying systems of the Middle and Western States.

The strike of the Wabash Railroad boiler-makers, machinists and blacksmiths has been terminated by the granting of an increase in wages.

The national strike of goldbeaters against the sweating system and for the closed shop has been settled at a conference by a compromise agreement. The strike affected gold leaf manufacturers in all parts of the United States.

Paducah, Ky., is organizing an anti-child labor organization.

"The eight-hour day and $10 a week" is sure to be the slogan of 150,000 Chicago factory and store girls if plans made by officers of the Chicago Federation of Labor are carried out.

The sum of $150,000 has been divided among the 50,000 workmen of the Krupp works of Essen in honor of the wedding of Bertha Krupp.

The Brotherhood of Railroad Freight and Baggagemen does not believe in strikes. Its methods are based solely on arbitration.

The threatened strike of iron molders in the engineering trade of Manchester and Southeast Lancashire, Eng., has been averted.

The eight-hour law, by a recent decision, has been held unconstitutional in Ohio.

The American Federation of Labor is attempting to reorganize the motormen and conductors and other employees of the street railways of New York City.

The Arkansas State Federation of Labor will hold its fourth annual convention at Fort Smith, December 10.

A Virginia court has decided that "no employer or contractor has any legal right to advertise for workingmen during a strike and attract them to a city by misrepresentation of facts."

PLAINFIELD LIBRARY NOTES

JANE'S VISIT TO THE PUBLIC LIBRARY.

A Theme on the Public Library Written by a Member of the Library's Apprentice Class.

Jane—like Howell's "Lady of the Aroostook" "wanted to know," so one beautiful morning in early October, she went forth to the place she especially wished to know about.—The Free Public Library of the town she dwelt in. Pleasantly situated, a short distance from the business portion, on one of its main thoroughfares, with a beautiful little park, directly at its back and the fashionable "Inn" by its side, it had long been known as the dispensor of the best.

Here came the energetic workers of the Monday Afternoon Club for material on their yearly topics, members of the Missionary Societies, intent on learning about the distant lands to which they contributed for the conversion of their strange inhabitants: Doctors, ministers, school teachers, the children, large and small, for whom a special alcove had been set apart. Persons in short, from all walks of life, came to take away books on subjects as various as their occupations.

On this particular morning, however, the building took upon itself a new aspect, for she had persuaded the librarian to enroll her as a member in the small apprentice class which she was in the habit of training every year. So upon entering the place this time she used her eyes and ears. This is what she saw,—

A red brick, two storied building evidently built for the purpose, with the name over the door in gilt letters of the donor. A wide hall led from this door, on whose right were the librarian's private office, and a work room; on the left, a large well furnished reception room. The hall terminated in a large room the entire width of the building, well lighted, and evidently used as reading, receiving and distributing room. On the right of the room were shelves well filled with reference books, and extending across it at right angles to the beginning of the reference shelves, were two long stands filled with any quantity of current periodicals, neatly arranged each in its own compartment, while below were cupboards for back numbers.

In the center back of the room, opposite the door, leading from the hall, was a large bay-window. Here stood the newspaper stand, chairs, also a large table, while opposite the table, against the wall, was the card catalogue, which Jane noticed from a framed card on top, formed a sort of general index to contents of library, alphabetically arranged as to author and topics.

The left of this large room was occupied by the children's alcove, adjoining which was the bulletin board. Opposite these were the receiving and distributing desk, and back of this was a large square opening with fireproof doors leading into a three-story fire-proof "Stack." On its first floor was the library's most used circulating books; on the second, "restriced books," books of reference, and technical works of all kinds; while the third was occupied by bound periodicals and pamphlets.

The second story of the main building contained an art gallery in which quality, not quantity was evidently its motto. Beside the paintings, were fine collections of Cloisonne and the Gilbert collection of beautifully mounted butterflies. As Jane had ascended the stairs, she saw on her right, a fine stained glass window, containing views of celebrated scenery in the far West, the gift of a prominent townsman.

The Dewey system of classification is used, while its loan system is a modification of the Newark system. The library has several small loan libraries in connection with the public school system, another at a large manufacturing plant on the outskirts of the town. After listening to a talk from the librarian in her private office, upon the divisions, subdivisions and classifications of its contents Jane wended her way home. By this time she not only "knew" but trembled in her shoes for what was to follow, thinking even in the making of an assistant librarian, the race would have to be, to the strong and strenuous, not only of mind but—body.

PRECIOUS STONES.

The black diamond is so hard that it cannot be polished.

An uncut diamond looks very much like a bit of gum arabic.

The diamond, in sufficient heat, will burn like a piece of charcoal.

Every gem known to the lapidary has been found in the United States.

The island of Ceylon is the most remarkable gem depository in the world.

The sapphire which adorns the summit of the English crown is the same that Edward the Confessor wore in his ring.

When a fine ruby is found in Burma a procession of elephants, grandeesand soldiers escorts it to the king's palace.

Substitute Letter-Carrier John Conklin, who fell down stairs at his home a few days ago and sprained his ankle, is able to be at the postoffice, although he cannot carry a route, owing to his injury.

BOWLING.

PRIZES ARE OFFERED IN BOWLING TOURNEY.

John G. McLaughlin Announces Rules For the Season's Contests.

The Inter-City Bowling tournament to be rolled at the Plainfield Bowling Academy, season of 1906-07, is open to clubs from Garwood, Westfield, Scotch Plains, Plainfield, Bound Brook, Somerville and Raritan. John G. McLaughlin, of the borough, who is at the head of the affair, has announced the following prizes:

First team prize, $40; second team, $20; third team, $10; high team average, $10; high team score, $10; high individual score, $10. A bowler to be eligible for an individual prize must roll in at least two-thirds of the games in the tournament.

The tournament will be rolled under the rules of the American Bowling Congress and such other rules as may be adopted by the management. Each club must submit in writing the names of ten members to represent the team in the tournament, said names to be filed with the management, and no change or substitution will be permitted. There will be bowling on Tuesday and Thursday nights, beginning Tuesday, November 13, at 8 o'clock. Applications for membership with an entrance fee of $10 should be made to Warren MacLaughlin, 117 East Second street. Entries close Saturday, November 10.

ROD AND GUN.

The hunting season opened yesterday in Pennsylvania and a number of local sportsmen will leave this State to indulge in their favorite pastime. The opening of the gunning seasons is always looked forward to by the thousands of devotees of the scatter gun, and the field and woodlands of Pennsylvania will no doubt be filled with gunners today in search of rabbit, quail, grouse, turkey, woodcock and squirrel.

Alis Eleven's Strong Schedule.

The Alis football eleven now fully organized for the season will give local football lovers a chance to see some fine games. On Saturday the team will play at Cranford, where they hope to reverse the first score between the teams early in the season, when they were defeated by a score of 5 to 0. Election Day morning they will play Orange Field Club on Alis Common, foot of Arlington avenue, and on November 17, the eleven will play at Dunellen. On Saturday, November 24, Alis will play Roselle here.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The Ladies' Aid Society of St. Peter's Lutheran church, Grove street and Mercer avenue, will hold a fair in the Sunday-school room, November 20-23, afternoon and evening.

Rev. A. E. Finn, pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church, returned last night from Atlantic City, where he attended the State Baptist convention. He was made secretary at the pastors' conference.

J. Pierpont Morgan is credited with having imported this week the most valuable copy of the Bible that has ever been brought into the country. The copy was made by the monks of Cluny, France, in the thirteenth century. Packed in the same box with the Bible was an old English manuscript, the original warrant for the arrest of John Bunyon. For the two Mr. Morgan is said to have paid $25,000. The Bible, according to the story told at the New York Customs House, was bought in competition with King Edward of England. The King was anxious to present it to the chapel at Frogmore, where the body of Queen Victoria lies. The import duty of $4,000 was paid by Mr. Morgan's brokers without protest. It is said that Mr. Morgan intends to present the Bible to the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, of which he is a trustee.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—Mrs. K. F. Garretson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Garretson, of West Fourth street, has taken a position as stenographer with the New Jersey Central, at the Central building in New York.

—At the first concert to be given at the Casino on November 27, by the Plainfield Operatic Association, there will be no soloists, the chorus presenting the entire programme. The Schill Stringed Orchestra, of Newark, will assist.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. Cubberley, of Pearl street, has returned to her home after spending a month in Iowa, where she has been visiting her parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Hendershot, who were married at Millstone last Saturday, will reside at Lebanon, the home of the groom, and not Millstone, as stated.

William T. Law, in the employ of the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company, New York, who has spent the summer at Truell Court, has returned to New York for the winter.

Croker Amazed at Deal.

London, Nov. 2.—In an interview accorded the Freeman's Journal, of Dublin, yesterday, Richard Croker says: "I think it was a most astonishing and unprincipled performance for Tammany Hall to turn its delegation over to Mr. Hearst when he accused them all of being thieves and pictured them going to State's Prison, and to ignore the true Jeffersonian Democrat, William Sulzer. I cannot understand why Charles F. Murphy would allow the organization to depart from its recognized principle. Would it not be better for Tammany Hall to be defeated fighting for principle than to dishonor itself by outraging the principles of Jefferson?" Continuing, Mr. Croker hopes the working men will think earnestly and act together and not be misled by wild talk.

A Republican Martine.

New York, Nov. 2.—In the First Congressional district, which includes the counties of Queens, Nassau and Suffolk, William W. Cocks, of Westbury, L. I., a farmer, is making the rounds of the district in his farm wagon. He is the present representative of the district and a Republican of the Roosevelt type. It is a far cry from Queens county to Montauk Point and Plum Gut, but Mr. Cocks is making it and is received everywhere with enthusiasm. Mr. Cocks is a Quaker, but a Quaker of the fighting kind. He is one of the best known farmers on Long Island, is a member of all the farmer organizations, and has the advantage of being able to call his farmer constituents by their Christian names.

Judge Rebukes Joyful Son.

New York, Nov. 2.—In elation at the escape of his father, Denton H. Hopkins, who killed his wife a year ago and has been sent to the Asylum for the Criminal Insane, Harry Hopkins slapped a witness on the back and said "Bully!" in so loud a tone as to attract the attention of Judge Aspinall in the Criminal Term of the County Court yesterday. Judge Aspinall called him to the bar and asked him what he meant. Hopkins said he was excited, and intended no disrespect "I had intended to place you in charge of your father's estate," Judge Aspinall said, "but in view of your action yesterday I will place the estate in charge of a trust company."

Fund to Fight Cancer.

Paris, Nov. 2.—Dr. Poirier has already receiver 140,000f. ($28,000), contributed for organizing a systematic fight against cancer. The committee, on the initiative of Dr. Poirier, includes Dr. Roux, of the Pacteur Institute; Dr. Bouchard and Dr. Debove.

Gave Pastor a Surprise.

Rev. P. T. Morris, pastor of the Ebenezer Baptist church, and his family, were tendered a surprise donation party by thirty members of his flock, last night. The affair was arranged by Miss May Tiny and Rebecca Hamlet. The guests brought many presents and after bestowing them upon Mr. and Mrs. Morris, passed several hours in a social way.

Court Session Postponed.

Because of Mayor Smalley's absence from the borough, last night, no session of the police court was held. The various cases on the docket were continued until tonight.

Watch Your Chestnut Trees.

New York, November 2.—Many Chestnut trees forming a part of the old forest growth of Prospect Park have been attacked by the fungi growth which has baffled the experts of the Park Department. According to Commissioner Kennedy more than five hundred trees have been attacked during the summer, and while they have been sprayed and every other precaution taken, it has been impossible to save them. The work of taking down the dead trees and replacing them is now under way.

Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P., will work the first rank tonight, followed by an entertainment and refreshments.

NEW YORK CITY.

There are 14,600 actors who claim their homes are in New York city.

There are in New York city 168,000 members of clubs that have an enrollment of more than 300 members each.

There is more money per capita spent in New York city every year for amusements than in any other place in the world.

New York city's growth is shown by one little item. The water rents are $50,000 more each month than they were a year ago.

Unused personal property in the warehouses of New York city is "eating itself up" in storage fees at the rate of $11,700 a day.—New York Herald.

THE FORUM.

Mr. Firstbrook to Mr. Sminck.

Editor, The Daily Press:

That splash of political lava from the pen of Mr. Charles S. Sminck, of the First ward, appearing in your columns Tuesday, looks like the picture of the fellow trying to run his cart in front of the horse. There is nothing in it. The issue before the voters is the election of a congressman. The question whether James E. Martine will make a better representative than the present incumbent, Mr. Fowler, has been thoroughly threshed out, and the answer will be registered next Tuesday, when it looks as if the voters will elect Martine, thereby giving Mr. Fowler more time to devote to his interests in Vermont and Arizona.

Mr. Sminck, I believe, is a business man in New York. When employers engage a man it is expected that he will report for work regularly and attend to his duties. If he absents himself from work for any side lines he may be interested in he will be discharged. This Mr. Sminck will agree to, I think. Mr. Fowler has been drawing $5,000 annually for the purpose of representing his constituency in Congress, a duty which he did not perform. Instead he has been spending the majority of his time, when he should have been in his Congressional seat, taking excursions to his marble quarries in New Hampshire and to his lands in Arizona. Incidentally he has also spent some of his time throughout the country, expounding his ideas on currency reform.

What has he done during the past twelve years? What can a man do when he doesn't report for work? During his Congressional career he has failed to have a bill passed bearing his name. In his last term the records show he has answered roll call less than eight times. At this rate he is receiving about $500 per visit to Washington. These are cold facts—in plain words—and I don't see where Mr. Sminck can dodge them. They are backed up by proceedings as recorded in the Congressional Record.

There is no comparison between Jim Martine and Fowler, and there isn't a Plainfielder but who believes that Mr. Martine will be at every roll call of Congress, if elected to that office. Mr. Fowler has been "weighed in the balance and found wanting" and the public is alive to that fact.

Another matter Mr. Sminck, you mention about the soup houses, which you seem to think were caused by Grover Cleveland's election. Don't you know that Secretary of the Treasury Leslie M. Shaw has been going around the country during the past few weeks telling the people that Grover Cleveland was a much maligned man in that respect, and don't you know that he said that the hard times of 1893 were not due to Grover Cleveland, but due to a periodical financial depression which is just as liable to happen under a Republican as well as a Democratic administration? Mr. Sminck, don't you know that you can't get the championship belt for political letter writing in the State, for don't you know that Senators Hillery and Colby have got you skinned to death in that respect? Don't "cut in again," to use the language of your patron saint, La Follette, until you do some thinking, as I have very little time to spare in writing political letters.

G. E. FIRSTBROOK.

A Society Circus.

A thrilling and novel animal act was seen for the first time in New York at the Hippodrome last Monday, as an added feature of "A Society Circus." Herman Weedon, a lion trainer from Germany, exhibited seven trained lions in the big arena behind steel bars. An unusual feature of the act was that Mr. Weedon appeared in cow-boy costume, with two large bowie knives in his belt and a loaded Colt's revolver in his left hand. He was fearfully wounded once in Berlin, while exhibiting these same lions, and since then he has never entered the arena without being fully armed, ready to put up a stiff fight in case of attack. Mr. Weedon and his lions will remain indefinitely at the Hippodrome. Further reports of the international popularity of "Moon Dear," the catchy song from "A Society Circus" at the Hippodrome, have been received. A. Toxen Worm, business representative for Miss Marlowe and Mr. Sothern, reports that while in Denmark last summer, at Marienlyst near Copenhagen, "Moon Dear" was one of the most popular selections played by the local orchestra. He also heard it at Monte Carlo and at Biarritz. One would not be surprised to hear next that "Moon Dear" is the favorite long of the Fiji Islanders.

THE DELUGE

By DAVID GRAHAM PHILLIPS, Author of "THE COST," etc

(COPYRIGHT 1905, by the BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY)

In fact, they were anything but jokes. On Mondays and Thursdays she used to attend a class for women who, like herself, wished to be "up-to-date on culture and all that sort of thing." They hired a teacher to cram them with odds and ends about art and politics and the "latest literature, heavy and light." On Tuesdays ands Fridays she had an "indigent gentlewoman," whatever that may be, come to her to teach her how to converse and otherwise conduct herself according to the "standards of polite society." Joe used to give imitations of those conversation lessons that raised roars of laughter round the poker table, the louder because so many of the other men had wives with the same ambitions and the same methods of attending them.

Mrs. Ball came back to the subject of Anita.

"I am glad you are going to settle with such a charming girl. She comes of such a charming family. I have never happened to meet any of them. We are in the West Side set, you know, while they move in the East Side set, and New York is so large that one almost never meets any one outside one's own set." This smooth snobbishness, said in the affected "society" tone, was as out of place in her rouge and hair-dye in a wholesome, honest old grandmother.

I began to pace the floor. "Can it be," I fretted aloud, "that Joe's racing round looking for an Episcopalian preacher, when there was a Methodist at hand?"

"I'm sure he wouldn't bring anything but a Church of England priest," Mrs. Ball assured me loftily. "Why, Miss Ellersly wouldn't think she was married, if she hadn't a priest of her own church."

My temper got the bit in its teeth. I stopped before her, and fixed her with an eye that must have had some fire in it. "I'm not marrying a fool, Mrs Ball," said I. "You mustn't judge her by her bringing-up—by her family. Children have a way of bringing themselves up, in spite of damn fool parents."

She weakened so promptly that I was ashamed of myself. My only apology for getting out of patience with her is that I had seen her seldom in the last few years, had forgotten how matter-of-surface her affectation and snobbery were, and how little they interferred with her being a good mother and a good wife, up to the limits of her brain capacity.

"I'm sure, Mr. Blacklock," she said plaintively, "I only wished to say what was pleasant and nice about your fancee. I know she's a lovely girl. I've often admired her at the opera. She goes a great deal in Mrs. Langdon's box, and Mrs. Langdon and I are together on the board of managers of the Magdalene Home, and also on the board of the Hospital for Unfortunate Gentlefolk." And so on, and on.

I walked up and down among those wrapped-up, ghostly chairs and tables and cabinets and statues many times before Joe arrived with the minister—and he was a Methodist, McCabe by name. You should have seen Mrs. Ball's look as he advanced his portly form and round face with its shaven upper lip into the drawing-room. She tried to be cordial, but she couldn't—her mind was on Anita, and the horror that would fill her when she discovered that she was to be married by a preacher of a sect unknown to fashionable circles.

"All I ask of you," said I to him, "is that you cut it as short as possible. Miss Ellersly is tired and nervous." This while we were shaking hands after Joe's introduction.

Alva and she were coming down the stairway. I was amazed at sight of her. Her evening dress had given place to a pretty blue street suit with a short skirt—white showing at her wrists, at her neck and through slashings in the coat over her bosom; and on her head was a hat to match. I looked at her feet—the slippers had been replaced by boots. "And they're just right for her," said Alva, who was following my glance, "though I'm not so tall as she."

But what amazed me most, and delighted me, was that she seemed to be almost in good spirits. It was evident she had formed with Joe's daughter one of those sudden friendships so great and so vivid that they rarely lived long after the passing of the heat of the emergency that bred them. Mrs. Ball saw it also, and was straightway giddied into a sort of ecstasy. You can imagine the visions it conjured. I've no doubt she talked house on the east side of the park to Joe that very night, before she let him sleep. However, Anita's face was serious enough when we took our places before the minister, with his little, black-bound book open. And as he read in a voice that was genuinely impressive those words that no voice could make unimpressive, I saw her paleness blanch into pallor, saw the dusk creep round her eyes until they were like stars waning somberly before the gray face of dawn. When they closed and her head began to sway, I steadied her with my arm. And so we stood, I with my arm round her, she leaning lightly against my shoulder. Her answers were mere movements of the lips.

At the end, when I kissed her cheek, she said: "Is it over?"

"Yes," McCabe answered—she was looking at him. "And I wish you all happiness, Mrs. Blacklock."

At that name, her new name, she stared at him with great wondering eyes; then her form relaxed. I carried her to a chair. Joe came with a glass of champagne; she drank some of it, and it brought life back to her face, and some color. With a naturalness that deceived even me for the moment, she smiled up at Joe as she handed him the glass. "Is it bad luck," she asked, "for me to be the first to drink my own health?" And she stood, looking tranquilly at every one—except me.

I took McCabe into the hall and paid him off.

When we came back, I said: "Now we must be going."

"Oh, but surely you'll stay for supper!" cried Joe's wife.

"No," replied I, in a tone that made it impossible to insist. "We appreciate your kindness, but we've imposed on it enough." And I shook hands with her and with Allie and the minister, and, linking Joe's arm in mine, made for the door. I gave the necessary directions to my chauffeur while we were waiting for Anita to come down the steps. Joe's daughter was close beside her, and they kissed each other good-by, Alva on the verge of tears, Anita not suggesting any emotion of any sort. "To-morrow—sure," Anita said to her. And she answered: "Yes, indeed—as soon as you telephone me." And so we were off a shower of rice rattling on the roof of the brougham—the slatternly man-servant had thrown it from the midst of the group of servants.

Neither of us spoke. I watched her face without seeming to do so, and by the light of occasional street lamps saw her studying me furtively. At last she said: "I wish to go to my uncle's now."

"We are going home," said I.

"But the house will be shut up," said she, "and every one will be in bed. It's nearly midnight. Besides, they might not—" She came to a full stop.

BELIEVES WOMEN WERE SANDBAGGER'S VICTIMS.

Despite Doctor's Assertion, However, the Cranford Police Think the Contrary.

Cranford, Nov. 1.—Miss Eva Kunkel, who keeps the news stand at the Central Railroad station, locked up the stand Tuesday night and started for home with her sister. When they reached Woodlawn avenue and Union street they were felled to the ground by blows administered by some unidentified person.

Their cries attracted the attention of neighbors, who came to their assistance, but no clue to their assailant could be found. The women declare they saw no one, and believe their assailant was lurking behind one of the trees. There have been attacks of a similar character at the same spot heretofore. The motive was evidently robbery, as Miss Kunkel carries the day's receipts home each night. The women were removed to their home, where they were attended by Dr. J. K. MacConnell. The police story is that boys were throwing stones and hit the women, but the doctor's theory is they were sandbagged.

TO REINSPECT CREAMERIES,

State Health Board Makes Plans to Raise Standard.

Trenton, Nov. 2.—The State Board of Health has determined to bring up the creamery establishments of the State to the highest possible standard in order to remove as far as possible at least one source of menace to public health. With this idea in view the State board is having all the creameries of the State reinspected, and when the reports of the inspectors have been received the data thus gathered will be placed in the hands of the attorney-general, in cases of creameries which have not conformed with the law, for prosecutions.

With regard to the distributing stations the board is making a thorough study of the situation, and expects in the near future to formulate plans for a more thorough regulation. The statistics of the department show that the death rate is controlled to a considerable extent by infantile diseases, and it is believed that impure milk is responsible for this to some degree. The State board, in its milk crusade, is preparing rigid rules in poster form for distribution among the dairies of the State.

Explorers Lose Reward.

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 2.—Eight years ago the British government, to stimulate exploration, offered an award of $100,000 to the first man or party who should navigate the Northwest Passage. Captain Amundsen, a well known Norwegian navigator, and four other men accomplished the feat. All the party except Captain Amundsen passed through Chicago yesterday and while here received a message from him that the British award had been withdrawn. It was the first intimation they had that a monetary reward would not be added to the glory they attained.

SMALLEY SAYS FREEHOLDERS' BOARD SHOULD GO

Borough Mayor Favors Proprosition to Substitute a County Commission in Somerset.

SOME HARD FACTS

Corporation Counsel Reed Adds His Approval to Scheme Upon Which Voters Will Act on Tuesday.

For the benefit of Councilman Lee, who raised the question as to what advantage North Plainfield would gain by the change, Mayor N. B. Smalley and Corporation Counsel Charles A. Reed gave a full explanation of the proposed abolition of the Somerset county Board of Freeholders, at last night's Council meeting. Both officials are in favor of the change and from present indications the borough will give a large affirmative vote.

"There is just this much about it," said the mayor, "we are receiving a great many complaints about the taxes and so far it has been charged up against the County Board of Equalization. The Board of Freeholders asked for an increase of $20,000 this year over last and the State school tax has been raised, while the rate for the borough itself has been lower. A study of the twenty thousand dollar increase for the county will show that affairs are conducted all right locally but that attention is needed in another direction."

"The manner in which the freeholders distribute money in the county, as far as North Plainfield is concerned, is enough to have anyone vote against keeping them in office. All the borough wants is fair play. It pays a big share of Somerset's tax but it does not begin to get a proper return. We pay absolute cash for what the county calls for but have to collect our money as best we can.

"There was an increase in county taxes this year and I predict that there will be another increase next year, regardless of the fact that the commission is in. In the past ten years there were fifty miles of roads built in Somerset that are now at the stage where expensive repairs must be made and it's going to cost a whole lot of money. They were constructed under the supervision of incompetent men and the tax payers must suffer. That's one of the problems that confront the people in this matter of freeholders. In regard to the borough's share of tax, I don't maintain that its property is assessed at full value but I think it's plenty high enough."

Corporation Counsel Reed supplemented the mayor's remarks with a further explanation of the proposed change, dwelling on the fact that if the Board of Freeholders was abolished, the commission which would take its place would be composed of men of intelligence. They would be paid a salary sufficiently big enough to have them devote their entire time to the office and exercise proper care and judgment in the expenditure of sums as high as $150,000 annually.

"If you had a business involving that amount of money in a year," said Mr. Reed, addressing the Council, "you would exercise judgment in selecting the men who would have the handling of it. It is just as important that the county's affairs should be as carefully looked after."

Dr. Wharton at the Theatre.

Arrangements have been made for the holding of a men's meeting at the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock, when Rev. Dr. Henry M. Wharton, the evangelist, will speak. There will be a large male chorus to assist in the singing and all men who can sing are asked to join the chorus. They are requested to be at the theatre at 3:30 o'clock and enter by the stage door. At the services in the First Baptist church tomorrow night, all the churches which united in the services last Sunday night, will do so again.

Harvest Home at the Hospital.

The annual harvest home festival will be held at Muhlenberg Hospital on Thursday afternoon, November 22, when it is expected that there will be the usual donations of fruits, vegetables and other useful things. The affair will be in charge of the members of the Women's Auxiliary to the Board of Governors, and tea will be served during the afternoon.

—Rev. Frank Fletcher, who recently resigned the pastorate of the New Market Baptist church, will move with his family to Plainfield within a few weeks.

DEFEAT SMALLEY COUNSELS ROGERS

SOMERSET G. O. P. ASSEMBLY NOMINEE WON'T BE SMOKED OUT.

W. W. Smalley still maintains his Sphnix-like silence concerning his position on the United States Senatorial fight provided he is sent to the Legislature as the member from Somerset county, though efforts have been brought to bear to smoke him out. In his reply to George T. Rogers' request for an announcement whether he would vote for John F. Dryden's return, the Bound Brook Republican got around the query by declaring that he had accepted the nomination with the distinct understanding that he would not be pledged on any matter but would be free to act as he thought best. What his "best thought" on the Senatorial situation is he refuses to divulge.

When Mr. Rogers was asked last night what he had heard from Mr. Smalley in reply to his last letter, the boroughite replied:

"No word from him whatever, which I take it indicates that he will not commit himself."

In discussing Mr. Smalley's silence, Mr. Rogers said:

"A man going to Trenton without any pledge on such an important matter, is like a ship without a compass. He will be easily accumulated by the system. After he is rounded up, just watch him search his very soul for excuses for obeying its behests."

Mr. Rogers was asked what he would do under the circumstances, whether he would vote his straight party ticket with Smalley on it or not.

"What will I do? Vote against him, of course. The way to defeat a man you do not want elected is to vote against him—directly if you can; if not, indirectly as in this case."

Speaking of the alleged weak-kneed attitude of some of the Republican voters, who as a matter of fact favor good government, Mr. Rogers said:

"The great majority of Republicans do not want Mr. Dryden for United States Senator. At the same time they lack the courage to vote against the candidate, who, if elected, will support him in the Assembly. A candidate like Mr. Smalley, pledged, as he says, to nothing, is no more Republican than Democrat and he has no claim on Republican votes." When Assemblyman Perkins, of Union county, was asked the direct question whether he favored the "Bishops' bill," he declared that he had the courage to say that he did favor it and had voted for it, though he knew his declaration might cost him hundreds of votes.

The Plainfield of Today.

As the feature of its New Jersey section, the Sunday edition of the New York Herald tomorrow will contain an accurate and complete description of the Plainfield of today, written by its local correspondent, Ralph L. Morrow. It is a live story dealing with every phase of the subject, particularly as concerns the attractions and the advantages of the place; its municipal improvements; its social, fraternal, religious and sporting diversions. A large number of illustrations from original photographs by C. B. Morgan will be a feature of the article.

Perseverance Lodge Celebration.

Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P., conducted a "Hallowe'en" social in its rooms following the regular business session last night. Vocal and instrumental selections were contributed by Judge Runyon, Elmer D. Cutting and others, and a professional monologist gave a good line of talk. At the close refreshments of pumpkin pies, doughnuts and coffee were served. The affair was arranged by Elmer D. Cutting, Philip Jahn, William Mills and Asa D. Pope.

Organ Recital at Grace Church.

William E. MacClymont, organist and choirmaster, will give an organ recital at Grace church tomorrow afternoon at 4:30 o'clock, when these numbers will be rendered: "Suite Gothique," Boellmann; "Evening Star," Vorspiel; "Tristan and Isolde," Wagner.

City Fathers Meet Monday Night.

The Common Council will hold the regular November meeting Monday night. The contract for the southside sanitary sewer will be awarded to Peter Morgan, of Poughkeepsie, and considerable other business transacted.

District Court Monday.

The District Court next week will hold its session on Monday, instead of Tuesday. The lawyers prefer this day before to the day after Election Day.

RESULTS OF THE REVIVAL

A CONVINCING SPEAKER

Prayers by Revs. Fletcher and Goodrich—Benediction by Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss.

The evangelistic service at the First Baptist church, last night, was attended by the largest congregation of the week and the greatest interest was manifested in the earnest words of Rev. Dr. Henry M. Wharton, the evangelist in charge. His persuasive manner was instrumental in influencing many to decide to lead Christian lives and they signified this by rising to their feet. There was a marked increase in the attendance of young people.

During the opening part of the meeting, following the usual song service led by Charles L. Lewis, there were many additional requests for prayer and these were remembered by Rev. Frank Fletcher, of New Market, and Rev. C. L. Goodrich, of this city, who offered prayers.

Dr. Wharton took for his text the words found in the twenty-third and twenty-fourth verses of the first chapter of First Corinthians: "But we preach Christ crucified, unto the Jews a stumbling block, and unto Greeks foolishness; but unto them which are called, both Jews and Greeks, Christ the power of God, and the wisdom of God." Dr. Wharton spoke in part as follows:

"There are three kinds of preaching mentioned in the Bible. The first is that of the preachers and teachers in the Sunday-school and Bible class, the second is evangelistic, such as I am engaged in and the third is the conversational preaching, which includes the individual work. I am convinced that more souls are brought to Christ by the conversational preaching than any other. I judge preaching as I would a dinner, by its goodness. I don't measure a sermon by the theological rules. I have heard the greatest preachers both in this country and abroad during the past fifty years, from Spurgeon down, but to the preaching of my gentle mother before I was twelve years of age I owe everything.

"Now is the time to instruct the little ones. I believe that those in this audience tonight who have profited the most by their Christian experience, accepted Christ in childhood. When Christ died for us He took our place."

Dr. Wharton then told a story of a man who was seen visiting a cemetery, when a monument was being erected over a grave. When questioned as to the purpose, he related an experience during the Civil War. A young man took his gun and enlisted in the war in his place, that he might remain at home with his sick wife. The young man was killed in battle and in appreciation of the sacrifice he was having a monument erected to his memory, upon which was inscribed, "He Died for Me."

"Everyone here tonight can say that," continued Dr. Wharton, "if they believe in Christ. We see in our text tonight that the Gospel is received in three ways. To the Jews it is a stumbling block, to the Greek it is foolishness and to those who believe in its power and wisdom.

"The Jew always prided himself on his self-righteousness and his obedience of the law. He lays great stress on his morality and goodness. But I assure you that you will be disappointed if you depend on your morality to carry you through. Once I locked myself out of my home, borrowed a ladder with which I expected to get in the second story window. When I placed the ladder up to the house and climbed to the top, I found it was just a trifle too short and would not do. It is the same with morality. It won't do. Our only hope is through faith in Christ

"To the Greek the Gospel was foolishness. Col. Ingersoll was the foremost representative of that principle. He said that there was no God or prayer, that everything was by chance and when life gets too hard to bear just kill yourself. It was a case of eat, drink and be merry today for tomorrow ye shall die.

"The Christian religion is terribly misunderstood. Many believe it to be a sad, narrow thing, while on the contrary it is truth, broadness and enjoyment of life in the fullest sense. The true Christian sees life in the highest and most beautiful aspect."

Here again Dr. Wharton stopped to relate another story of a beautiful young woman, graduated from a Northern college and upon returning to her home in the South was lavishly entertained by her friends. Her parents had planned that she should be a leader in society, and neither one being a Christian they had no interest in religion. The young woman accepted an invitation from a young man to attend revival services

TREASON TO BUY VOTERS

PROPER PUNISHMENT

Guilty Ones Should Be Disfranchised —His Speech at Carteret in the Interest of G. S. Silzer.

Former Assemblyman S. S. Swackhamer, of North Plainfield, delivered an address at Carteret last night in the interest of George S. Silzer, the Democratic candidate for State Senator in Middlesex county. In the course of his remarks, in referring to the subject of bribery at the polls, he said: "There is no more important issue before the people at this time. There is no agency more deeply involved with the life and welfare of the commonwealth than the ballot box. It is the medium through which the citizen acts upon his country. It is the instrumentality by which the soverign will of the people is expressed.

"The ballot," he continued, "has been defined to be the honest expression of a free man's will; but where the voter is bribed, the ballot is a lie and expresses the will of a traitor. Political liberty was bought by our fathers at the price of suffering and blood. No hardship was too severe, no sacrifice too great to secure it. For this the Pilgrim fathers sailed the wintry sea and faced the savage wilderness and the pitiless tomahawk. For this Washington and the Continental soldiers endured the agonies of Valley Forge and left their bloody foot-prints on the ice and snows of New Jersey. For this the volunteers responded to the call of Abraham Lincoln and offered up their lives on the alter of their country. Who then can estimate the value of the elective franchise and what language can describe the crime by which this priceless blessing is transmuted into a curse. I can see no difference between the man who lifts the sword against his country and the man who thus poisons her life blood at the fountain head. The man who buys or sells a vote is a Benedict Arnold in miniature. He should not only be visited with fine and imprisonment, but the further punishment of disfranchisement should be inflicted.

"I rejoice that a determined effort is being made to stamp out this blighting, withering, revolting crime and that all good citizens are uniting to elevate and purify the ballot."

BOROUGH COUNCIL PUTS BAN ON BLUE CONCRETE

MAKES GOOD WALLS BUT FOLKS DON'T LIKE COLOR COMBINATION.

In the regular order of business at the borough council meeting, last night, Mayor Smalley expressed his disapproval of bright blue concrete sidewalks that some of the North Plainfield property owners are putting down. Notices were recently issued to residents on various streets that walks were required and it was specified, according to the borough ordinance, that the customary flagging would be acceptable. Some of those served heard about a new blue concrete article and they had it laid in front of their premises. It has made a good walk, so far, but the dashes of cerulean hue here and there between the prosaic gray of the time-honored flagstones has made a striking combination of colors that is anything but harmonious. Pedestrians who have almost contracted psychic aura through the quick changes called the mayor's attention to the fact and when he looked for himself, he decided to have the conglomeration tabooed. Accordingly, the council voted to specify flagging or concrete that corresponds in color for future new walks.

A communication was received from the Board of Health reminding the council that sewers were needed and not long since a sewage commission had been appointed but that nothing definite had resulted so far. Mayor Smalley informed the councilmen that the commission was hard at work and that in due time would submit a report of its investigations.

A petition was received from Clifford Manning asking for permission to erect a frame dwelling on the northeast corner of Washington avenue and Prospect place. It was granted after the plans had been examined. Mayor Smalley, as acting recorder, reported that there had been thirty arrests during October and that $53 in fines had been collected. At the conclusion of business adjournment was taken until November 9, when a proposition to overhaul the fire alarm system will be considered.

MAYOR'S DECISION FINAL

Mr. Buckle Follows His Request With an Order to Cancel Negro Play.

COLORED MEN ACTIVE

Negro Leaders Move Promptly—"Clansman" Agent Says He'll Hold City Liable.

Formal notification was given to Manager Counihan today by Mayor James F. Buckle that "The Clansman" would not be allowed to show in the New Plainfield theatre Friday night. As told exclusively in these columns yesterday, the mayor at first made a request to that effect. He was met with the reply that the date could not be cancelled without heavy loss to the theatre management, but that Mr. Counihan would endeavor to comply with his wishes. When the advance man for the show was called in, he notified the mayor that if the play was prevented from being put on here, he would hold the city for damages. He also notified the theatre manager that he would be held to his contract.

The colored citizens, who objected to the play on the ground that it was an insult to the race held a meeting early, in the afternoon and sent the following letter to the mayor:

To the Honorable, the Mayor of the City of Plainfield.

Dear Sir:

We, a committee representing the colored citizens of the City of Plainfield, do unanimously and most positively protest against the exhibition of "The Clansman," in this city in the New Plainfield Theatre, as announced for November 9. No agency has done more to arouse the spirit of antipathy against the negro, and to bring about a war of races than this play. Lynchings have been encouraged by the play and because of its dangerous influence, it has been driven out of a number of cities in the South and also in the West, and here recently in the City of Philadelphia, Mayor Weaver refused to allow them to have the play.

Trusting your Honor will give this petition your kind consideration, we remain.

Very respectfully,
C. W. JACKSON,
E. B. MAYNARD,
WILLIAM A. KLINE,
Committee.

Dated Plainfield, N. J., Nov. 2, 1906.

On the strength of this letter, the mayor sent the following request to Manager Counihan:

Mayor's Office,
Plainfield, N. J.,
November 2, 1906.

To William Counihan,
Proprietor of the New Plainfield Theatre:

My attention having been called to the fact that you have advertised the production of the drama called "The Clansman," at the Plainfield Theatre on Friday, November 9 inst., I desire to bring to your attention the fact that it has been reported to me by citizens whose standing is such as to compel my acceptance of their statements, that the play referred to has a strong and dangerous tendency to incite race antagonism to such a degree as to threaten public violence and riot, and that experience has shown that upon the production of the play in other cities, the danger referred to was imminent, so that Mayor Weaver, of the City of Philadelphia, prohibited the production of the play in that city, and the same course has been adopted in other cities and towns. In Plainfield the proportion of the colored population to the white population of the city is probably greater than that in any other city or town of its size north of Mason and Dixon's line, and accordingly the danger to be apprehended here is correspondingly greater than it would be in any other northern city of similar size.

Under these circumstances, I appeal to you in the interest of the peace and good order and welfare of this city in which, as a citizen and taxpayer, and the proprietor of a business enterprise that has so far commanded the unstinted approval and support of your fellow-citizens, to protect this city and its inhabitants against the threatened danger, and I call upon you to take such effective action as will prevent the production of the play in your theatre.

Your obedient servant,
JAMES F. BUCKLE.

The following letter was also sent to the theatre manager by the colored citizens:

To William Counihan, Proprietor of the New Plainfield Theatre.

Dear Sir:

We, a committee representing the colored citizens of the City of Plainfield, do unanimously and most positively protest against the exhibition of "The Clansman," in this city in the New Plainfield Theatre, as announced for November 9. No agency has done more to arouse the spirit of antipathy against the negro, and to bring about a war of races, than this play. Lynchings have been encouraged by the play and because of its dangerous influence, it has been driven out of a number of cities in the South and also in the West, and here recently in the City of Philadelphia, Mayor Weaver refused to allow them to have the play.

Trusting your Honor will give this petition your kind consideration, we remain,

Very respectfully,
C. W. JACKSON,
E. B. MAYNARD,
WILLIAM A. KLINE,
Committee.

KILLED BY TROLLEY CAR

DEATH INSTANTANEOUS

Had Evidently Been Asleep—Leaves Mother and Brother Who Live at Peapack.

Charles Latourtette, who resided either in the city or borough for many years, was killed in Elizabeth shortly after 11 o'clock, last night, by falling from the seat of a van, which he was driving, directly in the path of a trolley car. He had barely landed on the ground when the car struck him and rolled his body over and over. When the motorman was able to bring the conveyance to a stop and passengers helped him extricate the form, it was found that life was extinct. A physician who was called declared that death was instantaneous.

Latourette was thirty-two years old and unmarried and resided until a short time ago with his mother at 340 East Third street. He was a telegrapher by occupation but seldom followed it up. Last week he secured a position with Robert Woodruff, Jr., the Westfield storage man, and was put at work driving one of his furniture vans.

He was sent out last night with a load of goods for Newark and when he reached Elizabeth had evidently fallen asleep. Several persons noticed the vehicle with the driver in a recumbent position but the horses were going along as though they knew the road. At North Broad and Mary streets, Latourette suddenly lurched sidewalys and dropped on the trolley tracks, the vehicle having been very close to the outer rail. A swiftly moving trolley car was close by and he was struck probably before he was fully awake.

The body was removed to Stiner's morgue and County Physician Westcott afterward gave a permit for burial. The motorman and conductor were arrested as a matter of form and were later released in the custody of a trolley official. So far as is known, Latourette's only relatives are his mother and a brother, both of whom now reside at Peapack.

Jersey Central Siding.

For the purpose of further improving its facilities for taking care of the increasing business of the company in this city, the New Jersey Central has purchased a strip of land twenty feet wide, extending from the freight house to the Netherwood station on the north side of the railroad, where it will lay extra tracks for the storage of freight and merchandise in general. The company has purchased a strip from David T. Kenney, and another from the Hygeia Ice Co., paying to the latter $3,500. The Hygeia's strip is 200 feet long. It will be necessary to remove the back section of the Hygeia building and the Dunham Grocery grain elevator to allow the improvement to be made. The work will be done by W. H. Kirch. For a long time the railroad company has been cramped for room in handling freight and it was decided to secure the additional land and put in a siding. The work on the improvement will be started at once.

Article on Defective Children.

There has been published an article, entitled "The Training of the Mentally and Morally Defective Child," by Dr. Maximilian P. E. Groszmann, of the Groszmann School, which was read by invitation before the thirty-first annual meeting of the society in Boston, June 4, last, and subsequently appeared in the Bulletin of the American Academy of Medicine for October.

Usher at Newark Wedding.

Philip S. Suffern, of this city, was one of the six ushers at the marriage Thursday evening of Miss Mary Larter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick H. Larter, of Newark, to William Francis Price, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton D. Price, of East Orange. The ceremony took place in St. Luke's Methodist church in the presence of a large assemblage.

"An Evening of Song."

I. H. Meredith, of New York, a prominent musical publisher, will give an "Evening of Song" at the Grove Street Rescue Mission, near Front street, Tuesday night, November 6.

Candy and Apron Sale.

The teachers of Bethel chapel will hold a candy and apron sale in the parlors of the Crescent Avenue church on Monday afternoon, November 6, from 2 until 6.

—If you wish something for dinner that will please every member of the family, try White Label sugar sifted peas. Neuman Brothers quote a special price on lots of a dozen or more cans.

TO GRANT 10 PER CENT.

AGREEMENT REACHED

City Fathers May Make Announcement Monday Night—Applies All Around.

Ten per cent. is to be added to the present wages of every fireman and policeman in the city departments. That that agreement has been reached by the Common Council, a representative of The Daily Press has learned on the best sort of authority. The raise will apply to every man in the two departments, with the probable exception of the chief of the fire department, who now draws extra pay as building inspector.

Whether the Common Council will make official announcement of its favorable action, on the petitions under consideration, at its November meeting on Monday night can not be stated at this time. Some in a position to know say that it is more than probable that there will be no delay in notifying the policemen and firemen that their wishes will be complied with. On the other hand, the city fathers may decide to wait until after election day, which falls on Tuesday, to make the announcement.

At the present time, the policemen are on a graduated scale, their pay varying from $60 to $75 a month according to the length of service. The roundsmen and sergeant get higher pay and they will be included in the raise as will also Chief of Police Kiely. As for the firemen, when a man starts in on duty he is paid $45 a month. The highest he receives after a term of service is $65, that being the pay of the captains.

Song Recital and Festival.

There will be a song recital and festival of music at Reform Hall on Thursday night, November 14, under the direction of Chas. N. Brown, for the benefit of the Ebenezer Baptist church, colored. There will be a chorus of thirty-five voices and Mrs. Esther J. Holmes, an elocutionist, will take part. Fred White will be the piano soloist and J. H. Bolding's male quartette will sing. The committee in charge is as follows: President, Mrs. H. J. Smith; vice-president, Mrs. Sarah Humbles; Miss Rebecca Hamlet, Mrs. William Boyd, Miss E. Ford, Miss M. Tiner, Mrs. P. Yetman, Miss Carrie Thomas, Mrs. Charles Hardaway and Charles Hardaway.

Big Y. M. C. A. Banquet.

Plainfield will be well represented at the dinner to be held by the International committee of the Y. M. C. A. at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, New York, November 8. These members of the local association have sent in their acceptances to the invitations: J. W. Gavett, W. D. Murray, F. H. Andrews, George M. Rittenhouse, A. B. Biers, S. H. Tugwell, Dr. Norman H. Probasco, F. R. Stevens, G. L. Listman, C. H. Frost, Duncan W. Taylor, F. A. Weeks, Asa F. Randolph, A. W. Day and Kenneth Robbie.

Bankrupt's Trustee.

Referee in Bankruptcy Atwood L. De Costa, of Elizabeth, has appointed F. J. Blatz, of the First National Bank building, trustee of the estate of William Tier, pending the disposition of bankruptcy proceedings. The appointment was made yesterday, and Mr. Blatz had not had time, up to this morning, to begin the make-up of a schedule of liabilities and assets.

Voting Machine in the Borough.

A voting machine has been installed in Robert Trewin's barber shop on Somerset street for the benefit of borough voters. A demonstrator is in attendance and those who are in doubt as to how to use the machine, especially in voting for or against the proposition to abolish the Board of Freeholders, are asked to stop in and see it explained.

Mrs. John Connolly.

The body of Mrs. Julia Connolly, a former local resident, who died Thursday at her home in the Harlem district of New York, was brought to this city this afternoon and buried in St. Mary's cemetery. She was the widow of Cornelius Connolly who resided on Liberty street and who was at one time employed in the Pond shop.

Boys On a Trip.

Boys' Secretary H. W. Barrows headed a party of Y. M. C. A. juniors on a trip to the Newark association this morning. They travelled by trolley.

The Evening Star.

The Evening Star, a penny daily, made its bow to the local public today. Henry J. Talford is editor and proprietor. It is a four-page paper.

Tuesday, November 6th,

Hours: 9.00 a. m. until 8.00 p. m.

Your Eyes will be examined by THE DAMMERS SCIENTIFIC METHOD, Positively the only absolutely correct way to fit glasses.

(NO DROPS USED.) Those who have been examined for GLASSES by men who claim to examine eyes by the old, incorrect way, which is done by everyone who supplies glasses but us, will be agreeably surprised by our scientific and wonderful methods of Examining Eyes, and fitting glasses.

We correct your eye defects by looking in the eyes, taking the exact scientific measurements of the focus and shape of the eyes.

NO QUESTIONS ASKED, no trying glasses on your face, until we have determined your exact optical error.

The old tedious and tiresome way of trying to fit glasses is either putting drops in the eyes, which often causes Blindness, or by trying on a lot of glasses, and asking you "Can you see these letters?" or "Do these glasses make you see better?"

After your Optician does a lot of guessing, and has your eyes all out of shape, you think you have been examined.

Think this over, and you can readily see that you have been doing your own examining, and that is no doubt the reason you have had trouble to get glasses correct.

THIS IS ABSOLUTELY THE HIGHEST CLASS WORK DONE IN FITTING CLASSES IN AMERICA.—DON'T SUFFER WITH HEADACHE.

We have produced astonishing results from brain fag, nervous debility, insomnia, dizziness, nausea, WATERY EYES, blurry vision, and other troubles caused by EYE STRAIN. We have corrected by the use of glasses cross eyes and Astigmatism, by our scientific methods of Examining.

An experience covering every detail of the Optical Business for over a quarter of a century is the continuous record of the great Dammers concern.

Our position in Newark, N. J., and Providence, R. I., as the LEADING EYESIGHT SPECIALISTS is proof of the high confidence in our responsibility, and the reliability of our presentations.

COUNCILMAN SMITH IS A LIBERAL OFFICIAL.

Wanted Borough Solons to Pay a Man for Sleeping in a Specified Place.

Through the wording of a resolution presented by Chairman Smith, of the Fire Committee, a vein of humor was injected in the meeting of the Borough Council, last night. It made the request that "an additional man be secured to sleep in the engine house at nights at a salary of $5 a month." It was naturally inferred by most of the members present that in the event of its being passed the newcomer would be put to some use but Councilman Lee was quite puzzled.

"Mr. Mayor," said he, "if we give a man this munificent salary of $5 a month, don't you think he ought to do something else for it beside sleeping?"

The Mayor opined that he should and Mr. Smith quickly changed the resolution so that it read "to sleep in the engine house nights and drive the chief's wagon on call."

Before the matter was put to a vote, Mayor Smalley stated that he was not in favor of it for two reasons; first, because there were sufficient men in the house at night already, and secondly, the borough finances are not in as good shape as he would like to have them and $60 a year is a whole lot when there is no real need of its being spent. As a result the resolution was voted down, Smith and Lee alone favoring it, and the chief will either have to walk to fires or do his own driving.

REVIVAL TO CONTINUE.

Special Meetings at Monroe Avenue M. E. Church This Month.

Tomorrow night will mark the completion of the series of revival services at Monroe Avenue M. E. church, which have been in progress for two weeks. The services have met with so much success that the people of the church think it wise to continue the revival on Sunday nights during November and longer if necessary.

Tomorrow will be the greatest of the entire series. In the morning the pastor will preach and receive new members. The subject of the sermon will be "Heroes and Cowards." In the afternoon a service will be held for the young people of the Sunday-school. The service tomorrow night will be of special interest, opening with a song service. The pastor will preach, subject "Palaces of Ivory," and at the close of the sermon there will be a meeting of all those who have been especially helped during the series of meetings. While the meeting last Sunday night was considered the best yet held, it is proposed to make tomorrow night's service even better.

MEN ARE POWERLESS

To Fight Against Disease Unless They Strike at the Underlying Cause.

To treat Dandruff, and Falling Hair, with irritants or oils on which a parasitic germ will prosper, is like scooping water from the ocean to prevent the tide from rising.

You cannot accomplish a satisfactory cure without having a right understanding of the fundamental causes of the trouble.

You must kill the Dandruff Germ.

Newbro's Herpicide does this because it is specially made to do that very thing.

When the germ is removed, the hair has no choice but to resume healthy growth and beauty.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY

To mark the fifteenth anniversary of the rectorate of the church, special services will be held at Holy Innocents' church, tomorrow. The observance will be combined with a memorial for parishioners who have died in that time. All Saints' Day music will be sung. Rev. Mr. Short, of Trenton, will preach.

"Christian Fellowship" will be the sermon subject at the Methodist Episcopal church tomorrow morning. Mr. Dutcher's evening subject will be "Decision of Character."

All Souls' Day was observed by St. John's church last night. The service included the benediction of the blessed sacrament and prayers for the dead.

John Newberger is under $100 bonds to appear before the grand jury and answer for the alleged theft of a bag of feed from Abram Gulick's barn.

Mrs. Mary Squier entertained the Woman's Baptist Foreign Missionary Society of the First Baptist church yesterday afternoon.

Township Collector LaRue sent out the last of his bills Thursday. He will be busy raking in shekels for several weeks.

Mrs. Jacob Grieb is planning to move from the borough. She is undecided whether to go to Plainfield or Newark.

The L. & G. shop has been slack lately. A number of men are idle. It is the usual slowing up before election.

Mrs. Arthur J. Hamley has returned from a visit to her sister, Mrs. John Ramsey, of Millington.

Mrs. B. A. Cole is visiting her mother, Mrs. Mrs. McLaughlin, at Paterson.

Miss Mary Voorhees is confined to the house by illness.

Fred Touzeau is on the sick list.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD

The baseball club has elected the following officers for next season: George Baldwin, president and treasurer; Bryant Johnston, manager; Charles Eller, secretary, and George Frentz, captain. The club has in view a strong lineup for the team that will represent the town in the Intercity League. Fifteen players will be named and Manager Johnston will be able to select from the list an even stronger team than the club had this season.

Tuesday is Election Day, but neither one of the parties have started the campaign yet. The real work will begin Monday, when the tickets are sent out and the leaders begin to hustle to get the vote out. The result of elections here vary but little if the leaders can get the voters out to cast their ballots, as there is but little cutting done on either side.

Services tomorrow at the Baptist church will be at the usual hours: Sunday-school, 9:30 a. m.; morning preaching, 10:45; at the close of the sermon the regular monthly communion will be held; B. Y. P. U. meeting, 7:15; evening service, 8 o'clock.

The annual fall cry of no fires in the trolley cars is heard from the patrons of the Public Service Corporation. The company seems to have a set time for heating its cars, regardless of the weather conditions.

Miss Minnie Squiers returned to her position as teacher in the school, yesterday, after an absence of several days on account of illness. During her absence Mrs. Thomas M. Paff, Jr., acted as substitute teacher.

Rev. C. B. Livingston, pastor of the Lake Hopatcong M. E. church, will occupy the pulpit of the local Methodist church in exchange with Rev. A. H. Cooke.

Funeral service of Mrs. Joseph Gray, who died at her home Thursday night, will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Baptist church.

The regular prayer meeting in the Methodist church this evening will be followed by the choir rehearsal under the leadership of John Candelky.

Only the regular routine township business was transacted at the meeting of the Township Committee, held in the town rooms last night.

Miss Josephine Ingram is entertaining her mother, Mrs. Ingram, of Trenton, for two weeks.

Mrs. Charles Haberly has been detained at home for several days on account of illness.

The weekly prayer meeting will be held tonight at the Methodist church.

Two new houses are being built on Second street, near Terrill road.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

At the barn dance given by the Young People's Social Club prizes were awarded to Mrs. Jackson, as "Goddess of Liberty;" Monroe Pyatt, as "A Clown," and Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Thorn, as the most comical. The prizes were huge pumpkins, hollowed out and filled with choice fruit.

The hunting season for rabbit and other small game will open on the tenth of this month. Judging from the number of cottontails seen in every direction there will be plenty of sport for the gunners. Snipe and wild ducks are quite plentiful in this vicinity.

A thin covering of ice formed on the small lakes here yesterday morning and it was not until noontime that it disappeared.

Mr. and Mrs. Ledden are now comfortably settled in their new home recently purchased from Fred La Tourette.

Services as usual, morning and evening, in the Baptist church, Rev. A. C. F. Attlee officiating.

Miss Maude Smith spent the night at her home here, but returned to her duties this morning.

Mrs. Alfred Foote visited in New York yesterday.

Revival Services Tomorrow.

Rev. Dr. Henry M. Wharton, the evangelist, will preach at the First Baptist church, tomorrow morning and night, and in the afternoon he will speak at the Sunday-school session, prior to addressing the men's meeting at the New Plainfield theatre at 4 o'clock. It is doubtful whether Dr. Wharton will be able to remain here longer than Monday or Tuesday of next week. He has engagements for a year ahead and it was rather difficult for Dr. Chambliss to secure his services at this time. There will be no services tonight.

Informal Dance at Park Club.

The first Saturday night informal dance of the season will be held at the Park Club, tonight. They will be continued at frequent intervals during the winter.

Miss Margaret Wayland, of High Bridge, is spending two weeks with friends in this city.

HOW TO VOTE.

PULL THE STRAIGHT TICKET KNOB bearing the name of your party over to the right, UNTIL THE BELL RINGS. This turns a pointer down over every name on your party ticket.

IF YOU WISH TO SPLIT, turn back the numbered pointer from over the name you wish to cut out, then turn down a pointer in another party line, over the name of the candidate for whom you wish to vote for that office.

A vote will be registered for each name and question THAT HAS A POINTER OVER IT, when the voter moves the handle to open the curtain.

HOW TO VOTE A STRAIGHT TICKET.

1st—Move the Handle of the Curtain Lever to the right as far as it will go.
2d—PULL THE STRAIGHT TICKET KNOB bearing the name or emblem of your party over to the right UNTIL THE BELL RINGS.

This turns down all the Pointers of your party to a voting position, exposing an X above the names of the candidates you wish to vote for.

3d—LEAVING THE POINTERS AS THEY ARE, move the Handle of the Curtain Lever to the left as far as it will go.
This will count your vote, and set the machine for the next voter.

HOW TO VOTE A SPLIT TICKET.

1st—Move the Handle of the Curtain Lever to the right as far as it will go.
2d—PULL THE STRAIGHT TICKET KNOB bearing the name or emblem of your party over to the right UNTIL THE BELL RINGS.

This turns down all the Pointers of your party to a voting position, exposing an X above the names of the candidates you wish to vote for.

3d—Turn up the Pointer from over the name of the candidate you wish to cut out:

4th—LEAVING THE POINTERS AS THEY ARE, move the Handle of the Curtain Lever to the left as far as it will go.
This will count your vote, and set the machine for the next voter.

SINGLE CANDIDATE AND GROUP VOTING.

All candidates for an office to which ONLY ONE is to be elected, are arranged in ONE VERTICAL COLUMN, and ONLY ONE of the Pointers in that column can be turned down, as shown in Cut No. 1 for office of MAYOR; while for an office to which two or more are to be elected, the names of the candidates are arranged on AS MANY COLUMNS as the NUMBER OF PERSONS to be VOTED FOR for that office, and the SAME NUMBER of Pointers can be turned down—regardless of position—even if all Pointers are in the same column, as shown in Cut No. 2 for office of CORONER, to which two can be voted for.

TO VOTE ON QUESTIONS

Turn the Pointers over YES or NO and leave them there.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

GOLF.

Frank M. Wilson, of the Englewood Golf Club, writes that he is having the time of his life on the British links. Troon, North Berwick, St. Andrews and Carnonstie have been places of call in Scotland, while Wilson's tour has also included Manchester. He is journeying in his 45 horse-power runabout car and will end the trip by visiting the courses about London.

At the intercity match, C. B. Macdonald said that the conditions needed for his new golf course, of turf bordered by salt water, had brought his choice of location down to two sites—the westerly strip of Shinnecock Hills, near Good Ground, and near Montauk Point. The question of cost, however, may force the new club to seek elsewhere for the location of the ideal course Macdonald has planned.

This fall there i sa close sequence of dates for the Atlantic City and Lakewood open tournaments, which will make it easy for golfers who contemplate a short tour to play in the two contests. Atlantic City's dates are November 8, 9 and 10 and Lakewood's November 15, 16 and 17.

An exhibition match at thirty-six holes of medal play has been arranged for November 10 at the Country Club, Brookline, between Aleck Smith, opene, Western and Eastern champion, and Aleck Campbell, professional at Brookline.

There is some talk of arranging a golf tournament among the "pros" in New Jersey and if it cannot be arranged for this season, steps will probably be taken to hold it next year. There are now about fifteen "pros"in this State and it would be of great interest to golfers in general to witness a tournament played by them. At present "Marty" O'Loughlin and George Lowe are rated among the best "pros" in New Jersey and in such a tournament as proposed they would probably reach the finals.

Already many professional golfers are planning to go south for the winter, where they can follow the game during the cold weather and be in condition when spring arrives. "Marty" O'Loughlin has been offered an opportunity to go to South Carolina, where Eugene McCarthy is located, but he is undecided about making the trip.

Play for the consolation and inconsolables' cups will be the attraction at the Plainfield Country Club, today, while at the Park Golf Club there will be play for the President's and club cups. The competition at the borough club will close on Election Day.

FOOTBALL.

Both local football teams play out of town today, Alis going to Cranford and the Orange Field Club will play the Crescent Field Club at Elizabeth.

The Dunellen football team has scheduled a game with the Orioles, of Asbury Park, to be played at the latter place in the near future. The Orioles are considered one of the fastest teams in the State, having met and defeated the best aggregations.

The Alis football eleven will go to Dunellen a week from today for a return game.

While the Alis eleven has done much during the past few years to maintain the interest in football here and have given fine exhibitions, there is some doubt as to whether the organization will be represented by a team next year. Most of the players are in business and find it difficult to get away in time to practime.

The strong stand made by West Point against Harvard probably has served to make the soldiers more highly regarded than the Navy for their annual battle this year. West Point gives promise of having one of the best elevens it ever turned out, possessing a heavy and active line and good ground gaining backs; but the soldiers have nothing on the midshipmen when it comes to a fine showing against a strong opponent. It is only a few weeks since that the Navy held Princeton to a 5 to 0 score, which is as good as West Point's 5 to 0 against Harvard. So on that score it is a standoff between West Point and Annapolis.

Until the best team in the East meets the best one in the West the question of superiority between the two sections cannot be decided in the most satisfactory way, but such an arrangement is impracticable. From the standpoint of sectional rivalry it is unfortunate that Pennsylvania is not doing better this year and will not go against the Michiganders with the reputation of being one of the best teams of the season in the East. It is difficult to see how it can earn that reputation now, though the Quakers still have a chance to redeem themselves. If Pennsylvania is beaten by Michigan men it will be contended that the latter did not beat the best in the East, and if Pennsylvania downs Michigan there may be room for ground for the assertion that Michigan was not the strongest combination in the Occident. Both Chicago and Minnesota are in the race for first place among the Western universities. As between them the question of superiority will be settled, for they play each other, but neither encounters Michigan. The nearest Chicago and Michigan come to a direct clash is indirectly. They play one team in common, the University of Illinois eleven.

There is a nephew of Mike Murphy on the Yale freshman team. He is a rattling good football player and might have made the 'varsity had freshmen been eligible for the big eleven. He seems to have inherited some of Mike's sprinting ability, for he ran 95 yards for a touchdown against the 'varsity the other day. Young Murphy comes from Exeter, where he was a high stand man in his studies.

The work of the Tigers against Cornell was encouraging, but thoughtful students of the game at Old Nassau were not carried away with the idea that in itself it argued a victory over Yale. "Cornell's ability to gain ground around the ends and through the line," says the Daily Princetonian, "leaves little doubt that the university team hos not yet developed a defence which will be powerful enough to check Yale on the 17th of November. Only three weeks of the present football season remain. Theree weeks in which to determine whether this year's team will go down in the annals as one of Princeton's greatest teams. The team needs the support of the undergraduates at this critical period, and win or lose on November 17 let it not be said of any of the men in the university that they have not contributed their share toward victory. The cheering on Saturday was poor, partly due to the fact that the men were scattered, but this is no excuse." Princeton was outcheered by Cornell and there was less fervor in the cheering than New Yorkers are accustomed to hearing froce Princetonians, but New Yorkers who go to Princeton on November 17 have no doubt that the cheering on that occasion will be fully up to the mark.

Plainfield people endorse this:

Mrs. M. Newman, of 536 West Third street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "For some time I was a constant sufferer from various kidney ailments, among which were violent headaches and a continuous pain in the limbs, which gave me no rest, day or night. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised, and sent to Randolph's pharmacy for a supply. They seemed to take effect at once and soon after I began using them, my head got better, and the pain and stiffness left my limbs and joints. I heartily recommend Doan's Kidney Pills for such troubles as mine."

Corporation Notice.

Public notice is hereby given that at a meeting of the Common Council, of the City of Plainfield, New Jersey, held on Monday, the twenty-second day of October, 1906, an ordinance of which the following is a true copy, to wit:

AN ORDINANCE

To Provide For a Further Addition to the System of Sewerage Already Constructed in the City of Plainfield.

WHEREAS, pursuant to the provisions of an act of the Legislature entitled "An Act to provide for drainage and sewerage in cities of this State," approved April 7, 1890, and acts amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto, a system of sewerage has been constructed in said city and such action in relation thereto has from time to time been taken as was authorized by the several ordinances of the said city enacted under and by virtue of said acts of the Legislature, and particularly the ordinances respectively entitled "An Ordinance to provide for the construction of a system of sewerage," approved July 25, 1894; "A further ordinance to provide for the construction of a system of sewerage," approved June 21, 1895; "An Ordinance to provide for the construction of an addition to the system of sewerage already constructed in the City of Plainfield," approved November 6, 1897; "An Ordinance to provide for the improvement of Sewage Disposal Works, Beds and Appurtenances, of the City of Plainfield," approved April 4, 1901; and "An Ordinance to provide for the construction of a further addition to the system of sewerage already constructed in the City of Plainfield," approved July 5, 1906; and

WHEREAS the Common Council hath ascertained and determined and doth hereby ascertain, adjudge and determine to acquire by purchase or condemnation certain land within said city, needed for sewerage purposes, and said Common Council hath deemed it expedient and doth hereby ascertain, adjudge and determine that it is necessary to collect the sewage of a portion of said city from sewers to be constructed under the said acts of the Legislature, and to elevate said sewage by means of pumps or pneumatic ejectors so that said sewage may flow into mains already constructed in said city, and to erect all necessary buildings, works and machinery thereon, and to take and appropriate for said purposes the lands and real estate hereinafter specified (the Common Council having ascertained, adjudged and determined, and hereby doth ascertain, adjudge and determine that the whole of said lands and real estate is necessary for said purposes) upon making compensation to the owner or owners, as in said acts of the Legislature provided, and said Common Council hath deemed it necessary and doth hereby ascertain, adjudge and determine that it is necessary to take and appropriate for such purposes the said lands and real estate in order to effectually construct said further addition to said system of sewerage pursuant to said acts of the Legislature; and

WHEREAS, the Common Council having duly investigated the premises and considered the same, is of the opinion that the public good requires the construction of said further addition to said system of sewerage, and particularly the adoption of said plan of raising the sewage, and the taking and appropriation of said lands as authorized by said act of the Legislature, and the Common Council hath so determined and doth hereby so determine:

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield by their Common Council do enact as follows:

Section 1. That the Common Council doth hereby direct and order that the plan of raising sewage above specified be and the same is hereby adopted, in connection with the sewerage system already established as aforesaid, and that the land hereinafter specified being needed for said sewerage purposes, and the Common Council deeming it necessary to take and appropriate the same for such purposes, be taken and appropriated for the purposes aforesaid, pursuant to the provisions of said acts of the Legislature upon making compensation to the owner or owners thereof, as in said acts provided, that is to say: A certain tract situate, lying and being in said City of Plainfield, in the County of Union and State of New Jersey, described as follows:

BEGINNING at a point in the southerly side line of Randolph Road where the same is intersected by the westerly line of property belonging to John Wierenga, said point being distant twenty-five feet at right angles from the center line of said Randolph Road; and running from said point in a magnetic course of South nine degrees thirty minutes West, along the line of property of said John Wierenga and property of Phoebe M. Sprague, a distance of five hundred and seventy feet; thence North eighty degrees and thirty minutes West and making a new line between the parties hereto, a distance of thirty feet; thence North nine degrees and fifteen minutes West, and making a new line between the parties hereto, a distance of five hundred seventy and ninety-three one hundredths feet to a point in said southerly side line of Randolph Road opposite the center line of the bridge over Cedar Brook; thence along said side line of Randolph Road South eighty-eight degrees and twenty minutes East a distance of two hundred fifteen and fifty-two one hundredths feet to the place of beginning, together with all the right, title and interest of the parties of the first part in and to the land lying in front of said premises in Randolph Road. Being the property shown in red on map filed with the City Clerk October 22, 1906, entitled: "Map showing land proposed to be taken and appropriated for sewerage purposes, Plainfield, N. J., October, 1906."

was presented, read and ordered to be considered and acted upon by said Common Council at a regular adjourned meeting thereof to be held in the Council Chamber, No. 149 North Avenue, in said City of Plainfield, on Monday, the twelfth day of November, 1906, at the hour of eight o'clock in the evening of that day, and at such meeting ample opportunity will be given to all parties in favor of or opposed to the improvement contemplated by said ordinance, to present their views with reference to the same in writing, or otherwise, as the Common Council may at that time direct, and public notice is hereby given of the intention of the Common Council to cause said improvement set forth in this ordinance to be made, and such persons or corporations as may object thereto, are requested to present their objections in writing at the City Clerk's office, No. 151 North Avenue, in the City of Plainfield, N. J., at or before the expiration of ten days from the date of this notice, or to the Common Council at its first meeting held after the expiration of the said ten days, and said Common Council at such meeting, to be held on the twelfth day of November, 1906, as above stated, or afterward, may proceed to consider and pass such ordinance, notwithstanding any objection.

By order of the Common Council.

J. T. MacMURRAY, City Clerk.

THE FORUM.

Editor, The Daily Press:

An eminent Republican argues in favor of the election of James E. Martine. Hon. Elihu Root's opinion of a man who is elected to Congress and fails to perform his duty.

In the course of his speech at Utica, N. Y., on the 1st inst., Hon. Elihu Root, Secretary of State, under President Roosevelt, referring to the record of William Randolph Hearst as a Congressman, used these words:

"How stands his record as a legislator? He has had opportunity to prove his capacity and sincerity in that field. Representatives are sent to Congress to attend to the business of the country; there are hundreds of members of both parties working upon that every day of every session in the performance of their duty; the interests of the country cannot be cared for in any other way; Mr. Hearst was sent to Congress to do that; he had an opportunity then to show how much sincerity there was in all the talk of his newspapers about reforms and better government.

"What did he do? Why, he DID NOTHING; during the three years that he has been in Congress that body has been in session 467 days; there have been 185 recorded votes by yea and nay; he was present and voting at but 23, and present without voting at 2, leaving 100 out of the 185 roll calls from which he was absent, and 442 out of the 467 days of legislative session when there is no evidence of his presence; his voice was heard in that Congress in those three years but once, and that was for ten minutes in a personal explanation regarding an article published in the New York American; he did not even contribute a motion to adjourn to the business of Congress."

The above remarks apply with equal force to Charles N. Fowler.

Has Mr. Fowler performed any service whatever during his term as Congressman?

He confesses he has not, and yet he comes before his constituents whose interests he has utterly ignored, and brazerly asks them to elect him for another term.

And he is called Honorable Charles N. Fowler! For what? Can there be anything more dishonorable than the betrayal of a trust? Can there be anymore convincing evidence of Mr. Fowler's utter moral and political degeneracy than the spectacle he presents when he appears before the people whose confidence he has betrayed, and asks them to approve his dishonorable course?

"Dishonorable Charles N. Fowler" it should be written.

If the people of this Congressional district desire to be honorably represented in the next Congress, aye, if they desire to be represented at all, they can cast their votes for James E. Martine with the full confidence that he will faithfully represent them, and jusuy earn the right to wear the title of HON.

J. O. STEVENS.

Plainfield, N. J., Nov. 2, 1906.

Editor, The Daily Press:

Mr. G. E. Firstbrook says in the columns of your esteemed paper, "I have very little time to spare for writing political letters." The one appearing therefore must have been a great effort. Perhaps it would not be right to say that the gentleman can't read what is plainly written. We said nothing about the Hon. Grover Cleveland and neither did we refer to him. We wish to emphasize the fact that the radicals of which Messrs. Martine and LaFollette are shining lights advocate policies which if seriously threatened or carried into effect would undoubtedly bring about a condition such as this country has never seen—not even in the days of Mr. Cleveland. "Cut" is a great word with the radicals. "Cut the railroad values in two;" attempt to confiscate one part and a panic would follow. Everybody would be a seller. Do not panics and soup-houses go together? Does anyone fancy for a moment that the speaker of the House (Uncle Joe Cannon) would appoint an incompetent congressman a chairman of one of the most important committees? Do you think that the leaders of the party would rally to Mr. Fowler's support if he was unworthy and did no work? How about Sherman and Shaw? A fair question gentleman! Are not their words as good as yours? They say Mr. Fowler is a worker. Do you mean to say Mr. Fowler does no work at all—not even on the committee.

Don't "cut in again" says Mr. Firstbrook. Those three words appear to be the sum and substance of the wisdom of all radicals. It is their platform. They say or do something absurd and then worship the graven image "Cut in Again."

A radical of the present day brand is like a volcano and would be equally destructive if given a chance. Is there any wonder that the figure of one should appear in Mr. Firstbrook's mind and that he should use the word lava? Is Mr. Firstbrook dosing merrily in glee over the prospects of the glowing jets of fiery oratory and the continuous column of smoke and "hot air" which the radicals would have hang over the country as a portend of disaster? Mr. Firstbrook did not answer for Mr. Martine these questions. Did he ever vote for a Republican for any office? When and for whom? If not, why should Mr. Martine ask a Republican to be complimentary especially as he has never paid a like courtesy?

Yours very truly,

CHARLES S. SMINCK.

Editor, The Daily Press:

Mr. Fowler's speech on his Congressional record, as delivered in the theatre Thursday night, is like "Hamlet" with Hamlet left out. I went there hoping to hear what explanations our Congressman would offer regarding the charges that he has neglected his duty and that he has not been known to be particularly anxious to "uphold the President" except when he wants to go back to Washington—to get his $5,000 per.

Mr. Fowler told us that the Republican party passed the eight-hour law. It did, but Charles Newell Fowler cast his vote in Congress to abolish that law which benefits the labor man, on Panama Canal work.

Mr. Fowler told us that the Republican party passed the meat inspection law and the railroad rate bill. It did; but how did Mr. Fowler vote on these matters?

Mr. Fowler told us of the many great measures for the benefit of the people that were passed by the Republicans in Congress. Such bills were passed, but what single bill did Mr. Fowler present or what single bill did he raise his voice in favor of during the whole session that was passed or even favorably considered?

Mr. Fowler told us it was not necessary for him to answer the roll calls in Congress, because the Republican party has 140 majority there, but he did not tell us why it is so important under such conditions that he go back to Washington when there is no need of a bigger Republican majority, especially when votes are counted.

Mr. Fowler told us that he was not in the House when the rolls were called, but he did not tell us where he was at such times; whether he was in New York or Vermont.

Mr. Fowler told us that a Republican who would vote for a Democratic congressman was no less a traitor than the soldier who would go over to the enemy out of sympathy. But he did not tell us how much of a traitor a paid fighter was who would absent himself from the thick of the battle in Congress in order to pile up riches for himself in another part of the country.

Mr. Fowler told us about "Hearst and Hell," to quote his own words, but he did not tell us what that had to do with the question of electing a man who would be faithful to his sworn duty by attending the sessions of Congress.

Indeed, Mr. Editor, Mr. Fowler's speech was the most spurious article that has ever been palmed off on the intelligent and thinking Republicans of Plainfield. Republicans who have been taught by their own leaders how to cast an independent ballot for the sake of good government.

Can any Fowlerite, Mr. Sminck included, answer these questions? If he can, I've a whole barrel more coming. After hearing both Mr. Voorhees and Mr. Fowler, I am about convinced that it is a Republican's duty to be one of the "traitors" who are going to vote for James E. Martine, who would have been vongressman long ago had he been anywhere near as good a political juggler as his opponent, the Absentee-Congressman.

Yours truly,

G. E. FIRSTBROOK.

Today Mr. Counihan explained that he did not wish to oppose Mayor Buckle or any one else in authority but that he was placed in a peculiar situation inasmuch as to cancel the date would lay himself open to heavy damages from the theatrical company. Now that the mayor has assumed the burden, he is willing to abide by his action.

RESULTS OF THE REVIVALS

and there decided to become a Christian. This incensed her parents so that her father threatened to drive her from home if she became a Christian. She was given the night to change her mind, but in the morning she was more determined than ever to follow Christ and she eventuaally led her parents to Christ.

"In the last place," said Dr. Wharton, "we find that Christ crucified is power and wisdom to those who believe. I have been engaged in preaching the Gospel for thirty-two years, and I have simply told the story of Him and tried to lift Him up before all men. Christ always attracts if lifted up. The blood of Christ cleanses from all sins. Can you say tonight that Christ is your all in all. If that's your hope write your name down in the Book of Life."

During a short after-meeting a number signified their desire to become Christians and they remained to converse with the workers about their soul's salvation. The meeting closed with the benediction by Dr. Chambliss. There will be no service tonight, but services will be held tomorrow morning and evening and in the afternoon at the Sunday-school.

Vigorous Greek Mulcted.

Trephon Zacharophous, a Greek, manager of St. Stephen's, a confectionery store on West Front street, was arraigned in the city court this morning, charged with disorderly conduct by Clarence Wheeler. The latter said the Greek had attacked him and damaged his clothes when he refused to pay again for a soda he had already given a nickel for. Zacharaphous agreed to pay $5 to Wheeler for the damage done, and sentence was suspended.

New Recorder on the Way.

During the course of the Borough Council meeting, last night, Mayor Smalley declared that if he "had good luck," North Plainfield would have a recorder for the police court by January 1. The mayor has been holding down the job without pay ever since Thomas Doud's term expired for reason best known to himself. He gave no intimation as to who the new incumbent might be.

—Mr. and Mrs. Augustus V. Searing, Jr., of Sandford avenue, entertained a large company of friends at a Hallowe'en party at their home, Thursday night. The usual games were played and refreshments were served afterward. Miss Beatrice Miner, as chairman of the Social Committee, Christian Endeavor Society of the First Presbyterian church, had charge of the arrangements.

Wings and Flies

By Tom Muir.

The New Plainfield theatre will be dark only one night next week, Monday remaining open. The attractions booked are as follows: Tuesday, matinee and night, "When Knighthood Was in Flower;" Wednesday, "Her False Step;" Thursday, "The Little Gray Lady;" Friday, "The Clansman;" Saturday, matinee and night, "His Honor, the Mayor." Election returns will be read from the stage Tuesday night.

William Collier, the clever comedian who was here last season in "On the Quiet," will return to Plainfield on Friday, November 16. He will present his new play, "Caught in the Rain," written by Mr. Collier and Grant Stewart during their recent tour of Australia. Miss Nannette Comstock, who had a prominent part in "The Galloper" when it was first presented here, is to be his leading woman.

A jury in the United States Circuit Court, yesterday, Judge Holt presiding, awarded a verdict for $25,000 in the suit of David and Catherine Shubert, parents of Sam S. Shubert, against the Pennsylvania Railroad Company for damages on account of the wreck at Harrisburg, Pa., in which Sam Shubert lost his life. The suit was for $250,000 and it is said that neither side is satisfied with the result. The wreck victim was the head of the Shubert producing firm and though but twenty-eight years old was making individually $90,000 a year, according to the testimony of his brother Lee on the witness stand.

Credit is due Colonel Gordon W. Lillie ("Pawnee Bill") for the grand reproduction of the "last stand" introduced in "Custer's Last Fight," this afternoon and tonight's attraction at the New Plainfield theatre. He generously loaned his Indians and cowboys with their horses that it might be made possible to show this historical battle on the stage.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

"Custer's Last Fight" comes to the New Plainfield theatre this afternoon and tonight as a record breaker of the season. All along the line the verdict has been "great," and the result "standing room only," and that at a premium.

If royal Mary Tudor was a princess as charming as Anna Day portrays her in Ernest Shipman's gorgeous production of "When Knighthood Was in Flower," then small wonder that Charles Brandon should have risked his plebian head to win her. And by the same token, if Brandon was a cavalier as courageous and chivalric as Alfred Swenson makes him, what excuse his history to offer for overlooking persons so engaging? Surely any modern Mary would barter royal power to wed so brave a wooer. Surely any twentieth century Brandon would renounce the Kingley favor "to have and to hold" so sweet a maid. For, though customs and costumes may change with the centuries, fair women and brave men, even in these prossaic days of Edward, will, on the altar of love, make the same sacrifice they did in the more romantic times of Henry the Eighth. "When Knighthood Was in Flower" will be at the New Plainfield theatre Election Day, afternoon and night.

"Her First False Step" filled to the brim with new and startling sensations will be the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre next Wednesday night. The play is a realistic picture of rural country life amid the hills of New Hampshire, where the first scene is laid. The principal characters of this popular drama are natives of New Hampshire, which has not only given the author an opportunity to show the many good qualities of these old Puritanical people, but also a chance to introduce many rural characters of a pleasing type.

The apeparance of Miss Helen Grantly in Channing Pollock's best and latest play, "The Little Gray Lady," is a dramatic novelty which should be of great interest to our playgoers. It will be presented at the New Plainfield theatre next Thursday night. "The Little Gray Lady" has been accepted as one of the best individual native plays and has met with a most popular and critical approval. It concerns a coterie of clerks in the government civil service, who are employed in the redemption division of the Treasury Department, and through the entire progress of the play there is not the slightest pretentions of intrusion; its development is free from typical stage senators, millionaires and high officials, and the atmosphere is held with a singular fidelity to the sorrows and trials and joys of these very human people, of what we have come to know in this country as the middle class.

Those who prophesied a long tenure of office for Alfred E. Aarons' "His Honor, the Mayor," at the New York theatre, New York, were not mistaken, for this merry musical souffle remained in Long Acre Square for many weeks. Success is measured these days by the box office receipts, and the fact that this entertainment broke all financial records, proves conclusively how warmly the playgoing public welcomed the chief magistrate of Kankakee to Broadway. It immediately caught the public fancy by reason of its tuneful music, witty lines, pretty girls and excellent comedians, and today it stands at the most successful summer show New York has known in many years. It will be seen in its entirety at the New Plainfield theatre Saturday afternoon and night, Nov. 10.

SUES DOUBLY-WEDDED MAN.

Girl Asks $10,000 from Man Who Courted Her Before His Marriage.

New Brunswick, Nov. 3.—Papers have been served in a $10,000 damage suit brought by Miss Hattie Sedam, daughter of Joseph A. Sedam, against Robert Eastburn, who recently wed his wife, formerly Miss Maye Parsons, of Harrisburg, a second time.

Prior to his firrst marriage to Miss Parsons last January, it is alleged, he courted Miss Sedam. He eloped to New York with Miss Parsons, whom he met while on a gunning trip in Pennsylvania, where his daughter attended school. The couple were married at the Church of the Transfiguration (the Little Church Around the Corner), in New York. The bride's father objected to the runaway marriage and the couple were recently remarried at Harrisburg to astisfy her father.

Consolidated Water Companies.

Cranford, Nov. 3.—A meeting of the directors of the Union Water Company was held Wednesday at the office of the treasurer, B. F. Ham, in Cranford, for the purpose of consolidating the Plainfield Water Company with the Union Water Company, and preventing the purchase of the Plainfield plant by the city, which is committed to municipal ownership. A plot of ground on North avenue, Westfield, near the Central Railroad station, has been purchased, and the consolidated company's offices will be located there.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Blazier, of Elmwood place, have been entertaining company from Madison.

Miss Mildred Smith, of Philadelphia, who has been spending the past two weeks here with friends, has returned home.

Old Photographs.

There are few homes which have not numerous old photographs too precious to be thrown away, yet of interest to few besides the immediate family. These generally take up too much space to be kept where they can be got conveniently and so are carefully put in boxes in the storeroom or aaatic to be kept from the dust. So when one would gladly pass a few moments looking on the familiar faces and scenes, alas, it is too much trouble to get them out! Here is one solution of the problem; Put the photographs in clear hot water, and in a short time the pictures can be easily removed from the cards. When drying, either trim down the pictures (to economize space) or cut away the background entirely. The last requires care, but can be done without destroying. the outline Mount these in a scrapbook, or, better still, a book made especially for kodak pictures.

Woman U. S. Attorney.

New York, Nov. 2.—Mrs. Mary Grace Quackenbos, one of the leading women lawyers of the city, was appointed special Assistant United States District Attorney by United States District Attorney Henry L. Stimson, yesterday. Mrs. Quackenbos is the first of her sex to be selectedfor such a position. The case Mrs. Qpackenbos will especially prosecute is that of the United States against Sigmund S. Schwartz, proprietor of an employment bureau in this city, charged with peonage.

Winter Swimmers.

New York, Nov. 3.—Organization was effected yesterday of the Bath Beach Cold Plunge League, whose members are to devote themselves to winter surf swimming. Magistrate James G. Tighe, who has hitherto beenregarded as the onlyBrooklynite to visit Neptune in the winter, must look to his laurels, for members of the new league intend to set him a hard pace. To show the faith that is in them, the "cold plungers" took their first dip off Bay Twenty-second street yesterday.

THE DELUGE

By DAVID GRAHAM PHILLIPS, Author of "THE COST," etc.

(COPYRIGHT 1905 by the BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY)

"We are going home," I repeated. "To the Willoughby."

She gave me a look that was meant to scorch—and it did. But I showed at the surface no sign of how I was wincing and shrinking.

She drew farther into her corner, and out of its darkness came, in a low voice: "How I hate you!" like the whisper of a bullet.

I kept silent until I had control of myself. Then, as if talking of a matter that had been finally and amicably settled, I began: "The apartment isn't exactly ready for us, but Joe's just about now telephoning my man that we are coming and telephoning your people to send your maid down there."

"I wish to go to my uncle's," she repeated.

"My wife will go with me," said I quietly and gently. "I am responsible for her, not of her [illegible]."

A long [illegible] calmness: "I am in your power just now. But I warn you that, if you do not take me to my uncle's you will wish you had never seen me."

"I've wished that many times already," said I sadly. "I've wished it from the bottom of my heart this whole evening, when step by step fate has been forcing me on to do things that are even more hateful to me than to you. For they not only make me hate myself, but make you hate me, too." I laid my hand on her arm and held it there, though she tried to draw away. "Anita," I said, "I would do anything for you—live for you, die for you. But there's that something inside me—you've felt it; and when it says 'must,' I can't disobey—you know I can't. And, though you might break my heart, you could not break that will. It's as much my master as it is yours."

"We shall see—to-morrow," she said.

"Do not put me to the test," I pleaded. Then I added what I knew to be true: "But you will not. You know it would take some one stronger than your uncle, stronger than your parents, to swerve me from what I believe right for you and for me." I had no fear for "to-morrow." The hour when she could defy me had passed.

A long, long silence, the electric speeding southward under the arching trees of the West Drive. I remember it was as we skirted the lower end of the Mall that she said evenly: "You have made me hate you so that it terrifies me. I am afraid of the consequences that must come to you and to me."

"And well you may be," I answered gently. "For you've seen enough of me to get at least a hint of what I would do, if goaded to it. Hate is terrible, Anita, but love can be more terrible."

At the Willoughby she let me help her descend from the electric, waited until I sent it away, walked beside me into the building. My man, Sanders, had evidently been listening for the elevator; the door opened without my ringing, and there he was, bowing low. She acknowledged his welcome with that regard for "appearances" that training had made instinctive. In the center of my—our—drawing-room table was a mass of fresh white roses. "Where did you get 'em?" I asked him, in an aside.

"The elevator boy's brother, sir," he replied, "works in the florist's shop just across the street, next to the church. He happened to be down stairs when I got your message, sir. So I was able to get a few flowers. I'm sorry, sir, I hadn't a little more time."

"You've done noble," said I, and I shook hands with him warmly.

Anita was greeting those flowers as if they were a friend suddenly appearing in a time of need. She turned now and beamed on Sanders. "Thank you, she said; "thank you." And Sanders was hers.

"Anything I can do—ma'am—sir?" asked Sanders.

"Nothing—except send my maid as soon as she comes," she replied.

"I shan't need you," said I.

"Mr. Monson is still here," he said, lingering. "Shall I send him away, sir, or do you wish to see him?"

"I'll speak to him myself in a moment," I answered.

When Sanders was gone, she seated herself and absently played with the buttons of her glove.

"Shall I bring Monson?" I asked. "You know, he's my—factotum."

"I do not wish to see him," she answered.

"You do not like him?"

After a brief hesitation she answered, "No." Not for worlds would she just then have admitted, even to herself, that the cause of her dislike was her knowledge of his habit of tattling, with suitable embroideries, his lessons to me.

I restrained a strong impulse to ask her why, for instinct told me she had some especial reason that somehow concerned me. I said merely: "Then I shall get rid of him."

"Not on my account," she replied him one way or the other."

"He goes at the end of his month," said I.

She was now taking off her gloves. "Before your maid comes," I went on, "let me explain about the apartment. This room and the two leading out of it are yours. My own suite is on the other side of our private hall there."

She colored high, paled. I saw that she did not intend to speak.

I stood awkwardly, waiting for something further to come into my own head. "Good night," said I finally, as if I were taking leave of a formal call.

She did not answer. I left the room, closing the door behind me. I paused an instant, heard the key click in the lock. And I burned in a hot flush of shame that she should be thinking thus basely of me—and with good cause. How could she know, how appreciate even if she had known? "You've had to cut deep," said I to myself. "But the wounds'll heal, though it may take long—very long." And I went on my way, not wholly downcast.

I joined Monson in my little smoking-room. "Congratulate you," he began, with his nasty, supercilious grin, which of late had been getting on my nerves severely.

"Thanks," I replied curtly, paying no attention to his outstretched hand. "I want you to put a notice of the marriage in to-morrow morning's Herald."

"Give me the facts—clergyman's name—place, and so on," said he.

"Unnecessary," I answered. "Just our names and the date—that's all. You'd better step lively. It's late, and it'll be too late if you delay."

With an irritating show of deliberation he lit a fresh cigarette before setting out. I heard her maid come. After about an hour I went into the hall—no light through the transoms of her suite. I returned to my own part of the flat and went to bed in the spare room to which Sanders had moved my personal belongings. That day which began in disaster—in what a blaze of triumph it had ended! I slept with good conscience. I had earned sleep.

XXII.

"SHE HAS CHOSEN!"

Joe got to the office rather later than usual the next morning. They told him I was already there, but he wouldn't believe it until he had come into my private den and with his own eyes had seen me. "Well I'm jiggered!" said he. "It seems to have made less impression on you than it did on us. My missus and the little un wouldn't let me go to bed till after two. They sat on and on, questioning and discussing."

I laughed—partly because I knew that Joe, like most men, was as full of gossip and as eager for it as a convalescent old maid, and that, whoever might have been the first at his house to make the break for bed, he was the last to leave off talking. But the chief reason for my laugh was that, just before he came in on me, I was almost pinching myself to see whether I was dreaming it all, and he had made me feel how vividly true it was.

"Why don't you ease down, Blacklock?" he went on. "Everything's smooth. The business—at least, my end of it, and I suppose your end, too—was never better, never growing so fast. You could go off for a week or two, just as well as not. I don't know of a thing that can prevent you."

And he honestly thought it, so little did I let him know about the larger enterprises of Blacklock and Company. I could have spoken a dozen words, and he would have been floundering like a caught fish in a basket. There are men—a very few—who work more swiftly and more surely when they know they're on the brink of ruin; but not Joe. One glimpse of our real National Coal account, and all my power over him couldn't have kept him from showing the whole Street that Blacklock and Company was shaky. And whenever the Street begins to think a man is shaky, he must be strong indeed to escape the fate of the wolf that stumbles as it runs with the pack.

"No holiday at present, Joe," was my reply to his suggestion. "Perhaps the second week in July; but our marriage was so sudden that we haven't had the time to get ready for a trip."

"Yes—it was sudden, wasn't it?" said Joe, curiously twitching his nose like a dog's at scent of a rabbit. "How did it happen?"

"Oh, I'll tell you sometime," replied I. "I must work now."

GOTHAM'S AMUSEMENTS

In May Irwin's new play, "Mrs. Wilson, That's All," which is to be seen at the Bijou theatre, New York, commencing Monday night, the author, George V. Hobart, has given the comedienne the sort of a role in which she simply revels. Mrs. Wilson, the character played by Miss Irwin, is a woman with a comic past. Before the beginning of the play she had been married, through the pleadings and influence of a maiden aunt, to Murgatroyd Wilson, who was of the Sunday-school superintendent type. He disapepars and Mrs. Wilson is led to believe through an article in a newspaper that he is no longer in the land of the living. She contracts a second marriage with Colonel Andrews after the expiration of seven years, when Murgatroyd is declared to be legally dead. The time is up on a certain date, and a very funny scene has been given to Miss Irwin as the clock strikes the hour, at which time, in deference to the wishes of her aunt, she sheds a deluge of crocodile tears. Later in the play, a friend of Murgatroyd's turns up in the person of Gerald McSweeney, who was so fond of Mrs. Wilson's first husband that he imitated him in appearance, even to a set of flowing side whiskers. Mrs. Wilson, believing that she has committed bigamy, plans flight to South Africa and leave a confession in the shape of a record for a talking machine for Colonel Andrews. Eventually of course it turns out that Murgatroyd was dead after all and everything ends happily, as it usually does in farce comedies. Miss Irwin is supported this season by a first class company and will have her usual budget of congs, all of them new this season. In her company are Adolph Jackson, John Hazzard, Lillian Dix, Victor Cassmore, Mary K. Taylor, Madelon Temple, May Donohue, Ben Roth, C. Russell Sage and others.

"The Love Route" by Edward Peple, a thrilling romantic drama of western life is the bill at the Lincoln theatre, New York, and Guy Standing and Odette Tyler fills the leading role. Olive May is also in the large and efficient caste. This is the first theatre in New York to be built in absolute compliance with the rigid new building laws, and the only new theatre in the city equipped with a three inch steel fire curtain, weighing sixteen thousand pounds, and so simply operated that a little child could work it by the mere pressure of a button. The audience is also protected against such an emergency by a water curtain which operates just outside the steel shield. Matt. Morgan is responsible for the magnificent painted curtain, which is one of the handsomest in New York. The theatre is decorated in white and gold.

POINTS FOR THE BUYERS

Got any old clothes to sell? If so see Ike Richards, of Somerset street. He pays the highest prices.

If you want to own a home talk the matter over with M. F. Gano, of Park avenpe. His method is a success.

Kirch & Zimmerman, the Somerset strett cash grocers, sell the best gods at the lowest prices. It will pay you to trade at this store.

For first-class construction work of all kinds consult Laury & Daudt, of East Front street. The firm also sells plain and fancy mantelpieces.

If you have packages to deliver or heavy articles for shipment entrust them to H. J. Weirenga, North avenue. Promptness and carefulness.

Coal sold by L. A. Rheaume, East Fourth street, will make your house warm, if your stove or furnace does its work. Clear-burning and economical in consumption.

Woolston & Buckle, North avenue, is the name and address of the painters you are looking for, Mr. Householder or Builder. They do your work as you want it done—as it should be done.

Lovers of fine crockery and all the pretty and attractive things known as bric-a-brac may spend happy hours in browsing through J. W. Gavett's store, West Front street. Visitors as welcome as in an art gallery.

Grape Tapioca.

To a quart of Concord grape juice add a cup and a half of sugar and a half cup of well-washed minute tapioca. Cook together in double boiler for half an hour. When partly cooled add the stiffly beaten whites of two eggs. Bake in buttered pudding dish in quick oven for fifteen minutes. Serve, when cold, in glasses, with a tablespoonful of sweetened grape juice.

Waterproof Glue.

A waterproof glue may be made from thre eparts of gum shellac and and one part of India rubber, these being dissolved separately in ether under the influence of heat, and the two solutions mixed and kept for a time in a sealed bottle. According to the "Iron Age" water, either hot or cold, and most acids and alkalies, will have no effect on the glue.

Quick Muffins.

Sift two cups of flour with a level tablespoonful of sugar, two level teaspoonfuls of baking powder and a saltspoonful of salt. Beat two eggs, add one cup of milk. Rub one level teaspoonful each of lard and butter into the flour and pour in the egg and milk. Beat and bake in well-greased muffin tins.

A Dutiful Son's Provident Investment.

W. D., a foreman employed by a construction company in Atlantic City, was accidentally killed by a freight train. He carried two policies in The Prudential of $500 each. On the one he had paid only $14.63, and on the other $49.80. A check for $1,000 was promptly paid to his mother whose chief support he had been.

UNINVESTED MONEY.

Persons having uninvested money will find that they can place it in either our Banking or Special Department to advantage, as it will then draw interest until required.

3½ per cent. paid on $5.00 or more in our Special Department.

3 per cent. paid on accounts of $200 or more subject to check.

NEW SCHOOL CHAMPION

Chauncey Murphy Scores Highest Number of Points at Meet.

LED HIS RIVAL BY FOUR

Freshmen Gather In Some Glory by Winning the Inter-Class Tug-of-War.

Scoring four points more than his nearest rival, Chauncey Murphy, a sophomore, won the individual championship at the Plainfield High School's annual field meet, yesterday afternoon, at the Driving Park. Murphy scored thirty points. William Douglas, a senior, finished second with twenty-six points. The class championship went to the seniors, who totalled fifty points. The sophomores followed with thirty.

The opening event was a hundred-yard dash, in which Murphy finished first, in eleven seconds; William Douglas second, Stanley Fisher third.

Murphy won first place in the standing broad jump, covering nine feet seven and a half inches; Fisher second, nine feet, six and a half inches; Douglas third, nine feet, six inches.

In the running high jump Victor Todd won first with four feet, nine and one-fourth inches; Douglas second, four feet eight and one-fourth inches; and Walter Caldwell third, four feet, seven and one-fourth inches.

First place in the pole vault was won by Murphy, six feet six inches; Brakeley second, six feet two inches; and William Lee Taylor, five feet, eight inches.

Douglas made the four hundred and forty yard run in one minute and four-fifths of a second; Brakeley second, Todd third.

The highest record in shot-putting was also made by Douglas, twenty-nine and a half feet; Caldwell twenty-seven feet, nine and a half inches; Fisher twenty-six feet, eleven and a half inches.

Edgar Freeman won first place in the sixty-yard dash. He made it in seven and two-fifths seconds. Russell Miller came in second and Alfred Beeken third.

The running broad jump resulted in another victory for Murphy. He jumped seventeen feet, eight inches. Brakeley was second, sixteen feet, five and a half inches; and Douglas third, fifteen feet, eight inches.

Douglas won first place in the hammer throw, fifty-one feet, seven inches; Fisher second, forty-nine feet, six inches; Brakeley third, forty-nine feet, four inches.

On the home stretch of the half-mile run Douglas was leading, but his wind gave out and he fell. Murphy came in first, in two minutes and thirty-two seconds, Todd won second place, and Brakeley third.

The closing event was the tug-of-war. Six members from each class were chosen. The seniors defeated the sophomores, the juniors defeated the freshmen, and then won the event by defeating the seniors. Willie Lambert was the star tugger.

The freshman squad for the tug-of-war was composed of Kingslow, anchor, Scank, Brick, Rickets, Vail, T. Loizeaux, and Miller; sophomores, Dorothy, anchor, C. Loizeaux, Fountain, Morris, Osgood and Linderbury; juniors, Titsworth, anchor; Mortimor, Lambert, Caldwell, Kirkner and Reid; seniors, Leggett, anchor, Smith, Kyte, Fisher, Tood and Douglas.

Fred Smith was clerk of the course. Lindsey Best and William Osgood were officials. Smalley and Fountain were the timekeepers, and Robins and Morris starters.

At the Christmas exercises of the High School Chauncey Murphy will be presented with a gold medal and a banner will be given to the class of '07. Every winner will receive a ribbon as an individual prize.

HOLY CROSS ELEVEN DEFEATS SLOCUM JUNIORS.

Church Boys Rout Their Opponents by the Big Score of 42 to 0.

The Holy Cross elevent defeated the Slocum Juniors on the North Plainfield Cricket Field, this morning, by the overwhelming score of 42 to 0. The visitors were no match at all for the church boys, who simply walked away with them. The borough team had control of the ball from the start to the finish of the contest. The Holy Cross team will play a return game in Orange on Saturday, November 10. The first game between these teams resulted in a tie, the score being 6 to 6. This morning's lineup was as follows:

HOLY CROSS.		SLOCUM JUNIORS.
R. Vail	right end.	Mehallney
Bristol	right tackle.	Leland
Little	right guard.	Denlinger
Stien	center.	Hockiss

Football Player a Warrior.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 3.—J. Callahan, of Arvada, Wyo., en route to see the Dartmouth-Princeton football game, says that one of the Utes now on the warpath is Billie Birdseye, who once played on the Dartmouth football team. One week ago the Utes encamped near Callahan's ranch and a dozen of them held up the rancher when he went out to see them. It was then that he recognized his old college chum. Birdseye is a son of Chief Kannapap, and is second in command. After enjoining a promise of neutrality on Callahan Birdseye produced from his buckskin garments two tickets for the Dartmouth-Princeton game and told Callahan to root for him if he attended.

Government Helps Japan.

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 3.—The government at Washington has taken steps to aid the Japanese of San Francisco in their fight to procure admission to the public schools. Attorney General Moody has instructed United States District Attorney Robt. T. Devlin, it was learned today, to lend his aid to R. M. Fickert, an attorney, and Masuji Miyakawa, representing the Japanese community, in the injunction proceedings that have been brought in the Circuit Court to compel the Board of Education to allow Japanese children to enter any of the schools of San Francisco to which white children are admitted.

Saxon King to Harvard.

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 3.—Professor Kuno Francke, curator of the Germanic Museum of Harvard University, received a message yesterday from the Ministry of the royal house of Saxony, announcing that His Majesty King Frederick August would present to the meseum a full size reproduction of the 'sandstone pulpit of the church at Wechelburg, near Leipsic. Professor Francke saw this pulpit when in Saxony, and was especially desirous of securing a copy, which will make a very valuable adjunct for the study of early Germanic sculpture.

New York, Nov. 3.—It was learned yesterday afternoon that John D. Rockefeller recently made to the American Baptist Home Mission Society, in the Metropolitan Life Building, a conditional "dollar for dollar" gift of $75,000 toward the rebuilding of destroyed and injured Baptist churches in and near San Francisco. This sum, it was stated, will bring Mr. Rockefeller's benefaction to the missionary society for the current year well up toward $200,000.

Grist from Borough Court.

In the borough court, last night, a fine of $3 was imposed on William Dowe, of this city, who was arrested for disorderly conduct. Sentence was suspended on the quartette of boys arrested for annoying John Consoli, the fruit dealer, but they were warned that any further demonstration would not be good policy.

Spoke to Boys.

Rev. Dr. H. M. Wharton, the evangelist who is conducting meetings at the First Baptist church, spoke to an audience of forty boys at the Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon on the development of Christian character and manhood.

Will Tell of Big Conventions.

Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson, local and county president of the W. C. T. U., will lead the W. C. T. U. meeting tomorrow afternoon and will give a report of the National and World's conventions held recently in Boston.

—Mrs. Elizabeth Lindsay, of West Front street, and her daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Mehlenbeck, of Somerville, will leave for Ocean Grove on Monday, where they have leased a property on Cookman avenue. They will conduct a boarding place there next season.

Football and General Sports

GOLF.

Both amateurs and professionals are now talking of golfing trips abroad next season. The professionals are more likely to keep their courage to the sticking point than the amateurs, although several of the latter class are doing missionary work in regard to getting up a team. After five years the British amateur championship will be again at classic St. Andrews. E. M. Byers and F. Oden Horstman, who have many friends at St. Andrews, will probably go over in time for the amateur championship the first week in June, but the larger party will make a summer vacation trip of the undertaking. Until the dates of our amateur championship are settled at the annual meeting of the United States Golf Association the excursion will hang fire, for while they have no great desire to play in the British amateur many who have the trip under consideration do not wish to lose the opportunity to compete for the American title.

Baltusrol, since the opening of the railroad station on the club grounds, is more popular than ever for Saturday golfing. There are special trains to suit the hours of the players, coming and going, and the fine greens now gain an added attraction in the setting of gorgeous autumnal foliage. The first round for the special cup, for which sixteen have qualified, will be wound up today.

In the final for the university golf championship yesterday afternoon Howard J. Gee defeated J. B. Bankard, by 9 up and 8 to play. Gee secured a lead of eight holes by doing the first round in 79 and the first nine in 39. Gee won the championship last year by defeating Douglas Laird in the final round.

There will be handicaps at the Ardsley Club and at St. Andrews on both Election Day and Thanksgiving. In the long history of the St. Andrews Golf Club snow has only twice caused a postponement of the Thanksgiving Day handicap. The Election Day feature will be the thirty-six hole scratch medal play contest for the club championship and the John Reid gold medal, the oldest golf trophy in play in this country. Winter no longer has any terrors for the St. Andrews members, for the club has now a fine pond for curling and a gun box for clay bird shoots. When snow covers the links the members will find occupation in other sports. The St. Andrews end of the curling matches with the Tuxedo Club and the Country Club, Brookline, could not be played last winter for lack of good ice. The match with the Brookline curlers has been renewed and it will be played in January the New York team going to Boston later in the winter.

The Nassau Country Club has notified the Intercollegiate Golf Association informally that its course will be at the disposal of the college golfers on any days desired next fall. At the annual meeting of the Intercollegiate Golf Association, held at Garden City while the recent championship meeting was on, there was a vote to play at Nassau next year if the course could be obtained. The third week in October will undoubtedly be the time selected. The arrangements may be regarded as completed, for the college boys will not hold a winter meeting as in former years, and the matter will be closed up by Secretary H. H. Wilder, through correspondence.

FOOTBALL.

The gloomiest gloom to be found anywhere exists in New Haven when something happens to a prominent member of the Yale football eleven. For real racking anguish at such times Old Eli takes the palm. Other colleges may have their hopeless moments, moments when all the world is dark, but at Yale they reach the very depths of despair. Such 24 karat, simon pure woe has not its equal on earth or in the waters beneath. Now that Roome, the crack fullback, is laid up, the wind sobs mournfully through the elms, bitter tears course down the stony face of East Rock, and Niobe is outdone. With bowed heads professors and students wend their way slowly o'er the lea to morning chapel, and the air drips with melancholy. No longer is "Lux et Veritas," the college seal. In its place is "Tristitia et Lacrimae." Yet immersed in despondency as she is, it will be noticed that Yale is not overlooking a single chance of remedying as far as possible the injury caused by Roome's enforced layoff. She weeps, but with characteristic energy toward restoring the soundness of the football machine. Underneath the cloak of grief is grim resolve. Mournfulness stalks abroad, but the halfback still hits the line. With an array of coaches consisting of Camp, McCormick, Throne, Glass, Owsley, Sharpe, Rockwell, Hinkey, Stillman, Hoyt, Roraback and Flanders to urge them on, enough football may yet be pounded into the distressed bulldogs for them to at least growl a few. Coming down to the facts in the case Roome could be spared less than any other member of the team except possibly Forbes and Biglow. Roome and Forbes are valuable in rushing the ball when ground must be gained, and Roome is a tower of strength on the defence. Not only that but he is the best punter on the squad, and Yale is none too strong in that department. Also he is clever in placing onside kicks, the new play that cuts a big figure this year. However, it is probable that Yale has others who have been drilled in this trick. With more than one man capable of doing it the other side is less likely to anticipate it. With Veeder and Sammy Morse to give feeble imitations of booting the ball in Roome's absence, with Bob Forbes to lean wearly against the opposing line occasionally and with Tad Jones to totter back with caught punts once in a while it is possible that Yale may yet escape utter annihilation. We recall afew years ago when big Cadwalader, the only centre in sight, broke his collarbone, yet Yale dragged herself through a game with Princeton and won, 6 to 0.

HUNT CLUB FIELD DAY

Attractive Card Arranged For Tomorrow on the Colonia Course.

CLUB'S SNUG QUARTERS

Old Hitchings Place Has Been Converted Into a Comfortable Home For Followers of the Hounds.

At its new home at Colonia, tomorrow, the Watchung Hunt Club will hold its first annual field day. There will be a hunt in the morning and races and competitions in the afternoon. Although the events will be open only to horses of club members, the guests will be unnumbered and visitors will find themselves enveloped in the cordiality of open house.

The hunt will start at 10 o'clock from Dog Tavern. After lunch the racing and jumping card will be run off. The events are carded as follows:

At the last meeting of the Board of Stewards it was decided to make Tuesday, November 6th, a Club Field Day.

There will be a hunt in the morning and in the afternoon the following events will take place, open only to horses owned by club members:

First Event—Light weight hunter's steeple chase, minimum weight 165 lbs., over the club course, about two and one-half miles. First prize a cup.

Second Event—The Master's Challenge Cup—for the best hunter. To be held by the winnter until won by any member of the Watchung Hunt on a challenge of an individual member, subject to arrangement by the racing committee. First: Performance over the hunting jumps. Second: Performance over the steeple chase course. Minimum weight 160 lbs.

Third Event—Heavy weight hunter's steeple chase, minimum weight 190 lbs. over the club course, about two and one-half miles. First prize a cup.

Farmers' Race—Purse $25. First horse to receive $20; second horse $5. Open to farmers over whose land the club hunts.

Jumping Events—First event: For lightweights, minimum weight 165 lbs. Second event: For middleweights, minimum weight 175 lbs. Third event: For heavyweights, minimum weight 190 lbs.

Horses competing in the events must carry minimum weight specified in the conditions.

The jumping will be the average jumps met in the hunting field; performance only to count.

A suitable prize will be given to the winner of each jumping event.

The steeplechase committee, under the direction of which the events will be conducted, is made up of Dr. M. O'Malley Knott, H. A. Bourne, and G. Fred Alpers. Two of the cups and the bridles to be given as prizes are on exhibition at the club house. The heavyweight cup is a striking bit of work in leather and copper. There is a mystery about the Master's Cup. Nobody but Charles D. Freeman, the M. F. H., knows what it is like. The certainty that it will be a noteworthy trophy increases the pleasurable curiosity over it.

The steeple chase course, which will be given its last few touches today, is one that will try out and stamp the horses best adapted for regular hunting over this section of the country. That is what it has been designed for. The members of the committee all agree that it is quite a "sporting course." Fourteen jumps in all will face the racers and some of them will try the hardiest, and cleverest of them, horses and men both. One of the fences is a tricky affair, and one of the water jumps is pretty certain to reduce the ranks of the racers appreciably.

A grandstand will be erected today at the finishing point. In the jumping competitions, the horses will be well within the sight of the spectators. Arrangements have been made for parking spaces for carriages and automobiles.

The club's visitors tomorrow will see one of the cosiest little club houses that could be planned. The house that was once the "old Hitchings place," has been converted into a prettily decorated, thoroughly modernized club home.

On the first floor are the office, reading room, grill room, pantry and kitchen. Above, on the other two floors, are sleeping accommodations for fifteen members or guests, and a roomy bathroom, with a shower as well as tub. An old-fashioned hall nook, with a huge stone fire place is a feature of the second floor. Open fires are prominent all over the house, and that the backs as well as the eyes of the members may be comforted a hot-air heating system and a brick lining about the house have been provided. The atmosphere of the club house is thoroughly describ-

ROWDYISM ON P. S. C. TROLLEYS CONTINUE

SUNDAY DISTURBANCES ON CARS ARE AS BAD AS EVER.

Local people who have occasion to use the cars of the Public Service Corporation have reached the conclusion that though the Bishops' bill has been passed and is supposed to be in force, it is being violated somewhere. It is next to impossible to board one of the main line trolleys on the Sabbath day without having to submit to the insults of drunken rowdies and for the past few weeks it has been equally as bad as when the hotels at Scotch Plains and Dunellen kept open house on the day of rest.

A particularly flagrant instance was noticed last evening on car No. 1924 which reached the Watchung avenue terminus from Scotch Plains at 5:45. A half-baked Hun, of the variety that works in the Perth Amboy clay pits, so badly overcome from the effects of rum that he had to hold against the rear door for support, hurled all manner of insulting remarks at passengers and sang ribald songs until he was hoarse. Grouped around him was a crowd of local young men, also much the worse for drink, and they urged him on with a steady stream of oaths and curses. The car was filled to its capacity with many men and women of refinement and they were forced to submit the scene, the conductor limiting his remonstrances to merely telling the Hun and the rest that they "would have to keep still or get off." He might as well have slammed his fist against the side of the car for all the good it did.

This case is only one of many as the same thing occurs regularly Sunday nights on cars coming either from Elizabeth or Bound Brook. In most instances it is caused by so-called young "sports" who get intoxicated on three beers and try to impress older people with the idea that they don't care for anybody or anything. It would be an easy matter for a conductor or motorman to throw three off at a time but as a rule they simply smirk at them and respectable passengers have to suffer.

MANY ACCESSIONS TO CHURCH MEMBERSHIP.

Communion Services Held in Several Local Churches Yesterday.

Communion services were held in several local churches yesterday morning, at which time new members were received. At the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, twenty new members were received, five on confession and fifteen by letter.

These persons were received at the First M. E. church:

Clinton R. Watrous, Raymond Palmer, Leroy Guest, Hazel Moore, Thyra Stiles, Lena E. Tallman, Beatrice Apgar, Anna A. Thorn, Rose Reed, Louise Camp, Martha E. Camp, Mary R. Sharp, George H. Williams, Henrietta G. Williams, Ada M. Williams, Lena R. Dennick, Frances E. Weed, Mayme Breads, Josephine Griffith, Annie Perry, Horatio S. Bell, William E. Bell, Henrietta Bell, Ada M. Holder, H. J. Northrop, Reba Northrop, Daniel R. Sherwood, Annie Sherwood, Katherine H. Ewart, Alice Higgins, Claus Peterson and Haydn W. Barrows.

At the Congregational church three members were received on confession and one by letter, and at the First Presbyterian church two were received on confession and three by letter.

Dissolution of Partnership.

T. O. Doane, Jr., and John H. Doane have dissolved the partnership heretofore existing between them under the firm name of Doane & Doane, real estate brokers, and the former will continue the business at 216 Park avenue, the Stirling Building, under his own name. William Grannatt, formerly with William Jeffery, the real estate dealer, will be associated with Mr. Doane as his representative. John H. Doane will also continue in the real estate building, his office being in the Vanderbeek building at North and Park avenues.

Paper On Hawaiian Islands.

The Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the First Baptist church will meet tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock in the lecture room of the church. The devotional service will be led by Mrs. George F. Brown. Miss May Shreve will present a paper on "The Hawaiian Islands," giving a history of the islands and the people. Miss Mary White will give the paper on current events. All women of the church and congregation are invited to attend.

Boom in West End Property.

H. C. Compton, of West Front street, has sold three more fifty-foot lots on West Front street, east of Compton avenue, to T. A. Haskard, of Newark. He will probably build there next year.

MANY HEAR REVIVALIST

Five Addresses Made by Rev. Dr. Henry M. Wharton on Sunday.

SCORES ARE CONVERTED

Three Appeals Made at First Baptist Church; One at First M. E. and One at the Theatre.

Large crowds gathered at the evangelistic services held yesterday by Rev. Dr. Henry M. Wharton at the First Baptist church, the First M. E. church and at the New Plainfield theatre. It was the closing day of the series of special meetings and there were not only large congregations at every service, but in nearly every case there were many who signified their desire to lead a Christian life. Especially was this true at the young people's meeting at the First Baptist church in the afternoon, where scores of young men and women took a stand for Christ.

At the morning service in the First Baptist church, Dr. Wharton preached a short sermon. He took occasion to thank the pastors of the city, the chorus and the newspapers for their many kindnesses during the week of special services. He explained that it would be impossible for him to remain here longer. He planned to spend ten days with his family at this time, but at the solicitation of Dr. Chambliss he had given eight of the ten days to work here, something he would not have for anyone on earth, except Dr. Chambliss or his own brother.

His discourse treated with becoming weary with the things of the world, such as temptation, disappointment and the frivolities of this life. Dr. Wharton said that the all-important thing of this life and the one to come is not "Who is who," but "What is what." "If your hope is only in Christ," said Dr. Wharton, "you can have peace and rest, such as the world cannot give and cannot take away. If you don't meet Christ here as your Saviour, you must meet Him later on as conqueror." Dr. Wharton made a strong and urgent appeal to everyone to accept Christ now.

At the Sunday-school session in the afternoon, Dr. Wharton gave a short and informal talk to the young people, in which he persuaded them to give their hearts to Christ in their your before the evil days draw nigh. In response to his appeal scores arose and gave their hearts to Christ. Afterwards they signed cards and at the request of Dr. Wharton they walked to the platform and laid the cards on the desk.

Dr. Wharton appeared at the New Plainfield theatre at 4 o'clock and addressed a great gathering of men. He spoke on the subject "Death at a Frolic," and he held the close attention of the men throughout. He pictured vividly the feast of Belshazzar, and the handwriting on the wall which caused such consternation to the King of the Jews and those about him, when God told him that he had been weighed in the balance and found wanting. Here again Dr. Wharton appealed to the men to stand up for Christ, to follow Him, and several throughout the audience responded to the earnest words of the speaker. The music at this service was furnished by a large chorus of male voices.

Last night the principal meeting was held at the First Baptist church, but the gathering was so large that arrangements were made to have the First M. E. church open for an overflow meeting. Dr. Wharton spoke for a half hour at the Methodist church before going to the First Baptist church, and both edifices were filled to overflowing. After Dr. Wharton left the Methodist church, other pastors took charge of the service, which lasted for an hour. Then all joined in an after-meeting at the First Baptist church, where a great many testimonies were given and a number took a stand for Christ.

"Who is on the Lord's Side?" was the text taken by Dr. Wharton for his discourse at the First Baptist church. The usual song service was held and included a duet by Miss Gertrude Heins and William Holmes. The latter had charge of the music.

"There are only two sides," said Dr. Wharton. "It is no mere say-so of my own. Christ says that he that is not with me is against me. Being on the Lord's side means to do what He wants you to do and to rest in Him." Dr. Wharton pictured impressively the advantages of being on the Lord's side and the disadvantages of being on the devil's side, adding that in being on the Lord's side one can have the best time in this world and that to come. In conclusion Dr. Wharton said that when one's time to die comes they want that sustaining help and peace of Christ.

AT CANDIDATE'S REQUEST MR. GILBERT DENIES STORY.

Mr. Martine Did Not Attempt to Injure Mr. Kiely He Himself Declares.

Two interesting campaign letters were made public this morning. They are as follows:

"Plainfield, Nov. 3d, 1906.

"Hon. Alexander Gilbert.

"My Dear Sir:—I am creditably informed that Chief of Police Kiely is circulating the report in this city and elsewhere that you stated to him (Kiely) that I called at your home and informed you regarding matter that was used against him (Kiely) to his detriment at the late police trial in this city. Knowing this to be false may I not ask you to deny the statement?

"Respectfully,
"JAMES E. MARTINE."
"318 West Eighth Street,
"Plainfield, New Jersey.

"My Dear Mr. Martine:

"I have yours of this date and am surprised at its contents. The statement is unqualifiedly false, as I have not seen Chief of Police Kiely since the police trial to speak with him. I will say further that I never passed a word with him on the subject.

"Truly yours,
"A. GILBERT.

"Nov. 5th."

The Martine letter was called out by reports Chief Kiely is alleged to have been making for two weeks or more. There has been ill-feeling on the part of the chief against the Congressional candidate since the Kiely trial. At least, Chief Kiely has had no particular admiration for the farmer-orator since that time. Mr. Martine has always said, since the hearing, that he was sought out and urged to give his testimony against the chief, and was subpoenaed against his will. He only testified, he has always said, with reluctance and only what he felt compelled to say under his oath.

HURT AT STORAGE PLANT; SUCCUMBS TO INJURIES.

Young Greek Laborer Caught in Machinery at Lehigh Valley Coal Yards.

Mitres Csikut, a Greek, employed at the storage plant of the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company at South Plainfield, died at the hospital Saturday night from injuries received while at work at the company's plant in the afternoon. He was caught in one of the big machines and before his fellow-workmen could rescue him both bones of the left leg near the ankle were fractured and he received abdominal injuries.

Csikut was brought to the hospital in a wagon by a fellow-workman, and despite the prompt medical aid, he died a few hours later. The dead man was twenty-eight years old and married. He had been employed at South Plainfield for several years. Funeral will be held from his late home, South Plainfield, tomorrow morning and interment will be at Perth Amboy.

Mrs. Mary Ann Smith.

Mrs. Mary Ann Smith, widow of Henry Smith, died Saturday night at the home of her son, Charles H. Smith, of Grove street. She had been in poor health for more than a year and had been confined to her bed for the past seven weeks. Mrs. Smith was seventy-five years old and had a wide acquaintance in the city and borough. Her husband was a member of the building committee that planned the first Baptist church and he served in the same capacity for the Park Avenue Baptist church. The family lived for twenty years in the house on West Seventh street, now owned by Mrs. Chapman Fisk. Beside Charles H. Smith, Mrs. Smith leaves one other son, Clarence, who lives in New York. The funeral will be held from her late home tomorrow afternoon at 2:30.

Address by Dr. W. H. Morgan.

The Brotherhood of the First M. E. church will meet in Vincent chapel Friday night, and listen to an address by Rev. Dr. W. H. Morgan, of the Central M. E. church, Newark. There will be a reception to the men who have joined the Brotherhood during the pastorate of Rev. A. C. McCrea. Refreshments will be served and all men of the church are invited.

Rummage Sale to Continue.

The rummage sale which has been in progress during the past week under the direction of the Salvation Army, has been a success. It has been decided to continue the sale on Tuesday and Friday afternoons and any person having articles to contribute will kindly notify the officers at army headquarters and they will be called for.

Granted a Divorce.

Mrs. Mary A. Brown, colored, has been granted an absolute divorce from her husband, William J. Brown, by Chancellor Magie. Coddington & Swackhamer, representing the petitioner, received word of the decree on Saturday. The application was granted on the grounds of desertion.

CANDIDATES ON RECORD

Republican Assembly Nominees Fearlessly Champion the Bishops' Law.

DEMOCRATS ARE SILENT

C. E. Union Hears From G. O. P. Candidates—Will Effect the Vote Here.

Editor, The Daily Press:

Will you kindly allow me space in your columns to address the voters of our city, as I desire to call their attention to the following facts.

In the interest of the Christian Endeavorers of Plainfield I addressed the following letter to the three Republican and three Democratic candidates for Assemblymen from Union county:

Dear Sir:

The Christian Endeavorers of Plainfield are strongly in favor of the "Bishops' Bill" and are very desirous to see it remain on the statute books. In order that we may cast an intelligent vote for Assemblymen on Election Day, I am writing this letter to all candidates, both Republican and Democratic, and would be pleased to receive your answer to the following questions:

Are you in favor of repealing or altering the "Bishops' Bill?"

How will you vote when the attempt is made to repeal the "Bishops' Bill" this year?

We will not vote knowingly for any one who will vote against the bill, and any silence or evasion on your part will be taken to mean that you are unfavorable to our cause.

Thanking you in advance for your prompt reply, for which I enclose stamped envelope, I remain,

FRED C. LOUNSBURY, JR.,
President of the Plainfield C. E. Union.

To the above letter I have received the following replies:

Mr. Fred C. Lounsbury, Jr.,
Plainfield, N. J.

Dear Sir:

Permt me to acknowledge yours of the 27th and in reply to same state that your inqury to whether or not I am in favor of appealing or altering the "Bishops' Bill" is rather a broad question, inasmuch as the phrase "Repealing or Altering" might be taken to mean any one of a very numberous catagory or changes that might be made or attempted.

In reply to your second qury as to how I would vote when the attempt is made to repeal the Bishops' Bill, I can heartily tell you that at present I am not in any way in favor of its repeal.

I trust that my reply may be satisfactory to you and assure you of my every endeavor to the cause of benefitting the most of our people.

JOHN R. MOXON.

Fred C. Lounsbury, Jr., Esq.,
Plainfield, N. J.

Dear Sir:

In answer to your favor of the 27th ult. with reference to the Bishops' Bill, I desire to state that I am not in favor of repealing or altering the bill: and if an attmept is made to repeal it, I shall not only vote against the repealer but do everything within my power to prevent its passage.

I hope that you were at the Plainfield theatre last night in order that you might know my attitude from what I said there.

Very truly yours,
RANDOLPH PERKINS.

Mr. Fred. C. Lounsbury, Jr.,
Plainfield, N. J.

Dear Sir:

Your favor of Oct. 27th at hand and read with much pleasure for it indicates to me the high minded and intelligent voter is taking an interest in the questions of the day, and one especially of vital importance not only to the citizens of our good county but of the whole State.

In reply to your first question I answer emphatically NO unless a stronger law is framed.

The second is answered by the first.

My attitude toward the liquor question is well known here in Rahway, and I believe with you that any evasion on the part of any candidate for member of Assembly should be taken to mean that they are in favor of repealing the bill; and feel sure the voters of our county will defeat such on Nov. 6. Believe me sir.

PETER TILLMAN.

From the above it will be noted that I have received replies from the three Republican candidates, but on the other hand, I have received no replies whatever from the Democratic candidates. Why this unwonted silence? I can draw but one conclusion, and that is that they are in favor of repealing the bill in question.

The time is past when the thinking voter of either party is going to support a candidate blindly. When we vote, we want to know what we are voting for. The three gentlemen in the letters quoted above, have outlined plainly their position in this matter, the others seem to want to hide theirs.

I am writing the above in the interest of neither party but in the interest of morality; and I appeal to every intelligent voter of our city to seriously consider this question and then vote for Messrs. Moxon, Perpins and Randolph, whom we know will work in favor of the Bishops' bill; a bill claimed to protect the American home and the American Sabbath, two things dear to the heart of every true American.

Respectfully yours,
FRED C. LOUNSBURY, JR.

MINISTERS TALK ON BISHOPS' LAW

TELL VOTERS TO FAVOR CANDIDATES AGAINST REPEAL OF STATUTE.

Rev. Charles E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, remarked to his congregation yesterday that he hoped that all the voters would see their way clear to cast their ballot for candidates who would stand by the Bishops' bill.

Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, of Trinity Reformed church, also spoke a few words yesterday morning concerning the Bishops' bill, and the importance of voting for candidates who would support it. He said that he had corresponded with one of the Assembly candidates on the Republican ticket and was informed by him that he favored the Bishops' bill from the eacting clause to the bottom and would not vote for its repeal. Dr. Schenck urged all voters to carefully investigate and consider this question before casting their ballots. He believed that the Bishops' bill to be a big step in the right direction and if it only abolished the back room and the sale of liquor to minors it would be worth all that it cost to adopt it.

Other local pastors spoke at their services yesterday in favor of the Bishops' bill and asked the men in their congregations to elect candidates who would vote for keeping the law on the statute books.

All of the pastors of the Elizabeth churches spoke in favor of the Bishops' bill, yesterday, and urged the voters in their congregations to support the candidates who would vote to keep that law on the statute books, if elected. Very Rev. Dean Gessner, of St. Patrick's church, Elizabethport, wields a great influence throughout Elizabeth as well as Elizabethport, urged the men in his parish to vote for the Republican nominees and keep the Bishops' bill in force. The saloon-keepers of Elizabeth met yesterday and appointed committees to work at he polls tomorrow for the success of the Democratic ticket.

OCTOBER WEATHER.

Conditions in Plainfield Compiled by John Neagle.

Weather Prophet John Neagle has compiled the following weather statistics for the past month:

Highest temperature, 75 degrees, October 9; lowest temperature, 28, October 13; mean temperature, 54.0 degrees; normal temperature, 50.4; mean maximum, 62.7; mean minimum, 45.4; greatest daily range, 33 degrees; total precipitation, 4.72 inches; greatest precipitation in twenty-four hours, 1.37 inches, date October 21-22; normal precipitation, 4.18 inches; snowfall, a trace, date October 11; number of rainy days, 16; number of clear days, 4; number days partly cloudy, 14; number of days cloudy, 13; first killing frost, October 13; thunder storm, October 9. The mean temperature for the month was at normal. The precipitation was 0.54 inches above normal. The average number of rainy days for the month was 8.4.

CITY COMMITTEE MEETS.

$40 Appropriated From the Treasury for the Use of Poll Workers.

The Republican City Executive Committee met at the Casino, Saturday night, and made final arrangements for workers and other details in connection with the election. It was decided not to ask any money for the usual expenses from the county committee but instead $40 for each district was taken from the local treasury to be paid "watchers" at the city polls.

Reports were submitted showing that conditions predicted success for the Republican ticket in Plainfield and that from indications a heavy vote would be polled. The treasury closes with a balance on hand.

Attempt to Wreck Senator's Auto.

Four men in a large touring car attempted late yesterday afternoon to wreck the automobile owned by Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, on a country road near Millstone. The Senator's auto was going at a moderate rate when it was overtaken by a bir red machine, containing four men, and instead of passing Mr. Frelinghuysen's machine, which was run to one side of the road, it mad straight for it and the wheels of the two machines hooked and the Senator's auto was almost upset. The red machine was little damaged and got away. Senator Frelinghuysen is determined to find out who were in the red machine and punish them.

A Split Ticket.

POLITICIANS NON-PLUSSED

Plainfield Holds Balance of Power in the Congressional Fight.

FISK MAKES APPEAL

Result Here Depends On the Attitude of the Colbyites and the Labor Vote.

What the result will be in Plainfield tomorrow will depend entirely on the Colbyite and the labor vote, and consequently the politicians are all at sea when discussing the probable majority for Congressman Fowler. The result in the county is much in doubt depending entirely upon Plainfield for the people of Elizabeth it is conceded will return a majority against their fellow-townsman, Charles N. Fowler. It is safe to predict that the G. O. P. candidate will get anywhere from 300 to 800 majority here and in that event he will carry the county thus assuring his election.

Charles J. Fisk has made a personal appeal to the citizens of Plainfield to vote for Mr. Fowler as against their fellow-townsmen, James E. Martine. To every voters he has sent the following letter:

"Dear Sir:—

"I make the personal request that you go to the polls election day, without fail, and vote for the Republican candidate for Congress, Hon. Chas. N. Fowler. The Fifth Congressional district comprises the counties of Morris, Warren and Union. The election of a Republican in this district depends to a very great extent on the result in Plainfield. The Democratic majority in Warren county is about offset by the Republican majority in Morris county, therefore the result in Union county will decide the election.

"The indications are that Elizabeth will be carried by the Democrats and that the final result in the county will depend on the result in Plainfield.

"As a member of the Republican Congressional Committee and Chairman of the Republican City Committee, I am anxious we should have as large a Republican vote as possible, and ask every Republican voter to make a special effort to be sure and vote.

"Yours very truly,
"CHAS. J. FISK.

"Plainfield, N. J.,
"November 3d, 1906."

It is believed that Messrs. Perkins, Tillman and Moxon, the Republican Assembly nominees will run away ahead of their ticket in Plainfield. Their endorsement of the Bishops' law, which their opponents are against, insures them a rousing big vote here.

The polls will open at 6 o'clock in the morning and close at 7 o'clock at night. Following are the polling places in Plainfield:

First ward—First district, 183 North avenue; Second district, 545 East Third street.

Second ward—First district, 343 Watchung avenue; Second district, 699 South avenue.

Fourth ward—First district, 204 West Second street; Second district, 672 South Second street; third district, 931 West Third street.

The polling places in North Plainfield: First district, Trewin's barber shop on Somerset street; Second district, Jeroloman's pool room on Somerset street.

Installed Elders and Deacons.

Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, pastor, installed the newly-elected deacons and elders at Trinity Reformed church, yesterday morning. The elders are George L. VanEmburgh, Robert Clark, Jr., and H. E. Gale. The deacons are W. F. Oliver, A. R. Willett and W. R. Kriney. All were present except Mr. VanEmburgh, who was detained at home by illness. The installation service was an impressive one.

Miss Lowe Gives a Delightful Dinner.

Miss Lowe, of Park avenue, gave a delightful dinner at the Plainfield Country Club, Saturday, the affair being in the nature of a Hallowe'en celebration. There were eighteen young people in the party. The women were dressed as dairy maids and the young men were attired as farmers. The dining room was decorated appropriately.

The Congressional Fight.

A Republican who wants to vote for Martine and the Democrat who wants to vote for Fowler, should understand how to use the voting machine. See the instructions on page 8.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY

November 27 and 28 are the dates set for the celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Roman Catholic diocese of Trenton. St. John's church and Father Dunphy will have part in it.

An entertainment will be held by the Farther Lights Society of the Baptist church in Friendship Hall, November 20. An elaborate programme is being arranged.

David Bernard's injured leg has been amputated above the knee. He is recovering from the effects of the operation.

Miss Annie Lindoerfer, of Newark, has been the guest of her cousin, Mrs. Philip G. Mitze, for several days.

Mrs. George Voorhees is much improved from her recent illness. She is able to be up and about.

Mrs. John M. Dayton has returned from a week's visit to friends in Ridgewood and Plainfield.

Miss Hattie Sunday, of New Cumberland, Pa., is the guest of Mrs. Mary L. VanAlstine.

Mrs. Mahlon Dayton entertained the Father Lights Missionary Society Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. C. E. Kelly and Miss Zella Kelly are spending the week at Hagerstown, Md.

Mrs. Charles Day will be the hostess of the Embroidery Club tomorrow night.

Arvid Johnson has resigned from the employ of Robert Hoe & Co., New York.

A poisoned finger has kept Will Johnson from work several days.

Mrs. W. J. Nelson has been entertaining relatives from Stanhope.

Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Voorhees' youngest son has been very ill.

Several ducks and snipe have been bagged about the pond.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD

The automobile warning sign on the green near the flag pole seems to do but little good, as but few of the chauffeurs slow up or reduce speed when turning the corner.

Tomorrow being Election Day, no session of the public school will be held; the rest of the town will probably go on in its usual way, with the exception of the commuters, who will enjoy a holiday.

Rev. A. H. Cook, of the Methodist church, exchanged pulpits yesterday with Rev. C. B. Livingston, of the Lake Hopatcong Methodist church.

The weekly meeting of the Young People's Society was held last night in the parlors of the Baptist church.

Mr. and Mrs. L. D. H. Gilmour, of Newark, spent Sunday with Dr. and Mrs. F. W. Westcott, of the borough.

Daniel T. Hendrickson spent Saturday and yesterday with his family at Port Monmouth, N. J.

Mrs. Frederick Stephenson, of Lincoln, was the guest of friends in town Saturday.

William S. Rapp, of Lincoln, was the guest of friends in town yesterday.

Miss Josephine Ingram was the guest, yesterday, of Elizabeth friends.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The Mollison children are convalescing from a serious illness and are now able to be out again.

The mill is now running its full time and Mr. Kellogg, the miller, has all he can attend to.

Don't forget the election tomorrow. The polls will be open at Norman's Hotel from 6 a. m. to 7 p. m.

The home of Bernard Morgan is the second house in the village to be quarantined for scarlet fever.

Harry Hannon, the night operator, has taken a position in Jersey City.

William Voorhees, of Brooklyn, spent Sunday at his farm here.

Earl Darlington visited friends here on Saturday.

Not Many Complaints.

The Union County Board of Taxation is somewhat surprised by the small number of complaints received from taxpayers regarding their assessments under the new law. The law provides that complaints must be made in writing, and a large number of taxpayers whose increase in taxes amounts to but a few dollars consider it hardly worth while to complain. Of course, there are some complaints, but there is not the strenuous kicking seen under the old law, when taxpayers were obliged to go before commissioners of appeal.

Congregational Conference.

An important conference of the Congregational churches from this part of New Jersey will be held at Chatham on Thursday, and the local church will be well represented. In connection with that conference, there will be a session of the Congregational Union, of which Rev. C. L. Goodrich, of this city, is the president.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

Considering Ernest Shipman's production of "When Knighthood Was in Flower," which will be at the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow afternoon and night, as a whole, with its gorgeous scenery, magnificent costumes and a cast which includes some of the best actors and actresses of the day, including Anna Day as "Mary Tudor," it is safe to say that it will draw one of the biggest crowds of the season to that theatre.

The New Plainfield theatre will offer for the attraction Wednesday night "Her First False Step." The piece is in five acts and takes you from the rural hills of New Hampshire, through the slums of New York and aronud the menagerie tents of a big circus. Here is introduced one of the most thrilling scenes ever witnessed on any stage—the unnatural father to save his own neck throws his little baby daughter into a den of savage lions, where she is rescued by the hero at the risk of his own life. A number of pleasing specialties are introduced during the action of the play. The company is a large one numbering thirty people and carry a sixty-foot scene car packed to the door with special scenery.

Discriminating theatre-goers who appreciate a real, wholesome love play—strong without the curses of a "villian" or the heroics of a "hero," and in which every line brings forth a spontaneous smile or a tear, or a good joyous laugh—are promised a treat in "The Little Gray Lady," a new play by Channing Pollock, which will be presented for the second time in this city at the New Plainfield theatre next Thursday night with that charming actress, Helen Grantly, in the title role at the head of her own excellent company. The action of "The Little Gray Lady" is hinged on the life of the department clerks in Washington, D. C., and the management has given this newest work of the author of "The Pit" and "In the Bishop's Carriage," the very best stage appointments and a cast of greater strength than has been seen here in many seasons.

Charles Frohman will present at the New Plainfield theatre on November 16, William Collier in a brand new comedy in three acts entitled "Caught in the Rain." The title is particularly appropriate because the story hinges about the meeting during a rainstorm of the bashful young hero, Dick Crawford (Mr. Collier), and Muriel Mason (Nanette Comstock). It was a case of love at first sight but each mistakes the identity of the other and the complications resulting add a lively interest to the pretty love story. In the end of course they are happily married, but in the meantime the audience is assured of three hours of continuous laughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Leland, of Elmwood place, contemplate moving to Connecticut.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The Official Board of the First M. E. church will meet Wednesday night after prayer meeting.

The regular mid-week prayer meeting will be held at the First Baptist church Wednesday night, as usual.

An all-day sewing meeting will be held at the Congregational church on Thursday. Luncheon will be served at noon.

The Young Ladies' Mission Circle of the First M. E. church will meet in Vincent chapel tomorrow night at 8 o'clock.

Miss McIntosh, of College place, will entertain the Girls' Club of the Congregational church at her home Friday afternoon.

Rev. Charles Fountain, of this city, a student at Crozier Theological Seminary, has been elected treasurer of the senior class.

The Women's Home Missionary Society of the First M. E. church will meet in Vincent chapel tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock.

John M. Whiton, the newly-elected superintendent of the Congregational church Sunday-school, took charge of the school yesterday for the first.

The Silver Cross Circle, King's Daughters, which gave a Hallowe'en sale and tea last week, has received as profit from the affair about $50.

The women of the First Presbyterian church will hold a fair and sale in the chapel of the church, Friday afternoon and evening, November 16.

Special services are held at the Rescue Mission on Grove street on Tuesday and Thursday nights and Sunday afternoon. These are not denominational services and everybody is invited to them.

The articles for the harvest home barrel for the Baptist Home for the Aged will be received at the First Baptist church tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. Donations of groceries, table linen, bedding or money will be most acceptable.

PERSONAL.

Charles McNichols, of Brooklyn, has been visiting friends in Plainfield for a few days.

Mrs. A. M. McKee, of Westervelt avenue, is spending several days with her sister in New York.

Miss Frentz, of Scotch Plains, has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Frank Putnam, of East Fifth street.

Mrs. Ida Swackhamer, of Whitehouse, who has been visiting Plainfield relatives, has returned home.

Mr. and Mrs. Mortimer Givens, of Orchard place, are planning to go to California for the benefit of Mr. Givens' health.

—There will be a civil service examination at the postoffice on Saturday, November 17, for applicants as clerks and carriers in Uncle Sam's service. W. B. Sharp, at the postoffice, will give further particulars.

HOWARD HUNTINGTON WINS HONORS AT P. C. C.

FIRST ROUND FOR THE CONSOLATION CUP AN EVENT OF INTEREST.

In the first round for the Golf Committee consolation cup at the Plainfield Country Club, on Saturday, match play, Edward T. Wilson beat Stuart H. Patterson, 3 up and 1 to play; E. E. Iremonger beat Dudley H. Barrows, by default; Charles A. Reed beat Edward J. Patterson, 4 up and 3 to play, and L. A. Chase beat E. B. Shoemaker, 2 up.

The second round will be played tomorrow and will be concluded on Saturday. There was also the initial play on Saturday for the November cup, similar competition to that of the October cup, the winner being determined by the best average score for the month. These competitions have been very popular and full of interest.

The scores returned on Saturday were as follows: Howard Huntington, 94, 15—79; C. B. Morgan, 83, 2—81; Charles A. Stover, 88, 7—81; Arthur Murphy, 96, 7—89; George E. Cathcart, 109, 18—91.

The schedule for tomorrow includes play for the November and Election Day cups, as well as continuation for the consolation cups, while the play for the inconsolables' cup will also be started and continued throughout the month.

There was a large field out on Saturday, the beautiful weather being ideal for the game. There were a number who did not enter any special competition but just played the game for the fun of it. The clubhouse was also the scene of much activity throughout the afternoon and evening, where the social features were greatly enjoyed and refreshments were served.

ONE DAY ONLY

Parlors of the Hotel Kensington,

PLAINFIELD

Tuesday, November 6th,

Hours: 9.00 a. m. until 8.00 p. m.

Your Eyes will be examined by THE DAMMERS SCIENTIFIC METHOD, Positively the only absolutely correct way to fit glasses.

(NO DROPS USED.) Those who have been examined for GLASSES by men who claim to examine eyes by the old, incorrect way, which is done by everyone who supplies glasses but us, will be agreeably surprised by our scientific and wonderful methods of Examining Eyes, and fitting glasses.

We correct your eye defects by looking in the eyes, taking the exact scientific measurements of the focus and shape of the eyes.

NO QUESTIONS ASKED, no trying glasses on your face, until we have determined your exact optical error.

The old tedious and tiresome way of trying to fit glasses is either putting drops in the eyes, which often causes Blindness, or by trying on a lot of glasses, and asking you "Can you see these letters?" or "Do these glasses make you see better?"

After your Optician does a lot of guessing, and has your eyes all out of shape, you think you have been examined.

Think this over, and you can readily see that you have been doing your own examining, and that is no doubt the reason you have had trouble to get glasses correct.

THIS IS ABSOLUTELY THE HIGHEST CLASS WORK DONE IN FITTING CLASSES IN AMERICA.—DON'T SUFFER WITH HEADACHE.

We have produced astonishing results from brain fag, nervous debility, insomnia, dizziness, nausea, WATERY EYES, blurry vision, and other troubles caused by EYE STRAIN. We have corrected by the use of glasses cross eyes and Astigmatism, by our scientific methods of Examining.

An experience covering every detail of the Optical Business for over a quarter of a century is the continuous record of the great Dammers concern.

Our position in Newark, N. J., and Providence, R. I., as the LEADING EYESIGHT SPECIALISTS is proof of the high confidence in our responsibility, and the reliability of our presentations.

—Verdella Dunham, colored, has been discharged from the hospital, having recovered from injuries received in an accident at the new telephone building. He will return to work this week.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

GOLF.

Tomorrow will witness the closing competition for the President's and club trophies at the Park Golf Club. From present indications Charles A. Reed will win the handicap cup by a good margin. Altogether the season has been a successful one at the club and there is encouragement for the members to continue their organization.

The last week in this month will see the finish of the active schedule at the Plainfield Country Club with play for the consolation and inconsolables' cups and the cross-country golf tournament on Thanksgiving Day.

There will be special events at the Plainfield Country Club tomorrow, while there will be lunches and dinners at the clubhouse to enliven the day.

A big golf tournament is scheduled to take place tomorrow on the course of the Middlebrook Country Club at Finderne. There is a big list of entries and several prizes have been offered.

In the arrangement of the schedule and selection of prizes, the Plainfield Country Club deserves much credit this season. Every prize offered has been well worth competing for and the events have been so planned as to bring out a large field every week.

The active season closes at the Park Golf Club tomorrow with special events, but as long as the course remains in good condition and the weather is favorable, there will be play on the course.

Members' handicaps tomorrow and Thanksgiving Day will wind up the season at the Knollwood Country Club. The club champion for the year is Ralph C. Carroll, who beat Judson S. Todd in the deciding match. Preparation are already under way for winter sports. Curling is to be taken up, as the club has a good pond, and there will be a prepared run for coasting races. On account of the many hills on its course, the Knollwood members do not need an artificial chute for tobogganing. There will be some interclub matches at squash tennis in the new courts.

Undoubtedly New York had a narrow shave from defeat by Boston in the final of the intercity matches, but as a miss is as good as a mile to win out was a complete vindication of Travers' selection and placing of players, even though good luck may have had as much to do with it as good management. For the interest in next year's matches it was better for the New York team to have to hustle to gain a victory than to have it win by a long lead. It was an anxious afternoon for the New Yorkers in the gallery.

FOOTBALL.

Frank Shepard has left the Orange Field Club and will probably finish the season with the Dunellen team.

Lovers of football will have a chance to witness a good game tomorrow morning at Alis Common, when the Alis and Orange Field Club elevens will meet for the second time this year. In the first contest between these teams Orange Field Club won by a score of 10 to 5. Alis is very likely to reverse this score tomorrow.

It is certainly a difficult matter this season to chose a winner in the approaching game between Yale and Princeton. Both elevens are exceedingly strong in all departments and the contest should be one of the greatest ever witnessed on the gridiron.

Football experts are puzzled this year over the performance of the Carlisle Indian team. It has shown rare form and has only lost one game and that to Penn. State. Its defeat of Pennsylvania a week ago has set everybody to guessing. The Redskins are proving themselves to be exceptionally strong, especially under the new rules and no doubt they will eclipse all former records this season.

Alis will play Dunellen at the latter place on Saturday. The Dunellen boys have a strong eleven and should be able to put up a fine game, while the local eleven is well prepared to play a fast game.

Captain Phillips, of the Alis team, is rated as one of the best local players. He is plucky, knows the game like a book and is full of tricks that always count in a contest. He has his team well drilled in all points of the game.

Captain George McVoy is succeeding well in putting the Orange Field Club in the front ranks among the football elevens in this part of the State. The team claims the 150-pound State championship, which has not been wrested from them yet.

HUNT CLUB FIELD DAY

ed in the word snug. Everything seems just right, from the open fires and the warm red paper on the walls, to the old furniture that Mrs. Freeman gave the club when her husband's generous gift was ready for the decorators. Comfort has nowhere been sacrificed the beauty; at the same time comfort has nowhere driven beauty out. Even the bed clothing has been carefully selected. Not only is the linen of the finest quality, but the quilts are of the prettiest designs a council of women members could decide upon.

Besides accommodations for clubmen and their guests, there is room in the house for six servants. The service now is perfect. Mrs. H. M. Beall, who has had wide experience, is in charge of the house, and she has installed an old Maryland aunty in the kitchen to charm away all culinary unpleasantnesses.

L. S. Treadwell is chairman of the house committee. He has unusual executive ability and is a bundle of social energy. Associated with him on the committee are E. S. Savage and Mr. Barclay.

A hundred acres of ground goes with the club house. A short distance beyond the house are the stables and kennels. Twelve stalls are now available, and another stable will shortly be built. The kennels, which will be strictly modern, with perfect drainage, will be completed and ready for the big canine family in a day or two. There will be accommodations for forty dogs and some puppies. The pack, now housed in temporary kennels, numbers about thirty. The new kennels will have a spacious playground for the pack; not less than one-quarter of an acre will be fenced in for them.

All things considered, the Watchung Hunt Club is entitled to quite a session of self-congratulation. Hardly more than three years old, the club has its own home, a fine pack, a splendid membership, recognition from national steeplechase and hunt association—no small honor—and the friendship of all the farmers over whose land it hunts. This last item embraces a great compliment to the generosity and diplomacy of the clubmen and their officers. The farmers were not always friendly. But they have been shown that the club is their friend and of a most neighborly turn.

One of the neighborly things the club has done is to provide the stallion Nitrate, a noted racer, for service among the farmers' mares, free of charge. Next year valuable prizes will be offered for foals by Nitrate.

All the farmers have been made members of the club, with every privilege. Some of them have actually begun to plan to ride with the hunt. All the damage done by the riders is generously paid for. Every post and rail fence n need of repairs is put in first class shape by the club. Any of the hunting ground farmers who think of having his post and rail fence repaired will always hear of something to his advantage if he communicates with the club.

L. S. Treadwell Engaged.

The engagement of Louis S. Treadwell, formerly manager of the Pedrick & Ayer Company, and a prominent members of the Watchung Hunt Club, to Miss Josephine Scoville, of Seneca, Kansas, has been announced. The wedding will take place in New York, in June. Mr. Treadwell is manager of the Robins Conveying Belt Company, of Passaic.

Wings and Flies

By Tom Muir.

"The Little Gray Lady," which comes to this city for the second time next Thursday night, is from the pen of Channing Pollock, the talented young author who was the Shuberts' press representative for several years. He also dramatized "The Pit" and is a co-author of Grace George's most successful play, "Clothes," now running at the Manhattan theatre, New York.

The following latter, dated Terra Haute, Ind., Nov. 2, explains itself:

"My dear Mr. Muir:

"After enjoying a most prosperous tour through the middle West, the run of "A Fight for Love" came near being terminated in this city, last night. While giving my usual sparring match in the production, the man who is supposed to be knocked out, as called for in the action of the plot, failed to "duck" as he should any my right hand struck him on the head. I was not expecting any sudden stop and the foreman was fractured about four inches from the wrist. We had to stop the play for the night and I suffered great pain from the injury until this morning. An X-ray was placed on the arm today and it showed the fracture to be in the smaller bone on the lower left side. It will prevent me sparring for several weeks but we have decided to go ahead with the tour and while I walk through my part, Mrs. Fitzsimmons will introduce a singing specialty to fill in. Tell all the Plainfield boys that I will be in good shape by the time I get home for the Christmas holidays.

"Yours very truly,
"Robert J. Fitzsimmons."

William Black, who plays the role of Reddy Sampson, a cowboy, in "His Honor, the Mayor," falls naturally into the part. Before going on the stage he was a cow puncher in the Bad Lands, serving his apprenticeship on a ranch adjoining that where Roosevelt learned to throw a steer.

In 1886, the prospective successor to President Roosevelt, William Jennings Bryan, under the name of William Jennings, was for a while a member of the late Ada Gray's company, with which, at various times, he played the role of Lord Mount-Severn and Sir Francis Levison to Miss Gray's Lady Gabel in the well known play of "East Lynne," and it is said "was accounted a good actor."

THE CANDIDATE'S DAUGHTER.

Her father was a candidate,
His daughter was my love;
Her face was morning light to me,
Her eyes the stars above—
Her father was a candidate;
This much is worthy note—
She came to me all smiles to state:
"Pa needs the floating vote!"

"My dear," I said, "you cannot get
This floating voter's vote
Without you give him something first
To make this voter float—
Something to lift him up from earth
And spread his joyous wing
In a flight of sunny ecstacy
Where larks and linnets sing!"

The rogue political, she saw
Clean through my anecdote,
And glushed a bit, and archly sighed:
"So you would sell your vote!"—
Her father was a candidate;
He needed floaters bad—
The sweetest lips I ever—Hush!
I voted for her dad!

POWERLESS TO STOP OBJECTIONABLE PLAY

MAYOR SAYS THEATRE MANAGER WILL HAVE POLICE PROTECTION.

"The Clansman" will be produced at the New Plainfield theatre on Friday night, Mayor Buckle having notified Manager Counihan that he is powerless to prevent it. Coupled with the mayor's action, several colored citizens have issued an appeal to members of their race nat to resort to violence when the show is on at the theatre.

Following is the mayor's letter:

Mayor's Office,
Plainfield, N. J., Nov. 5, 1906.

To Mr. William Counihan,
Proprietor of the Plainfield Theatre.

Dear Sir:

You having informed me of your bona fide efforts to cancel the contract for the production of "The Clansman" at your theatre, in response to my appeal, and having also informed me that you have been unable to obtain a release from the contract, and that the owners of the play insist on holding you to your contract, I have t osay that there will be no attempt on my part or on the part of the Police Department of the city to interfere with your carrying out your contract and allowing the production, unless there shall be a breach of the peace or other violation of the law in connection with the production of the play. The Corporation Counsel advised me before I served my notice of Novmber 2, that the city had not the power to prevent the production of the play, and hence my notice took the form of an appeal to you to prevent the production. I am sending you the present notice, because an impression seems to have got abroad, to the effect that I had positively forbidden the production of the play. This I have no power to do, and inasmuch as you could not obtain a release from your contract, it only remains for you to assist in guarding against any disorder or breach of the peace during the performance. To aid you in this effort, I will give instructions to the Chief of Police to assist you in every way in his power in preserving good order while the play is being performed.

Your obedient servant,
J. F. BUCKLE,
Mayor.

The appeal of the colored citizens follows:

To the colored citizens of Plainfield:

We, the undersigned, have done all in our power and the mayor has done all in his power to prevent the production of a play distasteful to the negro race from appearing at the New Plainfield theatre on Friday night. As no legal way can be found to stop the show, we implore the colored citizens of Plainfield for the sake of law and order to stay away from the theatre on that night. Furthermore we beg them not to go anywhere near the theatre building on that night, and above all things not to resort to any lawlessness. The colored population of this city has always been law-abiding and we feel sure that they will not bring discredit on their city and on themselves by tolerating any disorder.

C. W. JACKSON,
WM. A. KLINE,
E. B. MAYNARD.

It transpires that all the colored ministers as well as Dr. Jesse C. Anderson and other prominent men of the race here held a meeting Friday night at which a committee was appointed to wait on Mayor Buckle and ask him to have the play stopped. The committee with Dr. Anderson as chairman saw Mr. Buckle Saturday and made the request. To the meeting held Friday night, invitations to attend were given Messrs. Kline, Maynard and Jackson, but none responded. The committee, with which the ministers are identified, say that Jackson, Kline and Maynard had no right to act for the colored race.

An Approaching Wedding.

which he gave others an opportunity to give testimony. A great many responded. Dr. Wharton disclaimed the credit for the results of the meetings, saying that the Plainfield pastors were reaping now what they had shown. Among the pastors who took part in this service were Rev. Dr. C. W. Parsons, Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, Rev. Phil. A. Parsons and Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss. It was regretted by all that Dr. Wharton felt compelled to close his work here, but all united in saying that the special meetings have been a great blessing to all who attended.

Medium Helped Divorce.

Winsted, Conn., Nov. 5.—Mrs. Rosella S. Adams, in her suit for divorce from H. O. Adams, nearly eighty years old, a wealthy contractor, testified that while at a spiritualist camp meeting at Lake Pleasant, Mass., a medium told her that her husband was out riding with a prettier woman. She said that she found in her husband's diary, on the same date, that he did go riding.

Stork Saves "Kid McCoy."

New York, Nov. 5.—Pleading guilty of driving an automobile thirty miles an hour, but explaining that he was hurrying home in anticipation of a visit from the stork, Norman Selby, or "Kid McCoy," a pugilist, appeared yesterday in the Court of Special Sessions, Brooklyn. Judges Keady, Fleming and Forker thought this evidence of the prize fighter's antagonism to race suicide commendable and suspended sentence.

Big Contract for Americans.

Rome, Nov. 5.—The order for 2,100 tons of armor plate, valued at $1,000,000, for an Italian man of war, which was given to the Midvale Steel Company, of Pennsylvania, has been approved by the Council of State. The Midvale company was in competition for this contract with five European firms, including the Krupps.

Deuel Wrote Topic Stories.

New York, Nov. 5.—Assistant District Attorney Iselin, representing District Attorney Jerome and three citizens, as petitioners for the removal from the Bench of Judge Joseph M. Deuel, yesterday began the examination of Charles Stokes Wayne, former managing editor of Town Topics, by whom he expects to show that Judge Deuel was a member of the company which published the periodical. Wayne's answers developed the fact that, while Colonel Mann, president of the company, was in Europe, Judge Deuel read and corrected proofs of the matter to be printed in Town Topics. Mr. Iselin handed copies of Town Topics to Mr. Wayne and asked him who wrote articles which were specially marked. Mr. Wayne replied that one article had been written by Judge Deuel, and a part of the other dictated by him over the telephone.

Valuable Burns Mss.

New York, Nov. 5.—Ten thousand dollars duty was paid yesterday by J. Pierpont Morgan when, through an agent, he cleared through the Custom House two volumes of Robert Burns' poems and letters, said to be valued at more than $50,000. For several years agents in the employ of Mr. Morgan have been travelling about Europe collecting these manuscripts. Each volume has about four hundred pages, and the collection embodied therein is almost complete, containing the original manuscripts of almost all of Burns' poems and scores of his letters. Great difficulty was experienced by Mr. Morgan's agents in acquiring these manuscripts in Scotland, where most of them were eventually purchased, inasmuch as a movement was inaugurated in that country for the government to purchase and keep all of Burns' manuscripts.

Operate on Rhinoceros.

New York, Nov. 5.—To relieve Victoria, an African rhinoceros, valued at $5,000, in the Bronx Zoological Park, of a bone disease in the lower jaw from which it has long been a sufferer, an operation was performed yesterday afternoon. The operation, which was a difficult one, proved successful. Dr. W. L. Williams, a professor of surgery in the New York State Veterinary College, performed the operation. He was assisted by Drs. W. Reid Blair and J. T. Gwathiney. The latter administered the anesthetic. The entire operation conhour and three-quarters.

Chases Boy; Killed by Train.

New York, Nov. 5.—While pursuing a boy who had been annoying him Dennis Coogan, twenty years old, of No. 527 West Fortieth street, a driver for the Thomas Burns Coal Company, of Thirty-ninth street and Eleventh avenue, fell on the tracks of the New York Central Railroad in the path of a hog train, near Forty-first street and Eleventh avenue, last night, and was beheaded.

—The Union County Board of Registry and Election met at Elizabeth Saturday and added a number of additional names to the registry list.

THE DELUGE

By DAVID GRAHAM PHILLIPS, Author of "THE COST," etc

(COPYRIGHT 1905 by the BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY)

And work a-plenty there was. Before me rose a sheaf of clamorous telegrams from our out-of-town customers and our agents; and soon my anteroom was crowded with my local following, sore and shorn. I suppose a score or more of the habitual heavy plungers on my tips were ruined and hundreds of others were thousands and tens of thousands out of pocket. "Do you want me to talk to these people?" inquired Joe, with the kindly intention of giving me a chance to shift the unpleasant duty to him.

"Certainly not," said I. "When the place is jammed, let me know. I'll jack 'em up."

It made Joe uneasy for me even to talk of using my "language"—he would have crawled from the Battery to Harlem to keep me from using it on him. So he silently left me alone.

Toward ten o'clock, my boy came in and said: "Mr. Ball thinks it's about time for you to see some of these people."

I went into the main room, where the tickers and blackboards were. As I approached through my outer office I could hear the noise the crowd was making—as they cursed me. If you want to rile the true inmost soul of the average human being, don't take his reputation or his wife; just cause him to lose money. There were among my speculating customers many with the even-tenored sporting instinct. These were bearing their losses with philosophy—none of them had swooped on me. Of the perhaps three hundred who had come to ease their anguish by tongue-lashing me, every one was a bad loser and was mad through and through—those who had lost a few hundred dollars were as infuriated as those whom my misleading tip had cost thousands and tens of thousands; those whom I had helped to win all they had in the world were more savage than those new to my following.

I took my stand in the doorway, a step up from the floor of the main room. I looked all round until I had met each pair of angry eyes. They say I can give my face an expression that is anything but agreeable; such talent as I have in that direction I exerted then. The instant I appeared a silence fell; but I waited until the last pair of claws drew in. Then I said, in the quiet tone the army officer uses when he tells the mob that the machine guns will open up in two minutes by the watch: "Gentlemen, in the effort to counteract my warning to the public, the Textile crowd rocketed the stock yesterday. Those who heeded my warning and sold got excellent prices. Those who did not should sell to-day. Not even the powerful interests behind Textile can long maintain yesterday's prices."

A wave of restlessness passed over the crowd. Many shifted their eyes from me and began to murmur.

I raised my voice slightly as I went on: "The speculators, the gamblers, are the only people who were hurt. Those who sold what they didn't have are paying for their folly. I have no sympathy for them. Blacklock and Company wishes none such in its following, and seizes every opportunity to weed them out. We are in business only for the bona fide investing public, and we are stronger with that public to-day than we have ever been."

Again I looked from coward to coward of that mob, changed from three hundred strong to three hundred weak. Then I bowed and withdrew, leaving them to mutter and disperse. I felt well content with the trend of events—I who wished to impress the public and the financiers that I had broken with speculation and speculators, could I have had a better than this unexpected opportunity sharply to define my new course? And as Textiles, unsupported, fell toward the close of the day, my content rose toward my normal high spirits. There was no whisper in the Street that I was in trouble; on the contrary, the really long ceased to be a stock gambler and deserved a much better reputation than I had.

I searched with a good deal of anxiety, as you may imagine, the early editions of the afternoon papers. The first article my eye chanced upon was a mere wordy elaboration of the brief and vague announcement Monson had put in the Herald. Later came an interview with old Ellersly. "Not at all mysterious," he had said to the reporters. "Mr. Blacklock found he would have to go abroad on business soon—he didn't know just when. On the spur of the moment they decided to marry." A good enough story, and I confirmed it when I admitted the reporters. I read their estimates of my fortune and of Anita's with rather bitter amusement—she whose father was living from hand to mouth; I who could not have emerged from a forced settlement with enough to enable me to keep a trap. Still, when one is rich, the reputation of being rich is heavily expensive; but when one is poor the reputation of being rich can be made a wealth-giving asset.

Even as I was reading these fables of my millions, there lay on the desk before me a statement of the exact posture of my affairs—a memorandum made by myself for my own eyes, and to be burned as soon as I mastered it. On the face of the figures the balance against me was appalling. My chief asset, indeed my only asset that measured up toward my debts, was my Coal stocks, those brought and those contracted for; and, while their par value far exceeded my liabilities, they had to appear in my memorandum at their actual market value on that day. I looked at the calendar—seventeen days until the reorganization scheme would be announced, only seventeen days!

Less than three business weeks, and I should be out of the storm and sailing safer and smoother seas than I had ever known. "To indulge in vague hopes is bad," thought I, "but not to indulge in a hope, especially when one has only it between him and the pit." And I proceeded to plan on the not unwarranted assumption that my Coal hope was a present reality. Indeed, what alternative had I? To put it among the future's uncertainties was to put myself among the utterly ruined. Using as collateral the Coal stocks I had bought outright, I borrowed more money, and with it went still deeper into the Coal venture. Everything or nothing!—since the chances in my favor were a thousand, to practically none against me. Everything or nothing!—since only by taking everything could I possibly save anything at all.

Home! For the first time since I was a squat little slip of a shaver the world had a personal meaning for me. Perhaps, if the only other home of mine had been less uninviting, I should not have looked forward with such high beating of the heart to that cold home Anita was making for me. No, I withdraw that. It is fellows like me, to whom kindly looks and unbought attentions are as unfamiliar as flowers to the Arctic—it is men like me that appreciate and treasure and warm up under the faintest show or shadowy suggestion of the sunshine of sentiment. I'd be a little ashamed to say how much money I handed out to beggars and street gamins that day. I had a home to go to!

As my electric drew up at the Willoughby's, a carriage backed to make room for it. I recognized the horses and the coachman and the crest.

"'How long has Mrs. Ellersly been with my wife?" I asked the elevator boy, as he was taking me up.

"About half an hour, sir," he answered. "But Mr. Ellersley—I took up his card before lunch, and he's still there."

Instead of using my key, I rang the bell, and when Sanders opened, I said: "Is Mrs. Blacklock in?" in a voice loud enough to penetrate to the drawing-room.

As I had hoped, Anita appeared. Her dress told me that her trunks had come—she had sent for her trunks! "Mother and father are here," said she, without looking at me

NIP IT IN THE BUD.

First Appearance of Dandruff a Forerunner of Future Baldness.

That such is the case has been conclusively proven by scientific research. Prof. Unna, the noted European skin specialist, declares that dandruff is the burrowed-up cuticle of the scalp, caused by parasites destroying the vitality in the hair bulb. The hair becomes lifeless, and, in time, falls out. This can be prevented.

Newbro's Herpicide kills this dandruff germ, and restores the hair to its natural softness and abundancy.

Herpicide is now used by thousands of people—all satisfied that it is the most wonderful hair preparation on the market to-day.

POINTS FOR THE BUYERS

V. W. Nash, Sr., of Park avenue, sells the best coal and it is well screened. Lowest prices.

Go to E. B. Maynard's tonsorial parlors when you want a first-class hair-cut, shave or shampoo.

Besides doing a real estate business, George F. Brown, of Somerset street, sells life and accident insurance.

J. W. Van Sickle, North avenue, is the butcher the careful housewife likes. A cleanly shop and the finest of meats.

The Grandview Meat Market, Somerset street, will please the most exacting patron, not only as to quality of meats, but service.

The vibration treatment makes you feel like a new man. At William B. Randolph's barber shop, Watchung avenue. The place for gentlemen.

If you have never traded with John A. Koch, the Watchung avenue butcher, you do not know what good meat you can get. His prices are reasonable.

H. W. Marshall, of East Front street, has a first-class laundry and all goods left in his charge will be properly washed and ironed to your satisfaction.

There is no better smoke than the solid Havana sold by M. C. Dobbins, North avenue. The old reliable Nickel Yara is as good as ever. All the standard brands of smoking tobaccoes and most of the brand new ones.

KITCHEN HELPS.

To open a fruit jar try placing a warm flatiron on the cover for a few moments.

To remove the scraping of cake batter from the bowl an ordinary calling card is better than a spoon.

To prevent a gas stove oven from rusting, as it does if care is not taken rub the entire inside with a flannel cloth saturated with sweet oil.

An admirable plan for cleansing a coffeepot and the surest method of keeping it occasionally with strong, hot borax water.

A good place for the rolling pin may be made by screwing two curtain pole brackets to the inner side of the kitchen closet door just far enough apart to hold each handle to the pin.

It is a good plan to tack a piece of white oilcloth on the wall back of each of the kitchen tables, as otherwise it will soon become discolored and greasy—a resit that is almost unavoidable otherwise.

Bold Man.

"Just one," said Mr. Nervey, and, leaning forward, he kissed her.

"Sir," she cried, "you forget yourself!"

"That's so. That one was for you," he said, and, leaning forward again, he annexed another. "One more for me."—Philadelphia Press.

HOW TO VOTE.

CLOSE THE CURTAIN, by moving the handle to the right side of the machine.

PULL THE STRAIGHT TICKET KNOB bearing the name of your party over to the right, UNTIL THE BELL RINGS. This turns a pointer down over every name on your party ticket.

IF YOU WISH TO SPLIT, turn back the numbered pointer from over the name you wish to cut out, then turn down a pointer in another party line, over the name of the candidate for whom you wish to vote for that office.

A vote will be registered for each name and question THAT HAS A POINTER OVER IT, when the voter moves the handle to open the curtain.

HOW TO VOTE A STRAIGHT TICKET.

1st—Move the Handle of the Curtain Lever to the right as far as it will go.
2d—PULL THE STRAIGHT TICKET KNOB bearing the name or emblem of your party over to the right UNTIL THE BELL RINGS.

This turns down all the Pointers of your party to a voting position, exposing an X above the names of the candidates you wish to vote for.

3d—LEAVING THE POINTERS AS THEY ARE, move the Handle of the Curtain Lever to the left as far as it will go.
This will count your vote, and set the machine for the next voter.

HOW TO VOTE A SPLIT TICKET.

1st—Move the Handle of the Curtain Lever to the right as far as it will go.

4th—LEAVING THE POINTERS AS THEY ARE, move the Handle of the Curtain Lever to the left as far as it will go.
This will count your vote, and set the machine for the next voter.

SINGLE CANDIDATE AND GROUP VOTING.

All candidates for an office to which ONLY ONE is to be elected, are arranged in ONE VERTICAL COLUMN, and ONLY ONE of the Pointers in that column can be turned down, as shown in Cut No. 1 for office of MAYOR; while for an office to which two or more are to be elected, the names of the candidates are arranged on AS MANY COLUMNS as the NUMBER OF PERSONS to be VOTED FOR for that office, and the SAME NUMBER of Pointers can be turned down—regardless of position—even if all Pointers are in the same column, as shown in Cut No. 2 for office of CORONER, to which two can be voted for.

TO VOTE ON QUESTIONS

Turn the Pointers over YES or NO and leave them there.

Jap Spy Caught.

Manila, P. I., Nov. 5.—A Japanese captain of engineers, disguised, has been caught sketching fortifications in the Philippines. The Japanese government has been communicated with regarding the deportation of the offender. It is said probably little or nothing in the way of punishment will be visited upon the prisoner, because the United States is now anxious to placate that nation in view of the recent discrimination in San Francisco against Japanese children.

Football and General Sports

FOOTBALL.

The re-arrangement at Yale of the last few days, due to the injury to Roome, the fullback and punter, has prevented the New Haven players from having as nice an edge to their team work as they would like to have. Yale had just begun to put a polish on her offence when the readjustment of the backfield and the hunt for another punter became necessary. With Forbes moved out to end, with Paige, who is inexperienced in big games, at tackle, and with Roome's defensive ability and line breaking ability missing, the Blue has just reason to feel apprehensive.

PARK CLUB BOWLERS TAKE BOTH GAMES.

Defeat Princton on the Local Alleys By Large Scores.

The Park Club bowling team showed the result of practice Saturday night, when it defeated the Princeton team in two games by big scores. The local bowlers had their eyes on the pins and several high scores were rolled. Monroe Long put up a score of 209 in the first game, while in the second Daniel excelled that by rolling 226 and F. O. Ball rolled a score of 220.

In the first game the Parks had a margin of 128 points to spare, while in the second game rolled one of their best games, winning by a margin of 179 points, the total score being 945. They rolled over 800 in the first game. Owing to the lateness of the hour and the fact that some of the bowlers wanted to dance, the third game was not rolled.

The scores:

HAD STIFF RUN.

Sporting Ride After Hounds for Watchung Hunt Club Members.

The Watchung Hunt Club had a lively run Saturday afternoon. Twenty riders met at the Crescent avenue triangle, but there were not that many at the finish. There were a number of stiff fences on the run, that tried the mettle of horses and riders.

The hounds were laid in at the old kennels at Rahway road, and two stiff jumps faced them huntsmen early in the run. The course was on to Westfield in a straight line, where, after a check, the pack streamed out ahead of the riders for a run to Colonia. The going was over meadow land, with a lot of high fences.

Those who finished: L. S. Treadwell, on Strongheart; L. E. Waring, on his gray; C. E. Marshall, on Magog; H. A. Bourne, on his new purchase; Dr. M. O'M. Knott, on Zephyr; Walter Lucas, on Magyyar; W. H. Wildey, on Recruit; G. Fred Alpers, on Black V.; Mair and Vaughan, on Middlesex and Pilot.

O. F. C. LOST.

The Crescents, of Elizabeth, defeated the Orange Field Club Saturday afternoon, at Elizabeth, by the score of 11 to 0 in a game that was without special features. The gains were made almost entirely by line play. A few forward passes were tried, with the effect of putting the ball out of bounds. King and Emmons made the only runs of the game. The line-up:

Crescents.		Orange F. C.
Brown	right end	Hillyer
Kurtz	right tackle	Joseph
Ohl	right guard	J. McCullough
Smith	centre	McLaughlin
H. Smith	left guard	Lyness
Bender	left tackle	W. McCullough
Bartlett-Rahm	left end	Emmons
Cramer	quarterback	McVoy (Capt.)
Boyd	right halfback	Brown
Lloyd	fullback	Embleton

Score at end of first half—6 to 0. Final score—11 to 0. Touchdowns—Kurtz and Lloyd. Goals from touchdown—Lloyd. Time of halves—20 and 15. Referee—Glazebrook. Umpire—Tucker.

FLEMINGTON MOWED DOWN.

The Flemington A. C. football was handily defeated by the Dunellen Field Club's eleven at Flemington, Saturday afternoon by the score of 22 to 0. The home team put up a plucky game, but could not move to Dunellen's line. Dunellen could work to the goal without kicking. The line-up:

Flemington.		Dunellen.
Berkaw	right end	Peters, Maltby
Wood	right tackle	Rhinehart
Kelly	right guard	Logan
Mahoney	centre	Myers
Slattery	left guard	Smalley, Loghlin
G. Parker	left tackle	Lake, Smalley
C. Parker	left end	Rutley, Duneen
Bellis	quarterback	Hamilton
Anderson	right halfback	Lake, Hamilton
Moore	left halfback	Smith
Bohren	fullback	W. Maltby

Final score—22 to 0. Touchdowns—Maltby, 2; Hamilton, Smith. Goals from touchdown—Rhinehart. Time of halves—20 minute. Referee—Furman. Umpire—Smith.

In Somerset County.

Somerset County will vote on the coming election day on the question of the adoption of the Strong law and the abolition of the old Board of Chosen Freeholders. What is singular about the Somerset election is the fact that this change is not demanded because of any allegations of extravagance, graft or misuse of the public moneys, but because the North Plainfield section of the county claims that far too great a proportion of the public improvements have been made elsewhere and North Plainfield has not had a fair allotment of new roads, new bridges, new pavements, etc. Yet it will doubtless be found in Somerset as it has been found in other counties, if the change is made, that the news system with a smaller Board of Freeholders will be less cumbersome, less expensive, more advantageous and more economical than the old board with a member from each township, town and borough in the county. In Hunterdon, Middlesex and Passaic counties nobody but the politicians want to return to the old system. The new gives satisfaction and saves money wherever tried.

George H. Beiser, of Brooklyn, is renovating his residence in Prospect avenue and intends to remove his family to Plainfield. They have been regular attendants of Dr. Cuyler's (now Dr. McAfee's) for twenty-five years. Their summer residence is in the old Sussex Hills, Sparta, N. J.

BRIGHTON HAD AN APPETITE AND THIS IS WHAT HE ATE—HERE'S THE VERY LIST

The wise ones over in the borough who were alarmed at the ante-election silence and who predicted that something would surely happen before November 6, had their suspicions verified Saturday night. The circumstance occurred in Van's lunch room at Somerset street and Somerset place and came in the form of an exhibition of food demolition, the of which has never been equalled anywhere in New Jersey.

Charley Brighton, a well-known North Plainfield colored character, was the attacking party and he sallied into the eating place with a look on his face akin to a famished wolf. Seating himself at a table, he first displayed a roll of real money to show that he was acting on the square and then by degrees ordered the waiter to bring him enough food to supply a large-sized family. What he ate and what it cost him was checked up as follows:

2 plates of beans	20
2 orders of oyster fries	50
30 raw oysters	75
2 oyster stews	40
3 boiled eggs	15
Another plate of beans	10
8 cups of coffee	40
1 loaf of bread (contributed in slices).
Total	$3.50

When Brighton reached the middle of his gastronomic act, the youthful waiter who was attending his wants, thought some sort of a lemon was being handed to him and demanded that the cash be produced. The diner paid for each order as he called for it after that and the entire larder was placed at his disposal. When at last he concluded and the tired waiter sat down for a rest, Brighton pulled the same roll of spoof from his pocket and taking a $5 bill off the top offered to bet anyone in the place that he could stow away an additional 100 oysters but what he had already done had spread up and down the street and there were no takers. As he left the place, Van gave him the welcome sign and told him to come early and often so long as he had the appetite and the mazuma.

Brighton ran afoul of the borough police not long since and Mayor Smalley sent him to Somerville for twenty days. They put him on a short diet at the county bastile and Saturday's performance was probably one of a series he is conducting to catch up.

DISTRICT COURT.

Minor Cases Settled or Disposed of in Short Session.

Several minor cases were disposed of at the morning session of the district court this morning. The suits of Mifford R. Giles against Lottie Smith and W. G. Osgoodby, on contract, and Cadmus Bros. against W. G. Osgoodby, on contract, were settled. Neuman Bros. secured a verdict against Osgoodby for $26.25. C. L. Holstein against Fred Bowe, on contract, was settled.

Judge Newcorn handed down a verdict of no cause of action in the case of Leonard Bartlett against Abram Wolf.

The court adjourned until 1 o'clock, to enable the plaintiff in Hand against Gould to get his witnesses in town. The action is on replevin, to secure goods alleged to belong to John Entwhistle on attachment for Walter L. Hetfield.

CHURCH ANNIVERSARY.

Father Egan's Church Is Twenty-Five Years Old.

The twenty-fifth anniversary of the dedication of the present St. Mary's Roman Catholic church, Bayonne, was celebrated yesterday with elaborate ceremonies in which Bishop O'Connor took part. At 10:30 o'clock a solemn high mass was celebrated by the rector, Father Andrew M. Egan, who was formerly pastor of St. Mary's, in this city. Father Delehanty, of St. Mary's, took part in the service.

A feature of the services was the consecration of a gold chalice which Father Egan bought last summer in Paris, and has given to the church in honor of his deceased mother.

CITY FATHERS' ROUTINE

Minor Business Transacted at November Session of the Common Council.

PETITIONS AS USUAL

Some Requests Granted and Others Referred—To Meet Next Monday Night.

There was a considerable amount of routine business transacted at the November meeting of the Common Council, last night. The ordinance providing for the vacating of Dunham street, near All Souls' church, was adopted on third reading, after a public hearing was given. No one was present to speak for or against the proposed action.

Horace Coddington's request to move a house from 630 East Front street to a site on East Second street, on his own property, was granted, on motion of Mr. Mellick. A petition was received from three-quarters of the property-owners on Arlington avenue asking that that avenue, between Fourth and Fifth streets be widened to conform to the width of the street between Fifth and Sixth streets. The petition was referred to the street committee.

Residents of West Front street asked that lights be placed on that street, 300 feet east of Jefferson avenue. The petition was referred to the light committee.

The J. D. Loizeaux Lumber Company asked for permission to use cement blocks in the construction of a house on the southside of Evergreen avenue ,and Mr. Mellick offered a resolution, which was adopted, granting the petition, provided it is approved by Building Inspector Doane.

J. W. Reinhart, of Belvidere avenue, who overpaid $54.07 in taxes, asked to have that amount returned to him, and he submitted a verification of the facts in a letter written by Tax Collector J. W. Murray, Jr. The matter was referred to the finance committee.

Woolston & Buckle and others petitioned for electric lights on Evergreen avenue, where eight new houses are being erected. The matter was referred to the light committee, as was also a petition from residents asking for a light on Norwood avenue, near Green Brook. The Public Service Corporation informed the Common Council that two lights, as ordered, one on Rock avenue and the other on East Second street, have been placed in position. A similar report was received concerning a light placed on Leland avenue, and the reports were filed after being considered by the light committee.

Dr. Albert Pittis, of East Front street, informed the Common Council that he has a barn suitable for the keeping of the patrol wagon and horse, which he is prepared to lease to the city, if it has secured no other quarters in view. The matter was referred to the police committee.

J. G. Staats resigned his position as a regular fireman, and Patrolman James McKeon resigned his position. Both resignations were accepted and the appointment by the Mayor of Frank Ingraham in place of Mr. Staats, was confirmed.

Street Commissioner Gavett reported that from October first to November first, thirty sewer permits were granted and $30 was turned over to the city treasury. Building Inspector T. O. Doane reported that seventeen building permits were granted during the past month.

Clerk Horace G. Adams, of the district court reported receipts for the past month of $155.09 and disbursements of $53.90.

A resolution offered by Mr. Ginna, which was adopted, provided for the issuance of three $1,000 street improvement bonds, in anticipation of the collection of taxes.

Four new fire hydrants, one at Leland avenue and George street, a second at Sherwin and George street, a third at East Second street and Leland avenue, and a fourth at Sumner avenue and East Second street, were ordered located in accordance with a resolution offered by Mr. Mellick. He stated that fifteen houses are now in course of erection and he believed that such improvements should be encouraged. These houses will cost between $6,000 and $8,000 each.

On motion by Mr. Hubbard an electric light was ordered placed under the Leland avenue railroad bridge. He stated that his attention had been called to the darkness at that point and believed that a light should be placed there. It is left for Chief Kiely to designate the exact place to locate the lamp.

Mr. Gloak moved that when the Common Council adjourn it be to meet on Monday night, November 12, to give a public hearing on the proposed action of acquiring land for a pumping station on Randolph road for the improvement of the sanitary sewer system.

NO POWER TO GRANT THEM INCREASE DURING TERM OF OFFICE.

Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh, to whom was referred the question as to the right of the Common Council to increase the salaries of the members of the Board of Assessors, reported at the November meeting of that body, last night, that according to the law, it had no right to either increase or lower their salaries during their terms of office.

As to the right to pay Alexander D. Ayers, overseer of the poor, for extra work performed for the Board of Assessors, he said that the Common Council could refuse the request inasmuch as it did not authorize the work done. However, if the Common Council cared to recognize the fact that the assessors needed assistance there was no legal objection to their remunerating Mr. Ayers for services performed.

In view of this opinion, Mr. Buxton moved that the Common Council ratify the action of the Board of Assessors in hiring Mr. Ayers and pay his bill, amounting to $70. The motion was adopted. Mr. Ayers assisted the assessors in the preparation of a duplicate tax book and in several other ways.

Mr. Marsh reported that in the tax matter of Elston M. French, referred to the State Board of Taxation, that a settlement had been effected and that in the suit of the American Sewage Disposal Company against the City of Plainfield, the matter is statue quo.

CITY DONATES $153 TO FIREMEN'S PENSION FUND.

Councilman Mellick Says That the Fire Laddies Should Be Encouraged.

In conformity with the State law which provides that one per cent. of the salaries of firemen may be set aside for the establishment of a pension fund, Chairman Mellick, of the fire committee, offered a resolution at the November meeting of the Common Council, last night, appropriating a similar amount from the sale of old fire material for the same fund. The amount appropriated was $153.29. Mr. Mellick said he believed it was wise to encourage the firemen in their worthy efforts to establish such a fund so that when they become unfit for service they will have something to fall back upon.

The law provides that one per cent. of the salaries of regular firemen be appropriated for the pension fund until a maximum amount of $20,000 has been raised, and the city is privileged to set apart a like per cent. for the same fund once a year. Mr. Mellick's resolution appropriating $153.29 to the fund was adopted.

CONTRACTS AWARDED.

Peter Morgan to Build Southside Sanitary Sewer.

According to the action of the street committee, at its meeting a few nights ago, Chairman Gloak offered a resolution at the November meeting of the Common Council, last night, awarding the contract for the construction of the southside sanitary sewer to Peter Morgan, of Poughkeepsie, and to Warren B. Travell, of this city, for the pumping station. They were the lowest bidders for this work. The Mayor and city clerk were authorized to sign a contract for the city, when the contractors furnish the property security for the faithful performance of the work.

The extension to the sewer is intended to provide for a certain section of the southside of the city which cannot be sewered by gravity, it being necessary to install a pumping station. It is proposed to locate the station on land which the city proposes to acquire on Randolph road, south of Arlington avenue.

McCarthy Case Ends.

Judge Runyon suspended sentence this morning on John O'Keeffe, the boy charged with swearing at Edward McCarthy after a Hallowe'en ruction before the latter's house at West Fifth and Division streets. After both sides had produced several witnesses the court declared that the trouble was too complicated by family differences to admit of ready adjustment. The five boys, who admitted throwing stones, and O'Keeffe who acknowledged repeating language McCarthy was alleged to have used, were lectured before released. S. S. Swackhamer appeared for O'Keeffe and F. J. Huff for McCarthy.

Thanksgiving Day Services.

Special services will be held at St. Stephen's church on Thanksgiving Day, commencing with early celebration of the holy communion at 7:30 o'clock in the morning and again at 9:30 o'clock. There will be the usual donations of vegetables, fruits, etc., to be given to the Plainfield Relief Association.

MANSLAUGHTER VERDICT

But Judge Defers Sentence on Illario Woman Because of Revelations.

MAY BE A MISTRIAL

Trying Jurors Went to Scene of Tragedy Without Knowledge of the Court—Constables to Blame.

The trial of Florinda Illario for the murder of Alexander Dipoalo, the contractor, of Raritan, which has occupied the Somerset Court at Somerville seven days, terminated last night, when the jury, after a deliberation of three hours, gave a verdict of manslaughter.

Justice Garretson was about to sentence the women when Clarence E. Case, her counsel, asked that sentence be deferred, as he would ask for a rule to show cause why a new trial should not be granted.

When asked for his reasons for making this request, Mr. Case said the jury, during the progress of the trial, had, without the consent of the Court, been taken to the house where Dipoalo was killed by the prisoner and had been allowed to examine the premises.

Justice Garretson manifested great indignation on hearing this and ordered the constables in charge of the jury brought before him. When they were arraigned he asked them if the charge made by counsel for the defense was true. The constables admitted that in one of their walks with the jury during a court recess, they walked through Mechanic street and were about to pass the residence of Mrs. Warwick, where Dipoalo was shot.

Justice Garretson granted this request and deferred sentence on the woman.

TO STOP NUISANCE OF BURNING LEAVES

SUBJECT OF DEBATE AMONG THE CITY FATHERS REFERRED TO COMMITTEE.

The nuisance of burning leaves in various parts of the city, which is complained of every fall, was brought to the attention of the Common Council last night by Mr. Mellick, through a communication signed by sixty citizens. They referred to the annoyance and distress occasioned by the burning of leaves and asked that action be taken to stop it.

Mr. Mellick supplimented the statement of the citizens, by urging that something be done to bring relief from the nuisance. He said that the comfort and health of the citizens demanded some action and he hoped that the matter would be carefully investigated. On his motion the petition was referred to the street committee.

Chairman Gloak, of that committee, said that he was willing to have the matter referred to his committee, but he thought it was a little late to do anything this year. He believed that steps could be taken to abate the nuisance another year.

Mr. Mellick suggested that something might be done now, such as restricting the burning of leaves to one day a week, say on Friday, and he would be glad to co-operate with the committee in solving the problem.

Mr. Tyler commented on the matter and added that it might be taken up with a consideration of the collection and disposal of garbage, which he thought should be investigated by the Common Council. Mr. Mellick thought it would be an expensive thing to provide for the collection of leaves, but believed that some method could be adopted to stop the burning of them.

He cited a personal instance of the burning of leaves about his home, the smoke filling the entire lower floor of his house, much to the annoyance of his family.

Mr. Tolles believed that the matter should be referred to the street committee with power to act at once.

It was a question in the mind of Mr. Hibbard whether the burning of leaves could be termed a bon-fire. He thought that one had the right to burn rubbish, while a bon-fire was generally considered in the nature of a celebration of some event.

Vestry Election.

In accordance with the act of incorporation of St. Stephen's parish, the annual election of wardens and vestrymen for the ensuing year will be held on Tuesday, November 27.

COMPLETE ELECTION RETURNS.

The Daily Press will be issued at noon tomorrow with the complete election returns throughout the country.

ST. MARY'S BUYS SCHOOL

Washington Building Disposed of by the Board of Education.

CONSIDERATION, $14,500

Structure at Fifth and Liberty Erected in 1875—Antiquated Now—To Be Used By Parish.

Guided to a certain extent by Superintendent Maxson, who declared that the building is practical inadequate for the educational purposes required of it, the city Board of Education at its meeting, last night, decided to sell the Washington school, located at Fifth and Liberty streets. Overtures for its purchase have been made at frequent intervals by St. Mary's parish, whose church property is adjoining on the Sixth street side of the block, and since his appointment as pastor, Rev. Father Bogan has renewed the offers, as last meeting with success. The figure agreed upon for the building and grounds at $14,500 and the conditions of the sale were specified in the following resolution passed by the school board last night:

WHEREAS this Board hath ascertained and determined, and doth hereby ascertain and determine, that the school property owned by this Board, known as the Washington School Building, and the lot on which the said building stands, located on the southerly corner of West Fifth and Liberty streets, in the City of Plainfield, are, in the judgment of this Board, wholly inadequate for the public school purposes for which they have been and are now used, and that it is not practicable by alterations or additions or otherwise to render them suitable and appropriate to meet the pressing needs and just demands of the public, the duty of meeting which the law has imposed upon this board; and

WHEREAS this Board has now the opportunity to enter into contract for the sale of said property for its full fair value, to wit, the sum of $14,500, and has already made arrangements looking to the purchase of other land suitable and appropriate for the purposes of a new school building of adequate capacity and otherwise adapted to the needs of the city in the premises:

RESOLVED, That the President and Secretary of the Board be and they are hereby authorized and directed to make, execute and deliver on behalf of the Board, a contract with the intending purchaser, said contract to be prepared and approved by Craig A. Marsh, counsel for the Board, for the sale and conveyance of said first mentioned property for the said sum of $14,500, and to execute and deliver a proper ded and conveyance of the premises, upon receipt of the sum of $14,500 consideration;

RESOLVED, That the matter of the terms of payment of the consideration, the dates for delivery of possession and the delivery of the deed, respectively, and the temporary use of said property by this Board for school purposes pending the providing of other accommodations elsewhere, and the terms on which such temporary use shall be obtained, the form of the deed, and all other matters of detail to enable this Board to carry out the true intent and meaning of these resolutions be referred with power to the Finance Committee of this Board.

The Washington building is the smallest of the city school structures and one of the oldest. The property at Fifth and Liberty streets was bought in 1874 and the school was erected a year later. It is of rather peculiar construction and though being high enough for two stories, contains but one floor having six classrooms. It is in the centre of a populous district and for years has always been filled to its capacity.

When Father Egan was at the head of St. Mary's church he believed the site should be acquired by his parish as its membership has been increasing rapidly and it seemed to him that the time would soon come when additional property would be needed. The city School Board did not see its way clear then to make the sale but Father Egan's offer led the members to look into the matter thoroughly. Superintendent Maxson was instructed to make an investigation as to the future needs af the building and as to the advisability of seeking other quarters and this he has been doing.

Father Egan was succeeded at St. Mary's by Father Bogan and the latter continued the offers for the property. He made such liberal propositions that he was favorably received by the board and the sale has been under discussion for several months. The clergyman stated that it was not his desire to take immediate possession and that in the event of the transfer the wishes of his parishoners would be gratified if it could be simply held in order to prevent an undesirable purchaser stepping in. These and other inducements combined led the board to authorize the finance committee to make the sale.

Superintendent Maxson was asked last night about the board's plans and he said steps would be taken to secure another site in the same locality and erect a more modern and commodious building. Such a structure is needed in that section and it

TEMPTATION OF COLBY

Offered Governorship as Reward For Support of Machine G. O. P. Ticket.

HE SPURNED THE BAIT

Mr. Alden Freeman Tells the Story and Mr. Colby Makes No Comments On It.

At a noonday meeting of candidates on the Independent Citizens' party ticket, held at East Orange yesterday, Alden Freeman, mayoralty candidate for East Orange on the Independent and fusion tickets, said that a man representing the financial interests in power in the State had asked for and received an audience with State Senator Everett Colby in his (Freeman's) house within a few days, and had then and there told Colby that if he would make one speech for the regular Republican ticket this fall the "machine" would support him for Governor of New Jersey.

Amid the thunderous cheers of those present, Mr. Freeman related that Mr. Colby had emphatically spurned the offer, whereupon the alleged emissary or representative of the corporate interest had declared, addressing himself to Mr. Colby:

"Well, Colby, you'll have to vote for either Dryden or 'Jim' Smith for United States Senator."

Mr. Colby, when seen yesterday afternoon, declined to add anything to Mr. Freeman's story of the meeting at his house when the proposition as to the governorship was made.

ONE-FOURTH VOTE CAST BY NOON HOUR

IN CITY 1,291 OUT OF REGISTER OF 5,004—IN BOROUGH ABOUT 350.

Up to noon 1,291 votes were cast in all four wards of the city, out of a total of 5,004 registered. The vote is as follows:

First ward—First district, 180; Second district, 73.

Fourth ward—First district, 131; Second district, 123; Third district, 108.

IN NORTH PLAINFIELD.

Up to noon the vote in North Plainfield was very light. There are about 800 voters in each of the two districts and at 12 o'clock the machines in the First had registered but 175, while the figures were about the same on the other side of Somerset street. Little or no interest has been taken in the election with the exception of the proposition for the abolition of the Board of Freeholders. The borough as a rule is in favor of the measure and will undoubtedly give it a large poll.

ROOT ON FOWLER.

Democrats Quote President's Spokesman Against Republican Candidate.

The Republican campaigners put ou this handbill and flooded the town with copies this morning:

"Proclamation: In Voting Today Stand by President Roosevelt, Prosperity, Good Times, High Wages; Vote for Hon. Charles N. Fowler, for Congress.

The Democrats had a prompt reply for that shot. They called attention to the words of President Roosevelt's accredited spokesman in the campiagn, Elihu Root. Speaking in New York, last week, Mr. Root said flatly that a man who did not answer roll calls in Congress was unfit to sit in the body. That statement stands as the President's opinion of such Congressmen. It was said of Hearst, but the Democrats quietly pointed out that it exactly fitted Mr. Fowler.

A Thrilling Scene.

During the action of the melodrama, "Her First False Step," which comes to the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow night, local playgoers will witness one of the most thrilling scenes ever put on the stage. A little child is thrown by the "villain" directly into a cage containing several savage lions and is saved by the quick action of the "hero," who happens to be the trainer of the animals. One of the lions is the famous "Nero," who thrilled all Coney Island two years ago by attack a keeper and inflicting injuries which all but caused his death. The animal is one of three which is carried by the company.

RIBS BROKEN BY AUTO AS HE HURRIED HOME

SCOTT PRESS WORKS EMPLOYEE DIDN'T HEAR MACHINE APPROACH.

Hurrying across the roadway to his home at nightfall, William Emerson, an employee at the Scott shop, was struck and knocked down by an automobile, yesterday, on East Fifth street, near Franklin place. Three ribs were broken.

No blame attaches to automobile driver. The machine, which belongs to a Mrs. Swayze, of Bound Brook, was going at a slow pace, and Emerson was hit because he was so intent in getting to his boarding house, across the street, he didn't hear the machine's approach. With Mrs. Swayze in the machine were her brother, C. H. Tucker, and the driver, Nahum Davis, both of Bound Brook.

There was police investigation of the accident a minute after it occurred. Chief Kiely, who lives near the scene of it, on his way home to supper, heard Emerson's groan as the automobile party bent over him at the other side of the street. The chief ran across and took charge of the injured man without delay.

Emerson was removed to his boarding house, where his wife had been awaiting his home-coming, and Dr. Endicott was called in. The physician immediately discovered the broken ribs, and Emerson was placed in bed.

The nature of the man's injuries were certificates of good character for the chauffeur. They were of a character that indicated a slow speed. If the machine had been going swiftly Emerson would have been dead or fatally hurt. As the party had stopped and ministered as best they could to the injured man, there was no shadow of reason for holding them. Chief Kiely took the names and told them they were free to go.

PROTEST MADE AGAINST OPENING NARROW STREETS.

Town Improvement Association Communicates With the Common Council.

The Town Improvement Association, in a communication to the Common Council, last night, took occasion to speak of a tendency to open narrow and blind thoroughfares in what might be termed tenement districts of the city, which it considered to be undesirable. It complained that it left insufficient space for children, proper light and ventilation and is a detriment to the whole city.

The association urged that the city give the matter its earnest consideration and that it be thoroughly investigated with a view to correcting such an evil in the future. Streets referred to are less than fifty feet wide and might more properly be termed alley-ways and lanes. The communication was referred to the street committee.

POLITICAL PLEA.

Bartholomew Taylor's Republicanism As An Asset In Court.

Bartholomew Taylor, a P. S. C. laborer, was found by Detective McCarthy, last night, clinging to a tree on West Front street. Bartholomew didn't dare let go of the tree because to was necessary to his equilibrium.

In court this morning, Judge Runyon recognized Bartholomew as one who had failed to keep his promise to return and pay a fine in September. Bartholomew said he was awful sorry, and there was money in the house, if His Honor wanted it, for a fine.

"But please, your Honor, don't lock me up—not on Election Day," pleaded Bartholomew.

"Why, are you so anxious to vote?"

"Sure," said Bartholomew earnestly. "I want to vote. Don't throw down a good Republican."

Judge Runyon said a good Republican deserved another chance and suspended sentence.

Refused the Assessors Extra Pay.

The Board of Assessors presented bills to the Common Council, at the November meeting, last night, for extra services this year, which was required by the new law. The bills were $160 each, or $640 in all, but in accordance with an opinion by Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh, they were not ordered paid. Mr. Marsh informed the Common Council that it had no right to either increase or lower the salary of the assessors during their term. The regular bills of the assessors were presented and they were ordered paid.

Gans-Nelson Fight Pictures.

The original Gans-Nelson fight pictures have been secured by Manager Counihan for presentation at the New Plainfield theatre on Tuesday afternoon and night, November 13. They are said to be the most complete fight pictures that have ever been secured.

MARTINE HAS A CHANCE

Light Voting Indicates Greatly Reduced Majority Here For Fowler.

GUESSES ON RESULT

Elizabeth May Give Martine 1,500 Majority and He May Carry Rahway Too.

Despite the claims of harmony, the scene at the polls this morning showed that less interest than usual is being taken in the election today, but it should be remembered that the heaviest voting is done in the evening when the machinist returns from the shop and the commuter gets back from New York. There appears to be no reason to change the forecast, at this time, that the Republican Assembly candidates will get over the normal Republican majority in Plainfield and that the party's Congressional nominee will be heavily slashed. Perkins, Moxon and Tillman may receive 1,000 majority.

That there is decided opposition to the party's Congressional nominee was freely admitted by the organization men last night, although they have been maintaining during the last few weeks that there was entire harmony in the ranks. Mr. Fowler's absenteeism in Congress and his neutral and silent stand during the primary campaign has lost for him many Republican votes. Again the friendship test enters into the contest for many good Republicans will cast a vote for their fellow-townsman, James E. Martine, whose lifelong ambition it has been to go to Congress.

The stand taken by the party's Assembly nominees for the Bishops' law has helped them immeasurably in Plainfield. But they are up against it on the other hand because of the local dislike for John F. Dryden. Were the United States Senator elected by popular choice, Plainfield would return an overwhelming vote against Mr. Dryden. As it is many of the Colbyites will knife the Assembly district for the reason that it is supposed to be friendly to the Newarker.

There is no interest at all in the local fight, particularly as the Republican candidates for mayor and tax collector are endorsed by the Democrats.

Some of the organization leaders say that they do not expect 500 majority for Fowler in Plainfield, although one or two still hold out for 800. Unless the Elizabethan gets about 500 majority here, there is a possibility that Mr. Martine will carry Union county. The farmer-orator says that he will carry Elizabeth by 2,000 majority. That is Mr. Fowler's home, but Martine swept it last time and he believes that it is overwhelmingly for him now. Should it transpire that Union gives Martine a majority he has a chance of election. Warren, it is believed, will give him 1,2000 majority, while Morris may not go for Mr. Fowler by over 1,500.

The Republicans claim the district by 2,000 majority. The Democrats say that they have it for Martine by 500.

Martine practically concluded his campaign yesterday and last night. In the afternoon he addressed 5,000 employees of the Singer Works, receiving a great ovation. Afterwards he shook hands with as many of the men as time would allow. Last night, headed by a brass band, Mr. Martine perched upon a truck, spoke at five different outdoor gatherings. He was widely cheered by the crowds. Later he visited the Hungarian ball and addressed the voters there and afterwards he visited the Liederkranz ball and made another speech. He returned to the Berkely Hotel at 3:30 o'clock this morning, somewhat weary, but enthusiastic over his prospects of receiving a large vote.

$100 FOR LECTURES.

In the regular order of business at the city Board of Education meeting, last night, an appropriation of $100 was made for the use of Superintendent Maxson in providing a series of lectures for teachers. They will be on educational topics and for the advancement of the various faculties in their work. It may possibly be arranged to have the public invited.

Drs. Tomlinson and VanHorn, the school physicians, reported examining 563 pupils during October. The building committee reported splendid progress in the grading and arranging of the new High school grounds and the clerk reported a balance of $17,880.38.

John D. Boyd, formerly of this city, where he was engaged in special work for the New York and New Jerse Telephone Company, is spending a few days in town, incidentally coming here to vote. He is now located in Newark.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

Miss Anna Day in "When Knighthood Was in Flower" is the announced attraction at the New Plainfield theatre this afternoon and tonight.

"Her First False Step" which is at the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow night, is said to be one of the best melodramas on the road this season. It is in five acts and seven scenes. Among the most realistic being the big bank robbery, in the second act, which is said to be a marvel of stagecraft, showing three scenes in one. You see the interior of the bank with the cashier making up his books, the tunnel underneath from which the robbers make their entrance into the bank and the old house next door to the bank. A large acting company is carried and a number of new and novel specialties are introduced.

Miss Helen Grantley's engagement in this city at the New Plainfield theatre on Thursday night will afford her many admirers here their first opportunity to see this delightful and charming actress in Channing Pollock's latest dramatic effort, "The Little Gray Lady," which is described as a simple play dealing with department life in Washington. Local theatre-goers will see the same equipment as employed in the original production at the Garrick theatre, New York, where it ran for many months last year.

Amy Leslie of the Chicago News said of "The Clansman" that, "it palpitates with bold, dynamic truths and blows straight from the shoulder from an energetic fighter without malice or cowardice." She added that the audience in McVicker's theatre went wild over the play with a partiality that marked the majority as supporters of the grey uniform in the late unpleasantness. This bold and sensational drama, which has so lately stirred the North and South, returns to Plainfield with a triumphant indorsement from New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Baltimore and other large cities. It will be seen with the original company and improved production at the New Plainfield theatre Friday night.

PERSONAL.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Murray, Sr., have returned from a month's stay at Atlantic City.

Mrs. M. L. Devine, of Lafayette place, has gone to Freehold, on account of the serious illness of a relative.

Mr. Gordon, who has been stopping at Truell Court for some months, has gone to Brooklyn for the winter.

Mrs. Ramsey, of Lebanon, Hunterdon county, who has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. A. D. Edgar, of East Front street, returned home yesterday.

Miss Laura Rupert and Isaac Hoagland, of Millstone, will be married tomorrow night at the home of the bride. Among those who will witness the ceremony will be Mr. and Mrs. George White, of the borough.

Among the transfers of property involving changes in the residential part of the borough is the recent purchase by Mr. and Mrs. Leon Moran, of Grove street, of the Rogers property, corner of Mercer and Rockview avenues, now occupied by James P. Northrup. Mr. Moran will not remove to the property until spring.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

GOLF.

There will be special events at the Plainfield Country Club today and there will be a large field out to take part in them. There will be the second round for the consolation cups, the initial play for the inconsolables' cup and play for the November Handicap cup.

An attractive schedule of events has been arranged at the Park Golf Club today, morning and afternoon. The active season will practically close today with the play for the President's and Club trophies, although there will be play on the course as long as the weather remains favorable.

Notwithstanding that the golf season is on the wane there still remains several interesting events and Thanksgiving Day will see a large turnout with special events and many social features at the clubhouse.

As soon as the active season closes at the Plainfield County Club official announcement will be made of the winners in the various events.

Golfers will have an outing at the Country Club of Atlantic City on Thursday, Friday and Saturday in the eleventh semi-annual open tournament. The course is in fine order and there is a match play cup for every sixteen and every beaten eight, besides a handicap, the field should be a bumper one. The Atlantic City Club originated the plan of cups for each sixteen to finish in the qualifying round, with beaten eight cups, an innovation to catch on at once, as it keeps everybody playing for the entire three days. The club's first tournament was in December, 1899, when W. H. Davis beat Findley Douglas in the final, bearing his clubs in triumph 'mid snow and ice, as the youth did the banner. The semi-annual tournaments have been held with but one lapse since the spring of 1900. This was in 1901, when the Atlantic City Country Club had its hands full running off the national amateur and the intercollegiate championships. The winners and runnersup for the first cup have been: 1900—Spring, W. J. Travis and Findley Douglas; fall, Findley Douglas and W. H. Davis. 1902—Fall, W. J. Travis and Findley Douglas. 1903—Spring, W. J. Travis and E. A. Darby; fall, G. T. Brokaw and W. C. Fownes, Jr. 1904—Spring, W. C. Fownes, Jr., and H. C. Fownes; fall, W. C. Fownes, Jr., and H. Shackelford. 1905—Spring, W. C. Fownes, Jr., and H. W. Perrin; fall, Walter Travis and F. Oden Horstman. 1906—Spring, F. Oden Horstman and H. W. Perrin. Last fall Travis won the low score medal with 78, 75—153, and George T. Brokaw won this spring, with 83, 80—163. A. W. Tillinghast put out Brokaw at match play. Next week the Country Club of Lakewood will close the open tournament season in the North, its competition being on November 15, 16 and 17.

There will be competitions at nearly all the clubs hereabouts tomorrow, a special feature to be the thirty-six hole medal play at St. Andrews for the club championship. The winner gains the possession of the John Reid gold medal until the 1907 contest. This has been in play since 1888, although W. H. Sands won out the original trophy by three counts in 1899.

FOOTBALL.

There were great surprises in the college football world on Saturday, especially in the game between Princeton and Dartmouth. It was expected, as usual, that Dartmouth would give the Tigers the hardest rub of the season, but on the contrary the Princeton boys simply run away with the team from Hanover.

It was a surprise to learn that the Orange Field Club met defeat at the hands of the Crescent Field Club, of Elizabeth. The county seat team was supposed to be strong, but the local eleven had no idea that they would be defeated. This opens an argument right away and there is sure to be a return game here this month.

It, is too bad that Orange Field Club and Dunellen cannot arrange a game. It is said that the local team wants $25 to go to Dunellen, and that the latter team will give that guarantee, provided O. F. C. will give them the same guarantee for a game here. The management of the teams seem unable to get together, however, and arrange games. If the O. F. C. wants to claim the 150-pound championship in the State, it should be willing to accommodate Dunellen.

Yale's football men decline to be cast down over their failure to play in first class style against West Point last Saturday. They realize that they did not shine luminously in the gentle gridiron pastime, but with them the feeling is that they would be better employed in trying to profit by the lessons of the West Point game than crying over spilt milk. So they do not concede that the Princeton game already is as good as lost. "The team will get going yet," said Trainer Mack yesterday. "They've got to get going. The showing yesterday was one of those things that will happen, and the team can play better football than that. I think you'll see the offence get together before the season is over." One of the coaches also expressed confidence in the ability of the team to rally. "The West Point game was a good thing for the men," he said. Nor is confidence lost in Tad Jones, who fumbled so badly at the Point. Whether Jones was suffering from skyitis or what, he doesn't get that way often, and his generalship was all right. The best thing about the Yale-West Point clash was that it was a clean, square contest on both sides. Not that its being so was a rarity deserving of comment. A majority of contests this fall have been of that sort, and other kinds of games are not to be found at West Point; but it was one of those struggles that emphasize the fact that no matter how hard and stubborn may be the strife it can be fought out in a manner thoroughly sportsmanlike. There were no wrangles, no roughing, no taking unfair advantage, and the work of the officials was good. Little time was taken out under the new rules—there is not as much delay as there used to be—and all the players appeared to be fit for another twenty minutes hard work if necessary.

BOWLING.

Arrangements are completed for the appearance of Johnny Voorheis, the national bowling champion at Warry McLaughlin's bowling academy on East Second street tomorrow night. It has been arranged for Voorheis to roll two matches with local bowlers, and the first ball will be shot down the alleys at 8:30 o'clock sharp. The opponents of the champion will be "Doc" Voehl, and probably Jack McNulty who has went up against Voorheis in Brooklyn before and who is well acquainted with the champion.

The match will make the first appearance of a national bowling champion in this city. There is no doubt a big crowd will be on hand and see Voorheis perform on the alleys. Special arrangements have been made to accommodate the fair sex, accommodations being provided for two hundred people. The admission to the exhibition is free with a charge for seats of which there was a limited number.

BAZAAR AND ENTERTAINMENT.

Guild of Grace Church Planning for Lively Affair.

For the first time the new parish house of Grace Episcopal church at Sixth and Sycamore streets, will be thrown open for an entertainment and bazaar tomorrow and Thursday afternoons and evenings. The Guild of the church has been arranging for this affair for some months and many attractions are planned.

There will be booths for the sale of useful and fancy articles and homemade candies. There will be a mammoth cheese and nibbling mice for the children. A magician will appear Wednesday afternoon and Thursday afternoon. A Punch and Judy show will be a feaature. Dramatics and music will be seen both evenings, bginning at 8 o'clock. Suppr will b served both nights, from 6 to 8 o'clock.

The dramatic characters will be taken by Miss Helen Phillips, William R. Cock, Miss Lillian Glen, William T. Pelletier, Miss Anna Davis and Mr. Chamberlain. The musicale will be by Miss Alice Titus, the Misses Hyatt, Mrs. E. C. Lee, Mrs. E. F. Cox, Lewis William and Dr. Chaarles Davis.

UPPER CLASSES GIVE RECEPTION TO FRESHMEN.

The reception given at the Plainfield High School, last night, by the three upper classes to the freshmen, was practically attended by all the pupils of the school. The objects of the affair were to promote sociability and to give all an opportunity to get better acquainted.

The feature of the evening was dancing, which began with a promenade, and concluded with a cotillion. For those who did not dance, games of all kinds were provided and played in the library. Refreshments were served during the evening. This is the first affair of the kind held at the school and was an entire success. It was arranged by Principal I. W. Travell. Music was furnished by Miss Mabel Maxson, piano; Arthur Mosher, violin, and Percy Mygrant, cornet.

Under the auspices of the sophomore class a Hallowe'en social was held Saturday night and large attended. The assembly hall was appropriately decorated with class colors. The faculty was present and joined in the festivities of the occasion. There was dancing and refreshments were served during the evening. Music was furnished by Miss Florence Dickerson and Miss Elsie Knowlton and popular selections were rendered by a quartette consisting of Messrs. Fountain, Doane, Reid and Bogardus. The success of the affair was due to the efforts of Chas. Loizeaux, class president and Miss Lillian Cronkite.

RIDING AND DRIVING CLUB ORDER ADDITION TO STABLES.

More Room Needed for Care of Horses at the Annual Exhibition.

The stockholders of the Plainfield Riding and Driving Club met at the Casino, last night, to discuss some financial questions, and this was followed by a meeting of the directors for the purpose of authorizing the horse show committee to provide more extensive stable room at the horse show grounds. At present there are accommodations for 160 horses and it is proposed to build an additional stable to care for sixty more.

The stables will probably be built directly back of the main grandstand, close to the ring. During the horse show last June the club was obliged to make arrangements for stabling horses at nearby farms, and the improvement at the grounds will obviate this trouble. Other plans for the future were discussed. It was reported that the club is in first-class condition financially and otherwise.

TO PREVENT BRIBERY.

Governor Stokes Calls Upon State Prosecutors to Enforce Law.

Governor Stokes sent a telegram to each Prosecutor of the State yesterday afternoon, calling upon him to assist in the fight that is being made in New Jersey this year to prevent bribery at the polls. The telegrams of the Governor read as follows:

"I expect every Presecutor of the Pleas to use the power of his office to prevent bribery at the polls in today's election, and by due process of law to punish any violators of the anti-bribery acts now upon the statute books."

MR. SINCLAIR SEES "JUNGLE" PRODUCED

ANXIOUS TO KNOW WHAT EFFECT WILL HAVE ON THE COMING ELECTION.

Upton Sinclair, author of "The Jungle," who is a candidate in the Fourth Congressional District, which includes Somerset county, saw the production of his work for the first time yesterday at a dress rehearsal in Taylor Opera House at Trenton and he was delighted with it. He almost missed it, however, for going to the front doors he found them locked. He rattled them vigorously until they were opened. Brushing past the man who was on duty at the door to keep outsiders from being present at the rehearsal, Mr. Sinclair was stopped and told to "beat it" to the outside.

"I'm Mr. Sinclair," explained the playwright, but the name made no impression upon the doorkeeper.

"Gwan, git, nothin' doin', you can't see the show, so you'd better beat it."

"But," expostulated Mr. Sinclair, "I am interested in this play and I wish to see it.'

"Oh, you're a 'supe?' Stage door; right out front and in the alleyway," explained the door tender.

About this time the situation was relieved by Thomas P. Taylor, treasurer of the house, who, upon learning the identity of the applicant, admitted him at once.

"Second time I've nearly been thrown out of a theatre in the past two weeks," remarked the author, as he seated himself in one of the rear orchestra chairs.

"It would be very interesting for me to know what effect, if any, will the production of The Jungle have in promoting the Socialistic theory in politics I wonder."

With evidences of the most intense interest did Mr. Sinclair watch the progress of the play, and he declared that the cast pleased him immensely.

In opening the political conversation Mr. Sinclair remarked that he found himself in rather a peculiar situation inasmuch as he is running for Congress in this district and residing in another.

"I accepted the nomination for Congress on the Socialist ticket because the party was very desirous of my doing so, and because being a firm believer in Socialistic doctrines I felt it duty bound to do all I could for the party.

"The fact that 'The Jungle' has created the amount of interest it has prompted the party leaders to believe that my candidacy would attract some attention, and when they placed the matter before me I neither could nor cared to refuse.

"Of course, I do not believe I shall be elected, but if I am it will please me greatly."

Asked as to how many votes he expected to poll, Mr. Sinclair declared that he expected to get about 1,000.

"I am not a politician," he continued; "writing is my profession, and while I have been actively interested in the Socialist party for the past five years, I would never think of adopting it as a career.

"Although having been associated with the party politically for such a short time I have been a Socialist for a number of years. Many of us are Socialists but don't know it. I was, and did not realize the fact until comparatively recently, but my writings will all bear testimony to the fact that the Socialistic theory has been a controlling factor in all my work."

Mr. Sinclair displays great delight in discussing and arguing the Socialistic theories, and avers that it but requires a few years of "hard times" to bring the people to a realization of the wisdom of the party's doctrine

NOTIFIES COMMON COUNCIL CITY IS A TRESPASSER.

J. A. Staats Says He Will Apply to Courts to Protest His Rights.

In a communication to the Common Council at its November meeting, last night, J. A. Staats, proprietor of the Hotel Kensington, notified that body that it would be prohibited from trespassing on his property at 122-130 East Front street, and that unless it ceased immediately to trespass on his land he would apply to the courts to stop the practice. City Clerk MacMurray stated that a copy of the notice was served on him and he referred it to Corporation Counsel Marsh. The matter was referred to the police committee.

The trespassing complained of is in regard to the police patrol wagon which is obliged to pass over property owned by Mr. Staats in going to and from the barn located on land owned by J. B. Coward and John W. Murray, Sr. Mr. Staats claims that the city has never obtained a right of way over his property from him and inasmuch as he has to pay taxes on the land he can see no reason why the city should have the free use of it. The question is now up to the corporation counsel and no doubt some action will be taken within a short time.

would tend to relieve the pressure on the Irving school, some of the classes in that building now being on half time.

What St. Mary's parish will do with its new acquisition is not defined at present. Father Bogan said this morning that the building might be put to some temporary use when full possession is secured and then again it might not. The land area is quite large and one of the playgrounds would be ample for the projected convent home, should it be decided to locate in that vicinity.

Salton Sea Dammed.

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 6.—Rock shackles now hold the once vagrant Colorado river. The Salton Sea is controlled. Thus there has been accomplished an act never witnessed on earth before, and one which was declared by the vast majority of engineers to be an impossibility. Salton Sea, it is expected, will now gradually evaporate. Scientists have said it will recede two feet a year, and in ten years it will be dry if nature is not assisted by human agencies. Engineers of high standing have declared it to be an impossibility to close a strong current of water flowing over quicksand by the simple act of dumping in rock. It was in desperation that this "impossible" task was undertaken. Despite the fact that much of this rock was hauled three hundred miles it was delivered with such speed that there was a car dumped every ve minutes day and night, and the dam rose out of the water, the crevices between the great rocks were filled with gravel and the small interstices were filled with clay. Thus two years of struggle ends.

Stensland Sentenced Again.

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 6.—Paul O. Stensland, formerly president of the defunct Milwaukee Avenue State Bank, who was arrested in Tangier, and Henry W. Hering, cashier of the same institution, were yesterday sentenced by Judge Pinckney, in the Criminal Court, to indeterminate sentences in the penitentiary for embezzlement and forgery. The sentences may run anywhere from one to ten years. The sentence given Stensland today is concurrent with the one given some weeks ago.

Typhoid From Oysters.

Middletown, Conn., Nov. 6.—Three more cases of typhoid fever have developed in Weslyan University. Prof. Conn, who has investigated the cases, has come to the conclusion that the cases were due to the students eating contaminated oysters at banquets of fraternities on October 12.

PERSONAL.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Irving A. Hunting, of 335 East Second street, yesterday. His name is Leonard Morell.

Miss Clyde Burnet, of Madison avenue, has returned from the White Mountains, where she has been spending the summer.

Dr. Flora Phelps, of Ocean Grove, is visiting her sister, Miss Adele C. Phelps, of the Babcock building. She will leave in a few days for St. Augustine, Fla., where she will practice during the winter.

M. Weinberger, accompanied by his daughter, of Craig place, is in Los Angeles, Cal., for his health. They will probably remain away all winter. Mr. Weinberger is much improved in health, the change being beneficial.

Many Trades For Sightless.

New York, Nov. 6.—Occupations for the sightless are being found so rapidly, it was reported last night in a meeting of the newly organized Blind Men's Self-Improvement Club, that many who were in the almshouse have come to the city to earn their own livelihoods. The club is composed of telephone operators, piano tuners, music teachers, typewriters, chair makers, basket makers and men who follow scores of vocations which until a short time ago were closed to all not in the full possession of their faculties. The Club of Queer Trades was not a circumstance to this club of the blind. It includes many whose other senses are so acute that their powers seem almost miraculous.

Plant a Weather Bureau.

Pacific Grove, Cal., Nov. 6.—Information has been received here of the intended establishment of a rival weather bureau in San Francisco. In Cuba and Mexico there has been found a "weather plant" said to have extraordinary powers in forecasting not only atmospheric but seismic disturbances. Its botanic name is abrus precatorius nobilis. By its aid weather forecasts can be made from two to seven days ahead of rain or fog, and earthquake forecasts as much as twenty-six days in advance over an area of 300 square miles. It also predicts volcanic eruptions and accumulations of fire damp in mines.

Saved As By a Miracle.

New York, Nov. 6.—While workmen were hoisting a huge iron safe into the second story of the Liberty Building, No. 199 Montague street, yesterday, a man fell from the top of the safe and was saved from instant death by alighting on a pedestrian. The falling man came down head foremost. Both men dropped in a heap on the sidewalk, the man who acted as a buffer being the most injured, as well as the most astonished. There was a brief duet of exclamations and sympathetic onlookers congratulated the man in overalls, who had escaped a journey to the morgue.

BREAKING THE LAW; SOME TALK POLITICS

NO ATTENTION TO "BISHOPS' ACT" IN ELIZABETH DURING DISCUSSION.

The political campaign, now almost closed, was in full swing Sunday in Elizabeth despite the "bishops' law," and so far as that city was concerned the lid was off. For the first time since its enactment the law seemed practically to be a dead letter, and nearly all the saloons in the city did a rushing sidedoor business.

While many of the dealers would only admit their patrons, there were others who openly disregarded the law and admitted anybody who wanted to get a drink. Most of the political candidates took advantage of this condition of affairs to circulate among their constituents and strengthen their fences for today's battle at the polls. The indications at this time, so shrewd politicians think, point to a Democratic victory for the municipal and local tickets and the election of Patrick J. Ryan, the Democratic Mayoralty candidate, over his Republican opponent, Mayor Samuel J. Berry.

Senator Kean was seen yesterday by a reporter and asked what he thought of the Democratic claim of 1,000 plurality here today.

"They will not get it," remarked the Senator. "In the first place, the vote will not be heavy enough to bring about this result. I doubt if the Democrats will have much over half what they claim, and they may not even get 500 plurality. This is likely to be an election of surprises."

The last Democratic rally of the campaign in that city took place at noon yesterday in front of the Singer Sewing Machine works.

WEDNESDAY'S DAILY PRESS.

The Daily Press will be issued at noon tomorrow and it will contain a complete returns of today's election.

Starving By Dead Mother.

New York, Nov. 6.—Mrs. Mary Donnegan, of No. 295 Adams street, Brooklyn, was found half starved yesterday, sitting by the body of her mother, Mrs. Katherine Ryan, who died last Friday. The mother and daughter lived alone in a tenement diagonally opposite the police station. The mother was eighty-four years old and had been an invalid for several years. The daughter was helpless from rheumatism. Friends aided them at times, but there was never much in the house and the women had a hard time. Discovering her mother dead in bed late Friday, Mrs. Donnegan tried to summon aid, but none heard her calls. A man passing through the hall Sunday was too much intoxicted to understand her.

Two Were Killed.

New York, Nov. 6.—One man was killed instantly yesterday morning and another was injured so that he died a few hours afterward by the falling of an eight ton iron column, forty feet long, in the new Grand Central Station. The column, which had been placed in position near Forty-fifth street and Lexington avenue, cut through iron girders as thick as itself at two floors and imbedded itself in the floor of the basement of the building sixty feet below. The dead men were Charles Peterson, thirty-two years old, Jersey City, head crushed; Oscar Pearson, No. 240 Eist Eighty-ninth street, knocked from girder and died in the Flower Hospital.

The Simple Life for Women.

"To be tender, to be kind, to be able to bear our trials bravely, to decide without prejudice, and to rise above suspicion; to look for the beautiful and good in the precious common things about us; to let the song of inward trust and peace rise to our lips and permeate our lives—this is the simple life."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

GERMAN GLEANINGS.

Germany has fifty-four mountaineering clubs, with over 142,000 members.

A colonial exhibition is being held at Metz for the purpose of encouraging emigration to the African colonies.

Hamburg has a library for the blind, which was opened a year ago, and already contains 1,685 books and 3,750 volumes of music.

Hotel and restaurant prices are steadily rising in German cities because of the rapid rise of prices of meat and vegetables. Cooks and waiters also demand much more than formerly.

According to the latest statistics, the strikes in Germany are increasing every year, and it is expected that the figures for 1906 will run ahead of all previous years. For the years 1899 t o1903 inclusive the average number of strikes was 1,242, for 1904 there were 1,870 strikes, and in 1905, 2,057.

In Germany stray dogs are captured in a fasion that appeals strongtured in a fashion that appeals strongly to the humanitarian. Instead of being lassoed with a noose they are scooped up in a huge dip net.

Three German cities, Frankfort, Rostock and Cologne, have public parks covering about half their area. Berlin, on the other hand, has less than six per cent. of its area taken up by parks.

By way of celebrating the seventieth birthday of the eminent chemist, Adolf von Baeyer, his friends and pupils have brought out a collection of his scientific papers in two volumes of over 2,000 pages.

A chauffeur in Berlin was sent on an errand in a suburb some time ago. He never returned, abandoning his wife and four children, while the owner of the motor car was out 15,000 marks.

In Germany more than 500 out of every thousand women reach the age of fifty years, while only 413 men live so long.

Every month about 3,700 articles are left in the Berlin street cars by their owners, about 600 of them being women's purses.

Experiments made in Germany show that butter keeps best if mixed with 3 to 5 per cent of salt. If the percentage of salt is over 6, the result is less satisfactory.

The empress of Germany has contributed the formation of an institution to be devoted to the saving of infant life, the mortality of infants in Germany being surpassed in Europe only by that of Austria and Russia.

THE PARCELS LOST.

There are thirty-five foreign countries in the parcels post union.

France has had the parcels post since 1885 and last year transmitted nearly 3,000,000,000 packages.

Germany's record of parcels post business last year was nearly 7,000,000,000 packages, with profits of $14,624,095.

Austro-Hungary, Italy and Switzerland have the parcels post in well developed condition. In Austro-Hungary there is a banking system in connection with it.

Great Britain has had parcels post for thirty years and carried last year over 4,000,000,000 packages at a profit of over $12,000,000. Its foreign service within the empire is excellent.

To Use Cold Meat.

Take a deep pie dish and at the bottom place a layer of sliced onions, then a layer of sliced potatoes. Cut up the cold meat (any sort will do) into finger strips and make a layer of that, sprinkle over it half a teaspoonful of mixed herbs, pepper and salt to taste. On top of the meat place another layer of onions and lastly potatoes. Have ready, soaked in water, a small teaspoonful of tapioca. Sprinkle this on the top between the slices of potatoes, half fill the dish with water, cover the top of the dish and bake in a fairly slow oven for two hours, or if the vegetables are parboiled—that is, boiled for ten minutes previous to slicing up—it will only take an hour.

Royal Baking Powder Absolutely Pure

DISTINCTIVELY A CREAM OF TARTAR BAKING POWDER

Royal does not contain an atom of phosphatic acid (which is the product of bones digested in sulphuric acid) or of alum (which is one-third sulphuric acid) substances adopted for other baking powders because of their cheapness.

LITERARY NOTES.

The most stinking feature of the handsome Thanksgiving number of Good Housekeeping is the published result of this magazine's thorough investigation of the quality of flavoring extracts, through R. O. Brooks, B Sc. The disclosures here made are a revelation. Other articles in this issue which will attract paraticular attention are Child Discipline, wherein Milicent W. Shinn, author of The Biography of a Baby, considers the experiences of certain perplexed parents an dteachers; Julia Marlowe, Housekeepr, a charming sketch by Gertrude Vivian, with photographic illustrations; Domestic Servants of Colonial Days, by Ella Morris Blackwell Sterling; Silhouettes and Their Making, by Lillian Leslie Tower, with fascinating illustrations; A literary Thanksgiving Menu, by Ellen Burns Sherman; How to Purchase a Piano, by Rupert Hughes. The second instalment of Truthful Jane, the serial by Florence Morse Kingsley, finds the reader deeply absorbed in this lively tale.

The November number of The Century will be published Thursday, October 25th. Editors are requested not to print extracts from this sheet until about that date. The favor of copies of papers containing such extracts is requested. The most noteworthy feature of the November Century, the first number of the seventy-third volume, is the first instalment of Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett's new serial, "The Shuttle." Interest is piqued in the first chapter by the Vanderpoels, who are the chief characters in a story of international marriage—"Americans whose fortunes were a portion of the history of their county." These chapters narrate the wooing of Rosalie Vanderpoel by Sir Nigel Anstruthers and the beginning of her married life in England, and give promise to the richest and best work Mrs. Burnett has yet wrought.

TO URGE THROWING OUT OF REPUBLICAN VOTES.

Odd Situation of Freeholdership Fight Furnishes Democrats With Chance to Protest.

New Providence, Nov. 6.—Owing to the peculiar situation here in regard to the freeholdership, nearly all the Republican ballots that will be cast in this place today may be protested and thrown out. The delegates, one from the borough and one from the township, who were to select a candidate for freeholder on the Republican ticket, could not come to an understanding, and consequently no Republican nominations were filed. Amos Potter and John Wahl, the contesting candidates for the office, both neglected to file independent nominations, but nevertheless expect to run by the use of pasters.

Several Democrats, therefore, have declared it their intention to protest every ballot cast on which there is a Potter or Wahl paster, on the ground that neither have complied with the law and filed their nominations as candidates with the county clerk. Those ballots, therefore, they claim, will be marked, and cannot, under the present election laws, be counted. The Democrats have opinions from several well-known lawyers on this point.

In view of the fact that Supreme Court Justice Fort has just rendered a decision in the John W. Roche-Henry Willoughby, Jr., case, at Kearny, which it is said covers the situation here, and inasmuch as local Republicans still intend to use the pasters, it looks as if several hundred votes would be lost to the Republican party.

If the fight in Union County proves to be close, the loss of these votes might lose the county to the Republicans.

GOSSIP AS TO RESULT OF SUMMIT'S ELECTION.

Majority of Republican Candidates Likely to Win—Colbyites Will Scratch Ticket.

Summit, Nov. 6.—This year's political campaign here has been the most apathetic of any in the history of the city when there are important local offices to fill. The city is normally Republican, and it is believed by many persons that the majority of the candidates on the Republican ticket will be elected. It is a matter of much surmise as to how the Colby vote will be cast, but from the sentiments expressed by some of the Colby leaders, the followers of that movement are likely to vote the majority of the names on the ticket, so as to be able to vote at the primary next year, thus voting for four Republicans, and substituting Democrats for three others, there being seven names on the ticket. Some Colbyites, it is known, would like to cut the whole Republican ticket on account of the remarks made against their organization by former Governor Voorhees and like remarks by Councilman Ruford Franklin since the primary election.

Emergency Hospital Closed.

Trenton, Nov. 6.—Emergency Hospital, which has been in existence on South Broad street for the past two years, is closed, and the probabilities are that when it opens again it will be as a private hospital or sanitarium. This is what Dr. William V. Hall had in mind when he placed Dr. William V. Gale, of Newfield, N. Y., there recently, and who departed from the institution after bolting the doors and taking the keys with him a few days ago.

THE DELUGE

By DAVID GRAHAM PHILLIPS, Author of "THE COST," etc

(COPYRIGHT 1905 by the BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY)

I followed her into the drawing-room and, for the benefit of the servants, Mr. and Mrs. Ellersly and I greeted each other courteously, though Mrs. Ellersly's eyes and mine met in a glance like the flash of steel on steel. "We were just going," said she, and then I felt that I had arrived in the midst of a tempest of uncommon fury.

"You must stop and make me a visit," protested I, with elaborate politeness. To myself I was assuming that they had come to "make up and be friends"—and resume their places at the trough.

She was moving toward the door, the old man in her wake. Neither of them offered to shake hands with me; neither made pretense of saying good-by to Anita, standing by the window like a pillar of ice. I had closed the drawing-room door behind me, as I entered. I was about to open it for them when I was restrained by what I saw working in the old woman's face. She had set her will on escaping from my loathed presence without a "scene;" but her rage at having been outgeneraled was too fractious for her will.

"You scoundrel!" she hissed, her whole body shaking and her carefully-cultivated appearance of the gracious evening of youth swallowed up in a black cyclone of hate. "You gutter-plant! God will punish you for the shame you have brought upon us!"

I opened the door and bowed, without a word, without even the desire to return insult for insult—had not Anita evidently again and finally rejected them and chosen me? As they passed into the private hall I rang for Sanders to come and let them out. When I turned back into the drawing-room, Anita was seated, was reading a book. I waited until I saw she was not going to speak. Then I said: "What time will you have dinner?" But my face must have been expressing some of the joy and gratitude that filled me. "She has chosen!" I was saying to myself over and over.

"Whenever you usually have it," she replied, without looking up.

"At seven o'clock, then. You had better tell Sanders."

I rang for him and went into my little smoking-room. She had resisted her parents' final appeal to her to return to them. She had cast in her lot with me. "The rest can be left to time," said I to myself. And, reviewing all that had happened, I let a wild hope send tenacious roots deep into me. How often ignorance is a blessing; how often knowledge would make the step falter and the heart quail!

XXIII.

BLACKLOCK ATTENDS FAMILY PRAYERS.

During dinner I bore the whole burden of conversation—though burden I did not find it. Like most close-mouthed men, I am extremely talkative. Silence sets people to wondering and prying; he hides his secrets best who hides them at the bottom of a river of words. If my spirits are high, I often talk aloud to myself when there is no one convenient. And how could my spirits be anything but high, with her sitting there opposite me, mine, mine for better or for worse, through good and evil report—my wife!

She was only formally responsive, reluctant and brief in answers, volunteering nothing. The servants waiting on us no doubt laid her manner to shyness; I understood it, or thought I did—but I was not troubled. It is as natural for me to hope as to breathe; and with my knowledge of character, how could I take seriously the moods and impulses of one whom I regarded as a child-like girl, trained to false pride and false ideals? "She has chosen to stay with me," said I to myself. "Actions count, not words or manner. A few days or weeks, and she will be herself, and mine." And I went gaily on with my efforts to interest her, to make her smile and forget the role she had commanded herself to play. Nor was I wholly unsuccessful. Again and again I thought I saw a gleam of interest in her eyes or the beginnings of a smile about that sweet mouth of hers. I was careful not to overdo my part.

As soon as we finished dessert I said: "You loathe cigar smoke, so I'll hide myself in my den. Sanders will bring you the cigarettes." I had myself telephoned for a supply of her kind early in the day.

She made a polite protest for the benefit of the servants; but I was firm, and left her free to think things over alone in the drawing-room—"your sitting-room," I called it. I had not finished a small cigar when there came a timid knock at my door. I threw away the cigar and opened. "I thought it was you," said I. "I'm familiar with the knocks of all the others. And this was new—like a summer wind tapping with a flower for admission at a closed window." And I laughed with a little raillery, and she smiled, colored, tried to seem cold and hostile again.

"Shall I go with you to your sitting-room?" I went on. "Perhaps the cigar smoke here—"

"No, no," she interrupted; "I don't really mind cigars—and the windows are wide open. Besides, I came for only a moment—just to say—"

As she cast about for words to carry her on, I drew up a chair for her. She looked at it uncertainly, seated herself. "When mamma was here—this afternoon," she went on, "she was urging me to—to do what she wished. And after she had used several arguments, she said something I—I've been thinking it over, and it seemed I ought in fairness to tell you."

I waited.

"She said: 'In a few days more he'—that meant you—'he will be ruined. He imagines the worst is over for him, when in fact they've only begun.'"

"They! I repeated. "Who are 'they'? The Langdons?"

"I think so," she replied with an effort. "She did not say—I've told you her exact words—as far as I can."

"Well," said I, "and why didn't you go?"

She pressed her lips firmly together. Finally, with a straight look into my eyes, she replied: "I shall not discuss that. You probably misunderstand, but that is your own affair."

"You believed what she said about me, of course," said I.

"I neither believed nor disbelieved," she answered indifferently, as she rose to go. "It does not interest me."

"Come here," said I.

I waited until she reluctantly joined me at the window. I pointed to the steeple of the church across the way. "You could as easily throw down that steeple by pushing against it with your bare hands," I said to her, "as 'they,' whoever they are, could put me down. They might take away my money. But if they did, they would only be giving me a lesson that would teach me how more easily to get it back. I am not a bundle of stock certificates or a bag of money. I am—here," and I tapped my forehead.

She forced a faint, scornful smile. She did not wish me to see her belief of what I said.

"You may think that is vanity," I went on. "But will learn, sooner or later, the difference between boasting and simple statement of fact. You will learn that I do not boast. What I said is no more a boast than for a man with legs to say, 'I can walk.' Because you have known only legless men, you exaggerate the difficulty of walking. It's as easy for me to make money as it is for some people to spend it."

It is hardly necessary for me to say I was not insinuating anything against her people. But she was just then supersensitive on the subject though I did not suspect it. She flushed hotly. "You will not have any cause to sneer at my people on that account hereafter," she said. "I settled that to-day."

"I was not sneering at them," I protested. "I wasn't even thinking of them. And—you must know that it's a favor to me for anybody to ask me to do anything that will please you—Anita!"

She made a gesture of impatience. "I see I'd better tell you why I did not go with them to-day. I insisted that they give back all they have taken from you. And when they refused, I refused to go."

"I don't care why you refused, or imagined you refused," said I. "I am content with the fact that you are here."

"But you misunderstand it," she answered coldly.

"I don't understand it, I don't misunderstand it," was my reply. "I accept it."

TRY YOUR HOME PAPER.

A Few Words of Advice to Budding Newspaper Women.

If you are a newspaper woman born you will "make good" in your home town, I do not care what the size of the paper. You will create a demand for your services. If you cannot please the editor there, if you cannot induce your neighbors to give you news, what do you expect to do in a strange city with an editor driven to desperation with work and women to interview who place statuesque butlers between you and the news you would learn?

I speak from my heart, dear girl with the pen, when I say, "Beg the editor of your home paper to try you out and then make yourself invaluable to him before you try your wings in the great city."

You may have influential letters, you may have diplomas and pretty frocks and a prettier smile, but in the great city where you think there must be hundreds of openings for ambitious girls you will find competitors with the same influential letters, good frocks and pleasing smiles already on the ground, a hundred to every opening. And when you tell the editor you have had no experience, but are willing to learn, he will inform you that he does not run a kindergarten for reporters.—Anna Steese Richardson in Woman's Home Companion.

M. O. IS REPUDIATED BY THE ENGLISHMEN.

Advocates of It Swept Out of Power In Elections.

London, Nov. 6.—Municipal ownership, socialism and all that makes for what might be termed "extremism" in local affairs suffered a sweeping defeat last week. By a huge majority the people of London and the surrounding districts have turned out of office the municipal authorities who favored these views. London's revolt against the faddists, cranks, socialists and laborites is nothing short of dramatic.

Three years ago the party known as the "Progresssive," swept the Moderates from power, capturing a majority of the twenty-eight boroughs into which London is divided. Today the "Reformers," as the Moderates now call themselves, control more than twenty out of the twenty-eight boroughs, capturing what have been considered the strongholds of socialism and labor.

Leg Broken in Steel Plant.

High Bridge, Nov. 6.—After working two nights at the Taylor Iron and Steel Company's plant here, Frank Holmes, about twenty-five years old, of Ludlow, had his right leg broken near the ankle yesterday. Holmes was employed as a "hooker-on" on an electric crane. He was riding on the bucket, which contained about 1,000 pounds of material. As it dumped Holmes' leg was caught between the bail and the bucket. He was taken to the office of Dr. William C. Alpaugh, who treated the injury, and he returned to his home at Ludlow.

"Don't Call President 'Teddy.'"

Merchantville, Nov. 6.—Nearly 3,000 persons Sunday witnessed the corner-stone laying of the new Catholic church of St. Peter by Rt. Rev. Monsignor John B. Fox, assisted by Rev. J. P. Clune, the pastor. Monsignor Fox referred to disrespect shown many men in public life by youngsters and others, and said he always regretted to hear a boy refer to the President of the United States as "Teddy."

Lighting Plant at German Valley.

German Valley, Nov. 6.—It is reported here that a stock company will soon be formed to supply electric light in this place, Middle Valley and Chester. It is said that a plant will be built on the property recently bought by John C. Kennedy from the executors of the late John Van Der Vort Stryker, of this place, and that the power will be obtained by harnessing the mountain stream that runs on the south side of the farm.

Gaul's "Holy City."

William E. MacClymont, organist and choirmaster at Grace church, is planning to give Gaul's "Holy City" at the church in the near future. The regular choir will be augmented by a number of fine voices.

HOSPITAL TO JAIL.

William Haywood's Unpleasant Return to Plainfield from Newark.

William Haywood, fifty years old, a hatter, was found by Officer Thomas O'Gorman, lying on the sidewalk before the grocery store of J. A. Smith & Bro., at 6 o'clock this morning. He was bleeding from a deep cut in his head, and was somewhat under the influence of liquor.

He was seized with a fit of shakers at 9 o'clock in his cell, and Dr. C. B. Lufburrow was called in a hurry. The physician found the cut to be an old one, apparently reopened by a fall, and the shakes were easily stayed.

Haywood was arraigned before Judge Runyon at 11 o'clock. He said he was taken from a Newark hospital, where he had been suffering from erysipelas, yesterday, in an automobile, and left here. He didn't know whether he said he wanted to come here or not, but he might have done so, because he is an old employee of B. Frank Coriell and knows Neaf Apgar. He said he wanted to see the later and was released under a promise to go straight to Apgar's home.

Mrs. Gray Buried.

The funeral service of Mrs. Mary Rynó Gray, Sunday afternoon, at the Scotch Plains Baptist church, was largely attended by friends and relatives. Rev. T. Moore-Smith, the pastor of the church, preached a tenderly sympathetic sermon. The casket was covered with flowers and floral pieces. A delegation from the Odd Ladies, of this city, and one from the Ladies' Aid Society of the Harrison Baptist church attended the service. The interment was in the family plot in the churchyard. The bearers were Thomas and Anthony Dobbins, Adam Gray, Alfred Merritt, all of Newark; Edward L. Hand and George Moorehouse.

Car Hit Wagon.

A trolley car hit Abram Gulick's wagon at Front street and Clinton avenue at 11 o'clock, last night, damaging the wagon considerably and injuring Gulick, who was driving. He was taken to his home, where he is confined to his bed. Both the trolley company and the police said this morning that no report on the accident had been made. Gulick has retained W. L. Hetfield, Jr., to file a claim for damages.

L. T. Clawson, of Bethlehem, N. H., proprietor of the Hillside Inn at that place, is visiting his brother, James Clawson, of West Seventh street. Tomorrow Mr. Clawson will sail for Florida and open up his winter resort, "The Lakeside Hotel," on Lake Weir, Florida.

—Having completed the greater part of the underground work here, the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company has laid off a number of men engaged in this work.

—Mr. and Mrs. Francis DeLacy Hyde, of Hydewood Hall, have issued invitations for a reception to be given at their home on Saturday afternoon and evening from 5 to 7 o'clock, to meet Mr. and Mrs. Louis K. Hyde.

COMMERCIAL PROVERBS.

Invest your surplus earnings or your surplus earnings will involve you. No man can withstand the demoralizing influence of idle money.

All natural human relations are reciprocal. If you receive you should give. But beware of the speculator, who takes all and gives nothing, destroying the harmony of social relations and spreading desolation. He is a vampire.

He who spends freely every dollar he earns is a "good fellow"—avoid him. He who will never pay a dollar that he owes until compelled is a curmudgeon—despise him. He who discharges every sort of obligation with gladness of heart and is always laying by something for emergencies is the useful man.—Cent Per Cent.

Barn Fired By Burning Leaves.

A spark from a pile of burning leaves lodged on the roof of the barn on the Ross property at 721 Plainfield avenue, shortly after 11 o'clock this morning and started a brisk blaze. An alarm was turned in from box 36 and the department arriving quickly was able to kill the flames by the use of one extinguisher. The damage will amount to about $25.

A Puzzling Prisoner.

The borough police have in custody a peculiar prisoner who was caught, last night, trying to enter a chicken coop on Maple avenue. He appears to be a Hun but an interpreter was secured, he could get no information from him. He was tried in several other tongues but with the same result. The man was remanded today for further examination.

Mr. Meredith's Throat Sore.

Disappointment is the lot of those who have been awaiting the appearance of J. H. Meredith, the singing evangelist, at Rescue Mission tonight. Mr. Meredith has a sore throat and can't sing.

Football and General Sports

BASKETBALL.

The Plainfield High School basketball team will play the senior class team tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock on the high school court.

FOOTBALL VICTIMS.

Two Meet With Injuries in Contest Today.

Berlin Banks, aged 23 years, of West Front street, fractured his collarbone, and Samuel Bogert, aged 20 years, of 330 East Sixth street, dislocated his hip, while engaged in playing football this morning on Alis Common.

The young men are members of the Orange Field Club, which team was playing Alis. They were in the midst of a lively scrimmage among the players when Banks and Bogert collided, and several other members of both teams fell on top of them. They were assisted to Muhlenberg Hospitay by their fellows, where the collarbone was set and the dislocated hip put back in place. The young men will be laid up for several weeks.

Holy Cross Won.

The Holy Cross defeated I. O. O. F., of Westfield, on the Cricket grounds this morning. The score was 10 to 0.

O. F. C. Defeats Alis.

Orange Field Club defeated Alis this morning by the score of 6 to 0.

UNION TAKEN BY MARTINE

Elizabeth Buries Its Townsman, Giving Victory to Democratic Nominee.

MAJORITY VERY SMALL

Martine swept Elizabeth by about 1,900 plurality, that city going solidly Democratic. He also carried Rahway by 196, that municipality as well going over to the Democratic camp. Plainfield gave Fowler 663 majority and Summit gave him 212. Westfield stood by the G. O. P., giving its congressional nominee 357 votes more than his opponent.

James E. Martine.

The Elizabethan carried Cranford township, Union township, Fanwood borough, Garwood, Linden borough, Linden township, Mountainside borough, New Providence borough, Roselle borough, Roselle Park borough and Springfield township.

Clark township and New Providence township went for Martine.

According to the latest and most reliable returns at hand, James E. Martine, the Democratic Congressional candidate, has carried Union county.

Mr. Martine's plurality is less than half a hundred votes. The Democrats are jubilant, however small the majority may be for this is the first time they have carried the county in a Congressional fight since John T. Dunn was elected.

All morning long, there was serious question as to which of the candidates had won out so close was the vote. But when Roselle Park borough was heard from finally, Fowler's fate was settled. The Elizabethan had been routed in his own county—Union—which is a Republican bulwark.

Mr. Martine's plurality is 40 in the entire county.

FOWLER IS RETURNED; MORRIS CO. SAVES HIM

Martine, Democrat, was defeated by Fowler, Republican, in the Fifth Congressional district by about 1,000 plurality. Two years ago Fowler defeated him by 5,000 majority. Warren county, a Democratic stronghold, caused the defeat of its own candidate yesterday.

Letter from Mr. Martine.

To the Voters of the Fifth Congressional District:

From indications at hand it would seem that I have been defeated in this contest. To my friends I have the most kindly feelings and the warmest thanks. To my enemies I ask no sympathy or quarter. My fight was waged with all the earnestness of my nature. I have done nothing of which I am ashamed. I fought to win. I have no personal regrets. I would fight the battle over again from the same platform and for the same principles. As I have often said, defeat has never crushed a truth or annihilated a principle.

Respectfully,
J. E. MARTINE.

SOMERSET IS REPUBLICAN

Wood's Majority About 1,000 and Smalley's About 850.

A clean sweep was scored by the Republican party at the election in Somerset county yesterday. That not a great amount of interest was manifested is indicated by the very light vote cast. With a number of country districts to be heard from Ira W. Wood has more than 1,000 majority over his Democratic opponent, J. Allen Southwick, for member of Congress. It is not expected that the districts to be heard from will materially change the figures. William W. Smalley, of Bound Brook, was elected member of Assembly over his Democratic opponent, former Prosecutor William V. Steele, by nearly 850 majority. Meagre returns make it impossible to give the total vote accurately.

The resolution, which does away with the present Board of Chosen Freeholders and constitutes a commission for the county government, is believed to have been carried. The resolution was carried in North Plainfield borough and Bridgewater township, but the country districts voted against it, but not enough to defeat the measure, it is said. The result will not be known definitely until the complete returns are filed.

Whether the Board of Freeholders will be Democratic or Republican is in doubt. With Montgomery township to hear from the board stands five Republicans and five Democrats. Walter M. Vreeland, Republican, of that township, was a candidate for re-election.

Majorities received by Smalley (R.) for Assembly are: Bridgewater, 1st, 46; 2d, 42; 3d and 5th, 124; 4th, 101; 6th, 26; Branchburg, 9; Bound Brook, 189; Franklin, 3d, 84; Hillsborough, 2d, 74; Millstone, 24.

Majorities for Wood, Congress: Branchburg, 11; Bridgewater, 1st, 87; 2d, 79; 4th, 130; 6th, 8; Hillsborough, 2d, 74.

FANWOOD TOWNSHIP GOES FOR MARTINE.

Republican Stronghold Gives the Farmer-Orator Five More Votes Than Fowler.

Fanwood township, which is strongly Republican, gave Martine five majority over Fowler. The rest of the Republican ticket went through with its usual decisive majority. The Bishops' law, the effect of which was felt strongly in Scotch Plains, helped the Republican Assembly candidates.

The total vote was 279. Perkins got a plurality of 32; Moxon, 34; Tillman, 36. Lufburrow, for coroner, got a plurality of 40. George H. Johnston, Republican nominee for assessor, defeated Charles H. French, the Democratic candidate, by one of the largest majorities rolled up by a candidate in the township in several years. Johnston's majority was 64. The increase in taxes had much to do with burying French.

The vote in detail:

For Congress, Martine, D., 140; Fowler, R., 135; for Assembly, Perkins, R., 153; Moxon, R., 153; Tillman, R., 155; Desmond, D., 121; Hague, D., 119; Coulter, D., 119; for coroner, Lufbuorrow, R., 157; Wagner, D., 117; for freeholder, Robinson, R. (unopposed), 165; for township committee, Walker, R. (unopposed), 160; for assessor, Johnston, R., 170; French, D., 106; for collector, John Z. Hatfield (on both tickets), 275, 275; for justice of the peace, Haberley, D., 123; for constable, Spicer, R., 152; Pangborn, D., 123; for surveyors of highways, Schaffer, R., 156; Hull, 155; Lee, D., 124; Scudder, D., 121; for poundkeepers, Mair, R., 156; Ryno, D., 121; Lee, D., 120.

BOROUGH FAST IN LINE

Republicans Hold Opponents Tightly in Unexciting Contest.

There may have been quieter elections in the ancient days of North Plainfield, when it was a part of Warren county, but if there was even one in the modern history of the borough the oldest inhabitant couldn't remember it. In the fashion of the day, the Republicans won handily. The total vote was 721, less than half the number registered, which was 1,459.

Wood, the Republican candidate for re-election to Congress, got a plurality of 263 over Southwick, his total vote being 466. Smalley, for Assembly, defeated Steele, his Democratic opponent, by 452 to 223, a plurality of 229. Wild, the Republican candidate for coroner, secured 457 votes to Bowers' 200, a plurality of 200. VanArsdale and Waldron, the Republican councilmanic candidates, got 475 and 272 respectively, against 203 and 201 for Bird and Ludlow.

Comparatively few people neglected to vote on the question of abolishing the Board of Freeholders, and an overwhelming sentiment in favor of the proposition was registered. In a total of 543 votes, 451 yeas were cast and 62 nays.

The balloting was absolutely without incident. So little interest was manifested in the result after the polls closed that memories of two or three recent election nights in the borough seemed very unreal.

The vote:

First district—Total votes, 367; (724 registered); For Congress, Wood, R., 251; Southwick, D., 96; Lunger, P., 15; Sinclair, S., 2; Wolf, S. L., 1. For Assembly, Smalley, R., 236; Steele, D., 113; Brown, P., 14. For Coroner, Wild, R., 238; Bowers, D., 94; Murphy, P., 13. For Council, VanArsdale, R., 257; Waldron, R., 254; Bird, D., 94; Ludlow, D., 94. For Justice of the Peace, King, R., 257; Smalley, D., 95. On Abolition of Board of Freeholders, yes, 236; no, 47.

Second district—Total votes, 354 (735 registered). For Congress, Wood, R., 215; Southwick, D., 107; Lunger, P., 24; Sinclair, S., 1; Wolf, S. L., 4. For Assembly, Smalley, R., 216; Steele, D., 110; Brown, P., 21. For Coroner, Wild, R., 219; Bowers, D., 106; Murphy, P., 21. For Council, VanArsdale, R., 218; Waldron, R., 218; Bird, D., 109; Ludlow, D., 107. For Justice of the Peace, King, R., 212; Smalley, D., 114. For Abolition of Board of Freeholders, yes, 215; no, 45.

JUNIORS ENTERTAIN.

Music, Humor and Magic Enjoyed by Large Audience.

A large audience enjoyed the entertainment of Plainfield Council, No. 293, Jr. O. U. A. M., at Y. M. C. A. Hall last night. Clever professionals filled most of the numbers.

The programme included music by M. A. Korff's five-piece orchestra, with the versatile Dr. Buchanan at the bass viol; monologues by S. V. Sanford; ventriloquism by Dan J. Harrington, and magic by H. Warren Rankin. The numbers were all delightful, and the audience was not stinting of its applause.

At the close of part one, Rev. E. E. Roberson, pastor of Monroe Avenue M. E. church, delivered a brief address. The hall was handsomely decorated with flags and the insignia of the order. The committee in charge was made up of E. B. Smith, H. H. Webb, P. H. Bennett, S. H. Cratsley, Julius G. Williams, William Richards, Ernest Crow and Fred Sebring.

Sayings of Sanford.

Sanford Robinson, to whom most of the success of the Fowler campaign in the Fifth Congressional district is due, says that "the reason Martine was defeated was that he had poor press agents." That of course will be accepted as final.

PLAINFIELD HITS FOWLER

Congressman's Majority Less Than One-half That Given G. O. P. Assembly Candidates.

MARTINE RUNS WELL

Plainfield administered a good spanking to Congressman Fowler yesterday for playing "hookey," but it decided to send him back to "school" instead of making him start out in the world for himself. After listening to the monitor, James E. Martine, who was egged-on by the Democrats, the voters decided by a majority of 663 to send the Republican candidate back to answer roll calls. Two years ago, Plainfield gave him a majority of 912 as against Martine and four years ago approximately 1,700 as against DeWitt C. Flanagan.

Fowler was badly cut in every district in the city with the exception of the First district of the First ward. He got less than half the majority given his colleagues who were running for Assembly, but he got there just the same, so what's the difference? The average majority for the G. O. P. Assemblyman here was approximately 1,487. This is a trifle above the normal majority of the party. The Bishops' bill did it, for Plainfield favors stringent excise regulations.

As a rule the Republican municipal candidates make good runs. Of course the coroner is always the high man on the ticket and yesterday's election proved no exception to the rule. Charles Joel Fisk, for mayor, and John W. Murray, Jr., for tax collector, were on both tickets, the Democrats having endorsed the G. O. P. selections. Murray beat Fisk in the race by about thirty odd votes Woodhull, for school director, and Doane, for freeholder, were the second and third highest respectively.

James E. Martine was given a fine complimentary vote by his fellow townsmen. Lack of organization in the local Democracy was largely responsible, however, for the size of the majority by his opponent. That the labor vote did not cut so much figure in some districts as was expected may be seen by a glance at the tables published in another column. But nevertheless many union men did cast a ballot for the Plainfielder. In most all the districts the Colbyites voted straight tickets, which is also evident on the face of the returns. The colored men voted solidly for Fowler.

Somewhat of a surprise was caused by the fact that Martine swept two districts in the city. He carried away the Second of the Third ward and the Third of the Fourth ward. Organized labor made itself effective in those two districts. The First district of the First ward was the banner one for Fowler, he receiving a majority of 182 there—that's over one-fourth of his total majority in the city. The First district of the Third ward was a close second, giving him 173 majority.

The majorities obtained by Mr. Fowler in the other districts were: Second of First, 51; Second ward, 96 and 29; first two of Fourth, 73 and 59. Martine received five majority in the Second of the Third and in the Third of the Fourth. Total vote in city—Fowler, 1,948; Martine, 1,285. Total vote in 1904—Fowler, 2,298; Martine, 1,386. Majorities, 1906—663; 1904—912.

In the Assembly fight it was significant that Tillman was the high man on the Republican ticket. He received 2,360 votes; Perkins and Moxon about eighteen less. Desmond, Democrat, got a little advantage by being a labor candidate. He was high man on the minority ticket, getting 873 votes, while Coulter and Hague got a few less.

The Councilmanic figures are interesting. Tolles, R., was cut a bit in the First district of his ward, the First. Hibbard, R., made an excellent run in both districts of the Second ward, receiving 418 votes. Tolles got 351. In the Third ward Tyler was given a fine send-off. He was high man in his First district. Despite threatened cuts, Randolph did splendidly in the Fourth ward.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD

Constable Horace Pangborn sold the goods and chattles of the Jerseyland Real Estate Co. Monday afternoon at Jerseyland Park. The sale was held to satisfy judgments obtained by several of the creditors of the company for work done at the Park during the past summer. This probably ends Galvin Park as a pleasure resort.

Justice Clark made two hearts beat as one Sunday by uniting in marriage Pasala Salvator and Miss Rosale Meile, both residents of the Italian colony on Hunter avenue. The wedding was followed by the usual celebration at the colony, which lasted far into the night.

Yesterday was an ideal day for election and from the large registry list there should have been a much larger vote cast. The total number registered was 343. This is the largest the township has ever had.

Miss Nellie Littell, of Cranford, a former member of the corps of teachers of the school, was the guest yesterday of Miss Minnie Squires.

Mrs. Peter Smith, of Lincoln, has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Clark, of Front street.

Miss Maria Noble, of Newark, is spending a week with her son, Wm. B. Noble, of Park avenue.

Fanwood B. & E. Co. holds its regular monthly meeting tonight in the company room.

Andrew Bayack was the guest yesterday of friends in Trenton.

Dartmouth Gets Bredemus.

Dartmouth college students are rejoicing over the news that John Bredemus, the Exeter (Mass.) star pole vaulter, is about to enter their fold. Bredemus holds the academy record of 10 feet 11½ inches in the pole vault, made at the last interscholastic meet, and he formerly held the record in the hammer throw. He is also fair in the shot put.

REPUBLICANS SWEEP MAJORITY OF STATES

84 MAJORITY IN LOWER HOUSE FOR THE G. O. P.

In addition to New Jersey, there were elections yesterday in forty-one States and three territories. In twenty-three States a Governor was elected, and in all but three of these a Legislature was chosen. Representatives to Congress were elected in all these States, but Maine, Vermont, and Oregon, which had already chosen solid Republican delegations.

Returns indicate that the Republican party have made a clean sweep in every State but Rhode Island, which went Democratic by about 6,000. Minnesota and Ohio, which is slightly in doubt. The Republicans have elected a majority of the House of Representatives. Apparently it will be about 84, which is much better than the Republican Congressional Committee expected.

New Jersey was carried by the Republicans, but as Essex county elected a full Democratic delegation to the Legislature, the re-election of United States Senator Dryden is not certain. Some other Republican may be chosen.

Returns from Pennsylvania indicate that the Fusionists have been utterly routed. The plurality of Edwin S. Stuart, Republican candidate for Governor, is likely to be at least 50,000 in the city of Philadelphia alone. Samuel Rotan, the Republican nominee for District Attorney of the city, defeated Gibboney by upward of 20,000.

In Massachusetts, Governor Guild (Rep.) is re-elected by a plurality of 37,000 over John B. Moran.

READY FOR BAZAAR.

Committees In Charge of Grace Church Guild Attractions.

Everything is in readiness at Grace P. E. church parish house for the opening of the two-days bazaar and entertainment this afternoon, under the auspices of the Guild. A magician will appear in the afternoon, and tonight a musical and dramatic programme will be presented.

The attractions will be under the charge of the following: Useful table, Mrs. H. B. Coomler, chairman; fancy table, Mrs. L. G. Timpson, chairman; mystery table, Mrs. J. A. Peterkin, chairman; candy table, Miss Fleming, chairman; tea table, Mrs. H. R. Depew, chairman; lemonade table, Mrs. T. W. T. Maxwell, chairman; ice cream, Mrs. E. F. Feickert, chairman; Magic cheese, Miss Egan; music, Mrs. E. J. Lee, Miss Cornelia Hyatt, Miss Alice Titus; decorations, Mrs. Howard Fleming, Mrs. T. W. T. Maxwell; dramatic, Miss Cock, Mrs. E. S. Hyatt; supper committee, Mrs. S. D. Lounsbury, Mrs. Howard Tracy, Miss Rodman.

G.O.P. LOSSES IN STATE

Democrats Gain Three Senatorships and Twenty-six Assemblymen.

GOOD BYE, MR. DRYDEN

United States Senator's Chances Are Slim—Hudson and Essex Counties Democratic.

Returns from yesterday's election in New Jersey show that although the ship of State has again been confided to the Republican party, the chances are very unfavorable for United States Senator John F. Dryden's re-election by the incoming Republican Legislature. The "cashless campaign" of his Democratic rival, Colonel Edwin A. Stevens, may not have been in vain.

Though the new excise law or "bishops' act" played an important part in the contest because the liquor men are bent on its repeal, it is not believed that the statute will be effaced for more than a year at least, unless indications belie the prevalent belief. It is not likely the Republican majority in the Senate will reverse its record of last winter, and if it does not that alone would save the act.

Of the twenty-one members of the Senate there are thirteen holdovers, all of the thirteen having voted for the "bishops' law" last winter. It is confidently felt that none of these will vote for its repeal. With the Republican Senators chosen yesterday there are enough in the upper house in favor of the law to warrant the belief that it will not be disturbed for some time to come.

The big victories of the Democrats in Hudson county over the Republican regulars, or Dickinson machine tickets, were features of the election that made the Republican bosses wince.

In Middlesex county the election of Senator William H. C. Jackson, Republican, over George S. Silzer, Democat, is in doubt.

The triangular fight for Senator in Burlington county was won by Samuel K. Robbins, Republican, his competitors being Arthur J. Collins, Democrat, and George Wildes, Independent, who is a Colbyite.

The bitter Senatorial contest in Cape May County resulted in the election of Robert E. Hand, the Republican candidate, over Samuel E. Ewing, Democrat, who was indorsed by the Prohibitionists and by the Roosevelt Republicans.

The New Legislature.

The new Republican Legislature elected yesterday in New Jersey will stand on joint ballot.

	Rep.	Dem.
Senate	16	5
House	34	26
Joint ballot	50	31

Republican majority on joint ballot, 19.

Republican majority of present Legislature on joint ballot, 67.

Newly Elected State Senators,

The State Senators elected yesterday, the astericks indicating re-election, are:

HUGHES WINS.

Elected Governor of New York by 67,500 Plurality.

Charles Evans Hughes, Republican, was elected Governor of the State of New York yesterday by a plurality of 67,500 votes over William Randolph Hearst, Democratic and Independence League candidate.

The city vote for Hearst was insufficient for a moment to stem the tide of up-State ballots for Hughes. The Republican candidate reached the Bronx with a plurality of 129,750. Odell, in 1902, had only 131,000 plurality up-State; Higgins two years ago reached the Bronx with 160,000 plurality.

Hearst lost Erie, Schenectady, and Monroe counties, in all of which he had confidently counted on beating his opponent. Albany went against him. Westchester gave Hughes the remarkable plurality of 9,000, Onondaga contributed 8,500, Chautauqua 6,000, St. Lawrence, Ulster, Oneida, Rensselaer, Orange, Oswego, Broome, Greene, Herkimer, Jefferson, Montgomery, Fulton, Washington and Wayne all added to the total in the Hughes column.

Hughes carried all the up-State counties with the exception of Chemung, which gave Hearst 300 plurality; Hamilton, which gave him 116, and Schoharie, where the Democratic candidate got a plurality of 250. Two years ago Chemung gave Higgins a plurality of 1,180, and the Democratic plurality in Schoharie was 408.

Erie county, Democratic State Chairman Conners' stronghold, which the Hearst forces had been claiming by 5,000, went for Hughes by about 1,500.

The Art ..of.. Expression.

The art of expression is possessed by jewelry just as in a human being. Nothing so well expresses one's tastes and characteristics; nothing so strongly conveys one's regard for another as a beautiful piece of jewelry. And no other gift requires so much exercise of good taste in the selection.

All our jewelry will be found of sufficient range and completeness as to meet every varying requirement as to taste and price. Our smaller pieces of jewelry, no less than the larger ones, are just as rich in expressiveness. Every line and every style is distinctly artistic, modern and exclusive.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

FOOTBALL.

The Orange Field Club defeated Alis on the grounds of the latter yesterday by a score of 6 to 0. The victors scored on a fluke. It was a lively contest throughout, but was marred to some extent by injury to Banks, Bogert, of the O. F. C., and several other players on the opposing team.

There is still considerable talk in football circles about the O. F. C. and Dunellen elevens, and their inability to come together. The latest report is that the local team wants $100 to play at Dunellen, while the latter team is willing to play for a side bet of $50. Under the present circumstances the supporters of either team will not be satisfied until a game is arranged to decide the question of supremacy. O. F. C. claims the 150 pound championship of the State, but Dunellen disputes this.

Alis will play Dunellen at the latter place on Saturday and the game should be a fine one. Both elevens are putting up a strong game and there is very little advantage on either side.

The effective work of Princeton's scoring game has sent the Tigers up to the head of the class in total points. An ominous fact—for rivals—is that the Jerseymen are within three points of 200, more than any of the others. Last week Cornell and the Indians were ahead of Princeton in total points, but now Cornell is second and Carlisle third. Swarthmore continues to maintain a respectable total, and in the list of twenty-four teams printed below Swarthmore is the only one whose goal line has not been crossed. A goal from the field gave the only points made against the Swarthmoreans, while one or more touchdowns have been made against every other team in the list. As between the Army and Navy two touchdowns have been made against each. Four of the fifteen points scored on the Army were due to a field goal. The ten points charged against the Navy were due to a couple of touchdowns, neither touchdown being converted into a goal. Members of the big four were the ones that scored on the Army, while one of the big four and one lesser light scored on the Navy. The Williams eleven has at last succeeded in bringing its total of points scored above points made by opponents. Yale and Lafayette have scored at least twice in every game they have played. Lafayette scores grow smaller as harder teams are tackled but still show a strong, consistent offence. Yale in the last five games has done consistently unimpressive work in attack, not falling below ten points and not getting above seventeen. The grand total of points for the twenty-four teams is 2,395. Opponents' total is 668. The totals for the various teams and their opponents follow: Harvard, 140—11, eight games. Yale, 133—6, seven games. Princeton, 197—9, eight games. Pennsylvania, 147—46, eight games. Cornell, 193—31, eight games. Dartmouth, 78—42, seven games. Brown, 78—27, six games. Amherst, 30—25, four games. West Point, 59—15, six games. Annapolis, 86—10, eight games. Lafayette, 160—18, six games. Carlisle, 191—14, seven games. Pennsylvania State, 59—10, six games. Virginia, 130—18, eight games. Syracuse, 108—71, six games. Williams, 44—33, six games. Exeter, 44—30, nine games. Andover, 85—22, nine games. Colgate, 77—40, seven games. Weslyan, 33—58, six games. Fordham, 99—14, five games. Lehigh, 45—101, seven games. Michigan, 62—13, five games.

The hot blood of youth became so caloric in Chicago the other day that the second half of the game between school elevens was embellished by a fight between the rival bands of rooters. The Donnybrook Fair accompaniment took the form of a riot after the game, and the police were summoned post haste to quell the ardor of the disputants. The students were corralled by the cops and treated to a free ride to the police station. The legitimate scrapping on the gridiron was as mild as puss in the corner compared to the melees on the side. Fists filled the air, eyes took on the hue of midnight, punched probosces were as the sands of the sea, canes and rocks were used to give emphasis to the combat and the wholesale wrecking of debris created a boom in the hat business. The colored sub quarterback of one team fought with a follower of the other team, and the colored youth drew first blood, his opponent's nose being the source of claret supply. The two renewed the fight after the game. The police bore down on the combatants, and in the scuffle to escape the colored party took a knock on the conk from the cop, while the other half of the strenuous sketch was rush to a drug store. As has been said before in this column, the new rules increase the variety of the game.

GOT MORE VOTES THAN MAYORALTY CANDIDATE

J. W. MURRAY, JR., RUNS A BIT AHEAD OF C. J. FISK.

Murray, in his lone jog back into the collectorship, passed Fisk on his solitary saunter to the mayoralty. The collector got twenty-five more votes than the head of the municipal ticket. The difference in the votes desn't mean anything in particular, except that it gives Mr. Murray a chance to smile at Mr. Fisk in memory of the jollying they indulged in over the prospects of one running ahead of the other.

There were two more votes for Murray in the second district of the First ward; five more in each of the districts of the Second; five and four respectively in the First and Second districts of the Third where both candidates live and four more in the Third district of the Fourth.

GOTHAM FOR HEARST.

He Carries City of New York by 70,000 Majority.

Hearst carried New York city by about 70,000. His majority was 245,000 less than the combined pluralities for McClellan and Hearst last year and 10,000 less than the plurality for Herrick two years ago.

Manhattan and the Bronx gave Hearst a majority of 60,000. Hearst carried Kings county by the small plurality of about 5,000. Kings was Hearst's strongest supporter last year, giving him a plurality of 16,000.

Queens rolled up a plurality of 7,000 for Hearst. In Richmond Hearst's plurality was 800.

Republicans Beat Negro Candidate.

Sea Bright, N. J., Nov. 7.—At the borough election yesterday Ernest Chatman, a negro, candidate for Councilman, was beaten by James H. Johnson, Democrat, by 182 to 53. The borough is nominally Republican. Abram Emley and Frederick Brown, Democrats, were also elected Councilmen.

Republicans Sweep Chatham.

Chatham, Nov. 7.—The entire Republican ticket here was elected by a majority ranging from thirty to sixty. For Congress, Fowler (Rep.) received 58 majority; Chaplin and Buxton (Reps.) 51 and 46, respectively, for Assembly. Hitchings beat Smith for coroner by 59.

F. C. Jennings and family, formerly of Rockview avenue, who have spent the summer out of town, have gone to New York city for the winter.

JERSEY'S STAFF IN NEXT CONGRESS

DEMOCRATS CAPTURE FOUR OF TEN SEATS IN THE LOWER HOUSE.

For the ten seats in the national House of Representatives to which New Jersey is entitled, the Republicans, who have been in control of nine of them, yesterday succeeded in electing four of their candidates, one district is in doubt and the rest of the Congressional berths went to Democratic nominees.

James E. Martine's defeat by Representative Charles N. Fowler in the Fifth district was a keen disappointment to himself and friends.

In the Sixth district former Representative William Hughes, Democrat, beat George H. Burke, Republican.

As was expected, Eugene W. Leake, Democrat, defeated Charles E. Pickett, Republican, in the Ninth district. Pickett is the superintendent of the Bayonne refining plant of the Borax Trust.

As usual the Tenth district went overwhelmingly Democratic, James A.Hamil winning over Howard B. Cruse, Republican, by a large plurality.

The fight for the Second district Congressional berth made by Councilman William Riddle, of Atlantic City, the Labor and Lincoln Republican nominee, was not a serious factor, as his candidacy has been repudiated by President Ford, of the State Federation of Labor, and President Dennis A. Hayes, of the National Bottle Blowers' Association.

The estimated pluralities of the successful candidates are as follows, the asterisks indicating re-election:

First district—*Henry C. Loudenslager (Rep.), 9,000. Loudenslager's plurality in 1904 was 10,804.

Second district—*John J. Gardner (Rep.), 8,000. Gardner's plurality in 1904 was 13,261.

Third district—*Benjamin F. Howell (Rep.), 4,500. Howell's plurality in 1904 was 6,703.

Fourth district—*Ira W. Wood (Rep.), 4,000. Wood's plurality in 1904 for the full term was 5,626 and 5,655 for the short term.

Fifth district—*Charles N. Fowler (Rep.), 1,000. Fowler's plurality in 1904 was 5,234 over Martine.

Seventh district—Election in doubt. Parker's plurality in 1904 was 11,231.

Eighth District—Le Gage Pratt (Dem.), 2,000. The Republican candidate in 1904, William H. Wiley, was elected over Seymour (Dem.) by a plurality of 12,541.

Ninth district—Eugene W. Leake (Dem.), 2,000. In 1904 the Republican candidate, Marshall VanWinkle, was elected by a plurality of 2,425.

Tenth district—James A. Hamill (Dem.), 8,000. Allan L. McDermott, the Democratic nominee in 1904, won by a plurality of 5,334 over Walker (Rep.) Hamill was Democratic leader in the New Jersey House of Assembly two years ago.

DEFEAT OF HEARST PLEASES PRESIDENT.

President Roosevelt returned at 6:30 last evening from Oyster Bay, where he went to cast his vote. He was accompanied from New York by Secretary Root. He went directly to his office to receive election returns. An excellent bulletin service was furnished the President, and he remained in his office until 8 o'clock, receiving the news.

When it appeared that Hearst was defeated in New York the President expressed great satisfaction.

At 8 o'clock last night the President went to the White House and dined with Mrs. Roosevelt and the children. There were no guests. During dinner some of the important bulletins were sent over to the White House.

Shortly after 9 o'clock the President returned to his office and with a number of friends, including Assistant Attorney-General Cooley, read the returns and discussed the outcome.

The greatest election crowds ever seen there, even at the close of a Presidential contest, surrounded bulletin boards last night. Interest chiefly centered in New York. There was but little cheering, as the throngs seemed to be for Hearst, and disappointed at the result.

Following the example of President Roosevelt, nearly all the members of his Cabinet voted. Secretary Root cast his ballot in New York city, Secretary Bonaparte in Baltimore County, Md.; Assistant Secretary Oliver in Albany, N. Y., and Assistant Secretary Newberry at Detroit, Mich.

Secretary Taft and Assistant Secretary Bacon were on their trip to Cuba during the days allotted to registration and did not vote yesterday.

Vote for 'Squire and Constable.

In the First district of the First ward, Peter Thompson received 351 votes for Justice of the Peace, and Constable Peter V. Weaver received 352. In the Second district Mr. Thompson and Mr. Weaver each received 169 votes. This was the only ward in the city having candidates for these offices.

MANY SPLIT TICKETS HERE.

Another Feature of Election in New Providence Was Tie in the Mayoralty Contest.

New Providence, Nov. 7.—Split tickets marked the election in both the borough and township. James E. Martine, the Democratic Congressional candidate, was beaten in the borough but carried the township. The vote in the township follows: Congress—Fowler (Rep.), 38; Martine (Dem.), 56. Assembly—Perkins (Rep.), 51; Moxon (Dem.), 50; Tillman (Rep.), 50; Desmond (Dem.), 42; Hague (Rem.), 42; Coulter (Dem.), 42. The vote in the borough follows: Congress—Fowler (Rep.), 99; Martine (Dem.), 78. Assembly—Perkins (Rep.), 97; Moxon (Rep.), 98; Tillman (Rep.), 99; Desmond (Dem.), 79; Coulter (Dem.), 77; Hague (Dem.), 78.

A feature of the election here was the fact that in the contest for Mayor of the borough Thomas B. Crane, the Democratic candidate, and Alfred G. Mason tied at 89 votes each. The ballots were twice recounted, but the result was the same.

SUMMIT HITS PERKINS.

No excitement above the ordinary was occasioned by the election in Summit. The vote as a whole was lighter than last year, and this with a larger poll list. The Republican ticket throughout the city was successful, with Randolph Perkins, Assembly candidate for re-election, running behind his ticket.

For Congress, Charles N. Fowler, Republican, won out over James E. Martine, Democrat, by a majority of 212. On the Assembly ticket, Randolph Perkins, Peter Tillman and John R. Moxon defeated James E. Desmond, Joseph Hague and Henry C. Coulter, Democrats, by an average of 212. For conorer, Lufburrow dedeated Wagner, Democrat, by 265.

Martine Carries Madison.

Madison, Nov. 7.—James E. Martine, Democratic candidate for Congress in the Fifth district, carried Madison by a plurality of 40 votes over Representative Charles N. Fowler, Republican. The vote was 450 to 410. For the Assembly candidates the vote here was as follows: R. J. Chaplin and Henry W. Buxton, both Republicans, 414 and 415, respectively; August H. Bartley and Samuel Brant, both Democrats, 452 and 456.

Washington for Martine.

Washington, N. J., Nov. 7.—Only sixty per cent. of the votes of the borough were polled in Washington, and there were only a few workers at the polls. James E. Martine, Democratic Congressional candidate, carried the town by forty-two plurality.

WHAT THE KIDNEYS DO.

Their Unceasing Work Keeps Us Strong and Healthy.

All the blood in the body passes through the kidneys once every three minutes. The kidneys filter the blood. They work night and day. When healthy they remove about 500 grains of impure matter daily, when unhealthy some part of this impure matter is left in the blood. This brings on many diseases and symptoms—pain in the back, headache, nervousness, hot, dry skin, rheumatism, gout, gravel, disorders of the eyesight and hearing, dizziness, irregular heart, debility, drowsiness, dropsy, etc. But if you keep the filters right you will have no trouble with your kidneys.

Mrs. Julia Hynes, of 523 Sixth street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "For nearly a year I was suffering with a severe pain in the loins, or what is generally called backache. I was also afflicted with a stiffness or lameness of the limbs and the kidney secretions were highly colored and contained some sediment. Any remedies that I took to clear up the kidney secretions and rid me of my aches and pains did me apparently no good or benefit. I heard of Doan's Kidney Pills doing so much for people suffering as I was, and began using them, getting a supply at Randolph's drug store. Though at first I saw no change in my condition, I soon began to have less pain in my back and my limbs were not stiff any more. I kept right on with the pills and took them several months, with the result that they cured me of my trouble and I am glad to endorse them."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The beautiful weather of yesterday was an ideal Election Day, particularly for the Republicans who hold back when the day is stormy, although yesterday both parties were vigilent in securing votes for their favorite candidates. This town (although a Democratic one) had a sweeping Republican majority.

Mrs. Walter Sisty and little daughter, who have been visiting here for the past two weeks, have returned to their home at Lake Hopatcong.

Mrs. Carmechial, of Cleveland, O., is visiting her sister, Mrs. Alfred Foote, of Plainfield avenue.

Rev. A. C. T. Attlee will lecture this evening on "Nicholas Nickleby" in the Baptist church.

Colonel John I. Holly and family have moved to Madison avenue, near Randolph road.

Mrs. Voorhees, of Oak Tree, is making extensive preparations at his home there.

Mr. and Mrs. Faber spent yesterday at their summer home here.

Peter Johnson is spending a few days at Matawan, N. J.

Miss Emma Manning has returned from a visit to Newark.

MIDDLESEX IN DOUBT.

George S. Silzer, Democrat, May Have Defeated Jackson.

New Brunswick, Nov. 7.—Senator William H. C. Jackson, Republican, may be defeated by George S. Silzer, Democrat, in Middlesex county. Silzer based his campaign on an anti-bribery crusade. He is chairman of the Middlesex County Democratic Committee.

The present Republican Assemblymen in Middlesex, Frank Crowther, of Perth Amboy; William R. Drake, of Stelton, and Edward E. Haines, of South Amboy, are believed to be re-elected. The Democratic Assembly nominees were Dr. Hugh Ramsay, of Perth Amboy; Dr. Thomas Haggerty, of this city, a brother of Dr. Haggerty, of Newark, and Alfred Kerr, of South Amboy.

Congressman Howell will carry the county by 1,000.

DUNELLEN HAS A COLLECTORSHIP FIGHT

TIE VOTE AND THE RESULT WILL BE DECIDED BY THE COURT.

Looking for one error, the election officers of Dunellen found another, last night, and as a result they didn't get through counting until after breakfast time this morning, and I. J. Stites, Republican candidate for collector, is making preparations to bring the ballot box into court. He claims a tie between him and his Democratic opponent, John W. Moynihan, arrived at by the election officers, should be replaced b ya plurayity of two for him.

The fight between the parties in Dunellen was close, and the closest possible race developed between Stites and Moynihan. In totalling the ballots last night, an error in the votes for Fedderman and Coriell, councilmanic candidates, was discovered, and a recount began. At that time, Moynihan was checked up as one vote better than Stites. Before the recount ended an error was discovered that wiped out the plurality of one, and established a tie, on the official count, between the collectorship candidates.

Mr. Stiles protested against the rejection of two bollots cast for him as defective. They were thrown out because his name was written in "Sties." Mr. Stiles declared this morning that the intent of the voters who cast those ballots was plain, and he intended to have the court's safeguard them in their constitutional rights.

The Republicans won on the county ticket, and lost all but one Councilman on the local ticket. The vote:

For Congress, Howell (R.), 193; Harvey (D.), 174. For State Senator, Jackson (R.), 188; Silzer (D.), 181. For Assembly, Drake (R.), 192; Crowther (R.) 189; Haines (R.), 192; Ramsey (D.), 177; Kerr (D.), 177; Haggerty (D.), 177. For Coroner, Beekman (R.), 194; Morgan (D.), 177. For Assessor, Fisher (R.), 178; Peters (D.), 193. For Collector, Stiles (R.), 184; Moynihan (D.), 184. For Council, full term, Fedderman (R.), 174; Coriell (R.), 183; Richards (D.), 191; Starker (D.), 190. For Council, one year, Churchill (R.), 204; Bolard (D.), 159.

MORRIS KEEPS IN FOLD.

Republican Assembly Delegation Chosen—Morristown Republicans Win.

Morris county's Assembly delegation for the coming legislative session will again be Republican, R. J. Chaplin having been re-elected and Henry W. Buxton having been chosen as a fellow-lawmaker by 1,800 pluralities. Their defeated Democratic rivals were Samuel Brant and Augustus H. Bartley, who had been placed on their party ticket after Edward A. Quayle, of Morristown, and Whitfield B. Gillen, of Dover, had declined the nominations.

Fowler, Republican, for Congress, carried Morris by 1,500.

Morristown elected Alexander Bennele, Republican, over Charlton A. Reed, Democrat, for Mayor, by 100 majority, and three aldermen out of four, Messiar, Democrat, in the Second ward, being elected. The Republicans will retain a majority in the Board of Aldermen.

Assemblyman-elect Buxton has been a resident of Morristown since boyhood. He is engaged in business in Newark and is a graduate of Princeton.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD, TOO.

The Republicans had an easy time in South Plainfield. They cast 102 ballots to their opponents' 61, and practically all the candidates got nearly the total vote. The figures: For Congress, Howell, R., 96; Harvey, D., 63; for State Senator, Jackson, R., 86; Silzer, D., 69; for Assembly, Drake, R., 96; Crowther, R., 98; Haines, R., 98; Ramsey, D., 62; Kerr, D., 61; Haggerty, D., 62; for coroner, Beekman, R., 81; Morgan, D., 78; for collector, La Rue, R., 100; Kelly, D., 69; for assessor, Coriell, R., 86; Nelson, D., 70; for township committee, Hamilton, R., 104; Geary, D., 56; for justice of the peace, Von Minden, R., 98; Rogers, D., 61.

Mountain Results.

Out of the 176 votes polled in North Plainfield township, the Republicans got 105 and the Democrats 65, the Prohibitionists 5 and the Socialists 1. Demler, for freeholder, and one other of the local candidates on the Democratic ticket, won over their opponents. The proposition to abolish the freeholders was voted down by 107 to 23. The vote: For Congress, Wood (R.), 106; Southwick (D.), 59. For Assembly, Smalley (R.), 110; Steele (D.), 61. For Coroner, Wild (R.), 105; Bowers (D.), 66. For Freeholder, Titus (R.), 58; Demler (D.), 112. For Tax Collector, Ackor (R.), 105; Bodin (D.), 69. For Township Committeeman, Beetham (R.), 77; Brokaw (D.), 95.

FIRE TRUCK DAMAGED.

Rear Wheels Strike a Pole While Making a Turn.

While on the way to a grass fire at Seventh street and Monroe avenue at 6:40, last night, the hook-and-ladder truck from headquarters ran afoul of a telephone pole at Seventh street and Park avenue. Daniel Keiderling, who was driving, swerved the front wheels into Seventh street safely but the rear pair took too wide a sweep and they caught the pole. William Jaeger, who was substituting as tillerman, tried to avoid the collision but without success and barely saved himself from being thrown headlong into the street.

The rear wheels were jammed under the body of the truck and it was necessary to use a jack to get them in the proper place. There were a couple of minor breaks on the vehicle that will put it out of commission for a few days. The fire wasn't worth the trouble of going out.

G. O. P. Controls County Board.

The Union county Board of Freeholders will stand twelve Republicans to eight Democrats as a result of yesterday's election. Woodruff was returned from Roselle Park and Meisel was returned from Springfield. Wahl and Potter were defeated in the three cornered fight in New Providence by Jones.

Miss Dorothy Wells, daughter of Mrs. Henry B. Wells, of Washington avenue, who has been travelling abroad, has returned to her home.

OVER THE TEA CUPS.

Despite the fact that it is the height of illbreeding to discuss our personal affairs in the street cars and other public places, it is not an uncommon thing to hear seemingly cultured women relate all that takes place in their homes in the course of a day, or even to go so far as to talk about their friends and neighbors without the least hesitancy about using names.

During the rush hours yesterday afternoon two women were carrying on a conversation for the benefit of all the other passengers on an east bound Orange car. This is part of what was heard:

"That was while my mother-in-law was staying at our house."

"Is she with you now?"

"Oh, goodness, no! I should hope not. She don't like me and I'm mighty glad she's gone."

"She is hard to get along with, isn't she?"

"Well! I should say she is! None of the family like her. It was the biggest mistake for father-in-law to marry her—she was such a cranky old maid, all she took him for was to get a good home. She bosses him as well as everyone else in the house."

"Well, that's what I always said. He had a right to marry some older woman, it would have been better."

"Oh! she's old enough if she wasn't such a confirmed crank. Did you hear about the Joneses? Mr. Jones hasn't worked a stroke all summer, and it's just 'killin' ' where they get all their style."

"I know it; everybody is talking about them, and do you know, Mrs. Jones actually pays to have her washing and ironing done, when you'd think she would do it herself and save something. I know I can't afford to have my work done, and my husband works every day."

"Neither can I. Why, I've done all my own work since last April, and I can just tell you I have needed all the money I saved. Of course, my husband don't want me to do it, but I don't mind."

"I suppose you heard Frank B. has been cutting up high jinks again and neglecting his family. I don't think his poor wife made such a good match."

"No, I guess not; you get off here?"

"No. I go to the next corner, but if you're going to get off I will, too, we can walk through this store and I can tell you about the trouble they're having up at Frank's house."

And they vanished through the doorway, leaving the remaining passengers to wonder what more they would say about "Frank" and his family.

If women would only learn to be discreet, how much ridicule they would spare their sex, and how seldom they would be mistaken for know-nothings.

HOUSEHOLD HELPS.

When making pie crust use little water and fold often.

Add a tiny pinch of salt to water in which beans are put to soak.

Meat for soup should be put into cold water to bring the juice out.

A pinch of grated nutmeg added to potato croquettes improves them.

Steamed puddings are much improved by standing a few days before serving.

Clothes should be rinsed thoroughly before putting them into the blue water.

A new range should be very gradually heated to prevent the possibility of cracking.

A good way to save steps is to stop an instant and think when you are tempted to rush after a thing. By trying to imagine what you would do were is absolutely impossible to get what you are about to run after, your ingenuity would quickly enable you to find a means of substituting something at hand for the thing you have not. A residence in the country, several miles from any sort of shop or from neighbors, will teach one that a great many "absolute necessities" can be done without comfortably.

Atime and strength-saving way to pick up pins or needles is to draw a magnet across the floor. The metal things that stick to it can be easily picked off without taking a step.

For the small things in the wash on cold wintry days use a soft wool twine line three or four yords long. Pin all these things on in the house and then pin the filled line on the clothesline outside. It will save cold fingers both in putting out the wash and in taking it in, as the small line is brought into the house before things are removed.

A small quantity of alum in sugar sirup will prevent the sirup becoming granulated.

When other means fail, stains on the hands can be removed by rubbing with your scouring brick.

A Criticism.

"Yes, the amateur actor boasted, "I created the part. It was all mine —that is, all except the makeup. The costumer fixed that for me."

"Yes," replied the friend, "I heard several people say your makeup was good."—Philadelphia Press.

Handicapped.

"What makes you think he will not be successful in politics? He has a great many friends."

"Yes. He hasn't enemies enough to secure him the abuse and criticism that make people famous."—Washington Star.

BIRTH OF A HYMN.

Story of the Origin of "In the Sweet By and By."

A song of national circulation, "In the Sweet By and By," written by S. Fillmore Bennett, of Elkhorn, Wis., had its birth in a country store. Mr. Bennett told the story, which is given in "Wisconsin In Three Centuries," as follows:

It was about time for closing business in the evening when J. P. Webster, whose melodies have made Wisconsin famous, came into the store, feeling somewhat depressed.

I said to Webster, "What is the matter now?"

He replied, "It is no matter; it will be all right by and by."

The idea of the hymn came to me like a flash of sunshine, and I replied: "The sweet by and by. Why would not that make a good hymn?"

"Maybe it would," he said indifferently.

I then turned to my desk and penned the hymn as fast as I could write. I handed it to Mr. Webster. As he read it his eye kindled and his whole demeanor changed. Stepping to the desk, he began writing the notes instantly.

In a few moments he requested Mr. Bright to hand him his violin, and he played with little hesitation the beautiful melody from the notes. A few moments later he had jotted down the notes for the different parts and the chorus.

I do not think it was more than thirty minutes from the time I took my pencil to write the words before the hymn and the notes had all been completed and four of us were singing it exactly as it appeared in the Signet Ring a few days later and as it has been sung the world over over ever since.

THE YOUNGSTERS.

Some Bright Sayings by Little Men and Women.

Tommy—Mamma, didn't you say that the cake in the pantry would make me sick if I was to eat it?

Mamma—Yes, dear.

Tommy—Well, it didn't.

Little Margie—I said my prayers seven times last night, papa.

Papa—Why did you do that, dear?

Little Margie—Oh, so I wouldn't have to bother saying 'em the rest of the week.

"Now, Johnny," said the teacher, "can you tell me what a Mormon is?"

"Yes, ma'am," answered the little fellow. "A Mormon is a man whose wife is twins or triplets."

"Well, Harry," said the hostess to her small guest, "did you rest well last night?"

"I don't know," answered Harry.

"You don't know?" echoed the lady.

"No, ma'am," replied the little chap. "I was alsleep all the time."

The Wisdom of Dorothy.

Dorothy does not relish being left alone to go to sleep. One night after she was tucked in bed by her mother, who then left her, she called to her father and asked if he wasn't coming to bed after he finished his dinner.

"Yes; I'll go to bed as soon as my dinner digests."

"Then come upstairs now. Your dinner will digest upstairs just as well as down," argued the young hopeful.—Judge.

Penn Track Affairs.

Forty men responded to the call for track work at the University of Pennsylvania. Among the experienced men are Cartmell, the intercollegiate champion in the sprints; Haskins, the one mile intercollegiate champion; Taylor, winner of the quarter mile championship two years ago, and Root, Jones, Folsom, Beck, Carothers and Olsen.

Fibing is a very easy way not to hurt people's feelings.

THE DELUGE

By DAVID GRAHAM PHILLIPS, Author of "THE CAST Etc

COPYRIGHT 1905 by the BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY

She turned away from the window, lifted out of the room—you, who love or at least have loved, can imagine how it made me feel to see Her moving about in those rooms of mine.

While the surface of my mind was taken up with her, I must have been thinking, underneath, of the warning she had brought; for, perhaps half or three-quarters of an hour after she left, I was suddenly whirled out of my reverie at the window by a thought like a pistol thrust into my face. "What if 'they' should include Roebuck!" And just as a man begins to defend himself from a sudden danger before he clearly sees what the danger is, so I began to act before I even questioned whether my suspicion was plausible or absurd. I went into the hall, rang the bell, slipped a light-weight coat over my evening dress and put on a hat. When Sanders appeared, I said: "I'm going out for a few minutes—perhaps an hour—if any one should ask." A moment later I was in a hansom and on the way to Roebuck's.

The door of Roebuck's house was opened for me by a maid—a man-servant would have been a "sinful" luxury, a man-servant might be the hireling of plotters against his life. I may add that she looked the cheap maid-of-all-work, and her manners were of the free and fresh sort that indicates a feeling that as high, or higher, wages, and less to do could be got elsewhere.

"I don't think you can see Mr. Roebuck," she said.

"Take my card to him," I ordered, "and I'll wait in the parlor."

"Parlor's in use," she retorted with a sarcastic grin, which I was soon to understand.

So I stood by the old-fashioned coat and hat rack while she went in at the hall door of the back parlor. Soon Roebuck himself came out, his glasses on his nose, a family Bible under his arm. "Glad to see you, Matthew," said he with saintly kindliness, giving me a friendly hand. "We are just about to offer up our evening prayer. Come right in."

I followed him into the back parlor. Both it and the front parlor were lighted; in a sort of circle extending into both rooms were all the Roebucks and the four servants. "This is my friend, Matthew Blacklock," said he, and the Roebucks in the circle gravely bowed. He drew up a chair for me, and we seated ourselves. Amid a solemn hush, he read a chapter from the big Bible spread out upon his lean lap. My glance wandered from face to face of the Roebucks, as plainly dressed as were their servants. I was able to look freely, mine being the only eyes not bent upon the floor.

So absorbed was I in the study of the influence of his terrible master-character upon those closest to it, that I started when he said: "Let us pray." I followed the example of the others, and knelt. The audible prayer was offered up by his oldest daughter, Mrs. Wheeler, a widow. Roebuck punctuated each paragraph in her series of petitions with a loudly-whispered amen. When she prayed for "the stranger whom Thou has led seemingly by chance into our little circle," he whispered the amen more fervently and repeated it. The prayer ended and, us on our feet, the servants withdrew; then, awkwardly, all the family except Roebuck. That is, they closed the doors between the two rooms and left him and me alone in the front parlor.

"I shall not detain you long, Mr. Roebuck," said I. "A report reached me this evening that sent me to you at once."

"If possible, Matthew," said he, and he could not hide his uneasiness, "put off business until to-morrow. My mind—yours, too, I trust—is not in the frame for that kind of thoughts now."

"Is the Coal organization to be announced the first of July?" I demanded. It has always been, and always shall be, my method to fight in but from expediency. Some men fight best in the brush; I don't. So I always begin battle by shelling the woods.

"No," he said, amazing me by his instant frankness. "The announcement has been postponed."

Why did he not lie to me? Why did he not put me off the scent, as he might easily have done, with some shrewd evasion? I suspected I owed it to my luck in catching him at family prayers.

"When will the reorganization be announced?" I asked.

"I can not say," he answered. "Some difficulties—chiefly labor difficulties—have arisen. Until they are settled, nothing can be done. Come to me to-morrow, and we'll talk about it."

"That is all I wished to know," said I, with a friendly, easy smile. "Good night."

It was his turn to be astonished—and he showed it, where I had given not a sign. "What was the report you heard?" he asked, to detain me.

"That you and Mowbray Langdon had conspired to ruin me," said I, laughing.

He echoed my laugh rather hollowly. "It was hardly necessary for you to come to me about such a—a statement."

"Hardly," I answered dryly. Hardly, indeed! For I was seeing now all that I had been hiding from myself since I became infatuated with Anita and made marrying her my only real business in life.

We faced each other, each measuring the other. And as his glance quailed before mine, I turned away to conceal my exultation. In a comparison of resources this man who had plotted to crush me was to me as giant to midget. But I had the joy of realizing that man to man, I was the stronger.

XXIV.

"MY WIFE MUST!"

As I drove away, I was proud of myself. I had listened to my death sentence with a face so smiling that he must almost have believed me unconscious; and also, it had not even entered my head, as I listened, to beg for mercy. Not that there would have been the least use in begging; as well try to pray a statue into life, as try to soften that set will and purpose. Still, many a man would have weakened—and I had not weakened. But when I was once more in my apartment—in our apartment—perhaps I did show that there was a weak streak through me. I fought against the impulse to see her once more that night; but I fought in vain. I knocked at the door of her sitting-room—a timid knock, for me. No answer. I knocked again, more loudly—then a third time, still more loudly. The door opened and she stood there, like one of the angels that guarded the gates of Eden after the fall. Only, instead of a flaming sword, hers was of ice. She was in a dressing-gown or tea gown, white and clinging and full of intoxicating hints and glimpses of all the beauties of her figure. Her face softened as she continued to look at me, and I entered.

"No—please don't turn on any more lights," I said, as she moved toward the electric buttons. "I just came in to—to see if I could do anything for you." In fact, I had come, longing for her to do something for me, to show in look or tone or act some sympathy for me in my loneliness and trouble.

SOFTNESS OF SEALSKIN.
Is Rivaled by Human Hair Where Dandruff is Eradicated.
Sealskin is admired the world over for its softness and glossiness, and yet the human hair is equally as soft and glossy when healthy; and the radical cause of all hair trouble is dandruff, which is caused by a pestiferous parasite that saps the vitality of the hair at its root. Newbro's Herpicide is the only preparation that is fatal to the dandruff germ. Without dandruff there is no falling hair, but a luxuriant growth of glossy, soft hair is certain. Scouring the scalp won't cure dandruff. Kill the dandruff germ. Thousands of women owe their beautiful suits of hair to Newbro's Herpicide. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

Everything But—

"Just look, dear. Don't you think I am a real automobile girl? What of my automobile veil?"

"It is beautiful."

"And this automobile coat—isn't it becoming to my figure?"

"Wonderfully."

"And the automobile cap—did you ever see anything set so fetching?"

"Never."

"And even my hair is in a beautiful automobile tousle. Isn't it grand?"

"Indeed it is, dear, but—but where is your automobile?"

"Oh, I haven't a machine yet, but after I save up 10,000 baking powder labels and 20,000 soap wrappers and all the cigarette coupons the young men give me I'll get one in no time. It won't take over ten years at the longest."—Detroit Tribune.

A Family Jar.

"What is all that row in your house, Tommy?" asked the neighbor of the small boy.

"Why, ma's canning fruit," explained Tommy, with an apprehensive glance toward the windows from which poured the sound of angry voices, "and pa's a food inspector, you know, and he's trying to tell her how she ought to do her work."—Judge.

E. B. SCHOOMAKER WON ELECTION DAY CUP

C. A. REED AND J. O. M'KELVY GOT PARK GOLF CUPS.

There was a large field out at the Plainfield Country Club, yesterday morning and afternoon, several events having been arranged for the holiday. The course was crowded throughout the day. E. B. Shoemaker won the Election Day cup with a net score of 79. These scores were returned:

E. B. Shoemaker, 82, 3—79; C. B. Morgan, 83, 2—81; Arthur Murphy, 88, 7—81; Edward T. Wilson, 93, 10—83; Frank O. Reinhart, 83, 0—83; Frank C. Talmadge, 83, 0—83; W. Lester Glenney, 84, 0—84; E. C. Patterson, 113, 27—86; J. J. Blackmore, 123, 24—99.

These scores were posted for the November Handicap cup:

Morning—E. B. Shoemaker, 82, 3—79; Arthur Murphy, 87, 7—80; C. B. Morgan, 83, 2—81; W. Lester Glenney, 83, 0—83; Frank C. Talmadge, 83, 0—83; E. C. Patterson, 113, 27—86; J. J. Blackmore, 122, 24—99. Afternoon—C. B. Morgan, 83, 2—81; Frank O. Reinhart, 83, 0—83; W. Lester Glenney, 84, 0—84; Frank C. Talmadge, 88, 0—88.

In the second round for the Golf Committee consolation cup the result was as follows:

Howard W. Beebe beat L. L. Tweedy, by default; H. D. Hibbard beat G. F. Schoonmaker, by default; Arthur Murphy beat Morris J. Dumont, 6 up and 4 to play; Edward T. Wilson beat E. E. Iremonger, 5 up and 4 to play; L. A. Chase beat Chas. A. Reed, by default; Charles A. Stover beat E. A. Stevenson, 3 up and 1 to play; C. F. Abbott beat Robert Abbott, by default; Frank C. Talmadge beat W. D. Riggs, 2 up and 1 to play. Third round—H. W. Beebe beat H. D. Hibbard, 3 up and 7 to play; Arthur Murphy beat Edward T. Wilson, 4 up and 3 to play; L. A. Chase beat Charles A. Stover, 1 up (21 holes); Frank C. Talmadge beat C. F. Abbott, 5 up and 3 to play.

In the initial play for the Inconsolables' cup W. D. Riggs beat Geo. F. Schoonmaker, by default; Morris J. Dumont beat Edward J. Patterson, by defaut, and E. B. Shoemaker beat Stuart H. Patterson, by default. The semi-finals will be played on Saturday.

The active season closed at the Park Golf Club yesterday with final play for the President's and Club trophies, the latter a scratch event. Charles A. Reed won the former cup with a total of 16 points, while Rev. J. O. McKelvey won the other cup with a total of 18 points.

Ready for Voorheis.

Bowling fans will be out in force tonight at McLaughlin's bowling academy to witness the match games between Johnny Voorheis, the national champion, and Doc. Voehl and Harry Ackor,, the champion pin smashers of Plainfield. Voehl and Ackor have been practising hard this week and have been putting up some splendid scores around 240. There is no doubt that both will make a good showing tonight. Special seating arrangements have been made to accommodate both men and women. A limited number of seats for the matches are on sale at the alleys and at Timbo's. The match will start at 8:30 o'clock to the minute.

Cross Country Run.

Douglass won the Y. M. C. A. cross country run yesterday, from a field of nine. He covered the five miles along Mountain avenue to Scotch Plains and back along West Front street, in better than forty minutes, which is good time. Hoagland and Trotter scored in within a minute after, in the order named. The run was not for records, but simply for a start in a good sport. Other runs will be organized through the rest of the fall.

FIREMEN KEPT BUSY.

Called Out Three Times Yesterday But Found No Bad Blaze.

The city fire department was kept pretty well on the jump yesterday, answering alarms for fires of minor consequence. The first was at 11:10 in the morning and caused $25 damage to the barn on the Ross property on Plainfield avenue near Eighth street, as was reported yesterday. At 1:30 in th afternoon another alarm was turned in for a slight blaze at the home of Frederick Hawkins on East Front street just beyond Netherwood avenue. Some woodwork caught fire from a defective flue and the house was filled with smoke before the family noticed anything wrong. A couple of extinguishers stopped the trouble.

At 6:40 last night the apparatus was again called out for a grass fire at Monroe avenue and Seventh street that threatened surrounding property. The men put it out in short order.

MUSIC TEACHER HONEST.

Investigators Think, However, That Criticism Was Justified.

Elizabeth, Nov. 7.—The special committee of the Board of Education, which has been investigating the charges against Professor Thomas Wilson, instructor of music in the schools, that he accepted favors from publishing houses with which he had dealings, made a report last night. The report said:

"While we believe Mr. Wilson to be honest in his opinion and motives, yet we feel that the resolution directing the investigation was justified, and are of the opinion that he has placed himself open to criticism."

Mr. Wilson was requested to accept no favors in the future, and it was recommended that the committee on course of instruction be requested to investigate the music systems in use in schools in other places with a view to recommending one for Elizabeth.

NEW MARKET STOOD FAST.

Quietly, and without fuss, New Market went Republican. The total Republican vote was 169; Democratic, 85.

The vote in detail:

For Congress, Howell, R., 166; Harvey, D., 87; for Senator, Jackson, R., 159; Silzer, D., 91; for Assembly, Drake, R., 170; Crowther, R., 165; Haines, R., 166; Ramsey, D., 84; Kerr, D., 85; Haggerty, D., 84; for coroner, Beekman, R., 169; Morgan, D., 85; for collector, La Rue, R., 156; Kelly, D., 95; for assessor, Coriell, R., 139; Nelson, D., 116; for township committee, Hamilton, R., 165; Geary, D., 86; for Justice of the peace, Von Minden, R., 162; Rogers, D., 89.

Library Directors Meet.

At the regular meeting of the Board of Directors of the Plainfield Public Library held last evening, the following members were present: Col. Mason W. Tyler, J. Evarts Tracy, J. Herbert Case, William H. Larrabee, Alexander Gilbert, L. V. F. Randolph, Dr. Leonard Waldo and W. M. Stillman. The matter of some new library stacks was referred to the library committee, and the same committee reported upon a new system of purchasing and rebinding books so as to make them stronger and better. An appropriation of $150 annually to be for the discretionary use of the librarian, for book purchases was reported by the library committee. The librarian was authorized to make such changes in the library staff as were recommended by her.

CONGRESSMAN WOOD BY 4,000 MAJORITY.

Congressman Ira W. Wood.

500, thereby indicating that the people very properly approve Mr. Wood's career in congress. Mr. Wood carried the First ward of Trenton, Mr. Southwick's home ward, by 297 majority. The following shows the vote:

	Wood.	Southwick.
Hunterdon	....	550
Somerset	1000	....
Mercer	3050	....
	4050

Wood's majority 3,500.

LIVELY IN FANWOOD.

The Fanwood Republicans won a hot fight for councilmen. Charles R. Vincent, Thomas S. Young, Chas. Sternheim defeated George E. Cruse, John Uhler and H. H. Seaman by 20 to 22 votes. J. H. L. Todd, a Republican, was on both tickets, as was Collector Charles Sheelen, named for re-election. H. G. Young defeated F. J. Palmer for assessor. The party workers hustled hard all day, and made the election one of the liveliest outside the cities.

The Congressional and county tickets were voted as follows: For Congress, Fowler, R., 52; Martine, D., 22; for assembly, Perkins, R., 52; Moxon, R., 52; Tillman, R., 52; Desmond, D., 22; Hague, D., 22; Coulter, D., 22; for coroner, Lufburrow, R., 51; Wagner, D., 22.

MR. FISK'S COMMENT.

I am very well satisfied with the result in Plainfield. The Republicans were united. The "new idea" men all worked together for the success of the ticket. Martine made a fine showing, I must admit. He not only had the labor vote but a large number of personal friends and admirers. The result shows very plainly that the success of the Republicans so far as the Assembly ticket is concerned is due to the vote in Plainfield. In other words Plainfield saved the day for the party and I congratulate my fellow Republicans.

Vice Chancellor on Colonial Courts.

A session of interest to old residents of Somerset county was held Monday evening in the assembly room of the Somerville High School, when the Public Educational Society and Somerset County Historical Society met. Dr. James De Vevre, president of the Historical Society, presided. The lecturer of the evening was Vice Chancellor James J. Bergen, and his subject was "The Colonial Courts of Somerset County." Mr. Bergen told of the value of personal records being kept during epochs of vital interest, and urged all veterans of the late wars to write experiences.

FUNERAL DELAYED BY FIRE.

Blaze in Woods Nearby Destroys the Home of Dead Man's Family.

Fire in a woods near the home of the late Charles F. Rake, South Pemberton road, Mount Holly, nearly burned his body, which was awaiting burial, there yesterday afternoon. Prompt action by an undertaker and members of the Rake family saved the house and the coffin.

Rake was accidentally shot and killed on Saturday, and his body was about to be conveyed to a cemetery when the fire started. Those at the funeral rushed out and fought the flames f or an hour before they extinguished them. Then the funeral was held. The cause of the fire is not known.

CASTELLANE DIVORCE CASE.

Report That Count Boni's Lawyers Will Open a Vicious Attack.

Paris, Nov. 7.—Sensational developments are expected at the hearing of the Castellane divorce suit today. TOTAL VOTE 68 PER CENT.

3,414 Ballots Cast Out of Registry of 5,004 in Plainfield.

1,138 FOR THE G. O. P.

In Five Districts 342 Were Scratched Ballots—996 Democratic Votes.

The summary of Tuesday's vote in Plainfield forms an interesting study, especially in view of the fact that a great deal of cutting was done, and chiefly by Republicans. Out of the 5,004 registered voters in the city, there was a total of 3,414 votes cast in the four wards, of which number 2,138 were Republican and 996 Democratic. In the five districts not having machines there was a total of 342 scratched, or cut ballots, and a total of 14 rejected ballots. The vote cast by the two leading parties, together with the number of scratched ballots follows:

	Rep.	Scratched. Dem.	Rep.	Dem.	Total.
First Ward, Second District	168	55	30	5	241
Second Ward, First District	295	199	0	0	525
Second Ward, Second District	170	47	49	9	227
Third Ward, First District	296	123	0	0	437
Third Ward, Second District	99	47	61	13	235
Fourth Ward, First District	202	129	0	0	381
Fourth Ward, Second District	309	112	68	10	452
	2,138	996	291	51	3,414

There were two rejected ballots in the Second district of the Second ward, four in the Second district of the Third ward, four in the Second district and one in the Third district of the Fourth ward. The tally sheets where the machines were used in the First district of each ward, did not indicate the number of scratched ballots as in the other districts.

It is a very noticeable fact that the machine is not conducive to independence, most of the cutting being done where no machine were used.

In comparing the Congressional vote of 1904 with that of this year, Congressman Charles N. Fowler, the Republican candidate, received 350 votes less than in 1904, while James E. Martine, the Democratic candidate, received 101 more votes than when he ran in the first instance against the present Congressman.

Congressman Fowler's total vote in Plainfield was 2,298, while the "farmer-orator" received a total of 1,386. On Tuesday Fowler received 1,948 votes in Plainfield, and Martine got 1,285, giving Fowler a majority of 663. Two years ago Fowler had a majority of 912 over his opponent.

In every district Fowler's vote this year was less than two years ago, showing that he was generally cut, chiefly by Republicans, while only in a few districts did Martine's vote exceed that of two years ago.

Below will be found the vote for Fowler and Martine in 1904 and 1906:

	Fowler. '04	Fowler. '06	Martine. '04	Martine. '06
1st Ward, 1st Dist.	348	316	213	134
1st Ward, 2d Dist.	146	144	97	93
2d Ward, 1st Dist.	371	295	186	199
2d Ward, 2d Dist.	151	131	104	92
3d Ward, 1st Dist.	352	296	155	123
3d Ward, 2d Dist.	167	108	87	113
4th Ward, 1st Dist.	155	202	184	129
4th Ward, 2d Dist.	254	241	180	182
4th Ward, 3d Dist.	254	215	180	220
	2,298	1,948	1,386	1,285

The Assembly ticket in Plainfield was well supported by Republicans.

The Assembly candidates received the following vote last year:

	Perkins, R.	Tillman, R.	Tucker, R.	Stamford, D.	Feld, D.	Coulter, D.
First Ward, Second District	140	140	140	53	52	52
Second Ward, First District	326	328	331	105	106	103
Third Ward, First District	301	302	301	92	91	92
Third Ward, Second District	163	162	166	41	42	42
Fourth Ward, First District	197	197	196	83	84	83
Fourth Ward, Second District	285	282	282	133	133	132
	2,129	2,136	2,141	746	743	739

	Perkins, R.	Moxon, R.	Tillman, R.	Coulter, D.	Hague, D.	Desmond, D.

COPS LEARN HOW TO BECOME MARTIANS

SANITARIUM STRAY IMPARTS A GREAT SECRET TO BLUECOATS.

For several hours yesterday, Chas. Swayne, an inmate of Dr. J. H. Cooley's sanitarium, had a keeperless time. He wandered away in the afternoon, and did as his unchained fancy listed until after nightfall, when Roundsman John Flynn found him on the street.

While waiting for Dr. Cooley to come for him, Swayne imparted some metaphysical secrets to an attentive group of cops. They could get to Mars, he told them, by committing suicide, which would be the means of releasing their souls, giving them a chance to slip into a Martine body. He had done it several times himself, but once he found himself back on earth in the body of a colored man, and then the kind of lost interest in the sport.

Swayne wandered in and out of several office buildings yesterday afternoon. In the Codington building, Park avenue, he frightened two of the strenographers a bit, but he did not create any disorder and made no attempt to harm anyone. His home is in Pensacola, Fla. He is well-to-do, but he thinks he is better off than he is. He regards John D. Rockefeller as a comparatively poor man.

FOWLER'S PLURALTY DWINDLES TO 647

MARTINE CARRIED WARREN BY 781 AND UNION BY 72.

Congressman Charles N. Fowler's plurality over James E. Martine, Democrat, in the Fifth district, on Tuesday, was 647. Two years ago it was over 5,000. The result on Tuesday:

	Martine.	Fowler.
Union County	72
Morris County		1,500
Warren County	781
Fowler's plurality		647

Mrs. Annie M. Simpson.

Mrs. Annie M. Simpson, great-aunt of Mrs. John H. Doane, of East Seventh street, and known to a number of Plainfield people, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Barber, in Brooklyn, this week. Mrs. Simpson's home was in Moscow, Pa., where Mr. and Mrs. Doane have been in the habit of spending their summers for twenty years. She was 83 years old. Death was caused by bronchitis, which developed swiftly from a cold contracted in the damp air of Brooklyn a few days afer she began her visit to her daughter.

Reception at Sunnyside.

Invitations have been sent out by Mrs. Frederick Goodhue Mead and her daughter, Miss Margaret Platt Mead, for a reception to be given at their home, Sunnyside, on the evening of Thursday, November 22.

BUYS NETHERWOOD HOTEL

Mrs. Truell Becomes Owner of Famous Resort in the East End of City.

TO MAKE CHANGES

Place to be Opened in May as All-the-Year Round Resort—History of the Hotel.

Papers were filed this morning in the Register of Deeds Smith office, Elizabeth, whereby Mrs. J. R. Truell, proprietor of the Truell Inn and Truell Court, of this city, becomes the recorded owner of the Netherwood Hotel property. She has purchased the property from the Hyde, Lattimer and Ludlum estates. The deal was made by J. Fred MacDonald, who is an agent for all three estates. The sale was reported in The Daily Press a few weeks ago, but not until today the required deed has passed.

Mr. Truell is now in possession and the work of improvement has started. She will put a new roof on the hotel at once, and other improvements will be an eitrely new heating and plumbing system. She will take the next six months to put the place in first class condition so that it can be opened in May of next year. It will be run as an all-year round resort.

The deal recalls interesting facts regarding the famous hotel. It was built by the Netherwood Land and Improvement Company, of which Florenz Shetter was the president, in fact he was the founder of the Netherwood section and planned to lay it out as it is today. Others associated with him in the enterprise were W. S. Darling and J. S. Plumber. The work of building the hotel was started in 1876 and was opened in 1879 by James H. Breslin, who was famous as a hotel man. He afterwards run the Gilsey House and the Hotel Breslin, in New York, and the Hotel Breslin at Lake Hopatcong. Mr. Breslin died about two months ago.

Mr. Breslin took the Hotel Netherwood under lease and during his management it was a great success and was the residence of many people of prominence from New York and elsewhere. Mr. Breslin was succeeded by Mr. Woodruff, who successfully managed the place for several years. Frank E. Miller, now in charge of the restaurants and dining car service on the Missouri, Kansas & Pacific Railroad. He met with varying success and finally left to be succeeded by Webb & Morrison, of New York, who remained in charge of the hotel but a short time, as did also John H. Spitler, who came here from the south.

Dr. Hunter, of New York, a well-known specialist in pulmonary troubles, then leased the hotel, intending to make it a sanitarium for the treatment of such diseases. He died a few months after coming here, and Major Coleman took his lease and managed the hotel until his death. Upon the death of Major Coleman, Mr. Brown, his manager, ran the place during the last year of the lease, after which it was closed and has remained idle ever since. During Major Coleman's management the hotel was the residence of a number of army and navy officials and in many ways success attended the major's efforts.

There are 240 rooms in the hotel, and as it has often been said, the only mistake made in the building, was that the structure was about twenty-five years ahead of the times. The architect was a Mr. Stevens, who also drew the plans for the United States and Grand Union Hotels at Saratoga. It cost very nearly $400,000 to build and equip the Netherwood Hotel, but of course there has been considerable depreciation in value since that time.

It cannot be learned what Mrs. Truell paid for the property. It will require several thousand dollars to put the hotel in first-class condition. In view of the success Mrs. Truell has had with Truell Inn and Truell Court, it is believed that she will also be successful in her new venture. She will conduct all three places. The hotel will be run as a no-license place.

Since the hotel was closed a few years ago a number of different parties have been negotiating for the purchase of it, including Fred Croker, son of Richard Croker, Tammany's former chief. Mr. Croker made several visits to Plainfield and at one time was about ready to close the deal for the purchase of the property, when his father changed the plans. It was proposed to make it a subarban headquarters for Tammany, and elaborate plans were drawn for the improvement of the place.

W. C. T. U. Fair.

The members of the W. C. T. U. are planning to hold a fair in their rooms on Madison avenue on Wednesday and Thursday, November 21 and 22.

G.O.P. LOSES ASSEMBLY

Next Legislature Will Stand 44 Republicans to 37 Democrats.

DEMOCRATS BIG GAINS

Essex, Hudson and Passaic Send Solid Delegations—Silzer Defeats Strong.

The Democratic gains in the Assembly were in Hudson, Essex and Passaic counties, the three largest counties in the State. The Bishops' law had much to do with Democratic success in these counties, where there is a large foreign population. Dissensions in the Republican party did not help any.

In Essex, Senator Dryden's home county, the Democrats swept everything. The Assembly plurality was 6,700. They elected a Democratic Mayor in Newark by more than 12,000 and a majority of the county Board of Freeholders, and left Mayor Lentz without any patronage with which to continue his fight for the Republican leadership. The Independent Citizens' ticket, which favored the Bishops' law, had much to do with Republican defeat. The Assembly candidates polled about 10,000 votes in the county.

The worst Republican defeat of all was in Hudson, where the Democratic county ticket was elected by a plurality of more than 20,000. Last year John Kaiser, Republican, was elected Sheriff by 5,000. Jersey City last year gave Mayar Fagan 3,500 plurality, but H. Otto Wittpen, Democratic candidate for County Supervisor, had a plurality of 14,000 in Jersey City on Tuesday.

In Passaic county the liquor question was the main issue, and the Democrats carried the ticket for Senator and Assemblymen through by pledging to work for the repeal of the Bishops' law.

The other counties throughout the State, with the exception of Hunterdon, Sussex and Warren, which are normally Democratic, returned Republicans to the Assembly, but by reduced majorities.

The Democrats gained two Senators in Tuesday's election. John Hinchliffe defeated Wood McKee, candidate for re-election in Passaic county, and George S. Silzer won from W. H. C. Jackson, who was also a candidate for re-election in Middlesex county by a little more than one hundred votes.

Samuel K. Robbins, who was the Speaker of the last Assembly, was elected Senator on the Republican ticket in Burlington county. Randolph Perkins, Republican leader in the last Assembly, was re-elected from Union county. He is now spoken of as a candidate for Speaker of the new Assembly.

The Democrats gained three Congress seats in New Jersey. Nine Republicans and one Democrat represented the State in the last Congress, but the delegation now stands six Republicans to four Democrats.

The seats gained by the Democrats were in the 6th district, where Wm. Hughes defeated George H. Burke; in the 8th district, where Le Gage Pratt defeated Henry J. Gottlob, and in the 9th district, in which Eugene W. Leake defeated Chas. E. Pickett. In the 7th district R. Wayne Parker pulled through by the narrow margin of 320 votes. The 10th district, which is usually Democratic, elected James A. Hamill by a biw plurality.

The make-up of the New Jersey delegation to 60th Congress follows:

First district—Henry C. Loudenslager (Rep.)*
Second district—John J. Gardner (Rep.)*
Third district—Benj. F. Howell (Rep.)*
Fourth district—Ira W. Wood (Rep.)*
Fifth district—Charles N. Fowler (Rep.)*
Sixth district—William Hughes (Dem.)
Seventh district—Richard Wayne Parker (Rep.)*
Eighth district—Le Gage Pratt (Dem.)
Ninth district—Eugene W. Leake (Dem.)
Teuth district—James A. Hamill (Dem.)
Totals—Republicans, 6; Democrats, 4.
Last delegation—Republicans, 9; Democrats, 1.
*Re-elected.
Replaces a Republican.

Off For Mexico.

Mr. and Mrs. Bourgeois, of East Front street, with their daughter, Miss Marie Bourgeois, sailed today for Mexico on the steamship Merida via Vera Cruz. They will join another daughter, Miss Julia Bourgeois, near the city of Mexico, where she is conducting a successful English school. Miss Linda D. Butler accompanied them.

UNION CO. FREEHOLDERS

Twelve Republicans and 8 Democrats on the New Board.

DEMOCRATIC GAINS

Minority Party Elects Six Members and Two Holdover—Only One New G. O. P. Man.

As a result of the election in the city and county yesterday the Board of Freeholders will now stand with a reduced Republican majority. There will be twelve Republicans in the new bord and eight Democrats. Ten Republican Freeholders were elected and two hold over. Six Democratic Freeholders were elected and two hold over.

The Republican Freeholders now are Benjamin King, of Clark; E. K. Adams, of Cranford; John Robison, of Fanwood; Henry Krouse, of Linden; Elston Darby, of Mountainside; S. P. T. Wilbur, of Plainfield; J. Hervey Doane, of Plainfield; P. H. Melsel, of Springfield; Charles A. Smith, of Westfield; Joseph Perry, of Westfield; Adolph Gruener, of Rahway; and John N. Cady, of Summit. The last two hold over. Doane is the only new one among the Republicans, he having taken the place of William A. Westphal.

The Democratic Freeholders will be J. Logan Fay, John J. Donahue, Robert C. Maurer and Thomas Pierson, of Elizabeth; Noah Woodruff, of Roselle Park; Bradford Jones, of New Providence; George B. Cladek, of Rahway; and William H. Swain, of Summit. These last two hold over. Jones in New Providence had little opposition, as the Republicans disputed among themselves and could not settle on a single candidate. Noah Woodruff was re-elected in Roselle Park.

Of the four Elizabeth men. Donahue has been on the Board of Freeholders before.

Before the election there were seventeen Republicans on the board, and only three Democrats. But in one case, that of Charles A. Smith, Republican, he was appointed to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Mulford M. Scudder, Democrat. There is an actual loss of four Freeholders t othe Republicans, although they retain control of the board.

In Elizabeth the Republican candidates for Freeholder ran a little better than the rest of the city ticket. The lowest Republican on the list, George H. Kline, was 844 behind the lowest Democrat, John J. Donahue. The difference between the vote of Charles J. Jensen, who was at the top for the Republicans, and that of Thomas Pierson, highest on the Democratic list, was 925. The difference between the highest figure of the Democrats, and the lowest of the Republicans was 1,113.

In some parts of the county the Republican candidates for Freeholder got less than their previous pluralities, and in some cases more.

Realty Deal at Beechwood Heights.

The New Jersey Realty Company, of which Silas D. Drake, of Lincoln, is the president, has sold all of its property at Beechwood Heights to the New York Suburban Developing Company, which has also bought twenty-four acres adjoining the Beechwood Heights' property of A. W. Stout, and proposes to build ten new houses at once. Mr. Drake will be the resident manager at Bound Brook.

Will Select Dr. Boone's Successor.

The Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital will meet Monday night when it is expected that the choice of a member of the hospital staff to succeed Dr. W. C. Boone will be made. This appointment has been delayed from time to time for various reasons, but it is believed that a selection will be made next week.

Didn't Have a Quorum.

Owing to the absence of several members of the Board of Health on Election Day, it was impossible to hold the regular November meeting. President C. J. Fisk was present, but did not remain when he learned that it would be impossible to get a quorum out. The meeting will probably be held next Tuesday.

May Give Up the Ministry.

Rev. George Hauser, formerly pastor of the German Reformed church, but now of Wyantskill, N. Y., has returned after spending several days in town. His plans for the future are not fully decided upon, but there is a possibility that Mr. Hauser may give up the ministry to engage in business.

Entertained Friends.

Mr. and Mrs. George Mehl, Jr., of Madison avenue, entertained a party of friends, last evening. The time was passed in a social way with music and singing, and refreshments were served.

YOUTHS TRY TO BURN DOWN SOMERSET CO. JAIL

Ten-Year-Old Twins Confined at Somerville Apply Hot Coals to Their Mattresses.

SAVED BY A WOMAN

Deputy's Wife Notifies Sheriff Cooper Who Turns in Alarm in Time to Save Building.

George and Irving Blaney, twins, aged ten years, whose home is in Somerville, and who have been prisoners in the county jail at that place for some time on a charge of larceny, attempted to set fire to the jail building at 10 o'clock this morning. It was during the hour that the prisoners are given their exercise that the twins planned the destruction of the building. They carried hot coals from a stove to their cells and set fire to the mattresses in their cells.

The jail soon filled with smoke and the other prisoners were panic-stricken. Mrs. Anderson, wife of Deputy Anderson, detected the fire and notified Sheriff Cooper, who at once sent in an alarm of fire. The department was soon on the scene and extinguished the flames before much damage resulted.

The Blaney twins have a bad record in three counties, and their mother says that they have given her trouble ever since they were able to walk. She is a hardworking person, but has been unable to manage the boys. Their grandfather was hanged for killing a man many years ago. The boys will be taken to the Reform School at Jamesburg, where they will remain indefinitely.

CHARLES A. REED WINS BOTH CUPS

SCORES 16 POINTS FOR PRESIDENT'S AND 26½ FOR THE SCRATCH CUP.

Charles A. Reed is the winner of both the president's and club cups, weekly competition, which was concluded at the Park Golf Club on Election Day. He captured the president's cup with 16 points and the scratch cup with 26½ points. He previously won the Hydewood cup, October competition.

Charles A. Reed.

The final standing for the president's cup is as follows:

Charles A. Reed, 16 points; John L. Watson, 11; Leon R. Thurlow, 10, Charles B. Morse, 9½; Rev. J. O. McKelvey, 9½; Reuben Knox, 9; A. W. Kenworthy, 6½; Rev. Dr. H. K. Carroll, 5½; Rev. C. L. Goodrich, 5; Alexander Gilbert, 3½; Raymond B. Carroll, 3; Nelson A. Miller, 2½; George A. Chapman, 2½; J. B. Betts, 2½; R. V. Carpenter, 2; John A. Steiner, 2; S. St. John McCutchen, 1; Rev. L. R. Howard, ½.

The final standing for the club cup, scratch competition, follows:

Charles A. Reed, 26½ points; Rev. J. O. McKelvey, 21; Rev. C. L. Goodrich, 11; Reuben Knox, 7; Leon R. Thurlow, 7; Charles B. Morse, 6; A. W. Kenworthy, 3½; Rev. Dr. H. K. Carroll, 3; Raymond B. Carroll, 3; John A. Steiner, 3; Alexander Gilbert, 2; John L. Watson, 2; S. St. John McCutchen, ½.

DRYDEN WILL NOT QUIT; "IMPOSSIBLE," SAYS COLBY.

"Candidate of the Entire Party" Declares U. S. Senator for Himself.

Senator Dryden has announced his intention of keeping in the race. He has made the following statement:

"I shall continue as the candidate of the Republican party for election as United States Senator. As the Republicans will have a clear majority on joint ballot, I expect to receive their support, and so secure my re-election. Before the primaries there were two candidates before the Republican party for the indorsement of the members of the party as their candidate for Senator. These candidates were George L. Record and myself. The decision at the primaries, made by the Republican voters of the State at large, was by a lagre majority in my favor. I was, therefore, made the candidate of the entire party in the State, and, having become such, consider it my duty to my party to continue to be the candidate, and the only candidate, as there is only one Senator to be elected. It is for that reason that I am confident of the support of the Republicans in the Legislature."

What Mr. Colby says follows:

"The results of this election will certainly force the Republican party to find a new candidate and a strong candidate for the office. Yesterday's vote in Essex makes Senator Dryden's candidacy impossible."

Reunion of Social Club.

There was a reunion of teh old Park Avenue Social Club at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Mehl, of West Fourth street and Madison avenue, last night, the affair being in the nature of a surprise to Mr. Mehl and was arranged by his wife. There are about eighteen of the original charter list of twenty-five present. Among those present were Joseph C. Martin, Edward C. Searing, Joseph Blimm, Jacob Blimm, Jr., Fred Haberle, Calvin Sutton, John Cose, Gilbert Sutphen Martin and George Mehl.

Charles S. Herling.

Charles S. Herling, the fifteen-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Herling, colored, of North Plainfield township, died this morning from pneumonia. The funeral will be held Saturday afternoon at Cole's undertaking rooms.

WEDDED AT ST. MARY'S.

Nuptial Mass Unites G. E. Schroope and Miss Elizabeth A. Hickey.

Miss Elizabeth Angeline Hickey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hickey, of Spooner avenue, and George Edward Schroope, son of John Schroope, of Jackson avenue, were married in St. Mary's church, yesterday morning at 10 o'clock. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Bogan and was witnessed by a gathering of relatives and friends. Miss Helen Hickey, a sister of the bride, acted as bridesmaid, and Dennis Quinn, of New York, was best man.

Following the ceremony, the bridal party and guests proceeded to the new home of the young couple on Spooner avenue, where a wedding breakfast was served. A formal reception was tendered them in the evening, which was attended by a large gathering. Both bride and groom were the recipients of a large array of presents.

Chrysanthemum Display Open.

The chrysanthemums cultivated in Mrs. Stephen A. Ginna's conservatories on Watchung avenue are now in bloom and the public is invited to inspect them. For the convenience of visitors, the display has been arranged in the barn where it can be seen to much better advantage. It was always the custom of the late Mr. Ginna to invite chrysanthemum admirers to see his splendid specimens and the treat was enjoyed by a great many people. The display this year will last for the next ten days.

Grave Charge Against Boy.

Edward Galbraith, 14 years old, son of John Galbraith, of West Third street, was arrested this morning under a charge of grave misconduct with a girl younger than himself. The offense was committed yesterday, just over the city line, near the Hillside golf course, and Chief Kiely will turn the boy over to the Middlesex authorities.

Truck Not Out of Commission.

The hook and ladder truck from fire headquarters was not put out of commission by the collision at Seventh street and Park avenue, Tuesday night, as stated. The minor damages were repaired soon afterward and the vehicle was immediately put back in service.

Attending Conference at Chatham.

Rev. C. L. Goodrich and J. A. Powlison, of the Congregational church, and Rev. George Bowers, of Warrenville, left this morning for Chatham, where they will attend the annual State conference of Congregational churches.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

Miss Helen Grantly, who comes to the New Plainfield theatre tonight, is one of the youngest stars on the American stage. She starred in "The Unlucky Mrs. Dean," "In the Palace of the King" and "Her Lord and Master" and appeared in New York all last year. In "The Little Gray Lady," in which she will be seen here, she has the title role, an intensely sympathetic role, and one especially suit to her. Theatre-goers will remember the tremendous success of Canning Pollock's pretty comedy drama not only in New York but on the road. Critics lauded the play wherever it was presented. The story, into which are woven pathetic as well as laugh-producing situations, is told in an exceedingly interesting manner. Miss Grantly has been provided with a cast of extraordinary ability.

Miss Helen Grantly, in "The Little Gray Lady," at New Plainfield Theatre Tonight.

"The Clansman," a play of the South, was submitted last year to the verdict of Southern audiences before invading the North. That verdict was overwhelmingly favorable both sentimentally and financially, consequent upon which "The Clansman" went forth to teach Northerners the story of Reconstruction as the South views it. "The Clansman's" reception in the North fairly duplicated its Southern success. After the lapse of forty years the people of all sections desire to see and to hear the exploits of the Ku Klux Klan with which the play deals, and they sympathize in retrospect with the gallant uprising whereby the South overthrew the Carpetbagger and the political negro. For many years to come "The Clansman" will remain in the Southern classic, as firmly identified with Dixie as "Waverly" is with Scotland, "Adam Bede" with rustic England, or "Old Homestead" with New England. The great epic of the South is sure to be greeted with a packed house when played at the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow night.

It is not often that the playgoers of this city are afforded the opportunity of enjoying a musical entertainment of the merit of Alfred E. Aarons latest success, "His Honor, the Mayor," which will be seen Saturday afternoon and night. Mr. Aarons comes to this city with his organizations of one hundred persons direct from Wallack's theatre, after its phenomenal run of nearly seven months in the metropolis. Previous to its New York engagement it enjoyed a successful run of six months at the Chicago opera house, so with such a reputation it needs but little introduction to local theatre-goers.

William Collier will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre on November 16 in his newest comedy, "Caught in the Rain," which was written by Mr. Collier and Mr. Grant Stewart of his company, during their recent voyage to Australia. This will be Mr. Collier's first appearance in the East since his departure for the Antipodes. It deals with life in and about the city of Denver and there is a delightful mixture of mining lore and love making in the story. Mr. Collier has the role of a bashful young man, who meets his fate during a terrific thunder storm but unfortunately is mistaken as to the name of the young woman with whom he has fallen in love. That gives rise to complications that at times border on the serious, but all ends happily and there is scarcely a line in the play that is not good for a laugh. Charles Frohman has had the play beautifully staged and the scenic artist has had full scope in depicting the mountain region about the city of Denver. In addition to Mr. Collier and Mr. Stewart, the company contains such well known artists as George Nash, John Saville, Wallace Eddinger, Nanette Comstock, Jane Laurel, Helena Collier and Louise Drew.

—The Union county Board of Freeholders has about completed its new bridge work throughout the county and nothing further in this line will be undertaken before next year.

—Callahan & Chamberlain, contractors, who have the contract for sanitary sewer work in the East End of the city, are making excellent progress and will undoubtedly complete their contract within the prescribed time.

Miss Emma Foster, of West Sixth street, has been visiting friends at Rutherford.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY

Mrs. Sarah Smalley, of Stelton, will become a resident of the borough, with her family, next spring. She has purchased Dr. Whitford's house on Prospect avenue, now occupied by William Fletcher. Mrs. Smalley is the widow of Warren Smalley.

The Women's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian church will have an all-day meeting next Tuesday. Dr. Nassau and a speaker on home missions will attend and address the gathering.

The grist mill may become a leather novelty factory. Two Brooklyn men are said to be thinking over such a move with regard to the property.

A new electric crane has been erected at the Aluminum Press plant foundry. It has a lifting capacity of seven and one-half tons.

Charles Schwed, of Somerville, has bought the house occupied by Henry Ritterbusch on Dunellen avenue, from the Runyon estate.

The new stone crosswalk has been laid from the southeast corner of Washington avenue to depot park, after slight delay.

Dr. Platt has had an automobile garage built on his place. A stone driveway adds to the smart look of the property.

Stephen Brown has sold his house on Main street to L. D. Walker, who will bid good-bye to farming and occupy it soon.

Henry Kroohs has purchased the house and lot formerly owned by Charles H. Ward, from Zerviah L. Rogers.

The Junior League of the M. E. church will hold a holiday sale on Friday of next week.

Miss Aimee Minturn, of the school faculty, has received a county teacher's certificate.

Fred Gaskill is temporarily acting as principal of the New Market schools.

Mrs. C. T. Rogers has returned from a visit to relatives in New York State.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD

Howard D. White, who resigned as principal of the public school to accept a better position in the Northport, L. I., schools, has resigned that position to take a still better one as supervising principal of one of Paterson's largest schools. Mr White has the best wishes of his many friends here in his new field of labor.

Miss Minnie Squiers entertained a number of friends last night at an informal social affair. Several pleasant hours were passed playing games and enjoying a musical programme. Friends were present from Cortland, N. Y., Trenton, Port Monmouth, Plainfield and here.

James E. Martine, Democratic nominee for Congress, at the election did not receive a cut on his ticket. This speaks highly for the farmer-orator, as it is very seldom a candidate of either party escapes without some scratches.

The work of tearing down the two old stores on Park avenue is finished. Contractor John Bornmann will start the new building just as soon as the debris is cleared away.

Mrs. Ingram, of Trenton, who is spending two weeks with her daughter, Miss Josephine Ingram, has returned from a stay with friends at Elizabeth.

Mrs. Barbara Huff, who has been spending several weeks with Mrs. George Stillger, has returned to her home in Brooklyn.

Fanwood Bucket and Engine Company transacted only routine monthly fire business at the company meeting last night.

The first of the series of winter club dances will be held by the members of the Suburban Club tonight.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Bert Heyniger, grandson of Chas. Maltby and crack pitcher on the Princeton team, will be the main-stay of the team next season. He is the son of Will Heyniger, formerly of Plainfield, but now of Corning, N. Y.

Philip Smith has put his boats under cover for the winter. The Plainfield boys who have boats here should do likewise before they are caught in the ice as some were last season.

The "Vim" has been adrift for a week or more and boys in the village have enjoyed a free ride every fine afternoon, unknown to the owner, Jack Douglas, of Plainfield.

Frank VanNest, who learned the carpenter trade with Albert Manning, is now doing business for himself and has enough work to keep him busy in the village all winter.

Miss Adele Von Ohl is improving from her sprained ankle, the result of a fall from her horse.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The Young Ladies' Mission Circle of the First M. E. church met in Vincent chapel Tuesday night to plan for the winter's work.

The Junior Society of the First Baptist church will meet in the lecture room of the church tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

The official board of the First M. E. church met last night in Vincent chapel after the prayer-meeting, to discuss several urgent matters.

The Sunday-school of the Park Avenue Baptist church has contributed $201.72 during the past year from its missionary fund, to various religious objects.

J. Edmund Skiff, organist and choirmaster of the First M. E. church, will give a recital, with the assistance of his choir, on Monday night, November 19.

Evangelistic services were continued at the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, last night, under the direction of the pastor, Rev. E. E. Roberson. There was a large attendance and increased interest.

The first entertainment of the Men's Club of the Congregational church will be held at the church on Tuesday night, November 13, when Ernest W. Bogert, conjurer and wonder-worker, will appear. All men of the church and congregation are invited.

Experiment in Magic.

Draw two figures with charcoal on a wall—say the head of an old man and the head of an old woman. At the mouth of one put a little gunpowder, fasten on with isinglass. At the mouth of the other put a morsel of phospeorous, fastened on with isinglass. When you place a lighted taper near the gunpowder mouth the explosion will put the light out. But if you place it next near the phosphorus mouth the taper will suddenly light again. This is a curious prenomenon, and if you have made your preparations in secret it will seem most mysterious to your friends.

How Puss Got Her Name.

Many years ago the people of Egypt worshiped the cat. They thought that she was like the moon, because she was most active at night and because her eyes changed, just as the moon changes, which is sometimes full and sometimes only a little bright crescent or half moon. So these people made an idol with the cat's head and named it Pasht, the same name which they gave the moon, for the word means the "face of the moon." That word has been changed to "pas," or "pus,' and has come at last to be "puss," the name which almost every one gives to the cat.

To Pronounce Appendicitis.

The best authorities pronounce it appen-di-ci-tis, with the fourth syllable accented and the "i" long, as in "side." Bronchitis, tonsilitis and other words of that kind have the "i" long also, though it should be said that there is good authority for making the "i" soft, as it is in Italian. It is, after all, a question of English or continental pronunciation, the first making the "i" long and the second making it soft.—Chicago News.

The Long Way Around.

That was a long distance messaage through the earth, or over it, to the Goettingen seismograph from "a powerful earthquake 14,000 miles away." If it was 14,000 miles one way, it must have been only 11,000 the other. Perhaps the reporter thought the longest way round was the shortest way to tell about the mysterious shake.—Buffalo News.

Wonderful Lake.

One of the wonders of Java is a lake of boiling mud twi miles in circumference, in the center of which immense columns of soft, hot mud continually rise and fall. Besides these columns there are two gigantic bubbles near the edge, which fill up like huge ballons and explode on an average three times per minute.

Mr. and Mrs. Abram L. Cadmus, of Plainfield avenue, who have been sojourning at Atlantic City, are expected home the last of the week.

SHIP IS DELAYED BY MANY KISSES.

Dr. A. B. Leonard Is Recipient While the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse Waits Idly By.

Something like twenty-five kisses were responsible for a slight delay in the sailing of the Kaiser der Grosse, of the North German Lloyd line, yesterday. They were the farewells bestowed upon Dr. A. B. Leonard, of New York, by members of a large family.

Just as the gangplank was being withdrawn a group of a dozen men, women and children, each bearing some object, from a camera to a basket of fruit, came rushing to the embarking place.

"Where is he?" "Quick, the steamer is leaving!" "Where on earth can he be?" was the chorus of exclamations. Up came a second group with similar inquiries, and everybody nearly fell over everybody else in an effort to find Dr. Leonard. Finally the latter was discovered, and surrounded, and the kissing began. Thinking he had finished, Dr. Leonard started to board the ship. "Hold on, here's another!" halted him and there was another kiss.

"You have forgotten me," piped a little voice, and the Doctor kissed a little girl which her father was holding. Then he hurried aboard the ship.

JUDGE CROSS TELLS LAWYER OLD TRUTH.

We Do Not Always Get What We Want.

Trenton, Nov. 8.—Judge Joseph Cross laid down a principle of life Monday in the United States District Court in the matter of the bankruptcy proceedings of the Newman Tobacco Co., of Newark, when Edward K. Croll, of Newark, applied to the court for an order for counsel fees for himself. Mr. Croll stated to the court that there remained about $110 in the cash fund of the bankrupt company and he asked that that amount be wiped out in settlement of the legal debts of the company.

"You would take it all?" queried Judge Cross.

"Yes, sir," answered Mr. Croll, "and if the sum was $1,000 I would think it should be wiped out. I have done a lot of work in this case and if the entire sm were awarded me it would hardly more than pay for expenses in the case."

"Well, I'll give you $100," declared Judge Cross, and then added, "You know we do not always get what we want in this life.'

BOAST MAY JAIL YOUTH.

Boy Who Had Broken Parole Sent Letter to Newspaper.

New Brunswick, Nov. 8.—The officials of the Rahway Reformatory are trying to run down Raymond Lake, who has broken his parole and who is now in Anderson, Ind. The youth was sent to the reformatory from this city in 1902 for stealing brass railings from a cemetery. He got out later for good behavior, but has ceased to make reports to the reformatory and has been in other trouble.

A local newspaper yesterday received a letter from him, in which he boasted of the way he had kept out of the reach of the officers and declared that they could not get him. The post mark on the envelope revealed his present whereabouts, and the officials lost no time in sending after him. They expect to get him.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

FOOTBALL.

Amherst plays Dartmouth next Saturday. Brown tackles the Green on November 24, and both of these teams are feeling better over their respective outlook against the Hanover men since the late landslide in Princeton. Amherst defeated the Aggies only 12 to 8 last Saturday, but is not in the least discouraged therefrom. The Aggies proved worthy foemen. There will be some gruelling practice at Amherst this week and a change in coaches. Hutchinson has swapped with Jack Cates for a while. Cates, who has been coaching Annapolis, acted as scout for the Navy at West Point last Saturday. Hutchinson will help out the midshipmen, while Cates will administer to Amherst's wants in his absence. Cates was an end at Yale and will be able to give the Amherst line men some needed coaching. Swapping horses in midstream is not always a judicious move, but Amherst will get the benefit of two heads rather than one. Brown, having made a much better showing against both Pennsylvania and Harvard than Dartmouth did in her one game against a topnotcher, feels hopeful regarding Dartmouth. Princeton is different game from Brown, but Dartmouth will need a stiff upper lip to come back from the drubbing received in the Jersey jingle. Brown recuperated in good shape after a discouraging defeat by Pennsylvania. One defect which Coach Robinson of Brown will try to remedy is the passing of the ball for place kicks. Steere played a good game at centre in other respects.

Did too many cooks spoil the broth? One of the reasons assigned as perhaps accounting for Yale's poor work against the Army is that among the horde of coaches on hand recently were some who knew nothing of the new game of football and that the players were confused by too much advice. There may have been too many coaches—Princeton is getting along with fewer—but most of them were so closely in touch with the revised sport as any man can be has not played this year's game. That was one of the new phases of this year's game—the fact that those who had to teach it had not played it. Yale is in the same boat in this respect as other colleges. Again it may be, as suggested, that Yale has gone in too much for the new game at the expense of teh old. If not enough attention has been paid to working up an attack to use when within scoring distance, it was not for want of coaches who realized the necessity of such a thing. Walter Camp knows thev alue of strength of both departments, and Head Coach Rockwell, when he was a player, was a past master at concentrating his men and driving them through an opposing line. If he can teach men how to get together on the offence as well as he could play it, there may be hope for Yale yet, though the time is short. Yale was weak in rudiments last Saturday, which only individual coaching can correct, three rudimentary weaknesses being fumbling, poor tackling and poor following of the ball. Another criticism made is that there has been too much practice against the freshmen, that the freshmen's styl was assimilated and that practice against more experienced players is needed. The freshmen, however, are a pretty strong team. Whether or not they are vicariously responsible for some of the varsity's faults, the assertion that Yale played like a prep school team is quite true.

Rosenthal Piano Recital in Newark.

The Rosenthal piano recital at the Krueger Auditorium, Newark, Tuesday evening, November 27, is creating favorable comment from the music lovers who are looking forward to the date of his appearance. Those who are desirous of hearing the grandest artist of the piano, should take advantage of this opportunity. His present tour in this country is after an absence of 8 years, during which Rosenthal has spent in study and concert abroad. Orders for seats through mail order channels are being received by Frederick N. Sommer, 794 Broad street, Newark, and a large number of seats have already been ordered. The opening of the regular box sale takes place at the Lauter piano warerooms, 657 Broad street, Newark, Nov. 22.

MR. DRYDEN ILLOGICAL.

Stooping to the plane of a practical politician from that elevated position of a statesman, which he has assumed in the past, John F. Dryden gives notice that he intends to bind the Republican party to an agreement to send him back to the United States Senate. His own words demonstrate that from an ideal political standpoint he is unworthy of that honor for he attempts to assert his claim by setting up a contractual obligation on the part of the party's legislators to do somehting they never agreed to; the very terms of which would be an insult to those who believe in carrying out the dictates of a political body pledged to good government. In short Mr. Dryden casts Jevons aside by the logic he resorts to in making out his case. He assumes that because he and one other man were only candidates in the field before the recent election that now he has an indisputable right to be the only candidate of the party.

He says:

"Before the primaries there were two candidates before the Republican party for the indorsement of the members of the party as their candidate for Senator. These were George L. Record and myself.

"The decision at the primaries, made by the Republican voters of the State at large, was, by a large majority, in my favor. I was, therefore, made the candidate of the whole party in the State, and, having become such, I consider it my duty to continue to be the candidate, as there is to be only one Senator to be elected.

"It is for that reason that I am confident of the support of the Republicans in the Legislature."

The mere fact that the regular organization won the primaries by any sound line of reasoning does not warrant the conclusion that Mr. Dryden draws when he says "I was, therefore, made the candidate of the whole party in the State." If such argument would hold good, no man could aspire to that exalted office and no man can be selected for it, unless his name is announced before the primaries prior to the general election are held. Under such conditions it would be fatal to his ambition to wait until the time arrives when the Legislature in joint session solemnly discharges its duty in electing a Senator.

Even were there anything sound in the premises assumed by the Newarker, was it not tacitly understood that both John W Griggs and Edward C. Stokes were in line for the place now held by him? As a matter of common knowledge, it cannot be disputed that the Governor, for one, repudiated Son-In-Law Kuser's announcement that the former Senator from Cumberland had endorsed his candidacy. Are there not hundreds of Republicans throughout the State just as well qualified for the place, and some probably better? What show would Mr. Dryden stand were United States Senators elected by popular vote? What show would he have if the Republican voters of New Jersey were allowed by direct ballot to make the selection? Mr. Dryden is aware, just as much as any other man in the State that he would not have one chance in ten under such conditions provided that no undue influences were brought to bear.

Among the three, we submit that either Griggs or Stokes represents more fully the people's choice. Mr. Stokes came dangerously near being chosen at the time Mr. Dryden was named, and unless we mistake not, Mr. Stokes will come much nearer to the goal of his ambition when the Legislature again exercises its duty to name a Senator—unless Mr. Griggs is chosen.

MARTINE'S VICTORY

There is every reason for James E. Martine, the Democratic nominee for Congress, to feel proud of the consideration he received at the hands of the voters. Particularly should he find occasion for rejoicing over the fact that the almost invulnerable Republican stronghold of New Jersey, Union county, registered its preference for him to go to Washington in place of Congressman Fowler. The latter had already served six terms. But by reason of his great wealth it might be said he had his opponent greatly handicapped. But he went before the people on Tuesday solely on his record. That that record was not approved of by the intelligent citizenry of Union was plainly evident by the returns.

The figures themselves show how much Mr. Fowler has depreciated in the eyes of the people. Two years ago, when he first had Mr. Martine as his opponent, the marble man received a majority of over 5,000 in the district. On Tuesday he received little more than 600 plurality, including Union, Morris and Warren counties. Union and Warren both went against him and he was saved from utter rout by the normal vote given in Morris. Both men are residents of Union county; one living in Elizabeth and the other in Plainfield. Elizabeth buried its townsman under an avalanche of nearly 2,000 votes, while Plainfield, which gave the Republican Assembly candidates a majority of nearly 1,500, offered the Elizabethan 663 plurality as a balm for his injured feelings. Rahway turned him down also in favor of the Plainfield nominee, piling up a majority in favor of the latter. The result is all the more significant when it is considered in connection with the fact that fours years ago—an off year in politics—Fowler received 1,700 plurality in this city alone.

Martine was defeated, and yet a great victory was his.

"COME PERKY."

The unexpected has happened and Assemblyman Perkins' ambition to be the speaker of the House will not be realized, at least not for some time. As the Democrats will be in the majority in the next Assembly, the Westfielder will have to be content and satsified with the same job he held in the last Legislature—majority floor leader in the lower branch, excepting that in the next session he will be a minority factotum.

NOT TO ANY GREAT EXTENT!

Does Mr Dryden contend that the candidates for the Assembly before the Republican primaries, or any factions having delegates to county conventions were pledged to him? Does he even contend that the Assembly nominees came out with an endorsement of him before Election Day?

KEEP YOUR EYE ON STOKES.

Mr. Griggs like Mr. Dryden lost his own county. South Jersey stood by the party as the returns will indicate. Therefore, watch out for Mr. Stokes.

HIGH SCHOOL BASKETBALL.

First Team Defeats Seniors In Season's Initial Contest.

The first High School basketball game of the season was played yesterday afternoon in the High School gymnasium, between the first team and that of the senior class. It resulted in the defeat of the senior five by a score of 42 to 8.

The senior boys played a good game, but were handicapped by the absence of two of their best players. Captain Doane and Caldwell, of the first team, distinguished themselves by fast playing, Caldwell making ten goals. Leggett and Freeman played a good game for the seniors. Twenty minute halves were played; at the end of the first the score stood 22-7 in favor of the first team. The line-up:

First Team.	Seniors.
Line, Morris, Doane	Leggett, Douglas
forwards
Caldwell	Osgood, Fisher center
Snyder, Tillotson,
Bogardus	Brakely, Freeman
guards

Public Hearing Monday Night.

The Common Council will meet Monday night to grant a public hearing on the proposed improvement to the sanitary sewer to be built on the southside of the city, regarding the acquisition of the land needed for the installation. Owing to the lateness of the season it is not believed that the work will be started before next year. Peter Morgan, of Poughkeepsie, has the sewer contract and Warren B. Travell, of this city, the contract for installing the pumping station.

Results of Evangelistic Services.

As a result of the special meetings held at the First Baptist church, last week, there were nine young people who presented themselves before the church at the mid-week prayer meeting, last night, for baptism. It is expected that there will be many more in the near future. Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, the pastor, was in charge of the meeting last night. The lecture room was filled with members of the church and congregation and the deep interest shown last week was manifested.

Wings and Flies

By Tom Muir.

Contracts have been signed for the appearance of several more notable production at the New Plainfield during December. Among them are Nat Goodwin in his new play, "The Genius," on the thirty-first; "As Ye Sow," Rev. John Snyder's drama of heart interest, on the twenty-second, and Digby Bell in "The Education of Mr. Pipp" on the twenty-seventh. The Castle Square Opera Company will also appear at the house late in the month in "The Student King."

Manager Counihan is holding time for Klaw & Erlanger's greatest spectacle, "The Prince of India," now in the last three weeks of a most successful run at the Broadway theatre. February 8 is the date set and the terms specify that the original cast be brought to Plainfield.

Philadelphia gave David Warfield and "The Music Master," Monday night, the greatest reception that has even been accorded a star or production. When the young actor stepped before the footlights of the Lyric theatre for the first time as "Herr von Barwig" a capacity audience cheered him for exactly two minutes. The engagement in Philadelphia is for four weeks and nearly every orchestra and balcony seat is already taken.

During a performance of "The Little Gray Lady" in New York ten days ago, Miss Helen Grantly, the star, was severely bitten by one of the cats required in the action of the play. In the first act, in which the backyard of a boarding house in Washington is represented, two felines follow strings of meat laid along the top of a long fence and when they meet the usual cat fight ensues, a typical boarding house scene. Miss Grantly petted one of the cats after the act and was bitten on the right hand, the teeth of the feline penetrating deep into the flesh. She screamed, blood spurted and soon fainted from the shock and the loss of blood. A physician was hurriedly summoned and the wounds were dressed.

R. B. Carroll Club Champion.

The active season at the Westfield Golf Club was about concluded on Election Day with a cross country golf tournament and the final play for the club championship. Raymond B. Carroll, of the borough, won the championship, and C. W. Halsted won the cross country tournament. Play will be continued as long as the weather remains favorable.

CHANGE IN HEAVIEST OF COMMUTER TRAINS

THE SEVEN-FIFTY-FIVE IS TO BE SPLIT IN TWO.

Too long and too heavy for as good time as the service demands, the 8:55 a. m. train for New York from North avenue, the heaviest commuter train that runs over the Jersey Central tracks, is to be made over into two sections. The change will be made, General Manager Besler has told several of his fellow-commuters, in a very short time.

The first section of the train will leave at 7:45 o'clock; the second section will leave at the old hour. The 7:45 train will be made up at Flemington, as usual. The 7:55 will be started at Dunellen. The club car will go out with that.

Other train changes will be made. Partly to replace the Reading hourly trains between New York and Philadelphia, which will not stop here or anywhere else along the road, five other fast and semi-fast Reading trains are to be worked in on the time-table. The time-table board, made up of B. & O., Reading and Central officials, are understood to be at work on the new time card now. The Central men will get what the others leave room for, and just about that. It is said the new table, with Plainfield changes, will be ready November 18.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

J. H. Manning, former secretary of the Y. M. C. A., will speak at the Grove Street Rescue Mission tonight. Good music. Everybody welcome.

The Christian and Missionary Alliance Society will meet at the W. C. T. U. rooms tomorrow afternoon at 3:15 for Bible reading and prayer. All are invited.

Preparatory services, with an address by the pastor, Rev. L. R. Howard, will be held at Hope chapel, tonight, and communion services will be held Sunday night.

The regular business meeting of the Woman's Home Missionary Society of Grace M. E. church will be held at the home of Mrs. A. B. Bodine, 76 Grandview avenue, this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Rev. Dr. W. H. Morgan, of the Central M. E. church, Newark, will address the Brotherhood of the First M. E. church, in Vincent chapel, tomorrow night. All men of the church and congregation are invited. Refreshments will be served.

King's Daughters' Meeting.

The semi-annual meeting and tea of the City Union, King's Daughters, will be held in Vincent chapel on Friday afternoon, November 23, at 3:30 o'clock. Each person attending is requested to bring a glass of jelly for the nurses' closet.

LOCAL BOWLING RECORD

"Johnny" Voorheis, the national bowling champion put at rest the aspirations of three local experts in a very emphatic manner last night at McLaughlin's bowling academy. The "Wizard" gave a superb exhibition of his powers which called forth repeated plaudits from the gallery. In all, Voorheis rolled nine games, four against "Doc" Voehl, three against Harry Ackor and two against Leonard Jones, taking all of them without any special exertion on his part.

The games proved one of the most sensational opening exhibitions ever rolled in this city. Only once did one of Voorheis' opponents have a look in. That man was Harry Ackor who in the last game of his series made the champion hustle to win by the slim margin of a single pin, the score being 208 to 207. Ackor who is counted as one of the best bowlers in this city, was a victim of stage fright in the first two games, the best he could mark up being 145 and 141 pins. Ackor recovered his nerve in the final and rolled a strong game, and had it not been for a break in the third frame, the result might have been in his favor.

It took just three frames for the "Wizard' to warm up and find the alleys and after that he rolled in the 200 class. Voorheis found the alleys to his liking and finished his evening's performance with an average of 212.4 pins for the nine games. As an illustration of his accuracy in hitting the mark, Voorheis only posted four breaks during his evening's performance.

The two game series between Voorheis and Jones was of the sensational order and made the spectators sit up and take notice. It was in the first game with Jones that Voorheis established a new local record by piling up a total of 277 pins. It was the highest score ever rolled on a Plainfield alley and wiped out the old mark of 268 which has stood for several years.

In this game Voorheis was seen at his best. He chopped the pins hard on the nose and they fell everywhere. The natives heard a gasp when he scored his ninth successive strike and began to buzz about a 300 game. In the tenth frame Voorheis experienced a piece of hard luck and after making a good hit which bore the marks of a strike, one pin stood its ground and refused to fall—thereby knocking all chances out for a perfect score. It was a great exhibition and volleys of applause greated the champion as he mowed down the pins with his combination wood and rubber ball. Voorheis followed this remarkable game up with a score. The scores:

Voehl	189	157	168	177
Voorheis	203	204		208
Ackor	145	141		207
Voorheis	277			224
Jones	154			161

Talk on Mission Conference.

Miss Harriett Halloway, of this city, addressed a large gathering at Hope chapel, last evening, on the recent missionary conference at Silver Bay. She dwelt particularly on three features of the gathering, the social, the great variety of helps for special work along mission lines and the emphasis of prayer.

GRACE CHURCH GUILD BAZAAR GETS GOOD START

OPENING OF ELABORATE AFFAIR PROMISES A NOTEWORTHY SUCCESS.

With large attendance, liberal patronage, and admirably conducted, the two-days' bazaar of the Grace P. E. church Guild opened yesterday afternoon at the parish house, with promise of noteworthy success. The whole parish house is used for the affair, and all the rooms wear a festal or a busy air.

The rooms on the street floor are devoted to the bazaar booths and attractions. The basement rooms are devoted to the supper, which is the evening feature, and the lecture room upstairs is used for entertainment programmes. The decorations are tastefully arranged, and pretty without a suggestion of over-elaborateness.

The children were entertained yesterday afternoon by Irving, the magician. Also, by an attraction especially arranged for them, a huge cheese from which nibbling little mice get sweet little tidbits. Miss Egan is in charge of the cheese and the mice, which will go on nibbling today. The "Mice" yesterday, were Robert McGoldrick, Alfred Manley, Elliott Burr, Raymond Manley, Robert Bellows, Evan Stevens, Irving Manley, Gardner Bristol, Edson Cardner and William McDonald.

The entertainment programme, last night, which will be repeated tonight, included a cleverly acted humorous playlet, "Little Toddlekins." The cast is made up of Col. William R. Cock, W. T. Pelletier, Arthur Chamberlain, Miss Helen Phillips, Miss Lillian Glenn, Miss Anna Davis. The rest of the programme was made up of musical numbers by an amateur orchestra, led by Miss Tina Hyatt. The players under her are Miss Alice Titus, Miss Hyatt, Mrs. E. C. Lee, Mrs. E. F. Cox, Lewis Williams and Dr. Charles Davis.

The supper was under the direction of Mrs. S. D. Lounsbury, Mrs. Howard Tracy, Mrs. E. V. Bartine, Mrs. F. Jones, Mrs. De Bois, Mrs. Iredell, Mrs. James E. Martine, assisted by the Misses Finch, Robert, Faber, Phillips, Wilcox, Morgan, Titus. The booths and other attractions were cared for by the following: Ice cream, Mrs. Edward F. Feickert; palmist, Mrs. Campbell; fancy and useful articles, Mrs. L. G. Timpson, chairman; Mrs. George S. Ring, Mrs. H. B. Lovell, Mrs. John Moore, Miss Anna Murphy; mystery and doll table, Mrs. John A. Peterkin, assisted by her Sunday-school class members, the Misses Scribner, Rowland, McCormack, Pittis, Fleming, Iredell, Holland, Furnish and Hawthorne; candy, Miss Marjory Fleming, Miss Elizabeth Van Boskerck, the Misses Huse, Finch, Moore, Barclay, Rowland, Smith, Mrs. Arthur Otterson, Mrs. George S. Ring, and Mrs. Campbell; Guild table, Mrs. H. B. Coombe, chairman; Mrs. A. E. Barclay, Mrs. H. W. Stockton, Mrs. S. S. Guyon, Mrs. Whelan, Mrs. A. P. Foster, Miss Elizabeth R. Cock, Mrs. T. Logan Murphy and Mrs. D. C. Ivins; lemonade, Mrs. T. W. T. Maxwell, Mrs. E. S. Hyatt; tea table, Mrs. R H Depew, Mrs. J. V. Drayton, Miss Florence Stewart, Miss Carpenter, Miss Fraleigh, Miss Marjory Drayton.

A feature of the affair much appreciated by the men last night is a smoking room. Cigars and smokers' accommodations are to be found in the rector's study. Tonight, as an attraction in the smoke room, Col. William R. Cock will give a talk on "The Goose-Walk."

Germans' Ball.

The Gesang and Turn Verein will hold a concert and ball on Thanksgiving Eve, in Saengerbund Hall.

—N. B. Smalley and Floyd T. Woodhull went to North Carolina yesterday on a business trip.

—Miss Jessie Maclay, ex-'06 of the Plainfield High School, has been elected class chairman at Mt. Holyoke.

James Williams, who has been in Muhlenberg Hospital for the past three months, will be removed Sunday to the home of Mrs. Catherine Mather, of 264 Sixtieth street, Brooklyn.

AN ORDINANCE

TO VACATE A PORTION OF DUNHAM STREET.

Whereas, The portion of Dunham Street between West Seventh Street and West Eighth Street, as shown on a map entitled "Map of Building Lots in Plainfield, N. J., New York, 1852," filed in the office of the Clerk of Essex County, New Jersey (a copy of which is also filed in the office of the City Clerk of Plainfield, N. J.) although never opened or used, was in fact dedicated as a street, and

Whereas, The First Unitarian Society of Plainfield, N. J., Elvira E. Kenyon, William T. Kirk, Rosie B. Truell and John R. Truell are the sole owners of the fee and of all property abutting anywhere on such portion of said street, and have applied to the Common Council of said City to vacate such portion of said street pursuant to Chapter CXXXIII, P. L. 1888, and other laws governing the matter, and it is to the interest of the city that such street should be vacated:

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield by their Common Council do enact as follows:

Section 1. That the portion of Dunham Street lying between West Seventh Street and West Eighth Street, as shown on map entitled "Map of Building Lots in Plainfield, N. J., New York, 1853," be and the same is hereby vacated pursuant to the Acts of the Legislature in such case made and provided.

Adopted by the Common Council Nov. 5, 1906; approved by the Mayor Nov. 7, 1906.

J. F. BUCKLE, Mayor.

Attest: J. T. MacMURRAY, City Clerk.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Nov. 11.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—Christ's Life. XI.—His sorrows and how He bore them.—John xi, 30-38; Isa. liii, 3-5.

The fifty-third chapter of Isaiah is a prophecy of the vicarious sufferings of Christ upon the cross of Calvary. And in this prophecy we have a description of the sorrows of Christ. "He is despised and rejected of men; a man of sorrows and acquainted with grief." He who was the incarnate Lord, who had grown up in childhood as a "tender plant," bore in his humanity sorrows such as no one else in the world's history has ever borne. How graphic the prophet's summing up of these sorrows: "He was despised and rejected of men." No doubt this rejection of men was Christ's greatest sorrow. "He came to His own and His own received Him not." His own nation rejected Him; the representatives and leaders in the Church, who should have received Him gladly, despised Him. What a burden this must have been for His sensitive nature to bear.

"A man of sorrows." Not one sorrow was His, but all sorrows. He experienced all the sorrows of life that He might not be a "high priest who could not be touched with a feeling of our infirmities." He was "acquainted with grief." He did not simply behold the grief of the world, but had a personal acquaintance with grief. As we see Him on His way with Mary and Martha to the sepulcher of Lazarus we have a picture of His acquaintance with grief. In sympathy with the grief of those He loved, we are told that He wept. But around the cross of Calvary His greatest sorrow center. In the garden of Gethsemane it was so great that He sweat drops of blood! On the cross of Calvary it was necessary that He should bear the greatest of sorrows—God's separation from Him. And in the agony of that acquaintance with grief He cried out, "My God, my God, why hast Thou forsaken Me?"

See, from His head, His hands, His feet,
Sorrow and love flow mingled down.
Did e'er such love and sorrow meet
Or thorns compose so rich a crown!

The saddest fact about the sorrows of Christ is that they were borne for others, for the world, for us. He had done no sin. He merited no suffering and no sorrow, yet He was wounded, bruised and afflicted. "He was wounded for our transgressions and bruised for our iniquities, and the chastisement of our peace was upon Him." That we might be pardoned of our sin and escape its penalties He gave Himself for us and as our substitute paid the penalty of sin. Willingly and cheerfully, by the grace of God, He endured His sorrows that we might be freed from them. Do we appreciate this fact? In consequence of it have we consecrated our lives to His service? Have we accepted the loving sacrifice Christ made for us? In this way only can we rightly show our gratitude and appreciation.

Drops of grief can ne'er repay
The debt of love I owe.
Here, Lord, I give myself away;
'Tis all that I can do!

How can we do less than give ourselves to Christ, since He has so wonderfully given Himself to us?

BIBLE READINGS.

Japanese C. E. Badge.

Most foreign countries have now their own Christian Endeavor badges. In Japan, that country which is so much in our minds in these stirring times, Christian Endeavor is making rapid progress, and the Japanese badge is becoming well known. There are as many Christian Endeavor societies in Japan as there are in Ireland.—Irish Endeavorer.

JAPANESE BADGE.

Need of Consecration.

There must be in all Endeavor work very clear and definite and decided consecration of the whole being to the service of Jesus Christ, and nothing less than that. It was a magnificent ideal, but nothing less would do. They must resign body, soul and spirit into the hands of the Master. Some people did not set the standard of Christian Endeavor high enough; some were so intent on having a big society. But don't let them think a big society was necessarily a strong society. The only strong society was where every member was entirely consecrated to Christ.—Christian Endeavor Times.

In China.

From the Foochow Messenger, China, we learn that three of the oldest boys of the Inghok boys' school who united with the church have on their own initiative organized a Christian Endeavor society that meets each evening after school hours. Miss Martha Wiley of the Diongloh field writes: "The Christian Endeavor societies are year by year increasingly helpful in the religious life of the school. The Intermediate society is a great help to the little boys."

A Lace Scarf.

When Dr. Clark visited Nottingham, England, the Endeavorers gave him as a memento of his visit an exquisite lace scarf, which he was asked to accept "for the most long suffering woman in the world." Mrs. Clark will know what lady is intended.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Nov. 11: "Forgiving One Another."

By REV. WALTER J. YATES, D. D.

The measure and condition of our own forgiveness.—Matt. vi, 12. The extent of forgiveness illustrated.—Matt. xviii, 21-35. A condition of effective prayer.—Mark xi, 24-26. A precept of brotherliness.—Eph. iv, 32.

There is no surer test of the genuineness and sincerity of one's piety than this same spirit of forgiveness. It is of the very essence of godliness. The heart of the gospel lies there. Our heavenly Father forgives us our sins when we repent and turn to Him. The depth of the divine nature is revealed as love. This is the desire to give and the desire to bless. Whoever has any measure of salvation has to just that extent this same nature of love and desire to confer benefits on others.

When we have been injured by another there may be a natural impulse of opposition arising from the instinct of self preservation, but if this goes to the extent of feeling the desire to retaliate, and especially if this desire for retaliation is fostered and opportunity is sought to gratify resentment, it is certain that the spirit of godliness cannot continue in the same heart. The peace of God no longer rules there, but anger replaces love, and the door is wide open for the whole brood of evil things to come in and take up their abode. The inner condition is one of torment not so much because we have received hurt from outside, but by reason of the loss of harmony with God and our fellow man.

It is one of the strange things of human nature how we deceive ourselves at this point. There are members of the church, and not a few, either, who consider themselves pretty good Christians and would stoutly resent any intimation to the contrary, who are sadly deficient on this matter. Do you not know some who have for years cherished a grudge against some one else, perhaps in the same church if not in their own family, and even refused to speak or to have any dealings with the offender, but at the same time have continued to regard themselves as somewhat more righteous than the other?

There are few more miserable traits one can possess than this spirit of resentment of ill treatment. Some are always on the lookout for slights and insults, oversensitive and thin skinned. All this is not a mark of refinement and superiority, as they fondly think, but the mark of a soul lacking in real nobility.

Every young person needs to take this lesson home to himself and make close analysis of his condition and watch against the first approach of this evil trait of unforgiveness. Our salvation hinges here. No activity in socials or prayer meetings, visiting the sick, giving to benevolent objects or any other class of Christian service will take the place of this grace. It is a solemn fact found in the words of our Saviour in this lesson that if we do not forgive others the injuries they have done us our God will not forgive us. Let no one deceive himself in this matter. You cannot be in favor with God and have the witness of the Spirit of God to your salvation and at the same time feel enmity toward any one.

Bishop William Taylor used to tell of a man whom he met in the Moody meetings in London who for three weeks sought salvation without finding peace. This was puzzling to that master evangelist, Taylor, for the man was evidently in earnest and seemed ready to do all he was directed to do. At last Taylor said to him, "There is something you have not given up." Silence and deep thinking followed until the man, jumping up, shouted, "I've got it!" meaning forgiveness. "What was the matter?" asked Taylor. "A man wronged me foully twenty years ago, and I swore I would never forgive him. I gave up all but that, but got no peace. Finally I have let that go too. All is surrendered. I do forgive him, and, blessed be God, I know I am forgiven."

Forgive if you desire to be forgiven. Those are the terms.

A Day at a Time.

It has well been said that no man ever sank under the burden of the day. It is when tomorrow's burden is added to the burden of today that the weight is more than a man can bear. Never load yourselves so, my friends. If you find yourselves so loaded at least remember this, it is your doing, not God's. He begs you to leave the future to him and mind the present. What more or what else could he do to take the burden off you?—George Macdonald.

Practical and Not Dreamers.

God touched men are practical men, not dreamers. They are optimistic because of spiritual insight, dominant because they keep close to the source of power, needed because sin is mighty, and the kingdom grows by "the strenuous life," sympathetic because the love of God and needs of man have moved their hearts to pity, banded together because they have one supreme object of affection and one common cause and foe.—Rev. Dr. J. H. Davis.

He Knows.

He knows the bitter, weary way,
He knows the endless striving, day by day,
The souls that weep, the souls that pray;
He knows.

He knows how hard the fight hath been,
The clouds that come our lives between,
The wounds the world hath never seen;
He knows.

He knows when faint and worn we sink;
How deep the pain, how near the brink
Of dark despair we pause and shrink;
He knows.

He knows. Oh, thought so full of bliss!
For, though our joy on earth we miss,
We still can bear it, feeling this—
He knows.
—Christian Work and Evangelist.

THE DELUGE

By DAVID GRAHAM PHILLIPS, Author of "THE COST," etc.

(COPYRIGHT 1905 by the BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY)

"No, thank you," she said. Her voice seemed that of a stranger who wished to remain a stranger. And she was evidently waiting for me to go. You will see what a mood I was in when I say I felt as I had not since I, a very small boy indeed, ran away from home; I came back through the chilly night to take one last glimpse of the family that would soon be realizing how foolishly and wickedly unappreciative they had been of such a treasure as I; and when I saw them sitting about the big fire in the lamplight, heartlessly comfortable and unconcerned, it was all I could do to keep back the tears of strong self-pity—and I never saw them again.

"I've seen Roebuck," said I to Anita, because I must say something, if I was to stay on.

"Roebuck?" she inquired. Her tone reminded me that his name conveyed nothing to her.

"He and I are in an enterprise together," I explained. "He is the one man who could seriously cripple me."

"Oh," she said, and her indifference, forced though I thought it, wounded.

"Well," said I, "your mother was right."

She turned full toward me, and even in the dimness I saw her quick sympathy—an impulsive flash instantly gone. But it had been there!

"I came in here," I went on, "to say that—Anita, it doesn't in the least matter. No one in this world, no one and nothing, could hurt me except through you. So long as I have you, they—the rest—all of them together—can't touch me."

We were both silent for several minutes. Then she said, and her voice was like the smooth surface of the river where the boiling rapids run deep: "But you haven't me—and never shall have. I've told you that. I warned you long ago. No doubt you will pretend, and people will say, that I left you because you lost your money. But it won't be so."

I was beside her instantly, was looking into her face. "What do you mean?" I asked, and I did not speak gently.

She gazed at me without flinching. "And I suppose," she said satirically, "you wonder why I—why you are repellent to me. Haven't you learned that, though I may have been made into a moral coward, I'm not a physical coward? Don't bully and threaten. It's useless."

I put my hand strongly on her shoulder—taunts and jeers do not turn me aside. "What did you mean?" I repeated.

"Take your hand off me," she commanded.

"What did you mean?" I repeated sternly. "Don't be afraid to answer."

She was very young—so the taunt stung her. "I was about to tell you," said she, "when you began to make it impossible."

I took advantage of this to extricate myself from the awkward position in which she had put me—I took my hand from her shoulder.

"I am going to leave," she announced.

"You forget that you are my wife," said I.

"I am not your wife," was her answer, and if she had not looked so childlike, there in the moonlight all in white, I could not have held myself in check, so insolent was the tone and so helpless of ever being able to win her did she make me feel.

"You are my wife and you will stay here with me," I reiterated, my brain on fire.

"I am my own, and I shall go where I please, and do what I please," was her contemptuous retort. "Why won't you be reasonable? Why won't you see how utterly unsuited we are? I don't ask you to be a gentleman—but just a man, and be ashamed even to wish to detain a woman against her will."

I drew up a chair so close to her that to retreat, she was forced to sit in the broad window-seat. Then I seated myself. "By all means, let us be reasonable," said I. "Now, let me explain my position. I have heard you and your friends discussing the views of marriage you've just been expressing. Their views may be right, maybe more civilized, more 'advanced' than mine. No matter. They are not mine. I hold by the old standards—and you are my wife—mine. Do you understand?" All this as tranquilly as if we were discussing fair weather. "And you will live up to the obligation which the marriage service has put upon you."

She might have been a marble statue pedestaled in that window seat.

"You married me of your own free will—for you could have protested to the preacher and he would have sustained you. You tacitly put certain conditions on our marriage. I assented to them. I have respected them. I shall continue to respect them. But—when you married me, you didn't marry a dawdling dude chattering 'advanced ideas' with his head full of libertinism. You married a man. And that man is your husband."

I waited, but she made no comment—not even by gesture or movement. She simply sat, her hands interlaced in her lap, her eyes straight upon mine.

"You say let us be reasonable," I went on. "Well, let us be reasonable. There may come a time when woman can be free and independent, but that time is a long way off yet. The world is organized on the basis of every woman's having a protector—of every decent woman's having a husband, unless she remains in the home of some of her blood-relations. There may be women strong enough to set the world at defiance. But you are not one of them—and you know it. You have shown it to yourself again and again in the last forty-eight hours. Your bringing-up has kept you a child in real knowledge of real life, as distinguished from life in that fashionable hothouse. If you tried to assert your so-called independence, you would be the easy prey of a scoundrel or scoundrels. When I, who have lived in the thick of the fight all my life, who have learned by many a surprise and defeat never to sleep except with the sword and gun in hand, and one eye open—when I have been trapped as Roebuck and Langdon have just trapped me—what chance would a woman like you have?"

THE PRIMEVAL SAVAGE IN ME STRAINED TO CLOSE ROUND THAT SLENDER WHITE THROAT AND CRUSH AND CRUSH.

She did not answer or change expression.

"Is what I say reasonable or unreasonable?" I asked gently.

"Reasonable — from your standpoint," she said.

She gazed out into the moonlight, up into the sky. And at the look in her face, the primeval savage in me strained to close round that slender white throat of hers and crush and crush until it had killed in her the thought of that other man which was transforming her from marble to flesh that glowed and blood that surged. I pushed back my chair with a sudden noise; by the way she trembled I gaged how tense her nerves must be. I rose and in a fairly calm tone, said: "We understand each other?"

"Yes," she answered. "As before."

I ignored this. "Think it over, Anita," I urged—she seemed to me so like a sweet, spoiled child again. I longed to go straight at her about that other man. I stood for a moment with Tom Langdon's name on my lips, but I could not trust myself. I went away to my own rooms.

I thrust thoughts of her from my mind. I spent the night gnawing upon the ropes with which Mowbray Langdon and Roebuck had bound me, hand and foot. I now say they were ropes of steel—and it had long been broad day before I found that weak strand which is in every rope of human make.

HAIR NATURALLY ABUNDANT.

When It Is Free of Dandruff, It Grows Luxuriantly.

Hair preparations and dandruff cures, as a rule, are sticky or irritating affairs that do no earthly good. Hair, when not diseased, grows naturally, luxuriantly. Dandruff is the cause of nine-tenths of all hair trouble, and dandruff is caused by a germ. The only way to cure dandruff is to kill the germ; and, so far, the only hair preparation that will positively destroy the germ is Newbro's Herpicide—absolutely harmless, free from grease, sediment, dye matter or dangerous drugs. It allays itching instantly; makes hair glossy and soft as silk. "Destroy the cause, you remove the effect." Sold by leading [illegible]. PROPOSES CHANGES IN AUTOMOBILE LAW.

Commissioner Smith Finds the Statute Good, but Needing Some Amendments.

Trenton, Nov. 8.—J. B. R. Smith, State Commissioner of the Department of Motor Vehicles, has given out in an interview his views as to needed corrections of the New Jersey Motor Vehicle Act, commonly known as the Frelinghuysen law. Its enforcement for four months, he says, has show that the law is based upon the right principle; that it has been productive of good results, and in the broad sense of the term, has been successful.

Mr. Smith says that the method provided in the law to identify automobiles fails to accomplish its purpose because the numbers cannot be seen under those circumstances which make it most necessary for them to be seen. He is confident that a better system of identification can be devised the essential features of which should be that the marks or numbers shall be visible under all conditions at least 300 feet away.

The commissioner suggests a remedy for the "arrest without warrant" evil and recommends that the number of paid automobile inspectors be increased. These inspectors, the commissioner thinks, should be provided with motor cycles.

He recommends inter-State registration, thus avoiding changing of numbers when passing State lines. He believes the trial of automobile cases should be vested either in the Court of Common Pleas or in some special court possessed of technical knowledge of automobile offenses and the value of evidence.

OLD HOME WEEK.

Elizabeth Making Elaborate Preparations for Celebration.

Elizabeth, Nov. 8.—Old Home Week buttons were placed on sale here yesterday. Several hundred have been manufactured, which will be sold at one dollar each, and several hundred others are to be disposed of to the school children at twenty-five cents each.

Captain Michael Beglan presented to the Old Home Week committee last night a map of the ground the midway and from which all the parades may be started. The tract extends from Broadway to Magnolia avenue and from New Point road to Seventh street. Nearly all of the owners of the property have given their consent for its use during the celebration for whatever purpose is desired.

A proposition to get 50,000 invitations bearing the seal of the city printed for distribution among the friends of those who desired to purchase them at a nominal cost was favorably considered. It was also decided to make arrangements for the printing of 50,000 folders containing the program for the week and some statistical information about the city for insertion in all business letters sent out by merchants.

Miss Justine Roberts, of Brooklyn, has returned home after a visit with her aunt, Miss Roberts, of Prospect place.

Football and General Sports

FOOTBALL.

NORTH PLAINFIELD WON.

The North Plainfield High School defeated the Roselle High School in a football game on the Westervelt avenue grounds, yesterday afternoon, by a score of 29 to 0. The contest was a lively one throughout in which the borough boys had by far the best of it. Not once through the game were they in danger of losing. They had the ball in their possession from start to finish and won quite easily.

Features were the forced touchbacks by H. Smith and William Burtis, touchdowns by Tone Overton and Wilbur Dunnlag and a drop kick of thirty yards by Lester Hamilton. Three touchdowns went over and one failed.

Right end, Malcolm VanArsdale; right tackle, William Day; right guard, Everett Smith; center, Arthur Bailey; left guard, C. Steiner; left tackle, H. Smith; left end, William Burtis; full back, B. McClintock; quarterback, Lester Hamilton; left half, Tone Overton; right half, Wilbur Dunning.

Walter Hamilton was the referee; John Lyness timer and the linesmen were Arthur Miller and Edward Bennett.

O. F. C. May Disband.

The members of the Orange Field Club will hold a meeting tonight, when the question of disbanding for the rest of the season will be settled. The football eleven is not as strong as earlier in the season and being unable to find good substitutes it has been suggested that the eleven quit the game now. This can be done without much trouble as not many games have been scheduled. It was hoped that the team would meet Dunellen this year, but the management of the two organizations cannot agree on certain matters, chiefly the guarantee, and it is highly improbable that a contest will take place.

(Other sporting news on page three).

Bert Banks, of the Orange Field Club, who broke his collar bone while playing football on Saturday, has left the hospital and is able to be around. It will be some time before he can return to work.

MYSTERIOUS DROPPING OF SHOT STIRS UP A FAMILY AND AGITATES ALL HARMONY STREET

The family of Samuel Ayers, who resides on Harmony street in North Plainfield, and the neighborhood for several blocks around, are greatly disturbed ove ra peculiar occurrence that has been prevalent in the Ayers domicile since Sunday. Beginning in the evening at about 7 o'clock and continuing until 1 o'clock the next morning, grains of shot, ranging in size from the bird to the buck weights, drop from the ceilings of the lower floors with unceasing regularity. In some places they come down in a steady stream and yet it is impossible to locate any opening where the supply might be held. Practically every resident of the block has had a "look in" but the mystery remains unexplained and the Ayerses, from the oldest to the youngest, are getting uneasy.

Mrs .Ayers acquained Chief Marshal Weiss with the facts and though the latter in his years of police activity has dealt with many individuals both shot and half-shot, he could offer no explanation. He visited the scene of the nocturnal disturbance and was pelted with enough of the grains to kill a dozen Maine guides. He had every other person leave one room and with the doors closed did some gum-shoe work all by himself but without any result. The shot continued to drop and when he went away he scooped up a pocketfull from the floor. The Ayers children take turns in sweeping the room and all the cigar boxes they could corral have been filled with the lead pellets.

The house is an old structure and the present family has been tenants for many years. They disclaim having brought the shot into the place and assert that they never noticed a grain about the rooms until Sunday evening. Chief Weiss has taken official charge of the matter and is open for suggestions as to how to proceed in order to explain the mystery.

SOMERSET'S RETURNS.

Although the official returns have not been all filed with the county clerk yet incomplete figures indicate that the people of Somerset county have voted not to abolish the Board of Freeholders and substitute a commission as the form of county government. This will mean that next fall that instead of each borough and township of the county being represented in the board three commissioners will not elected at large from the county. The wise ones say that this would mean a great saving of money for the county, although the present Board of Freeholders is not accused of extravagance.

The Democrats had a chance in the general election Tuesday to wrest the control of the Somerset County Board of Freeholders from the Republicans, but were unsuccessful. Freeholders were elected in only three townships and if the Democrats had captured all of these they would have had six members in the board to five for the Republicans. They did elect two of their candidates, in Warren and North Plainfield townships, but Walter M. Vreeland, in Montgomery, defeated his Democratic opponent by 54 majority, and therefore the Republicans control the board by one vote, as follows: Bedminster—David Philhower, D.; Bernards—Henry W. Baird, R.; Bound Brook—Peter H. Smith, R.; Bridgewater—Joseph Fitzga, R.; Franklin—Thomas E. Gibson, D.; Hillsborough—Richard W. Hoagland, R.; Montgomery—Walter M. Vreeland, R.; North Plainfield—William M. Demler, D.; North Plainfield Borough—John Emmons, D.; Warren—Joel Codington, D.

SHORT STORIES.

It is said that 7,700 husbands deserted their wives in the city of New York last year.

The earliest creatures which were furnished with eyes were the trilobites. The sense of hearing did not exist for ages afterward.

With face lathered on one side and the other neatly shaved, the driver of a New York hook and ladder wagon was observed racing his equipage through the streets. He was only half shaved when the alarm came.

The following announcement to the hungry was posted one day in the front of a restaurant conducted by a Greek in the Horseshoe section of Jersey City: "Kornut beefe and garbage in fin stile too-day." The proprietor said he made the sign all by himself.

President Benjamin Ide Wheeler, of the University of California, suggests for language reform that an international academy might be founded to hve authority in the matters of language changes, just as the French academy and the Spanish academy have done.

Freedom Castle, Knights of the Golden Eagle, continues to grow in membership. Eleven candidates have been elected this month and will be initiated later on.

BIG S. S. CONVENTION

New Jersey Association to Meet at Somerville Next Week.

NEAR SEMI-CENTENNIAL

Convention Will Mark the Forty-eighth Anniversary of the Association—Dr. Hurlbut to Confer Diplomas.

The 48th anniversary convention of the New Jersey Sunday-school Association will be Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, November 13, 14 and 15, in the Second Reformed church, Somerville. The indications at this time are that this convention will be the largest in the history of the association. The number of delegates will be in excess of any preceding year.

There will be several features of the convention. One of these will be the Wednesday evening session, when work for boys and young men will be discussed. In the past this phase of the work has not been considered large enough for a special place on the programme.

Another important feature will be the sixth annual banquet and conference of the New Jersey Sunday-school Superintendents' union. This will take place Wednesday evening, November 14, in the De Forest house, East Somerville, between the hours of 5 and 8:20 o'clock.

The officers of the New Jersey Sunday-school Association are: James L. Griggs, of Somerville, president; the Rev. C. Lippincott, of Red Bank; choricter; the Rev. Samuel D. Price, of Camden, recording secretary. Mr. Griggs is superintendent of the Somerville Reformed Church Sunday-school, he being elected to that place upon the resignation of S. P. Dunham, of Trenton, 21 years ago.

Diplomas will be conferred on the training class members Thursday morning. Rev. Jesse L. Hurlbut, formerly pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church here, will present them.

"THE CLANSMAN" TONIGHT.

Much Talked-of Dixon Play Will Appear at New Plainfield Theatre.

Thomas Dixon, Jr.'s, widely discussed play, "The Clansman," will appear at the New Plainfield theatre tonight. The same cast that presented the drama during its original New York run will be in evidence and the identical scenic mounting and accessories have been brought to Plainfield. The play has become the most talked of in the United States and it has been placed on a par with the most successful productions of a decade.

The seat sale for tonight has been large but there are still many choice orchestra and balcony chairs remaining. Manager Counihan stated this morning that there should be no apprehension of trouble as the matter has been thoroughly discussed with the colored people and they have withdrawn all opposition. The play was presented at Trenton last night without the slightest hint of a disturbance.

Shot Continues to Drop.

"The Harmony Street Mystery, or Who Dropped the Shot," continues in serial form in the borough. Another chapter was added last night when the patter of the bird-sized grains was helped out by a broadside of lead pellets "as big as the ball bearings in a bicycle," as Mrs. Ayres, the tenant of the "bewitched" house describes them. One of them smote the face of a clock on the mantel and cracked the glass. The borough police assert that a young man who is sweet on Mrs. Ayres' daughter is at the bottom of the trouble but the family refuses to conect him with the mystery.

Files Election Protest.

I. J. Stites, the Republican candidate for assessor of Dunellen, between whom he and John Moynihan, the Democratic candidate, the Dunellen election board has declared there is a tie, has filed a formal protest with the county election board. Mr. Stites will fight determinedly to have two rejected ballots, marked for "I. J. Sties," declared good, and for him. Some of the Republican said this morning that Mr. Moynihan had decided to make no strenuous effort to oppose Mr. Stites.

To Be Arraigned Monday.

Those persons who have been indicted by the Union County Grand Jury during its present session will be arraigned before Judge Atwater, at Elizabeth on Monday, and it is quite likely that the Grand Jury will complete its labors on that day.

Fowler As Kean's Colleague.

Among those metnoined as candidates for Dryden's place in the United States Senate is Congressman Charles N. Fowler.

FRIENDS MAY MOVE THE MEETING HOUSE?

THAT'S A REPORT IN CIRCULATION ON THE STREETS TODAY.

There is a well-founded rumor that the Plainfield Meeting Religious Society of Friends is seriously considering a proposition to remove the old meeting-house on Watchung avenue to a more quiet location, the idea being to get away from the noise of the railroad and trolley cars. The matter has been under advisement for some time and it is believed that action will be taken in the near future.

Such a move would put the property at Watchung avenue and East Third street in the market, and would possibly mean the removal of the old cemetery back of the meetin-house. This structure is about the oldest in cemetery back of the meeting-house. early part of the eighteenth century. Several times efforts have been made to purchase the property, the city trying a few years ago to secure it for the purpose of erecting a city hall there. The city's offer was refused, as were also other offers. Several sites are being considered by the Friends as suitable for the old meeting-house, as the members of the meeting would not consent to tearing the structure down and building a new place of worship.

BAZAAR GREAT SUCCESS.

Grace Church Affair Ended Last Night, Completely Sold Out.

The bazaar and entertainment of the Guild of Grace P. E. church closed last night, after two-days of successful operation. There was an increased attendance and the booths and attractions were liberally patronized.

Not a thing was left on the counters. The patrons cleaned up everything. The committee has not been able to calculate the net proceeds yet, but there is the pleasant certainty of a splendid profit to increase the satisfaction of the members.

The entertainment programme of the first night was repeated. In the afternoon, the children enjoyed a Punch and Judy show.

Friends Surprise Miss Grant.

Miss E. Virginia Grant, of the Babcock building, was tendered a surprise party by fifty of her friends, last night. Music and games were features of the gathering, while talent from Jersey City and Somerville assisted in entertaining. Refreshments were served promptly at 11 o'clock and the affair terminated shortly afterward. Miss Grant was formerly in charge of the shorthand department in the Plainfield Business College but has resigned to take a position with a New York firm, though still retaining her local residence. Miss Adella C. Phelps was instrumental in arranging the surprise and the guests included former pupils of Miss Grant from Somerville, Raritan, Bound Brook, Westfield and Jersey City.

Stack Destroyed by Fire.

Fire was discovered in a seven-ton stack of hay near the Watchung Spring Company's springs on the mountain at 1 o'clock this afternoon, and several barns and a house in close proximity were threatened with destruction. A telephone message to the Borough Fire Department headquarters brought the chemical engine to the scene, but this was not adequate to cope with the fire and the engine was summoned. How the fire started is a mystery. Clarence E. Teel, who is in charge of the springs, was the first to discover it and in a few minutes the whole stack was ablaze.

Brooks Carson Falls Out of a Tree.

Brooks Carson, the Norwood avenue florist, fell out of a tree on Berckman street, where he was working this morning, and received sever contuisons of the back. He was removed to the hospital in the ambulance, where the physician in charge made a thorough examination. His injuries are not considered serious. Mr. Carson is about twenty-five years old and married.

Caroline Germond Haff,

Caroline Germond Haff died this morning at the home of her sister at No. 5 New Madison. She was a sister of the late Stephen Haff who resided for many years on Sherman avenue. The funeral will be private and interment will be at Hillside.

Will Confer Orient Degree.

Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P., will confer the Orient degree on several candidates at its meeting tonight. The work will be followed by a social session.

Miss VanCampen a Notary Public.

Miss Laura VanCampen, who is with A. M. Runyon & Son, of Park avenue, undertakers, has recived notification of her appointment as notary public.

FOWLER MUCH PLEASED

Congressman Declines to Give Explanation of Vote in Union County Just Now.

GRATIFIED, HOWEVER

Republican Nominee's Friends Feel That He Made a Good Showing On Tuesday.

Congressman Charles N. Fowler says that he was pleased with the outcome of the contest.

"I am very much gratified with the result," is his comment.

When asked t owhat he attributed the drift of votes in Elizabeth and Union county against the Republican Congressional ticket, he said that at this early time he could not reply with definiteness.

"There are many factors which enter into an election," said Congressman Fowler, "and it is impossible and unreasonable to attempt to assign reasons unless all the facts are before one. To give an opinion without knowing all the circumstances simply makes further explanation necessary. Bt you may say that I am very much pleased with the way things have come out."

Considering the close sheaves which other Republican Congressional candidates had, and the general drift toward the Democratic side in New Jersey, the friends of Congressman Fowler feel that he made a good showing, and that the result was creditable to him. In the Sixth district William Hughes, a Democrat, was elected to Congress, defeating his Republican opponent, Burke, by a wide margin. Two years ago the district went Republican. In the Seventh district R. Wayne Parker, Republican, came in by so small a majority that there is talk of a recount. Two years ago his Democratic opponent was snowed under by a majority of 11,200. In the Eighth district LeGage Pratt, Democrat, was elected by a majority of 9,000 in round numbers. Two years ago Wiley, Republican, carried the district by 12,500. This shows a falling off to the Democrats of 20,000 in the district. In the Ninth district Eugene W. Leake, Democrat, was elected. Two years ago the Republican candidate won by 2,400. In the other districts also, where Republicans were re-elected, there was a lessening of majorities.

SIGHT OF BLUECOAT THREW HIM INTO PANIC.

That Is Why Harmless Hobo Led Officer Kelly An Exciting Chase.

Through an instinctive antipathy toward policemen, Harry Foulds, a wandering wire-drawer, was led into giving Patrolman John Kelly a fruitless and unnecessary chase yesterday afternoon. Foulds was seen to drop off a freight train at Grant avenue by one of the railroad men, and the police were apprised of the fact because he looked suspicious. Kelly was sent out on his bicycle to corral him.

Kelly spotted Foulds along the track near Grant avenue. Foulds spotted Kelly at the same time, and took to his heels. Kelly gave chase. Foulds kept his lead to Clinton avenue, where he turned down into the roadway and on to Front street. He doubled back toward Grant avenue, where Kelly, who is fleet of foot, ran him down. He said he ran because he was afraid of cops.

There was nothing to fasten on him except the sprint this morning, and as Judge Runyon could see no particular harm in a fear of the law, he suspended sentence or Foulds' promise to go to Jersey City, where he belongs, as fast as he could travel. Foulds said he would sell his coat to get money to finish his journey with a legal ride. He said he was tired of wandering and would settle down.

Results of the Revival Meetings.

As a result of the special meetings held at the First Baptist church last week under the direction of Rev. Dr. Henry M. Wharton, evangelist, 130 persons signed cards, thus signifying their desire to lead Christian lives. Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, pastor of the First Baptist church, will see that the pastors of the different churches receive the cards of those who have expressed a desire to unite with them. Trinity Reformed church will receive about fifteen new members due to the revival.

Needle Work Guild.

The annual meeting of the Needle Work Guild will be held in the parlors of the Crescent Avenue church on Thursday, November 15, at 3:30 p. m. The associates are asked to an exhibition of the garments at 4:30 o'clock on the same day. Tea will be served.

FOWLER'S PLURALITY TUMBLES IN MORRIS

CONGRESSMAN RECEIVED 1,483 MORE VOTES THERE THAN MARTINE.

County Clerk Voorhees, of Morris county, and his staff of clerks are tabulating the election returns. The vote for Congressman has been completed, and it gives Charles N. Fowler, the Republican candidate, a majority in the county of Morris of 1,463 over James E. Martine, the Democratic nominee.

The vote was: For Fowler, 6,253; for Martine, 4,790; for Vaughan, Prohibition, 259; for Whitesell, Socialist, 313. A great surprise to the politicians was the wrestling of the "third party" banner from the Prohibitionists by the Socialists.

The Socialist candidate, George B. Whitesell, did not do much campaigning in that county, except in Dover, while the "cold water party" made an active canvass for Dr. Harry Vaughan.

PERSEVERANCE ENJOYED UNITY'S HOSPITALITY.

Pythian Knights Have a Good Time at an Evening with Cards.

Unity Lodge, No. 102, K. of P., entertained members of Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P., at its meeting, last night, the time being devoted to playing various games of cards. Unity Lodge members lost only that of Olds Maids, winning every other contest.

In the game of Old Maid, Robert and Philip Jahn defeated Charles DeGraw and Samuel Humpstone. Chancellor Commander Hall and Fred Douglass, of Perseverance, were defeated by Chancellor Commander Causebrook and Frank Putnam in a spirited game of whist. Jerry VanWinkle and H. J. Martin, of Unity Lodge, defeated William Mills and J. B. Higgins, of Perseverance, in a game of hearts, notwithstanding the Mr. VanWinkle was continually getting the queen of spades, which counted thirteen.

W. L. Hetfield, Jr., and Elmer D. Cutting, of Perseverance Lodge, were defeated by Harry Werner and Frank Dunham, of Unity Lodge, in an exciting game of pinochle, while in a game of euchre, George Dean and Charles Harris, of Unity Lodge, were victors over A. D. Pope and Thomas Osmun. This was the first of a series of similar entertainments to be held during the winter. Refreshments were served and a smoker enjoyed after the games.

Knights of Pythias to Consolidate?

An effort is now being made to consolidate District 20, comprising the two lodges of Knights of Pythias at Somerville, with the two lodges in this city, which are in District 14, in the hope that it will result in greater interest and better work. The proposition will be brought up at the session of the Grand Lodge to be held at Trenton in February. To interest the members in the scheme a large union district meeting will be held in this city the latter part of November.

A Friend in Need.

Arthur Johnanson, a Swede who lives near Watchung, loaded up on red eye in the borough, yesterday afternoon, and roamed Somerset street looking for fight. A good friend and well wisher accommodated him by knocking out two of his front teeth when approached and after that Marshall Pope locked Johanson up for safe keeping. He will be arraigned before Mayor Smalley tonight.

Another Slight Fire.

The city fire department was called out last night for a slight blaze at the home of Henry Overland on McDowell street, caused either by mice and matches or a defective chimney. It was put out by the use of extinguishers. The alarm was turned in by Patrolman Dobson from box 47.

Levy Bros.' Second Mill End Sale.

The famous mill end sale of Levy Bros. starts tomorrow at 9 o'clock wit humbrellas at 15 cents each. This sale promises to even eclipse last year's when the crowd blocked the sidewalk waiting for the doors to open. Balloons will be given away to purchasers tomorrow.

Amateur Ball League.

The amateur baseball league will meet at the Y. M. C. A. tonight. The applications of the two Westfield clubs will be considered and acted upon. The schedule will be talked over, and it may be shaped up.

SMITH'S VIEW OF FIGHT

County Chairman Takes a Retrospective Glance at the Battle of the Ballots.

"NEW IDEA" LOYAL

Martine's Popularity In Plainfield Lost Union County to the Republicans.

County Chairman Frank H. Smith feels much elated over the result in Union county, notwithstanding that this third of the Fifth Congressional Congressman Fowler was beaten in district.

To a representative of The Daily Press he said this morning, "The result in Union county shows me that it is as strongly Republican as ever. The only way the vote in the lower sections of Elizabeth can be explained was the feeling of the people down there against the passage of the Bishops' bill. I think that the 'new idea' people as a general rule voted the party ticket in Plainfield and throughout Union county. The result in Plainfield so far as the Congressional vote was concerned was purely a matter of local pride and personal friendship for 'Jim' Martine. The result in Rahway was brought about partly by a local fight and partly by the enactment of the Bishops' bill.

"I think that as county chairman I should add," he continued, "that whatever differences may have arisen in the recent primary campaign were wiped out in the election. The so-called 'regulars' and the so-called 'Colbyites' worked shoulder to shoulder for the success of the Republican ticket. They were reunited on that day in a fight on the common enemy and there is no reason why in the future there should be any division of sentiment or action within the party ranks. We all will work for the best interests of the Republican party. To do this we should favor the nomination of the very best men and we should strive together for their election. We should see that the will of the people is obeyed and we should hold in mind at all times that we are working for the best interests of the people."

SOMERSET COUNTY VOTES TO RETAIN FREEHOLDERS.

From Figures at Hand Today Commission Proposition Was Defeated by 132 Majority.

Though the full returns have not been made even as yet, figures indicate that Somerset county stood for the old form of government in Tuesday's election. A careful estimate places the majority in favor of retaining the present Board of Freeholders at 132 votes. Bedminster township, which is a rich farming district, gave 158 majority in support of the old board and the third district of Bernards gave eleven. Several country districts are still to be heard from but it is not believed they will materially alter the present result.

The returns on the proposition came in slower than any matter on which the people of the county have voted for years. Though it was just as easy to forward the figures as those for the candidates, it was not until yesterday that any idea of the result could be attained. From the results at hand, yesterday morning, it was thought the proposition to abolish the freeholders would be carried, but in the afternoon additional returns gave the matter a different aspect.

Somerville Pastor Resigns.

At the third quarterly conference of the First Methodist church in Somerville, Rev. Edwin N. Crasto presented his resignation from the pastorate, to take effect at the end of the conference year. Mr. Crasto has occupied the pulpit in Somerville for five years, his being the longest pastorate in the history of the church. In March next he and his wife will go abroad for a year. They will travel in most of the countries of Europe, going as far East as Constantinople, Egypt and Palestine, and will stop for sometime in Spain on their return trip.

Sunday Services at Grace M. E.

Sunday being Y. M. C. A. Day in all of the local churches, Rev. Dr. C. W. Parsons, of Grace M. E. church, has arranged to give the entire to a consideration of association work. In the morning George A. Warburton, of New York, secretary for the railroad branch of the Y. M. C. A., and a personal friend of Dr. Parsons, will speak at 10:30 o'clock. In the evening Dr. Parsons will continue the consideration of the association by preaching on the subject, "Run, Speak to That Young Man."

UNION'S REPRESENTATIVES RALLY AROUND STOKES

Senator Ackerman Leads the Way and Assemblyman Tillman Follows.

PERKINS FAVORABLE

Moxon Alone Dodges—Hamilton Kean Doubtful Whether Assemblymen Are Pledged.

State Senator Ernest R. Ackerman has joined the little band of good and true men who will not lend themselves to any movement which has for its object the seating of John F. Dryden again in the United States

Senator E. R. Ackerman.

Senate. The Union county senator is the first in the field of those warriors of the regular organization to enter the lists in behalf of another man for that exalted office. He has come out for no less a person than the Governor himself, and furthermore adds a prayer that the former Senator from Cumberland may see his way clear to become a candidate.

Following in the footsteps of the senator is one of the Assemblymen-elect from that rock—not of "Gibralter," but of Republicanism,—Union county. Mr. Tillman, of Rahway, says that he too looks with favor upon Mr. Stokes; at least that he will go into the caucus favoring him as the one in the whole State should be chosen of the people to represent them at Washington. He only differs from the Plainfielder by testifying to The Daily Press representative that he has no second choice. He will not say that should the Governor spurn the pleadings of the populace to make himself known as a candidate for the office that he would then rally to under the banner of Dryden or any other man. Senator Ackerman, however, who has had that unenviable reputation of being a "machine" Republican, comes out boldly by declaring that in the event of the Governor declining to run, he will favor another man whose money alone is not responsible for his position of high estate within the party. He declares that under such circumstances he will lend his vote and voice to the end that former Attorney General John W. Griggs may be the colleague of the Sage of Ursino.

Still another representative of Union county who will have a say as to whom shall go to Washington for the term beginning next March is very apt to fall in line for Governor Edward Casper Stokes. This man is Assemblyman Perkins, of Union, also. That he is announced as a supporter of the Governor, The Daily Press representative cannot say at first hand for efforts to reach the Westfielder last night proved in vain. But it can be said that there is good reason for believing that he will join with his colleagues from Union in supporting one other than the present junior Senator. It can even be said that on the best sort of authority the former floor leader of the majority in the House will most probably vote in the caucus for Stokes in preference to Dryden. The only doubt in the case appears to be whether he will pick Stokes or Griggs; in any event it is reliably reported that the big insurance man will not be his first or even his second choice. There is only one other man in the county who will have any direct say in the matter and that is Assemblyman-elect Moxon, of Elizabeth. Moxon is noncommittal. That's the way he puts it himself. To put it more plainly his friends say that he is inclined to be partial to Dryden; the exception

PARK BOWLERS WIN EASILY FROM ROSELLE

TAKE THREE THREE STRAIGHT GAMES, MONROE ROLLING WITH STRONG ARM.

Roselle was the toy of the Park bowlers last night. The visitors were perhaps not exactly toyed with, but it amounts to the same thing, because they didn't get one of the three games. The Parks got the first by 69 pins, the second by 84, and the third by 56.

Long rolled a strong game. He scored high with 220 in the first round, and held to the high altitudes in the second, 193. Daniel nailed up 193 in the first game. The high man for Roselle was Howe, and he scored only 181.

The scores:

YOUNG GALBRAITH HELD.

His Grandfather Is Serving Time For Similar Offence.

Edward Galbraith, the fourteen-year-old boy arrested yesterday morning on a grave charge, was turned over to Constable Robert Pierce, of New Market, yesterday afternoon, for arraignment before Justice R. P. F. Von Minden at Dunellen. The lad was held for the grand jury after a formal hearing. Judge Newcorn has been retained to defend him.

The boy is a grandson of John Galbraith, Sr., who is serving a term in State's prison at Trenton for the same offense. The elder Gailbraith was one of the five men who were arrested early in the year for maltreating young girls. The elder Galbraith is over seventy years old. He is said to have a comparatively easy time of it at Trenton. The prison authorities allow him to work outside about the grounds and on the street.

EPWORTH LEAGUE RALLY.

District No. 4 Will Hold Big Group Meeting In Somerville.

A group rally of district No. 4 of the Elizabeth District Epworth League, including the societies of Westfield, Plainfield, Scotch Plains, Mt. Horeb, Martinsville, Metuchen, Dunellen, Bound Brook, Somerville and Raritan, will be held in the First Methodist Episcopal church at Bound Brook on Tuesday evening, November 20. Louis G. Ayers, of Somerville, who is the district leader, will preside, and the address of the evening will be delivered by the Rev. William M. Trumbower, pastor of St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal church, in Jersey City.

The president of the Elizabeth District, R. G. Banker, of West New Brighton, S. I., is expected to take part in the exercises. A social hour, including bounteous refreshments, will follow the meeting.

Cats, Dogs and Chickens Poisoned.

The poisoner is at work again in this city. Recently, two pet cats belonging to Miss Olive Randolph, of Plainfield avenue, were poisoned by arsenic, the deadly potion being given to the felines on fish. Three dogs and several chickens have also been poisoned. The residents of that vicinity are active in their endeavors to ascertain the mean person or persons guilty of the offense.

Mr. Sullivan Surprised.

Friends of James Sullivan, of West Fourth street, tendered him a surprise party at his home last night. It was arranged by James Ennis and John Casey and was attended by guests from this city, New Brunswick and other places. Music, games and dancing were enjoyed during the evening.

Deacon Sheppard, Clerk.

At the monthly meeting of Trinity Reformed church consistory, last night, Edgar F. Sheppard was the unanimous choice of the consistory for re-election as clerk. Mr. Sheppard was warmly praised for his efficient services during the past year.

Entertainment at Christian Church.

An entertainment will be given tonight at the Christian church on Grove street, consisting of recitations, vocal and instrumental solos and illustrated songs. Refreshments will be served.

WAS THE BIGGEST PIG IN THE TOWN.

It is a kindly and beneficial custom in some country villages for the wealthier inhabitants to subscribe and make good the loss which a poor villager may sustain through the death of a pig.

Maj. Cardic, however, had but recently returned from abroad, and knew little of the local customs and therefore he was astounded, recently, to receive a visit fom the wife of a laborer who lived near.

"Lost a pig—eh?" he repeated, crustily. "Well, I haven't got it! I don't collect pigs."

"Beggin' your pardon, sir," faltered the woman; "but you see, sir, the pig died."

"Well, d'ye want me to go to the funeral, send a wreath, or what, woman?" he replied.

"No, sir; indeed, no!" was the reply. But we're poor folks, sir, and we thought that, bein' the biggest pig in the neighborhood, you'd give us a little 'elp."

The major's reply 'was distinctly pungent.

Frightened.

As the judge approached Maud Muller his corpulent companion leaped from the buggy and made for the tall timbers.

"Gracious!" exclaimed Maud a little later. "Who was that?"

"Why, he's a trust official," explained the wise old judge.

"But why did he run?"

"He thought that the rake you had was a muck rake."—Chicago Daily News.

AT THE CLUB.

"What do you mean by using such language before me?"

"How the deuce was I to know you wanted to use it first?"

Tale of a Dog.

Mr. Slimpurse—Ah! Good evening, Dick. Is your sister in?

Little Dick—Guesso.

"I say, Dick, here's a nickel to get some candy. I notice that big dog of your father's is untied. He's pretty cross, isn't he?"

"Awful. Pa always ties him up when Mr. Fatpurse is in town; but Mr. Fatpurse is away now, and the dog is loose for exercise."—N. Y. Weekly.

The Silent Message.

"What kind of a time is Jack having on his trp across the Atlantic?"

"Awful."

"How do you know?"

"He promised to send me a wireless every six hours unless he was too sick to hold his head up, and I haven't heard from him since he left New York harbor."—Detroit Free Press.

Waning.

"What ails young Mrs. Smithkins? She looks so worried lately."

"It's her husband. Before they were married he used to say she was one in a million. After they were married he called her one in a thousand."

"And now?"

"He calls her one in a hundred."—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Bad the Curves.

"What became of that contortionist you used to advertise as the 'boneless wonder?'" queried the reporter.

"Oh, he got another job," replied the museum manager. "He's getting $500 a week doing a female impersonation act and posing for the illustrations in a fashion magazine."—Chicago Daily News.

Possibilities.

"But," protested the first dear girl, I haven't got the face to ask a favor of him."

"Well," rejoined dear girl No. 2, "you might visit a complexion specialist and have your face remodeled."—Chicago Daily News.

A Negative Distinction.

"You didn't attend Mrs. Tackington's big party."

"No," answered Miss Cayenne. "That is one of the occasions concerning which I prefer to be mentioned among those absent."—Washington Star.

Forced Upon Him.

First Bug—I've just had a Turkish bath.

Second Bug—Where'd you get it?

First Bug—Went to the cleaner's in a rug and couldn't get out till I'd been through the steam room.—Detroit Free Press.

Making It Modest.

Mrs. McSmith—The material for my new bathing suit will cost $3 a yard.

Mr. McSmith—Well, take this quarter and buy more of it than you did last year.—Cleveland Leader.

How Bitter!

"How many children have you?"

"Two living and one writing jokes for a daily paper."—Cleveland Leader.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY

Three barrels of clothing and papers were sent to Ellis Island yesterday by the Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the Baptist church, for use among the incoming foreigners.

The women of the First Baptist church will ship two barrels of food, cereals and vegetables to the Old People's Home in Newark tomorrow.

Beyond accepting Rev. Mr. Fletcher's resignation, with regret, the Baptist church board has take no action as yet on the pulpit vacancy.

Archibald Brakeley has returned to Princeton after a two days' visit at home. He came to the borough primarily to vote.

Mrs. E. J. Brinkerhoff, of New Sprizville, S. I., was the guest of Rev. and Mrs. E. C. Dutcher, Wednesday.

Mrs. Susan Ramsey, of Lebanon, has returned home after a visit to her daughter, Mrs. Sarah Fisher.

Charles Ward, Jr., was the guest of Clarence Sofield Wednesday. He returned to Bayonne yesterday.

The Borough Council did nothing outside of routine business at the adjourned meeting last night.

E. C. Absolom, of Philadelphia, has returned home after a visit to Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Rogers.

Harry Hummer and Clarence Sofield have gone to Hunterdon county for a week's hunting.

Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Hoffman have been entertaining friends from Bayonne.

The Piscataway School Board will meet this afternoon at Nelson's Hotel.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD

The Suburban Club opened the winter social life of the club last night with an invitation dance and reception. The cozy little hall adjoining the club's parlors was crowded with merry dancers all the evening, the only pause being a short intermission at midnight, when refreshments were served. Those who tired of the dance had the freedom of the bowling alleys and billiard parlors. Altogether the affair was one of the pleasantest the club has yet held. Guests were present from Plainfield, Westfield and Rahway.

Tomorrow marks the open season for rabbits. It is needless to say every gun owned, or that can be borrowed will be in active service, as the local hunters will be out in force. The majority of them will either hunt through Hunterdon or Warren counties or at the Great Swamp near Myersville. Rabbits are said to be quite plentiful, so everybody should be eating rabbits Sunday.

The local police have been notified of the disappearance of John Haley from the home of Mr. Lattimer, of the borough. Haley is one of the many children farmed out by the Charity Association of New York, and it is thought that the boy simply tired of the Simple Life in the country and has returned to the Great White Way.

Mrs. Ingram, who has been spending two weeks with her daughter, Miss Josephine Ingram, has returned to her home at Trenton.

The Township Committee meets tonight in the town rooms for the purpose of acting upon the election.

The regular weekly prayer and praise meeting will be held tonight in the parlors of the Baptist church.

Jackson E. Reynolds, of the borough, is spending a week at Chicago, Ill.

Work has been started on another new house on Farlee avenue.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The apple crop in this vicinity is a complete failure, most all having been knocked off the trees by the heavy hail storm which occurred in mid-summer. There are no apples for winter use nor the cider mill, in fact very few for immediate consumption. This is indeed a calamity for the farmer depends much upon his apple crop for use in the culinary department during the winter months.

A. C. Beckstein and family are still enjoying their summer home, "The Farm," near here, but will shortly return to New York to spend the winter.

The dancing class will meet this evening in Washington Hall. Many new members joined last Friday.

W. E. Smith has not yet finished husking his large field of corn. The crop will be a good one.

Roy Huff has entered the business college at Plainfield.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The Women's Christian Temperance Union held its monthly business meeting in the rooms on Madison avenue, yesterday afternoon.

All the men of the First M. E. church and congregation are invited to attend the meeting of the Brotherhood in Vincent chapel, tonight, Rev. Dr. W. H. Morgan, of Newark, will make an address.

The Messenger, the monthly publication of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, has the following note in its November issue: "For many years members of our church, led by Mrs. Joseph Myers, conducted a Sunday-school for Chinese. Since Mrs. Myers' death no one has been found to continue the work. The Chinese are still here, however, and it seems as if we were losing an opportunity to do good. Is there some one who will volunteer to undertake this work?"

STOKES AFTER BIG PLUM?

Politicians Believe Governor Will Be the Next U. S. Senator.

ORGANIZING HOUSE

As the Democrats Have Captured the Assembly, Party Men Are Beginning to Take Notice of Jobs.

The question, "who will be the next United States Senator?" is not attracting much more attention just now than who will be the Democratic Speaker of the next House of Assembly, and what Democrats will fill the many berths at Trenton next January, the first the party has had to dispense there in fourteen years.

As to the Senatorship, while John F. Dryden's friends have not abandoned hope, there are few, if any, politicians willing to admit that he can win unless nominated by an Essex man, and Senator Colby has already declared that Mr. Dryden is out of the race so far as he is concerned.

This brings Governor Stokes up to the front ranks and as his ambitions in that direction have long been known there is every reason to believe that his canvass is already well under way. South Jersey wants the office and Stokes is as popular today as he was when he came within two votes of capturing the office from Dryden, when the latter first ran.

Stokes' candidacy would clarify the contest for president of the Senate, as Senator Minoch of his own county, who is Senator Hillery's most formidable rival, would give way to the latter in return for North Jersey support of Stokes' candidacy. There are other possibilities, of course, but none as far in the lead as the Governor.

Both Joseph Riordan and Archibald Alexander, of Hudson, are candidates for Speaker of the House.

—The newly-elected members of the Union county Board of Freeholders will not take their seats until January 1, and at the annual meeting the following May there will be a re-arrangement of the committees.

SENTENCE SERMONS.

Fear and fret makes life's friction.

Heaven helps those who help others.

Heaven despairs of the man who despises men.

True religion nourishes the roots of right doing.

The church that courts the rich loses its riches.

Sometimes hiding another's faults heals our own.

The man who is too previous is sure to get procrastinated.

The hardest work some folks do is telling how busy they are.

You cannot keep your eyes on your watch and your heart on your work.

It does not make a man brave to lay his cowardice on his conscience.

No amount of laundry in your religion can make up for a lack of love.

There's no special merit in casting bread on the water with a hook in it.

Many a man's religion would be worth more if it had more office practice.

It's no use looking for a man's religion when it doesn't get into his looks.

Two strings to your bow may be all right if you can keep them clear of your neck.—Chicago Tribune.

PHILOSOPHICAL POINTS.

The fatted calf never loves the prodigal son.

There are a great many calico souls in silken coats.

Truth never runs around asking people to believe it.

Alas, that fools are prosperous. Is it their penalty or reward?

How many of us in listening to the tomtoms forget the violins?

To think an original thought is to take a step nearer the divine.

People who need to be continually propped up are not worth the prop.

When men become suddenly good they should be executed immediately.

It is easier for some people to believe the impossible than the possible.

Before it was thrown down, the Golden Calf had a son, and it is still mooing around the world.

"All things come to him who waits" is a high-sounding but senseless phrase. Poor-houses and potter's field are filled with waiters.

It is self-evident that to successfully fathom the motives of men one must be a man himself. To an idiot—to a lunatic—all men are either idiots or lunatics.

LOVE LORE.

It is easier to love and be wise than to be generous and have money.

Jealousy is green and does not harmonize with Love's hair and eyes.

Love laughs at locksmiths, because parents don't lock up their daughters any more.

When Poverty comes in at the door Truelove engages her on the spot to do the cooking.

The pity of Love's blindness is that marriage is the only oculist that guarantees to restore the sight.

Don't complain of your lover's amateurishness. In this you have proof positive that you are the first.

Show me the sweethearts of the land, and I will confess myself that much more puzzled about the men.

Life gave a dinner, and, while it may not have been a feast from an epicure's point of view, it was a great success. The guest of honor was Love.

When Love begins to sicken and decay, sometimes the tonic of indifference will effect a quicker recovery than all the careful nursing in the world.

ABOUT WOMEN.

Freshness is not to be despised in women, vegetables or flowers.

A woman of gushing proclivities is apt to consider herself irresistible.

The woman who nags her husband deservedly sits down to a lonely meal.

Wise is the woman who does not expect a man's devotion at election time.

The woman who constantly quotes her husband seldom realizes what an intolerable bore she is to others.

A woman with a musical voice may babble of coal dust and sauer kraut, and still compel you to think of lute strings.—Exchange.

FOOTBALL.

It is to be regretted by local football lovers that the game here appears to be on the wane. The Orange Field Club will probably disband, the P. H. S. eleven disbanded early in the season, and Alis will probably not continue another year. In all other sections of the State there are a number of teams and the game attracts big crowds. Of course, the football enthusiasts here will have to be content with no team at the High School, this year, but it is hoped that next year steps will be taken to have a team.

Alis will play Dunellen at the latter place, Saturday, November 17, and the betting is about even. The Dunellen boys have been playing a fast game this season and while everyone here hopes that Alis will win, it would not be surprising if Dunellen should win out.

Alis has one more game scheduled for this season, Saturday, November 24, when the eleven will play Roselle on Alis Common. As the football games are so far apart here, it is difficult for the enthusiasts to continue their interest.

GOLF.

Not satisfied with winning the Hydewood cup, Charles A. Reed captured the President's and club cups this season at the Park Golf Club. Since Mr. Reed began the game of golf, he has continued to improve in his play. He has been a regular attendant at the borough club, as well as at the Plainfield Country Club, where as a rule he returns a low score.

Although the active season has closed at the Park Golf Club there will be general play on the course tomorrow, and in fact as long as the weather remains favorable. There are several members who play the game purely for the exercise.

There will be play at the Plainfield Country Club tomorrow for the consolation and inconsolables' cups and the November Handicap cup. There will be three more Saturdays' play and the play on Thanksgiving Day when the schedule will be concluded with some special events.

"Dave" Patrick, the "pro" who was at the Westfield Golf Club this season, has left there. He will probably go south this winter together with a number of other "pros." Next summer he will be located with one of the bigger clubs.

All of the big golf events for the year have been played and with the exception of a few tournaments in the metropolitan district, there will not be much doing in this line here until next spring. There is a movement on foot, however, to arrange several big tournaments in the south during the winter and many of the Eastern players will probably take part.

The metropolitan district is well represented in the annual fall open tournament being held on the links of the Country Club, Atlantic City, this week. Yesterday's play consisted of a thirty-six hole medal play qualifying round. In all more than 100 entries were received for this tournament, including some of the best golfers in the East. The play will be concluded tomorrow.

President Thomas, of the United States Golf Association, has appointed Arden M. Robbins, of the St. Andrews and Garden City clubs, as chairman of the nominating committee. R. H. Williams, the first appointee, would not serve on account of other engagements. The others on the committee are Phelps B. Hoyt, of Chicago, and R. W. Lesley, of Philadelphia. The committee has held one meeting. Should a New York man be nominated for the presidency, in case Randolph H. Thomas refuses to again accept the office, W. Fellowes Morgan, of Baltusrol, or Daniel Chauncey, of Garden City, may be named.

Alec Smith, the national, Eastern and Western champion, has arranged to take charge of the Atlanta Golf Club course during the coming winter. This will be a change for the Nassau professional, who has spent several winters on the Pacific Slope. A year ago he went with the band of "pros" that visited Mexico City.

George Low, president of the Eastern Professional Golfers' Association, is anxious for a big attendance at the meeting to be held in this city next Monday. The selection of a course for the 1907 championship tournament will be made.

THE DAILY PRESS.

Plainfield, N. J., November 9, 1906.

MR. ACKERMAN RIGHT.

Senator Ackerman's announcement that he will favor Governor Stokes for United States Senator in place of John F. Dryden clears him of the stigma of being a "machine" Republican. His declaration is an assertion of independence so bold that it will make some of the State's political ringsters gasp for breathe. The idea of the Senator from the foremost Republican fortress in the State proclaiming fearlessly that he will use his voice and vote to help seat the clean and able chief executive of the State in the highest legislative body in the country without waiting to hear from the bosses is something quite unexpected in politics.

The second choice of Mr. Ackerman is also an admirable one; one that will likewise meet with the approval of all decent Republicans in Union county. No finer man could be named for the place, excepting Edward Casper Stokes. It is not unfair to say that Dryden represents wealth while Stokes typifies ability. The one has no more show of being thought of for the office than he would of being considered for a justiceship of the Supreme Court of the United States were it not for his money. The other's money is of no consequence for he is far from being a Croesus. It is his recognized political sagacity, statesmanlike action, lofty character, and seasoned experience that commends him. He is a man who has made an ideal record both in the halls of legislation and in the chief executive's chair.

Stokes is the man who should be chosen. If he declines Griggs should be named. Senator Ackerman so believes, and his opinion truly reflects the best sentiment of Union county.

The Senator from Union is to be congratulated.

PLUMS FOR DEMOCRATS.

In the House, the Democrats will have patronage amounting to $36,000 in a round sum, to dispose of when the Legislature convenes. Of this amount $18,300 of the "pap" is allowed by statute and the remainder by custom. Here are the figures of the "plums" provided by law: Clerk of the House, $1,500; assistant clerk, $1,200; journal clerk, $1,000; assistant journal clerk, $500; supervisor of bills, $1,300; first assistant supervisor, $600; second assistant supervisor, $600; sergeant-at-arms, $700; first assistant, $500; second assistant, $500; bill clerk, $500; first assistant, $500; printed bill committee clerk, $500; four committee clerks, $1,200; twelve doorkeepers, $4,200; ten pages, $2,000; speaker's secretary, $600; speaker's assistant secretary, $400.

NEW JERSEY DEMOCRATIC.

The total vote cast Tuesday places the State again in the Democratic column—for the time being. On the face of it, Jersey is lost to the Republicans by 11,280. So far as pluralities are concerned, the Republicans got 47,370 while their opponents received 28,650. The Republican plurality in the Assembly ticket last year was 57,978, and in 1904 the State went for Roosevelt by 80,000 and for Stokes for Governor by 51,000. The Democrats have not had a majority in the State in any previous year since 1903.

"WOW!"

A change of 306 votes in the entire Fifth district, which includes Union, Morris and Warren counties, would have sent James E. Martine to Washington instead of Charles N. Fowler. The latter's plurality it appears has dwindled down to 610; an insignificant figure when it is recalled that his plurality two years ago was 5,004.

"THINK IT OVER."

What does Hamilton F. Kean mean when he says the Union County Assemblymen should "make up their minds what is for the best interests of Union county."

In the Trenton True American a "prominent" Republican asks "Why not name Briggs now that Dryden is out?" The silly season is still on.

Mr. Fowler says he is much pleased. He has every reason to be.

Somerset Council, No. 104, Jr. O. U. A. M., will meet tonight and receive several applications for membership.

Jerusalem Chapter, No. 24, R. A. M., will go to Brooklyn, tonight, and be entertained by Orient Chapter, of that city, at a banquet.

RALLY AROUND STOKES

to the rule in Union.

Senator Ackerman's secretary, Edgar F. Shepard, handed a note to The Daily Press representative last night. The note was signed by the Senator, himself, and this is what it said:

"Owing to the fact that South Jersey will have more than twice as many Republicans in the next Legislature, on joint ballot, as North Jersey, it seems to me that Governor Stokes would be the logical candidate for the office of United States Senator for the term commencing March 5, 1907.

"I hope that Governor Stokes can see his way clear to become a candidate.

"If the United States Senator is to come from the Northern end of the State, former Attorney General Griggs is my choice.

(Signed) "Ernest R. Ackerman."

When a representative of The Daily Press talked with Mr. Ackerman over the telephone, the Senator from Union would add nothing to his written statement. "Those are my views and that is all I care to say," he remarked. Efforts to get him to make any additions to his signed declaration proved futile.

Assemblyman Tillman was reached at his home in Rahway over the telephone. The Daily Press man read to him Mr. Ackerman's statement, and asked if he would not give his views.

"I have really not given the subject any extended thought," he remarked. "I did not pay much attention to my business for about a week before election, and I am trying t ocatch up. But I know this; that I will abide by the choice of the caucus."

"You will have a vote and voice in the caucus, will you not? Will you not go into the caucus with a choice for the Senatorship?" queried The Daily Press representative.

"Yes, I will," responded Mr. Tillman with a slowness that lent emphasis to the statement. "I will go into the caucus favoring Governor Stokes."

"Have you any second choice?"

"I have no second choice," he responded.

When Assemblyman-elect Moxon was asked over the telephone what position he would take, the Elizabethan, from his home in that city, did his best to invade a direct answer.

"I will tell you that I am brand new at the business. I haven't had time to consider the subject fully and I wouldn't care to commit myself."

He was told that Senator Ackerman had come out for Stokes and was asked by The Daily Press man, whether he had any intention of doing likewise.

"I wouldn't care to say one way or the other," he declared.

"How about Mr. Dryden; I have it from your friends that you rather lean towards him."

"I am under no pledge absolutely whatever. I am free to act as I consider best and am not committed to anyone. I don't know really what I shall do; I have had conversation with no one on the subject—that I assure you."

County Chairman Frank H. Smith was seen at his home here by a Daily Press reporter, who handed him Mr. Ackerman's statement and asked for his views. In his characteristic way, Mr. Smith swung his head from side to side much in the manner Senator Kean is given to and then clasped his teeth. Then he muttered:

"I have nothing to say for publication; I refuse to be quoted." Pressed for some statement, Mr. Smith smiled broadly and remarked that it was "not for a county chairman to announce his preference for any candidate for office, particularly when it comes to such an important one as that of United States Senator."

"That is up to the legislators; better see them," he said as he changed the subject to what a nice evening it was.

An attempt to find United States Senaor Kean proving futile, The Daily Press man finally located his brother, former County Chairman Hamilton F. Kean, who is reputed to be the more astute politician of the two, at his home in Union township.

"This is the Plainfield representative of The Daily Press, Mr. Kean, and I want to get your views on the United States senatorship fight. First I will read you Mr. Ackerman's statement in favor of Stokes and I want to add that while Tillman hasn't pledged himself he says he favors the Governor too." After Mr. Kean had listened to the Union county senator's statement and had pondered a while, he dictated the following comment, over the telephone, for publication:

"The Colby movement insisting that the regular organization represented Mr. Dryden, and the people endorsing the regular organization, it is a question whether they did not authorize their representatives in the Assembly to support Mr. Dryden. The Assemblymen are unpledged in every other way to andybody and it is a question for them to make up their minds what is for the best interests of Union county.

"I would add," continued Mr. Kean, "as far as Mr. Ackerman is concerned he is at liberty to vote as he pleases. He was not a candidate, having been a member of the last Legislature."

A leading Republican in Plainfield who keeps a close watch on the political checker-board in New Jersey had some interesting comments to make on the situation in Union county. When told what Mr. Ackerman and others had said, he remarked to the reporter that their position was the most natural one in the world under present conditions.

"You see," he said, "South Jersey wants one of the senatorships and has been wanting one for some time. North Jersey knows that it is entitled to one and that it will get one sooner or later. If it does not succeed in landing Stokes this time in place of Dryden, you may be sure that when Kean's term expires it will come in again and won't stand for any 'lemon.' John Kean and his friends know that and so do the representatives in Union, who owe much to him. I don't say that the Keans are trying to shove Dryden overboard for that is not the way they do things. In all my experience in politics, I have found that both John and Hamilton are 'on the square.' If they oppose a man they come out and say so without making any bones about it. I know that John Kean will do all in his power to help elect Dryden, but what his friends will do is another thing. If the Keans wanted to do any knifing in politics, they had a good opportunity to do it on Tuesday. Fowler could never have been renominated, in my opinion, had John said the word. But he isn't built that way. He has never antagonized Fowler, no matter what Fowler has done or said about him. You know perfectly well that had Kean told his friends the day before election that he didn' twant Fowler elected, he never would have been. The election returns show that it would have been an easy matter for Kean to bury Fowler; but he never thought of such a thing. On the contrary, I know positively that he took every pain to tell his friends to get out as big a vote as possible for Fowler, and they followed his wishes."

There will be baptism at the First Baptist church Sunday night by the pastor, Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss.

The Missionary Study Classes will meet at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church tonight to continue the study of missions.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL BOYS TO SHINE AS ATHLETES.

New Kind of An Athletic League Is Being Formed by Y. M. C. A.

Something distinctly new in athletics in Plainfield is being shaped up by Physical Director Listman, of the Y. M. C. A. If his plans are carried out, a Sunday-school athletic league will figure, this fall and the coming winter, in the sporting annals of the city.

The plan is to organize a league, for all kinds of track athletics and gymnastics, among the boys of the various Sunday-schools. Such leagues have been organized in other cities with great success, and the prospects for a successful organization in this city are bright.

There will be a meeting of the representatives of different churches at the Y. M. C. A. next Friday night. The plans are now in a tentative state, but the meeting will develope them into definite shape.

ELVINS AGAINST DRYDEN.

Atlantic County Assemblyman Said To Be Hostile to Senator.

It is stated upon good authority that even if Senator Dryden is a candidate for re-election before the next Legislature he will have to reckon at least one South Jersey vote against him, and that is the vote of Thomas C. Elvins, the Assemblyman from Atlantic county, who has been re-elected for a sixth term.

Because of his anti-corporation attitude Mr. Elvins, it is said, failed to win either the Assembly leadership or Speakership last winter. With Elvins, Ackerman and Tillman against him, Mr. Dryden's calculations of having forty-two votes must be reduced by at least three more.

"Home Sweet Home" Doomed.

East Hampton, L. I., Nov. 9.—While the bones of John Howard Payne lie moulding in an obscure grave in far-off Algeria, "Home, Sweet Home," the little thatched cottage which only his early childhood knew, and which in later years, when he was a wanderer on the face of the globe, inspired his immortal ballad, is itself to go the way of all earthly things. The site on which it has stood so many years has been purchased and the homely little structure will be destroyed to make way for a new edifice for St. Luke's church.

Useful Articles for Home Missions.

The committee from the Ladies' Christian Work Society of Trinity Reformed church were engaged yesterday in packing a large box of clothing and household goods for Rev. G. Hoken and family, of Titonka, Iowa, valued at $120. This is one of the finest boxes ever sent out by the society. Two barrels were also packed to be sent to the Schofield Colored School at Aiken, S. C., valued at $10 and one barrel was packed to be sent to McKee, Kentucky, valued at $10.

"Little Gray Lady" Scores Again.

An appreciative audience witnessed James Delcher's production of "The Little Gray Lady," Channing Pollock's delightful play, at the New Plainfield theatre, last night. The play is one of the most wholesome that has ever been in the city and in the title role, Miss Helen Grantly brought out all the charm is possesses. Her supporting company has been carefully selected and gave every satisfaction. The scenic mounting is one of the features of the production.

Scene from "The Clansman," at New Plainfield Theatre Tonight.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

"The Clansman" will be the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre tonight. This play created so much comment during its first visit to this city and did such a remarkable business that naturally everyone realizes now that it is a play which no one can afford to miss. Success in the theatrical world, as elsewhere, is won by merit, and if "The Clansman" were not a great play it surely would not have been the greatest money maker of last season.

Local theatregoers are looking forward with great interest to the coming of "His Honor, the Mayor," at the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow afternoon and night. Not since the days of "Florodora" has a musical production met with such phenomenal success as has "His Honor, the Mayor," which was composed by Julian Edwards and Alfred E. Aarons, two of America's best known musicians. The organization, headed by Mr. Aarons, and consisting of one hundred persons, comes to this city intact after having played continuously in New York for seven months at Wallack's theatre, and where it probably would have remained until next spring were it not compelled to leave on account of previous bookings.

William Collier, the clever comedian, will make his first appearance in the East since his recent Australian tour, during the week beginning November 12th, when the premiere of his new comedy, "Caught in the Rain," will be presented at Atlantic City, at the Savoy theatre. The play was written by Mr. Collier and Mr. Grant Stewart, of his company, during their trip to the Antipodes. It deals with life in and about Denver and gives opportunity for some beautiful stage settings. It is quiet in tone and warrants a laugh every minute, and those who know the work of Mr. Collier will realize how delightfully he should portray the character of a very bashful but exceedingly charming young man. Dick Crawford (Mr. Collier) meets "the girl" during a terrific rain storm in which they are caught on a street corner in Denver. Bashful as he is he has to hold up his end of the conversation and the two young people fall in love with one another, although neither knows the identity of the other. The "girl" in the case is Miss Nanette Comstock. The mistake in identity on both sides results in serious complications that are finally overcome and the story ends prettily and happily. Throughout the three acts there is a running fire of bright lines and "Caught in the Rain" is sure to result in a storm of approval. The enagement for the New Plainfield theatre is on November 16.

In the many cities visited by Adelaide Herrmann, the charming "Queen of Magic," her audiences have comprised the best and highest cultured people of the communities; people who desire entertainment of the highest standard and who patronize nothing else. Her fascinating performances have never received an adverse criticism, on the contrary her scrapbooks contains columns of reviews in many languages, all according her unstinted praise. Among her personal friends are members of the best society in the principal cities of both hemispheres, and her professional appearances is as much a society event as it is the importance of an amusement event of the season. Her programme is always filled with startling surprises which she presents daintly, and at the same time with a degree of sparkling humor. Mme. Herrmann's personality is most attractive and her gowning superb. The artists associated with her are selected with especial care, so that the prestige of "Herrmann the Great" will always be upheld. Mme. Herrmann will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre on November 20, matinee and night.

Drunk at Boarding House.

William Martin and John Conley were arrested Wednesday night for drunkenness at their boarding house by Patrolman Flynn. Judge Runyon released them yesterday morning under suspended sentence.

POINTS FOR THE BUYERS

For legal work of every kind consult F. J. Huff, Esq., of West Front street, and he will promptly attend to it.

James Harper, of 149 Manning avenue, is a practical plumber. Sanitary plumbing, heating, testing and jobbing a specialty.

D. Demolli & Co., West Front street, are caterers. Good caterers. That means something. Try their service and you'll see.

The one candy you can count on for purity and flovor—Belle Mead Sweets. Get them at P. B. Hodge's pharmacy, East Front street.

Putnam & DeDraw, the dry goods merchants, are always willing and ready to serve their patrons with the best in the market. Patronize them.

After you have had dinner at Timbo's restaurant on North avenue, you feel at peace with all the world. Full line of tobaccos and cigars in stock.

Coal facts are interesting at this season of the year. One is that to coal you get of John Johnson, South avenue, is the best to be obtained anywhere.

C. M. Naegle, the West Front street druggist, can always supply your needs in the drug and medicine line and his prescription department is the best.

Carl Silbert's jewelry store on West Front street, is just filled with the best goods in his line and a selection is easy, especially as the prices are so reasonable.

Meat buyers throw—if they are wise—that the place to get good poultry and tender cuts is Fred Endress' shop, West Front street. The service there is as good as the meat.

For the best men's furnishings patronize O. M. Dunham, of Park avenue. You will nd them satisfactory in every way and the prices are reasonable. Good place to buy your winter hat.

There should be a hot water bag in every home, especially when you can get a guaranteed one for such a reasonable price at L. W. Randolph's drug store. They always come in handy. Randolph's famous hatwater soda is now being served .

There is nothing, particularly in winter, so important in your consideration of dress as shoes. A good substantial shoe means much from the pocketbook, the apeparance and the health standpoint. Get your shoes at M. C. VanArsdale's shop, and be certain they will satisfy you in every way.

Drunks Freed.

Robert Hart, arrested by Patrolman McDonald, and Charles Leonard, arrested by Patrolman Flynn, for drunkenness, Wednesday, were released under suspended sentence yesterday morning by Judge Runyon.

GERMS CAUSE DYSPEPSIA

IF YOU DON'T KILL THE DISEASE GERMS THEY WILL KILL YOU. PEPSOIDS DRIVE THE GERMS OUT OF THE STOMACH AND REBUILDS IT. WRITE FOR A FULL SIZED BOTTLE—FREE.

A noted physician of Pittsburg, Pa., in a recent letter to Dr. Oidman says:

"In your prescription known as 'Pepsoids' you have given the medical world the greatest and most valued discovery in medicine of the present century. You have at last solved the problem that has baffled the skill of the best physicians of recent times, how to cure permanently all Acute or Chronic Stomach Diseases known as Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Catarrh of the Stomach and Digestive Weakness. I have used your prescription, 'Pepsoids,' in hundreds of cases without a single failure. I attribute the success of your treatment mainly to the fact that the disease germs of the stomach cannot resist Pepsoids. Your theory that most Stomach Diseases are brought about by multitudes of nefarious disease-breeding germs must be correct, judging from the remarkable results attained from the use of your 'Pepsoids.' I consider 'Pepsoids' the best and most valuable remedy yet discovered, for the treatment of stubborn stomach ailments."

Pepsoids cure Dyspepsia and all Stomach Diseases, in a new way, by repairing the wornout lining of the Stomach and at the same time, destroy all disease-breeding germs. Dyspepsia and the worst forms of Stomach Disorders once cured in this way never returns.

Pepsoids are sold at drug stores at 50c. a bottle on an absolute guarantee or money refunded.

If you have not used Pepsoids before, we will send you a 50-cent bottle FREE. Send us your name and address and you will receive promptly, a full sized bottle.

You do not obligate yourself to pay a cent. All we ask, after Pepsoids have cured or greatly benefitted you is, that you recommend Pepsoids to your friends. Try Pepsoids to-day—they will cure you. The Vio Chemical Co., Chicago, Ill. 9

Now that Winter's Near

When one is, of necessity, indoors so much more than during the days when we seek the cool shadows of the lawn, one's house should be so attractively decorated that even the "man of the house" is tempted to spend an evening home. That's difficult! Curtains, upholstery, portieres, draperies—these are the things which go so far in making up that difficulty. In short, don't let "him" go to the Club to get the luxurious surroundings he so much enjoys. 'Tis not necessarily expensive to thus make your "residence" your "home," as the following prices bear testimony. The fact that the prices are low enough to sell all of the following items quickly by personal purchases precludes us from extending the usual C. O. D., Telephone, or Mail Order courtesies on any of the articles in our

Sale of Fine Curtains and Upholstery.

Mercerized Tapestry Portieres—all new goods, in all the new and best colors. Your choice in either the fringed or corded styles, worth $8.00 per pair, special each curtain at $1.69

Pennsy Raises Wages.

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 9.—At a special meeting of the Board of Directors of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company held Wednesday an increase of ten per cent. in the wages of all permanent employees of the company now receiving less than $200 a month was ordered. The increase takes effect December 1, 1906, and applies to all lines of the Pennsylvania, both east and west of Pittsburg. The official announcement of the increase says: "The Board takes this action by reason of the increased cost of living and the present great prosperity of the country in which the Pennsylvania Railroad shares, and which has made it possible for the company to make an increased distribution to its shareholders.

Raise on Reading Lines.

New York, Nov. 9.—It was announced by the Reading Railroad Company on October 17 that the wages of all engine drivers, firemen, conductors, brakemen and all others of that class on all divisions, would be raised from five to ten per cent. to take effect from October 1.

Alvord Cook, of Rahway, was in town yesterday calling on friends. He was chosen one of the water commissioners of his town at the election on Tuesday.

FOOLISH OLD CUSTOMS.

Antiquated and Silly Ideas That Still Prevail in European and Asiatic Courts.

Time has not brought about a readjustment of many of the antiquated customs that surround royalty. When the king of Spain was 12 years of age he one day had the misfortune to slip and fall down a flight of the palace steps. The fall would very probably have been attended with fatal results had it not been for a servant who extended a kindly hand and saved his young master by breaking the fall.

But, by a stringent rule of Spanish etiquette, no servant may dare touch the sacred person of the king, and for this "grave" offense the servant was at once dismissed from his position.

By a remarkable law of royal etiquette, which has existed for a number of years past at the court of Siam, no person is permitted to sleep in an apartment situated above that occupied by the king. A deliberate breach of this rule has on more than one occasion been punished by death.

Recently, when the king of Siam paid a visit to Paris, a number of bedrooms were reserved directly above that in which the king was to have slept, for the dusky followers of the royal visitor. The blunder caused great consternation among the fearful courtiers, until the matter was explained to the management and duly rectified. All the courtiers and servants were placed in bedrooms on floors below that occupied by the sovereign.

When the emperor or empress of China appears in public, no other person is allowed to occupy a higher place. Therefore, on such occasions the shutters of all buildings are drawn, and the upper parts of the houses past which the royal procession is expected to move are deserted, the inhabitants swarming to the ground floors in order to show due reverence to their rulers.

LIFE OF ADVENTURE.

President Diaz of Mexico Has Had Many Narrow Escapes from Death —Hid in Sofa Seat.

Porfirio Diaz, seven times president of Mexico, has had some wonderful adventures. Most amazing of all was his escape from his opponents' clutches on the steamship City of Havana. A splash of a man overboard was heard by the ship's watch at night, and Diaz was at once sought for and missed, while a ship's buoy was missing also. As it was found a little later thrown up on shore there was little doubt that Diaz had made good his escape. Nevertheless, the steamer, on its arrival at Vera Cruz, was rigorously and minutely searched—in vain. Still, the commandant of the port surrounded the vessel while in harbor with boats manned by soldiers to preclude all possibility of his escape. But he escaped, nevertheless. After having been for seven days and nights sewn up, half-suffocated, in a soft seat in the purser's cabin, where he had again and again been sat upon by the officers who were searching for him, he contrived, in the disguise of a sailor, to pass undetected through the cordon of blockading boats.

Cold Friday.

There seems to be an agreement that the "Cold Friday" was January 19, 1810. The day before had been very warm, with southerly wind, the thermometer in some places going as high as 60 degrees. Toward sunset there was an appearance of a coming storm, like a heavy thunder shower. It burst upon the western part of Massachusetts about sunset, or a little later, in a snow squall, from the northwest, of terrific violence, with the power and fury of a tornado. Desolation marked its course. The cold increased with great rapidity. At midnight the thermometer was at zero and the next morning at 29 degrees below, and in some places lower. Friday was insufferably cold. The wind was strong and the thermometer did not rise to zero over much of New England and in New York and in Canada it was still lower. The storm passed over a large part of the country, and everywhere with a great degree of cold.

Ever Triumphant Faith.

A good old English mother had two sons on the sea, captains of vessels. She used to pray mornings, noon and night, for their safety. But there came a time when one son was leaving England for Gibraltar and the other was leaving Gibraltar for England. Now, if the dear old lady prayed that the wind would blow with the son leaving home, it would be a contrary wind to the son coming home. The perplexed woman was at a standstill before the throne of grace; but at last it occurred to her that instead of praying for fair wind she had better pray for a side wind, and the side wind was favorable to both captains.

This illustrates how faith comes to our relief.—Rev. Dr. Madison C. Peters.

Why?

At the Hampton (Va.) Indian school, a teacher, in endeavoring to overthrow the Indian belief that the earth is flat, stands still, and that the sun passes over and under it every 24 hours, said, in conclusion:

"So you see that it is the earth that goes around, while the sun stands still."

A tall boy asked:

"Then what for you tell us one story about man in the Bible—I forget his name—strong warrior—fight all day, but get dark so can't fight, and he say: 'Sun, stand still!' What for he say that if sun all time stand still?"

Football and General Sports

FOOTBALL.

The Holy Cross church football eleven will play a return game with the Ashtons, of East Orange, at the latter place, tomorrow. In the first game the teams scored 6 to 6, and the local boys hope to win tomorrow. In the evening the Boys' Club of Holy Cross church will give a reception at the parish house to new members. There will be an entertainment and refreshments.

The Plainfield Athletic Association will meet the Clark Athletic F. C., of Newark, on the Plainfield ground, Clinton avenue and South Second street, tomorrow afternoon in a game of association football. The Newark team will be strongly represented and an interesting game is expected. The contest will begin at 3 o'clock. The Plainfield team is improving fast and will have out its regular team, the lineup being as follows: Goal, McNease; fullbacks, Craig and Scott; halfbacks, Farrow, Turner and McCoombes; forwards, McGregan, Boyd, Jameson, Sutton and Buckland.

ROD AND GUN.

P. A. McVoy and George Scribner left for Hunterdon county this morning, to be on hand in the rich rabbit country when the law frees the triggers tomorrow. They are both crack shots.

Money Scattered for Mile.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 9.—Crowds of men and boys are picking up five, ten, fifty and hundred dollar notes and gold coins scattered for a mile along the Northern Central Railway in Baltimore county, where Calvin S. Harlan was killed by a train yesterday. Mr. Harlan was an eccentric, middle aged Quaker, who would not trust his money to banks and carried it in his pockets. When the train hit him it picked up his body and carried it a mile.

Give Britons Holiday.

Colon, Panama, Nov. 9.—In response to a petition John F. Stevens, chief engineer of the Panama Canal, readily granted a holiday today to British canal and railroad employes throughout the zone to celebrate the birthday of King Edward. A great majority of the inhabitants of Colon are British subjects, and today promises to be a red letter day in the history of the town.

THE MODERN NAZARETH.

Boyhood Home of Jesus Is Now an Up-to-Date and Cosmopolitan City.

Nazareth, where Jesus spent his boyhood, calls to mind a picture of a hazy, half-mythical village of the far east. The Palestine of to-day is a network of railroads and telegraph wires. Modern hotels with elevators and bell boys now occupy sacred places of history.

Cafes stand where once the hosts of Israel fought, contending with chariots and horsemen. The awkward camelback is transplanted by the compartment car. One would look in vain for the hospitable villager standing at the door of his humble flat-roofed home. Tall, slanting-roofed buildings predominate, with fresh red tiles imported from France.

In a prominent place on the brow of a hill stands the English orphanage, which provides for the education of the orphans of Palestine. English and Arabic are taught here, as well as housekeeping and needlework.

A telegraph station, with an Armenian operator in citizen's dress, keeps Nazareth in touch with the world. Here, when occasion demands, messages can click their way across to America.

TAKING NO CHANCES.

Man Sought Safety from Lightning by Assuming Position a la Alligator.

The police at No. 4 station are anxiously trying to solve this query: "Why does lightning never strike an alligator?"

During the storm the other afternoon Patrick Lacey, the colored policeman attached to the station, and who is at present engaged in janitor work, was cleaning the walls, when the lightning struck the gong of the patrol wagon. That was enough for Lacey, who did not stand upon the ceremony of his going, but went.

The attaches of the station searched for him for about two hours, apprehensive that the lightning had got him, but ultimately Inspector R. S. Gray found him lying flat on his stomach on a pile of sawdust in the cellar. On being asked what he was doing there, Lacey put this query to the inspector:

"Did you ever hear of an alligator being struck by lightning?"

"No; why?"

"It is for that reason I am on my stomach."—Pittsburg Press.

HIS POWERFUL PLEA.

How Kentucky Colonel Prayed for Divine Aid in the Hour of Extreme Peril.

Colonel Throckmorton, a distinguished Kentuckian, was once a passenger on a wooden sailing vessel on the high seas, when a frightful storm burst and the vessel became waterlogged. The passengers were crying and appealing to heaven for aid. Colonel Throckmorton edged over to the side of the captain and said: "Tell me, is there really any danger?" "You see what the rest of the passengers are doing," replied the captain; "they are making their peace with God. If you ever do any praying, colonel, you might do so with perfect propriety at this juncture. The vessel can't live five minutes." The colonel straightened himself, lifted his hat, looked up to the scowling sky with a reverent mien, and exclaimed: "Almighty God, if you ever intend to do Colonel Throckmorton, of Kentucky, a favor, now is your time to do it!"

The Southern California Liar.

When one wants to express an opinion as to an untruth, he will often say the party spoken of is a prevaricator, then again he might say "stretching the truth," but in the instance of the Los Angeles production and circulated at the Vegas is an unadulterated, pusillanimous liar. It is a liar doubly distilled, the essence being of such proof and superiority along that line that the per cent is undistinguishable. A polished liar sometimes gains the confidence of its readers, but one so brazenly untruthful as is the dodger spoken of it not only brings down on it the ridicule but the contempt as well of every fair-minded person in the country.—Caliente (Nev.) Express.

Easy for Fishermen.

"Staff officers at Delagoa bay," says a South African newspaper, "had one of the most remarkable fishing catches on record in the Umbeluzi. They went up in a launch and were lying at anchor in the dark one evening, with a lantern burning. Attracted by the light a number of fish leaped into the boat, and these were followed in quick succession by others. Some of the party had their hats knocked off, and were naturally alarmed. The fish, members of a large shoal, continued leaping into the boat thick and fast, and when a count was possible it was found that nearly 400 of them were in the boat. They ran to about a foot in length, and made good eating."

Changed Conditions.

"From Philadelphia, are you?" said the traveling acquaintance. "I know a man in your town named Biggs; he's an officeholder."

"Oh! yes, Bill Biggs!" replied the Philadelphian; "he's given up the office he held."

"You don't say? Why, he told me his job was a little sinecure."

"Yes, but after the recent election it became a little insecure."

Diamond Thieves Foiled.

New York, Nov. 9.—Four men entered the apartment of Mrs. Rose Mogurowsky, wife of a diamond merchant, on the second floor of No. 140 Henry street, yesterday morning and tried to batter their way into a room in which he had $30,000 in diamonds in a safe. Blocked by her and fearing capture, they ran to Rutgers street, one of theh, Harry Arenberg, of Mills Hotel No. 2 stopping now and then and firing a revolver over the heads of some two thousand persons who were chasing them. Three of the men got away, but Arenberg was caught outside District Attorney Jerome's house, No. 5 Rutgers street, and disarmed by three men in a fight in which all four rolled into Mr. Jerome's basement.

Mono Rail Route to Coney.

New York, Nov. 9.—J. S. Bache & Co., of No. 42 Broadway, announce yesterday that they were prepared to furnish a large part of the money required to build a mono-rail elevated railroad system from the Brooklyn bridge to Coney Island, provided the city grants a franchise on favorable terms. This announcenouncement was made in a letter presented to the Rapid Transit Commission at a hearting of the Committee on Plans and Contracts. A speed of sixty-five miles an hour is promised.

Mother and Babes Burn.

New York, Nov. 9.—In the narrow hallway of a tenement house in No. 366 Madison street last night a mother and her four small children were burned to death and forty women and children were rescued from the blazing rooms or taken from the fire escapes, where many of them were so seriously burned that they may die.

REMEMBER OUR "MILL END" OF LAST YEAR? Of course you do; it made such a lasting impression on the public that they are still talking about it. Nothing Plainfield, or we might say the whole of New Jersey, ever saw or heard of could anyway near approach it in volume and values.

The immense throngs of people surging through the store eagerly partaking of the harvest of good things offered them, and not satisfied with the first visit, would come again and again, for the irresistible bargains—they must have more.

But we intend this "Mill End" Sale to as far eclipse the last as that did all other sales. Each department will have more than three times the amount of good things, and such good things as they are—wait till you see them.

A Mill End Sale of Handkerchiefs.

THE WEAK STRAND.

No sane creature, not even a sane bulldog, will fight simply from love of fighting. When a man is attacked, he may be sure he has excited either fear or cupidity, or both. As far as I could see, it was absurd that cupidity was inciting Langdon and Roebuck against me. I hadn't enough to tempt them. Thus, I was forced to conclude that I must possess a strength of which I was unaware, and which stirred even Roebuck's fears But what could it be?

Besides Langdon and Roebuck and me there were six principals in the proposed Coal combine, three of them richer and more influential in finance than even Langdon: all of them except possibly Dykeman, the lawyer, or navigating officer of the combine, more formidable figures than I. Yet none of these men was being assailed. "Why am I singled out?" I asked myself, and I felt that if I could answer, I should find I had the means wholly or partly to defeat them. But I could not explain to my satisfaction even Langdon's activities against me. I felt that Anita was somehow, in part at least, the cause; but, even so, how had he succeeded in convincing Roebuck that I must be clipped and plucked into a groundling?

"It must have something to do with the Manasquale mines," I decided. "I thought I had given over my control of them, but somehow I must still have a control that makes me too powerful for Roebuck to be at ease so long as I am alive and armed." And I resolved to take my lawyers and search the whole Manasquale transaction—to explore it from attic to underneath the cellar flooring. "We'll go through it," said I, "like ferrets through a ship's hold." As I was finishing breakfast, Anita came in. She had evidently slept well, and I regarded that as ominous. At her age, a crisis means little sleep until a decision has been reached. I rose, but her manner warned me not to advance and try to shake hands with her.

"I have asked Alva to stop with me here for a few days," she said formally.

"Alva!" said I, much surprised. She had not asked one of her own friends; she had asked a girl she had met less than two days before, and that girl my partner's daughter.

"She was here yesterday morning," Anita explained. And I now wondered how much Alva there was in Anita's firm stand against her parents.

"Why don't you take her down to our place on Long Island?" said I, most carefully concealing my delight—for Alva near her meant a friend of mine and an advocate and example of real womanhood near her. "Everything's ready for you there and I'm going to be busy the next few days—busy day and night."

She reflected. "Very well," she assented presently. And she gave me a puzzled glance she thought I did not see—as if she were wondering whether th enemy was not hiding new and deeper guile under an apparently harmless suggestion.

"Then I'll not see you again for several days," said I, most businesslike. "If you want anything, there will be Monson out at the stables where he can't annoy you. Or you can get me on the 'long distance. Good-by. Good luck."

And I nodded carelessly and friendlily to her, and went away, enjoying the pleasure of having startled her into visible astonishment. "There's a better game than icy hostility, you very young, young lady," said I to myself, "and that game is friendly indifference."

Alva would be with her. So she was secure for the present and my mind was free for "finance."

At that time the two most powerful men in finance were Galloway and Roebuck. In Spain I once saw a fight between a bull and a tiger—or, rather the beginning of a fight. They were released into a huge iron cage. After circling it several times in the same direction, searching for a way out, they came face to face. The bull tossed the tiger; the tiger clawed the bull. The bull roared; the tiger screamed. Each retreated to his own side of the cage. The bull pawed and snorted as if he could hardly wait to get at the tiger; the tiger crouched and quivered and glared murderously, as if he were going instantly to spring upon the bull. But the bull did not rush, neither did the tiger spring. That was the Roebuck-Galloway situation.

How to bait Tiger Galloway to attack Bull Roebuck—that was the problem I must solve, and solve straightway. If I could bring about war between the giants, spreading confusion over the whole field of finance and filling all men with dread and fear, there was a chance, that in the confusion I might bear off part of my fortune. Certainly, conditions would result in which I could more easily get myself intrenched again; then, too, there would be a by no means small satisfaction in seeing Roebuck clawed and bitten in punishment for having plotted against me.

Mutual fear had kept these two at peace for five years, and most considerate and polite about each other's "rights." But while our country's industrial territory is vast, the interests of the few great controllers who determine wages and prices for all are equally vast, and each plutocrat is tormented incessantly by jealousy and suspicion; not a day passes without conflicts of interest that adroit diplomacy couud turn into ferocious warfare. And in this matter of monopolizing the coal, despite Roebuck's earnest assurances to Galloway that the combine was purely defensive, and was really concerned only with the labor question, Galloway, a great manufacturer, or, rather, a huge levier of the taxes of dividends and interest upon manufacturing enterprises, could not but be uneasy.

Before I rose that morning I had a tentative plan for stirring him to action. I was elaborating it on the way down town in my electric. It shows how badly Anita was crippling my brain, that not until I was almost at my office did it occur to me: "That was a tremendous luxury Roebuck indulged his conscience in last night. It isn't like him to forewarn a man, even when he's sure he can't escape. Though his prayers were hot in his mouth, still, it's strange he didn't try to fool me. In fact, it's suspicious. In fact—"

Suspicious? The instant the idea was fairly before my mind, I knew I had let his canting fool me once more. I entered my offices, feeling that the blow had already fallen; and I was surprised, but not relieved, when I found everything calm. "But fall it will within an hour or so—before I can move to avert it," said I to myself.

And fall it did. At eleven o'clock, just as I was setting out to make my first move toward heating old Galloway's heels for the war-path, Joe came in with the news: "A general lockout's declared in the coal regions. The operators have stolen a march on the men who, so they allege, were secretly getting ready to strike. By night every coal road will be tied up and every mine shut down."

Joe knew our coal interests were heavy, but he did not dream his news meant that before the day was over we would be bankrupt and not able to pay fifteen cents on the dollar. However, he knew enough to throw him into a fever of fright. He watched my calmness with terror. "Coal stocks are dropping like a thermometer in a cold wave," he said, like a fireman at a sleeper in a burning house.

"Naturally," said I, unruffled, apparently. "What can we do about it?"

"We must do something!" he exclaimed.

"Yes, we must," I admitted. "For instance, we must keep cool, especially when two or three dozen people are watching us. Also, you must attend to your usual routine."

"What are you going to do?" he cried. "For God's sake, Matt, don't keep me in suspense!"

"Go to your desk," I commanded. And he quieted down and went. I hadn't been schooling him in the fire-drill for fifteen years in vain.

I went up the street and into the great banking and brokerage house of Galloway and Company. I made my way through the small army of guards, behind which the old beast of prey was intrenched, and into his private den. There he sat, at a small, plain table, in the middle of the room without any article of furniture in it but his table and his chair. On the table was a small inkstand, perfectly clean, a steel pen equally clean, on the rest attached to it. And that was all—not a letter, not a scrap of paper, not a sign of work or of intention to work. It might have been the desk of a man who did nothing; in fact, it was the desk of a man who had so much to do that his only hope of escape from being overwhelmed was to despatch and clear away each matter the instant it was presented to him. Many things could be read from the powerful form, bolt upright in the stiff chair, and from the cynical, masterful old face. But to me the chief quality there revealed was that quality of qualities, decision—the greatest power a man can have, except daily courage. And old James Galloway had both.

He pierced me with his blue eyes, keen as a youth's, though his face was seamed with scars of seventy tumultuous years. He extended toward me over the table his broad, stubby white hand—the hand of a builder, of a constructive genius. "How are you, Blacklock?" said he. "What can I do for you?" He just touched my hand before dropping it, and resumed that idol-like pose. But although there was only repose and deliberation in his manner, and not a suggestion of haste, I, like every one who came into that room and that presence, had a sense of an interminable procession behind me, a procession of men who must be seen by this master-mover that they might submit important and pressing affairs to him for decision. It was unnecessary for him to tell any one to be brief and pointed.

"I shall have to go to the wall today," said I, taking a paper from my pocket, "unless you save me. Here is a statement of my assets and liabilities. I call to your attention my Coal holdings. I was one of the eight men whom Roebuck got round him for the new combine—it is a secret, but I assume you know all about it."

He laid the paper before him, put on his nose-glasses and looked at it.

"If you will save me," I continued, "I will transfer to you, in a block, all my Coal holdings. They will be worth double my total liabilities within three months—as soon as the reorganization is announced. I leave it entirely to your sense of justice whether I shall have my part of them back when this storm blows over."

"Why didn't you go to Roebuck?" he asked without looking up.

"Because it is he that stuck the knife into me."

"Why?"

"I don't know. I suspect the Manasquale properties, which I brought into the combine, have some value, which no one but Roebuck, and perhaps Langdon, knows about—and that I in some way was dangerous to them through that fact. They haven't given me time to look into it."

A grim smile flitted over the face. "You've been too busy getting married, eh?"

"Exactly," said I. "It's another case of unbuckling for the wedding-feast and getting assassinated as a penalty. Do you wish me to explain anything on that list—do you want any details of the combine—of the Coal stocks there?"

"Not necessary," he replied. As I had thought, with that enormous machine of his for drawing in information, and with that enormous memory of his for details, he probably knew more about the combine and its properties than I did.

"You have heard of the lockout?" I inquired—for I wished him to know I had no intention of deceiving him as to the present market value of those stocks.

"Roebuck has been commanded by his God," he said, "to eject the free American labor from the coal regions and to substitute importations of coolie Huns and Bohemians. Thus, the wicked American laborers will be chastened for trying to get higher wages and cut down a pious man's dividends; and the downtrodden coolies will be brought where they can enjoy the blessings of liberty and of the preaching of Roebuck's missionaries."

I laughed, though he had not smiled, but had spoken as if stating colorless facts. "And righteousness and Roebuck will prevail," said I.

He frowned slightly, a sardonic grin breaking the straight, thin, cruel line of his lips. He opened his table's one shallow drawer, and took out a pad and a pencil. He wrote a few words on the lowest part of the top sheet, folded it, tore off the part he had scribbled on, returned the pad and pencil to the drawer, handed the scrap of paper to me. "I will do it," he said. "Give this to Mr. Farquhar, second door to the left. Good morning." And in that atmosphere of vast affairs speedily dispatched his consent without argument seemed, and was, the matter-of-course.

I bowed. Though he had not saved me as a favor to me, but because it fitted in with his plans, whatever they were, my eyes dimmed. "I shan't forget this," said I, my voice not quite steady.

"I know it," said he curtly. "I know you."

I saw that his mind had already turned me out. I said no more, and withdrew. When I left the room it was precisely as it had been when I entered it—except the bit of paper torn from the pad. But what a difference to me, to the thousands, the hundreds of thousands directly and indirectly interested in the Coal combine and its strike and its products, was represented by those few, almost illegible scrawlings on that scrap of paper.

TO KILL THE DANDRUFF GERM.

Is the Only Possible Way of Having An Effective Cure.

If you see a woman or a man with luxuriant glossy hair, you may be sure neither has dandruff to amount to anything. In nearly every case where women and men have thin brittle hair, they owe it to dandruff. There are hundreds of preparations that "claim" to cure dandruff, but not one but Newbro's Herpicide tells you that dandruff is the result of a germ burrowing into the scalp, and that permanent cure of dandruff and its consequent falling and baldness, can only be had by killing the germ; and there is no other preparation that will destroy that germ but Newbro's Herpicide. "Destroy the cause, and you remove the effect." Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE BOARD OF CHOSEN FREEHOLDERS OF THE COUNTY OF UNION.

[OFFICIAL.]

Regular meeting of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the county of Union, N. J., held on Thursday, October 4, 1906, at 2:30 p. m.

Roll call showed all members present—20.

The minutes of the previous regular meeting (reading of bills being omitted) and of special meeting of September 18, 1906, were, on motion, approved as read.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From the County Road Inspector, his annual report for repairs to county roads, year 1906, as follows:

Westfield, N. J., September 19, 1906.

To the Honorable the Board of Chosen Freeholders of Union county, N. J.:

Gentlemen—the undersigned would respectfully submit to your honorable body the following report of repairs to county roads for the year 1906:

On the State aid road at Berkeley Heights there was 9,112 lineal feet of road repaired with 2 inches of stone; 900 feet of road top-dressed with fine stone; 576 feet of drain pipe laid; 23,269 feet of gutters cleaned.

On the County road, New Providence, 888 feet of road repaired with 1½-inch stone; 2,076 feet of gutters cleaned.

On the Chatham road, 5,548 lineal feet of road repaired with 1½-inch stone; 822 feet top-dressed with fine stone; 12,740 feet of gutters cleaned.

On North avenue, in Cranford, 5,538 feet of road repaired with 1½-inch stone; 14,253 feet of gutters cleaned.

On St. George avenue, 8,831 feet of road repaired with 1½-inch stone; 500 feet top-dressed with fine stone; 21,962 feet of gutters cleaned.

On the Seven Bridges road, 4,391 feet of road repaired with 1½-inch stone; 8,782 feet of gutters cleaned.

On Morris avenue, 9,373 feet of road repaired with 1½-inch stone; 18,746 feet of gutters cleaned.

On Mountain avenue, 5,646 feet of road repaired with 1½-inch stone; 13,289 feet top-dressed with fine stone; 12,792 feet of gutters cleaned.

On Westfield avenue, in Westfield, 550 feet repaired with 1½-inch stone; 2,300 feet of gutters cleaned on South avenue.

Making a total of 1¾ miles of 2-inch work on State aid roads; 7¾ miles of 1½-inch work on county roads; 3 miles of top dressing; 22 miles of gutters cleaned.

Total cost of repairs on State aid road, $3,483.88.

Total cost of repairs on county roads, $15,752.41.

In addition to this there was 3,117 feet of road on North avenue, in Lorraine, top-dressed with tarvia and screenings.

Also on St. George avenue, 3,162 feet top-dressed with tarvia and screenings.

Making a total of a little less than 1¼ miles.

Cost of labor, screenings and tarvia, $919.56.

Also oil was applied, as follows: On North avenue, 9,043 feet of road, and 11,080 feet on St. George avenue.

The cost of oil and application of the same on 3¾ miles was $516.15.

Very respectfully submitted,
JAMES W. FINK,
County Road Inspector.

On motion of Freeholder Cady, received and placed on file.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

Freeholder Wilbur reported verbally as chairman of committee on repairs, reconstruction, etc., of bridges on Leland and Scott, avenues, in the city of Plainfield, that the work on said bridges was finished, and that the said bridges had been accepted by the committee, which report was received.

By committee on resolutions on the death of the late County Collector Edward M. Wood:

Whereas, It has pleased Almighty God, in his divine wisdom, to remove from this world the soul of our late County Collector, Edward M. Wood; and

Whereas, In his death the county of Union has lost a most capable, upright and honorable official; therefore be it

Resolved, That we herein express our highest appreciation of the eminent and valuable services rendered by the late collector to the county of Union. During his long term of office the financial affairs of the county were conducted with the strictest integrity and the greatest fidelity to the interests of all the people. In his personal relations he was always most kind and courteous; he was generous, ever willing to extend a helping hand, and all were fortunate who knew him as a friend. In his death we feel the loss of a wise counsellor, a man of excellent judgment, uprightness of character, and a sincere friend; and be it further

Resolved, That we tender to the family of the deceased in this, the time of their great affliction and sorrow, our most sincere sympathy; and be it further

Resolved, That these resolutions be spread in full on the minutes of this board, and a copy, suitably engrossed, presented to the family of the deceased.

GEORGE H. KLINE,
JOHN N. CADY,
NOAH WOODRUFF,
JOHN ROBISON,
W. H. SWAIN,
Committee.

On motion of Freeholder Gruener, the foregoing preamble and resolutions were unanimously adopted.

By the committee to settle with the County Collector:

October 2, 1906.

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union:

Gentlemen—Your committee to settle with the County Collector respectfully reports that it has examined his books, showing his receipts and disbursements, together with his vouchers, bonds and coupons paid, and bank books, and it finds the same agree and are correct in every particular.

His total receipts fro mthe beginning of the fiscal year to October 2, 1906, are $128,375.33
Total disbursements 119,489.50

Leaving a balance in banks of..$ 8,886.33

HENRY KROUSE,
JOHN N. CADY,
CHARLES A. SMITH,
Committee.

On motion of Freeholder Chandler, received and placed on file.

By the committee on bridge over Morse' Creek, Linden township, N. J.:

Gentlemen—Your committee would respectfully report that the work of repairing the piers is now wel under way. During the progress of the work, however, the steel floor beams of the bridge were completely uncovered, and it was found that they were in a very poor condition, being for the most part badly rusted. It is the opinion of your committee that these beams are in such bad shape as to require replacing. While the bridge is out of commission by reason of the work already under way, your committee would respectfully recommend that these floor beams be replaced with new steel beams at a cost not to exceed $400.

HENRY KROUSE,
GEORGE H. KLINE,
JOHN ROBISON,
Committee.

Freeholder Adams moved that the report be received and the recommendation adopted, which was so ordered on the roll call by an unanimous vote.

By the committee on culvert in Mountainside borough:

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union:

Gentlemen—Your committee on culvert on county road in Mountainside borough would respectfully report that it found said culvert in bad condition, and recommends that the said culvert be rebuilt at a cost not to exceed $150.

ELSTON DARBY,
JOHN N. CADY,
DENNIS S. MURPHY,
Committee.

Freeholder Gruener moved that the recall by an unanimous vote.

By the committee on public grounds and buildings:

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union, N. J.:

Gentlemen—Your committee on placing an electric lighting plant in the Courthouse respectfully reports that it has carefully considered the advisability of installing an electric plant in this building, and finds it inadvisable to do so at the present time. It therefore asks that this committee be discharged in the matter.

HENRY KROUSE,
JOHN N. CADY,
NOAH WOODRUFF,
Committee.

Freeholder Cady briefly explained that the committee had gone very thoroughly into the question, and after careful investigation had decided to recommend as above.

On motion of Freeholder Chandler, the report was received and committee discharged, as requested.

By the commissioners on the new court house:

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union:

Gentlemen—On the twenty-first day of Marsh, 1901, the undersigned, together with J. Frank Hubbard, the then Director of this board, were constituted "The County Building Committee." Shortly after said appointment this rommittee entered upon the discharge of its duties, and the court house and other buildings now being completed, furnished and occupied, we beg herewith to submit our report. All bills in connection with said building and equipment, to the best of our knowledge, have been paid and satisfied. The money with which the same were paid was raised by an issue of bonds authorized b ythis board, and the following statement will show the amount of moneys raised and how expended:

Bonds authorized		$585,000.00
Bonds issued	$569,000.00
Bonds not sold	16,000.00	$585,000 00

RECEIPTS.

Bonds sold at premium	$545,000.00
Premium received on same	36,256.00
Bonds sold to sinking fund	24,000.00
Cash received from sale of old building	701.50
Total	$605,957.50

DISBURSEMENTS.

New jail	$ 35,367.20
Miscellaneous, printing and incidentals	1,939.79
Ventilating and heating	1,600.00
Fixtures	6,580.00
Prize money for plans	1,000.00
Construction of Courthouse building	497,248.38
Furniture	14,724.68
Architect's fees	27,730.68
Consulting architects and electrical engineers	885.00
Metal furniture	5,467.54
Building Commissioners' fees	9,113.85
Unexpended balance	4,272.88
Total	$605,957.50

Your committee begs leave further to state that in the discharge of its duties it has been greatly assisted in its work by the late County Collector, Mr. E. M. Wood; by Mr. W. S. Ackerman, the architect; and by Mr. W. R. Codington, the County Attorney, each of whom performed his respective duties with ability and integrity.

Owing to the magnitude of the contract and the various contractors, it required constant vigilance on the part of your committee to secure the full and complete fulfilment of the various contracts; and considerable delay was occasioned by strikes and other unavoidable causes, and the necessity of requiring the contractors to do over certain portions of their said work in order that the same might fully complpy with the requirements; all of which, however, was done by said contractors and without additional expense to the county.

Dated October 4, 1906.

Very respectfully submitted,
JOHN FARRELL,
JACOB BRUCKLACHER.

On motion of Freeholder Robison, received and placed on file.

NEW BUSINESS.

By Freeholder Jensen:

Elizabeth, October 2, 1906.

To the Board of Freeholders:

Gentlemen—Upon investigation I learn that the duties of the bridgetender of the South Front street bridge, Mr. John Van Pelt, are extremely laborious, and as he is at time required to be almost constantly at the bridge, night and day, his present salary of $400 per year is in my opinion inadequate for the services performed, and I offer a resolution to the effect that John W. Van Pelt's salary be increased to five hundred dollars per year.

Freeholder Chandler moved the adoption of the resolution, and on roll call it was unanimously adopted.

By Freeholder Jensen:

Resolved, That Henry C. Busch be and is hereby appointed bridgetender for the South street bridge, Elizabeth, N. J., at a salary of $250 per year, to begin on the seventeenth day of October, 1906; and be it further

Resolved, That the appointment heretofore made of Fred Kolder be and is hereby revoked.

Freeholder Krouse moved the adoption of the foregoing resolution, and on roll call it was unanimously adopted.

By Freeholder Smith:

Whereas, The bridge contracted to be built on Elm street, in the Town of Westfield, by J. M. Ledley, is now completed and ready for acceptance;

Resolved, That the County Collector is hereby authorized to pay for the same when the work has been approved by the engineer and the bill audited by the committee, in amount of $284.

Freeholder Robison moved the adoption of the resolution, and on roll call it was unanimously adopted.

By Freeholder Woodruff:

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed, with power, to examine a bridge on North avenue, in Union township, and to repair the same at a cost not to exceed $100.

Freeholder Krouse moved the adoption of the resolution, and on roll call it was unanimously adopted. The Director appointed as said committee Freeholders Woodruff, Swain and Chandler.

Freeholder Cady then addressed the board as follows:

"It seems to me that something should be said at this time upon the retirement of the County Courthouse Commission. They have had a long and difficult task; they have carefully and conscientiously executed their trust. A beautiful and commodious building has been completed, all within the appropriation and utterly free from any suspicion of taint. They have given us a most satisfactory building, which will long remain an honor to the county of Union and to the State of New Jersey. I therefore wish to offer the following resolution:

"'Resolved, That the retiring Courthouse Cimmissioners receive the hearty thanks and appreciation of this board for their careful and efficient services in the erection and completion of this beautiful and commodious County Courthouse.'"

Freeholder Swain said that he most willingly and cheerfully seconded the resolution as offered, and the same was then unanimously adopted.

Freeholder Krouse then moved that the county building committee having completed its labors, be and is hereby discharged from further duty, and that it at the same time be tendered the most hearty and sincere thanks of the members of this board for the great work accomplished by it, all of which was so ordered without dissent.

Brief speeches were then made by Messrs. Farrell, Brucklacher, Architect Ackerman and County Attorney Codington, in all of which satisfaction was expressed not only at the completion of the building, but also in the fact that during the time the building was under construction, the most harmonious feeling always prevailed between those having charge of the building and the members of the Board of Freholders, all of which tended to the present successful ending.

The following bills, properly audited and approved, were read and, on roll call, unanimously ordered paid, viz.:

CULINARY CONCEITS.

When broiling steak try brshing it with butter and flour to keep the juice in.

If eggs are to be boiled hard have the water boiling when the eggs are put in. This will prevent the yolks turning dark.

Cinnamon makes an unusual and appetizing flavor for gelatin desserts, one which has the additional virtue of economy. Serve with sweet cream, plain or whipped.

When frying onions water may be added at the beginning, and, after they have simmered tender, the water should be turned off and fat added for the frying. This process removes the strong onion juice and makes them tender.

It is said that the best way to eat bananas, which are now so common a diet, is to crush them with a fork, squeeze a lime or lemon over them and sprinkle them with sifted sugar. They are often eaten this way in the tropics and found to be delicious.

JAPANESE JOTTINGS.

The average monthly income in Japan after recent advances in wages is officially stated at less than $8.

Japan's principal ports of export and import are, in the order named, Yokohama, Kobe, Osaka, Moji, Nagasaki and Shimonoseki.

Japan's taxes yield $125,000,000 a year; stamp duties, $13,500,0000; tobacco and trade monopolies, $29,000,000; posts and telegraphs. $10,000,000, and salt monopoly, $13,000,000.

Like the ancient Egyptians, the Japanese are accustomed to store in huge public granaries the grain saved in years of piety against the day of need which a famine may bring with it.

Baron Tahaki says that four-fifths of the boys in the schools of Japan are now studying English. If they study languages with the thoroughness that they did war. Japan's next generation will have two tongues.

BOHEMIAN PROVERBS.

Do the hard things first.

It's hard to work, but harder to want.

The heart that loves must be prepared to suffer.

The world doesn't owe you a living. It was here first.

Money isn't everything, but it often makes a good imitation.

The seven ages of man—Baby, Willie, Will, William, Billie, Bill, Old Bill.

Some people imagine that cunning and wisdom are synonymous, but cunning is as plentiful as wisdom is scarce.

It is a shock to a man who thinks he is world famous to discover that there are people in the next block who never heard of him.—Paul Vincent in Bohemian.

HOME DRESSMAKING.

For sewing on buttons stitch twice down the hem and sew buttons on this stitching and they will not tear out the cloth.

In sewing up a skirt, stitch from the bottom up, and it goes with, not against the bias.

In putting in gathered sleeves, sunbonnet crowns, or any work you wish gathers to be even, use two threads, one where the seam will be and the other one-fourth of an inch inside first. Remove second thread after sewing, or you can use machine to gather by making tension very loose and drawing up threads. By using second thread it does away with the ugly little plaits so often seen in gathers.

MACHINERY.

One man in a potery does a thousand potters' work.

One man does today the work of fifty hand loom weavers.

One man and two boys do the work of 1,100 hand spinners.

One man running a horseshoe machine does the work of 500 blacksmiths.

Netting Wash Cloths.

Waash cloths of mosquito netting sound impracticable, but for genuine satisfaction in the using they are hard to excel. One needle society has found ready sale for dozens of them. They are made of five or six thicknesses, turned in and stitched with a long machine stitch, two inches from the edges, then diagonally from corner to corner.

Soap Paste.

A jar of paste made by shaving a piece of white soap and boiling it in water to jelly is a great convenience when a spot appears on a glove or light colored shoe. Moisten a soft cloth in milk, touch it to the paste and rub it gently on the soiled place. Milk is better for the purpose than water, but the latter may be used.

Hemstitching.

One of the easiest methods of hemstitching is to first draw the threads and baste the hem neatly. Then take the work to the sewing machine and with the stitch regulated to the length desired stitch without thread, close to the edge, as in ordinary hem. This produces a line of perforations accurately marked, which is very easy to follow.

The Art .. of .. Expression.

The art of expression is possessed by jewelry just as in a human being. Nothing so well expresses one's tastes and characteristics; nothing so strongly conveys one's regard for another as a beautiful piece of jewelry. And no other gift requires so much exercise of good taste in the selection.

All our jewelry will be found of sufficient range and completeness as to meet every varying requirement as to taste and price. Our smaller pieces of jewelry, no less than the larger ones, are just as rich in expressiveness. Every line and every style is distinctly artistic, modern and exclusive.

In this country the census shows that small farms are increasing in the amount of their land faster than the larger ones.

Taking an average from the statements of managers, the number of variety acts now on the stage is about fifteen thousand. As most of these acts employ more than one person, it is no exaggeration to assume that at least forty to fifty thousand people are engaged in this branch of the profession.

The ancient poets used to sing of the dense forests of Sicily. Today the mountains are bare. The question of reforesting is a difficult one. Attempts at starting new growth are frustrated by the peasants, who tear down fencees and drive in their goats. Only under military protection could new forest trees be grown.

Ministers who seek rich men for parishioners should, in the opinion of the Christian Register, remember Cromwell's saying when he formed his famous army: "I had rather have a plain russet-coated captain that knows what he fights for and loves what he knows than that which you call nothing but a gentleman and is nothing also. I honor a gentleman that is so indeed."

The city of Zurich has abolished all doctors save forty and these are to be approved and salaried by the municipality. All who need treatment will receive it gratis. The physicians will be supported by a small annual tax laid upon all citizens. Now, if Zurich would adopt the Chinese plan of paying a doctor while his patients are all well and stopping his proportionate salary while any of them are ill, the scheme would appear about perfect. How would parts of it apply to ministers?

In commission and under construction we now have twenty-six battleships and thirteen armored cruisers, eleven coats defence iron-clads, a large fleet of unarmored steel vessels, upward of forty gunboats and nearly sixty torpedo boats and submarines. Of ships of all classes we had 327 at the end of 1905; and the complement has risen to more than thirty-three thousand officers and men, exclusive of a marine corps of more than six thousand, a force considerably larger than the regular army before the Spanish War.

The Rev. Thomas Spurgeon, who succeeded his famous father, the Rev. C. H. Spurgeon as pastor of the Metropolitan Tabernacle, London, and who recently celebrated the jubilee of his birth, says that the sermon today is not the power it once was. It is very difficult nowadays to stir up the people by sermons. This is not altogether the fault of the preachers, but the people care less for serious reading than they used to. Consequently they are less interested in sermons. It is mainly a matter of inclination. They prefer lighter and more frivolous subjects. Nevertheless, Mr. Spurgeon added, he did not believe that any sermon writer living could equal his father. Whatever he wrote or spoke had a peculiar grip. His sermons are still being published and preached again in pulpits wherever English is spoken.

Lunatics.

A "prominent" English physician has discovered that the time is coming when there will be more lunatics than sane persons in the world. Statistics, of course, show this, as they will show anything that is good for advertising purposes. They will show that we live longer, that our general average of physical health is better and that we grow bigger than our ancestors, but that our minds are going to the bowwows. We suspect from some of the things like the above, written by great "alienists," that it takes a lunatic to detect lunacy, as a thief to catch a thief.

The American Way.

How an American machinery agent secured an order in Japan is related by the commercial agent of New South Wales in the far east as follows: It was a question of some lathes for a large factory which was being started. They were required of a certain size. The agent for the British firm firm said, "That is three inches longer than they are made, and we can make no alteration." The American said, "I will make them to any size you like." The American secured the order.—United States Consular Report.

Shooting Butterflies.

The ancient question, "Who breaks a butterfly on a wheel?" should have a modern counterpart. A Transvaal agricultural paper says: "A great deal can be accomplished toward reducing the numbers of the larvae of the swallowtail butterfly by destroying the butterflies. The most effective instrument for this purpose is a light fowling piece loaded with dust shot or coarse salt. It may seem ridiculous to advocate the shooting of butterflies, but an insect with such a large wing expanse affords a very good target."

Too Much Affection.

Dr. Zamenhof, the inventor of Esperanto, went through a trying ordeal at the conclusion of the recent Esperanto congress at Geneva. Hundreds of the departing delegates shook him with every show of affection. This he bore with patience. But when the Esperantists of the other sex insisted on kissing him goodby the fortitude that had stood by him so well throughout the conference deserted him. He broke down.

PLAINFIELD, THE QUEEN CITY OF ALL NEW JERSEY, RICH IN ADVANTAGES AND RESOURCES

BOASTS OF EVERY ATTRACTION WHICH GOES TO MAKE A TRULY MODEL COMMUNITY.

Superb Streets, Unsurpassed Sanitary Improvements and a Wealth of Handsome Homes Are Found Here.

Within the shadow of the southern slope of the Watchung Mountains, from which Washington watched the movements of the Hessian troops, is Plainfield, whose citizens proudly proclaim it the "Queen City" of the State. Rich in the gifts of nature and equally blessed with the material advantages with which a progressive and enlightened citizenship endowed it, this well groomed little city issues a bold challenge to other communties of its size to produce an equally good bill of particulars. It does not rest on its laurels content that other places cannot surpass it, but it forges ahead, building improvement upon improvement, one after another, and therein lies the secret of its success and its magnetism.

Plainfield, the name by which it is known well and favorably far beyond the confines of the State, really includes two municipalities, for a selfish political condition has prevented the union, in fact, of two governments in a place which is inseparately connected otherwise than by geographical lines. To the stranger within its gates it is a visual impossibility to tell in which municipality he be, for the dividing line passes through what is and always has been the most thickly settled part of the community—the business section. North Plainfield is but the overflow from Plainfield, which, spreading in all directions, sweeps beyond Union county and plants its borders in both Somerset and Middlesex. The cavetous spirit of Somerset county alone is responsible for the existence of North Plainfield as a separate municipal government. North Plainfield is a borough, having less than half the population in Plainfield city, and it is purely a residential place.

Plainfield covers a stretch of four miles from east to west, and, including the borough, an equal distance from north to south. Although settled by a sturdy band of the Friends in the early days of American history, today, it is distinctly the home of the prosperous New York commuter, who has found in it an ideal place for a country residence, far from the noise of the metropolis yet within a convenient commuting distance of Wall street and the business section of the big city. In a luxuriously appointed club car attached to a fast train making no stops between his home and the North River, he is conveyed daily to and from his office, while his wife and children breathe the fresh air and enjoy the outdoor life of picturesque New Jersey. Plainfield is "forty-five minutes from Broadway," but the time flies swiftly for the commuter who is enjoying his after breakfast cigar and reading his morning paper or indulging in a game of whist. The actual running time of the special trains is only thirty-five minutes.

Fine Streets a Feature.

The first thing that strikes the stranger as he alights from an express at the main station of the Jersey Central, in North avenue, is the splendid condition of the city's thoroughfares. The credit for their excellent condition is due to Andrew J. Gavett, the city engineer, one of the most painstaking and conscientious officials to be found in a year's hunt. Well macadamized streets studded on each side by stately trees are a feature throughout the whole place. In all there are sixty-five miles of improved macadam roads, forty-five of which lie in the city proper. These avenues lead into the magnificent highways of Union ,Middlesex and Somerset counties, built by the State, which has more miles of improved roads than any other in the entire Union. The automobilist and the driver of horses alike find in this fact one of its chief attractions.

Thousands of dollars are spent annually upon the streets and the expenditures meet with the hearty approval of the taxpayers, who take a great pride in them. Beneath these macadam roads, for the most part, are well constructed storm sewers, which carry off in less time than it takes to tell, the heaviest of rainfalls. Throughout the place, also under the beds of the streets, are sewer pipes connecting with the homes and business places. There are thirty-six miles of these pipes emptying into the septic tanks and contact beds to the west of the city, where the filtration process takes place. This sewage disposal plant has already cost the city about $200,000, and the money is well spent. The system is being extended constantly, as the city grows apace, and it will not be long before there are at least fifty miles of piping.

Equally attractive advantages are to be found in the police and fire protective systems. Burglary and like offenses against law and order are almost unknown here, for the Plainfield sleuth has a reputation as a terror of evil doers. A large force is commanded by Chief of Police Kiely, whose reputation extends to every detective agency in the country. The headquarters in East Front street are admitted to be the finest equipped of any town of the size in the East.

The fire department is equally well equipped. Three large and well supplied fire houses are scatered about the city and another one is to be found in North Plainfield, which receives the help of the City Department whenever occasion requires. The apparatus is of the latest improved make and the ability of the paid firemen to battle with the flames is demonstrated by the low fire insurance rate, one of the lowest in this part of the country.

WATCHUNG FALLS.

A Representative Government.

The citizens of Plainfield long ago realized that if the place was to be made attractive and prosperous progressive men must be enlisted as public servants to take charge of its government. At all times the best citizens have always been willing to be mustered into service to act in the capacity of Mayor, Councilman, School Director or to serve on some important commission, as the case might be. Among the New York bankers who have occupied the Mayoralty chair are Messrs. Charles J. Fisk, Alexander Gilbert and L. V. F. Randolph, the first named being the sole nominee for the election on Tuesday. Equally good men have sat in Common Council, including Messrs. John B. Dumont, E. T. Barrows, E. R. Ackerman and George P. Mellick.

Although the tax rate has never been high, the guardians of the city's finances have been able to raise funds by taxation sufficient to carry out big improvements and at the same time to properly reward the paid men of the various departments. The taxable value of Plainfield can best be shown by a comparison. It is equal to the combined taxable value of Somerset county, which adjoins Union. It is also about equal to the combined taxable value of Summit, Rahway, Westfield and Cranford, four of the next biggest towns in Union county. This is the more noteworthy because Plainfield millionaires are no different from any others, and they do not tell the tax assessors more than they are required to by law. The tax rate is only $1.35 per $1,000. This is eleven points lower than the city of Elizabeth and nearly thirty points lower than Summit.

Excellent School System.

To the man looking for a place to settle down with his wife and children the public school system is of vital interest, and in Plainfield he finds just what he most desires. The curriculum of the public schools is such that the high school diploma admits the graduate to most of the large colleges of the country without examination. The instruction which the pupil receives is testified to by the standing he takes in the higher institutions of learning. On the walls of the handsome new high school building, facing the city park, built a year ago at a cost of $125,000, are diplomas from the St. Louis Exposition, the Pan-American Fair, the World's Fair and other large exhibitions where Plainfield entered educational competitions. While great attention is paid to the higher departments, the kindergarten system is today the boast of the Board of Education, a non-political body composed of representative and scholarly men. Dr. Henry M. Maxson is the Superintendent of Education, and his faculty consists of a large corps of principals.

The manual training department in the North Plainfield schools, which is under the supervision of Dr. H. C. Krebs, is one of the best in the State. The manual training building itself is the gift of Charles W. McCutchen, the largest property owner in that borough. Among the private schools are the Plainfield Seminary and the Hartridge School for young women, John Leal's school and Cedarcroft Academy for boys. For members of the Roman Catholic faith there are St. Gabriel's Academy and the parochial schools.

Much has been written of Plainfield's Board of Health, and deservedly so, for it is a vigilant body. Its president is former Mayor Charles Joel Fisk, of the New York banking house of that name, who, on November 6, was elected chief magistrate. He was the nominee of the Republican party and his fitness was recognized by the fact that his name also headed the Democratic municipal ticket. Most of the members of the Board are leading physicians. The staff consists of a chemist and health officer. Mr. Leon R. Thurlow, a graduate of the Boston Institute of Technology, who devotes his entire time to the work, and a health inspector.

The latter makes it his duty to pick out a bottle of milk from the unsuspecting dairyman's wagon in the early hours of the morning and take it to the paid chemist for analysis, and to visit a groceryman to get a sample of his butter for the same purpose. Regular house to house visits are paid by the inspector to examine the sanitary condition of the premises to see that they answer the exacting requirements. Heavy fines are imposed for any violation of the health ordinances. Milkmen, plumbers and the like are all licensed.

Almost without exception the homes are detached houses surrounded by spacious lawns. This applies not only to the mansion of the man of wealth, but to the leased property. Rentals run anywhere from $20 to $50 a month. The great demand for houses, however, has caused a building boom unprecedented, and several syndicates are erecting good houses which they put on the market at reasonable figures.

Wonderful Water Supply.

Beneath Plainfield there is an underground lake; some contend that it is a river. Be what it may, from this pit is drawn water of a purity that has surprised analytical chemists. All the year round the supply remains the same, inexhaustible and pure. The water flowing from a faucet in the kitchen or bathroom is clear and cold. No filter is ever thought of by the careful housewife, for none is needed.

These are some of the attractions of Plainfield, but there are many others to be recounted with pride. The club life and outdoor and indoor amusements generally are to be noted, and reference should be made to the religious life of the community. The Monday Afternoon Club and the Rasores Club, both affiliated with the New Jersey State Federation of Women's Clubs, are intended for the intellectual edification of the commuter's wife and daughter. Each is composed of a large number of women who meet once a week. The Park Club is a typical commuter's resort, its well appointed club house, in Washington avenue, being a centre of the social attivity of the community during the winter evenings. Hops, concerts and other forms of entertainment are always to be found there, as they are at the Casino, in West Seventh stret, where the formal social functions take place as a rule. The auditoriums of the Park Club and the Casino are both used for private society theatricals and for cotillions.

The Plainfield Country Club has its home in the Hillside district, where its splendid eighteen hole golf course and tennis courts are located. Private dinner parties and like social functions are the rule week in and week out at the club house. Numerous handsome cups and other trophies are offered in the regular season of golf and tennis tournaments, the Saturday and holiday play being the special feature of the programme. Among its membership of approximately seven hundred are expert players in both sports, Messrs. Frank O. Reinhart, W. L. C. Glenney, D. H. Barrows, Morgan Townsend, C. A. Stover, C. B. Morgan and Robert Abbott being among golfers, while Mr. T. M. Day., Jr., and Miss Schuyler are among its noted tennis players.

The Park Golf Club, whose nine hole course is on the slope of Watchung Mountain, is another spot where the lover of the ancient Scottish game may find recreation. Many of the clergymen of the city are among its most enthusiastic members, including the Rev. Dr. H. K. Carroll, the Rev. Charles L. Goodrich, the Rev. J. O. McKelvey and the Rev. L. R. Howard. Among the more prominent minor clubs of the sort is the Cedarbrook Tennis Club. So far as the national game is concerned, the Plainfield Baseball Club, with its big grounds in the southern part of the city, is the most conspicuous, being the successor of the Crescent Club, which turned out such players as "Billy" Keeler and "Tuck" Turner.

The Plainfield Riding and Driving Club, the Watchung Hunt Club and the Driving Park Association are organizations whose names reveal their objects. The first named is composed of wealthy citizens, many of whom own fine stables. Among the number are Messrs. Edwin S. Hooley and Charles W. McCutchen. Mr. Hooley's stable is the best in this section. Every year the Riding and Driving Club holds a three days' horse show on its own grounds. It is a member of the national association. The show grounds are elaborately appointed and in the competitions which take place the Plainfielders win a big share of the ribbons. The Watchung Hunt Club, another society organization, holds meets weekly. The chase is scheduled for Saturdays, and after the run across country over the farms of Union county social meetings are held at its Colonial club house. The Driving Park Association holds meets Saturday afternoons on its own track and horsemen from all parts of the State make it a rule to enter their fast steeds in these events.

Strong Religious Spirit.

Almost every religious denomination in the country is represented here, many of them having more than one church and not a few of them having beautiful houses of worship. St. Mary's Roman Catholic church, which has a magnificent edifice in Liberty street, has a membership of about thirty-five hundred. Father Bogan is the head of the parish. St. Joseph's, of which Father Miller is parstor, has a smaller list of communicants. The Episcopalians worship in four different churches. Grace church is the largest, its church edifice and parish house being particularly ornate. Deon Rodman is rector emeritus and the Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson is rector. The Church of the Holy Cross is located in the Washington Park section of North Plainfield and has a pretty little church, as has St. Stephen's, in the Netherwood section of Plainfield. The Church of the Heavenly Rest has a picturesque building in the Evona section of the city.

Among the evangelical denominations the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, of which Rev. D. W. R. Richards, now pastor of the Fifth Avenue Brick Presbyterian church, was minister for two decades, has the wealthiest congregation. The mother church supports three missions, with a pastor in charge of each, they being Hope chapel, Warren chapel and Bethel chapel, the last named for negroes. The First Presbyterian church is the oldest of that denomination. The Baptists are represented in the First and the Park Avenue churches. Dr. J. A. Chambliss is the pastor of the former. This congregation is the largest in the city, excepting that of St. Mary's. The Methodists have three churches, the First, Grace and the Monroe Avenue. Other religious bodies with fine church buildings include the Seventh-Day Baptist, All Souls' Unitarian, the Congregational, Trinity Reformed, the Friends' meeting, German Lutheran, German Reformed and Children of Isreal Synagogue. There are thirty-seven congregations in all. In addition to these the Young Men's Christion Association has a fine building in the heart of the city.

No other city in New Jersey and, in fact, only two others in the whole country, have so stringent an excise ordinance as Plainfield, a saloon zone being permanently established. By its provisions the Common Council dare not even receive an application for a licensed place save in the purely business section, which constitutes but a tenth part of the entire municipality.

This forever protects the residential property from any depreciation or change by the introduction of a saloon. Not even a hotel or boarding house in the prohibited zone could be allowed to sell liquor, even with meals. Moreover, it is the fixed policy not to increase the number of saloons, and today there are only seven in the place, it being found by experience that the greater the number of saloons in other places, proportionately great is crime and disorder.

Long before the much agitated Bishops' law, enacted by the last Legislature, was even dreamed of Plainfield had all its features in force. The saloons must close at eleven o'clock at night and dare not open until six in the morning. No side or back room evil has ever been permitted and at all times a clear unobstructed view of the barroom must be had from the street during the prohibited hours. The retail license fee is $1,000 and the wholesale $800, both of which are about double the next highest in the State.

The last offender against the excise ordinance, a "speak easy" proprietor, was fined $1,000, and since then no illegal resorts have existed. Plainfield's stringent excise ordinance is due to the untiring efforts of William S. Tyler, a New York lawyer, who, as a member of the Common Council, succeeded in spite of the combined liquor interests of New Jersey in having his favorite measure enacted. Now no one can be found who opposes the regulation. In fact, they are proudly boasted of abroad by the citizens of the place.

The fraternal organizations are numerous and many of them are prosperous. The Masons and Elks lead in this respect. The home of Masonry is in the Babcock Building, where Trinity Commandery, Knights Templar, holds its conclaves, Jerusalem chapter, Royal Arch Masons, its convocations, and Jerusalem and Anchor lodges, F. and A. M., their communications. Plainfield lodge, B. P. O. E., has fine club rooms and large quarters in the Elkwood Building. The Knights of Pythias have two lodges and one military branch of the order. Among the other orders having one or more lodges are the Red Men, A. O. U. W., Knights of Columbus, Royal Arcanum, Knights of the Golden Eagle, Odd Fellows and Junior O. U. A. M.

Culture and Philosophy.

In the residential portion of the city stands the Plainfield Public Library, supported entirely by the citizens. The library contains nearly 30,000 well selected volumes, and its art gallery and collection of curios are notable. One painting, "The Death of General Sedgewick," by the late Julian Scott, a resident of the town, is valued at $10,000. In the library is the Babcock scientific collection, which is particularly valuable. This institution is free to the public. Muhlenberg Hospital is another public institution supported entirely by the people of the community. Its large buildings are located in Randolph road and its staff is composed of eminent surgeons and physicians. Mr. William R. Cook is the president of the Board of Governors. The isolation hospital is a separate institution in the west end of the city and is supported by the municipal government.

Among the other institutions are the Children's Home, with a handsome house in North Plainfield, the Plainfield Relief Association and the Plainfield Organized Aid Association. The City Union of King's Daughters has a baby camp on the Watchung Mountain in the summer time. It also supports a city nurse all the year round. The Netherwood Fresh Air Home, where some of the poor of New Yorks' east side are provided for during the summer, is another example of Plainfield's philanthropy. A home for aged and infirm women is about to be erected through the liberality of the late Miss Catharine Webster, thus adding another to the many charitable institutions.

Although Plainfield is only twenty-four miles from "the Great White Way," it has one of the best theatres in the State. The New Plainfield books the leading attractions of Broadway.

Wherever one goes in the wealthy sections of the city he finds the home of some man who is known in the financial or business section of New York. All these men take an interest in the welfare of the community, and it is due to them that Plainfield stands in the front rank of model settlements.

Plainfield's transportation facilities are excellent. Although the Jersey Central has the only direct line through the city, the Lehigh Valley has a station at South Plainfield and the Pennsylvania one at Metuchen, but a short distance south of the city line. Over the tracks of the Jersey Central sped the fast expresses of the Baltimore and Ohio and of the Reading, both of which make stops at the North Avenue station. The Reading's hourly expresses are particularly convenient to the shopper and theatregoer.

The communting rate to New York is less than thirteen cents a trip, the monthly rate for sixty rides being but $7.60. The Central has four stations along its line within the bounds of the city—the Netherwood, the North Avenue, the Grant Avenue and the Clinton Avenue. The city trolley services makes direct connection with lines to all the country round, including the Oranges, Elizabeth, Newark, Bound Brook, Somerville and New Brunswick. The through New York-Philadelphia hourly express trolleys run over the tracks of the local system. The two principal telegraph companies have offices open night and day, and the local exchange of the telephone company has two thousand telephones in private residences and in the shopping district.

All in all, Plainfield is one of the most charming settlements to be found and is an ideal home for the commuter, be he rich or poor. No other community of the kind presents better attractions or advantages—that is why it has earned its title, the Queen City of New Jersey.

Religious Activity and Club Life as Well as High-class Amusements Help to Make It Ideal.

FAR AND NEAR.

In Alabama last week an aged negress died—"Aunt" Clarissa. Following her remains to the grave were, among other vehicles, six carriages occupied by the leading white women of the community. On her grave there were piled myraids of floral tributes, the finest display of offerings of the kind ever seen in that section of the country. Twenty-five wives of farmers and business men heard the sermon over the grave by "Aunt" Clarissa's negro pastor. "Aunt" Clarissa was eighty years of age at the time of her death. For fifty years she had lived in one white man's service. She had cared for his wife and children and grandchildren. She was the person in the household who handled the money. She bought the household supplies. She rendered accounting to no one. She paid herself her own salary. She saved all she made. She was more than housekeeper. She was friend. It is said that at the burial to the sobs and tears of relatives were added the manifestations of sorrow of the white woman, and that the lady in whose home Clarissa had lived was deep in anguish.—Augusta (Ga.) Chronicle.

Is it correct to speak of Houhomont, which some British officers are said to be about to purchase, as "the castle of Hougomont?" The correspondent who asks the question suggests that this is a mistranslation of "chateau," since in English "castle" has never really become equivalent merely to "mansion," but can be accurately used only of a feudal castellated fortress, or of a building erected in imitation of the style. Great confusion was caused by the habits of translators down to the sixteenth century of rendering the Vulgate's "castellum," which means a village, as "castle." There is evidence to show that the "castle" of Mary and Martha was supposed by readers to have been a baronial stronghold.—London Chronicle.

More and more the political meeting of today is coming to partake in essential features of the old-time rally of many years ago. This is particularly true as regards the revival of the plan of eating at the flow of political soul. Few open-air partisan gatherings are now considered complete unless there is a dinner to be attended to, along with the eloquence on display there. Our forefathers settled the perplexing problems of this great country over barbecued dinners. At such gatherings all the mighty themes of the times were discussed by them, and evidently with much meritorious effect, since the nation continued to advance with increasing vigor unrer their well-fed guiding hand. So we are but getting back to early principles of citizenship when we mix our campaigning with well-cooked food. By all means let the polotical picnic have the right of way. It is certainly an old settler.—Maryville (Mo.) Tribune.

Election Brings Raise.

Franklin, Pa., Nov. 9.—Asserting that the election of the Republican ticket in Pennsylvania has inspired them with ideas of still greater prosperity, the management of the two plants of the Standard Oil Company here yesterday announced an increase in wages to more than 500 men. The percentage was not given. The order applies to all men paid by the day and receiving less than $100 a month

STOKES AS SENATOR MEANS HILLERY GOVERNOR

Politician Believes He Scents Move to Reward Two Whom Republicans are Indebted to.

HE STAGES PLAY

Puts Stokes In Washington and Has Hillery Acting Governor Before January 1, 1908.

That behind all that has transpired politically during the last forty-eight hours, particularly the developments on the Senatorial situation is an alleged scheme to reward Thomas J. Hillery, the Senator from Morris, for his faithfulness to the State machine according to a Republican who enjoys the confidence of powers that make political history in New Jersey. The Gubernatorial chair looms up in his political horizon, the road leading to it having been laid out, it is said, by machine bosses more than six months ago, at a time when it was not certain exactly how far Hillery would go to help the machine when the Colbyite fight started anew. Hillery, according to a well-informed authority, will become governor, using the presidency of the Senate as the stepping stone, the constitution providing that that officer shall fill the chair when any vacancy occurs in the Gubernatorial office.

The revolt against Dryden, it is alleged by a politician, is part of a prearranged plan having for its object, it is said, two things of prime importance. The one that Senator Hillery be properly rewarded for his efforts on behalf of the State organization; the other the security of John Kean against any danger of being dropped overboard in 1911.

Hillery's great work on the floor of the Senate last session and his effective work as a campaigner who was tireless in his efforts from the day he met Colby in joint debate until the battle of the ballots took place on Tuesday last has placed the State machine under great obligations to him. They recognize, it is alleged, that because of some narrow religious bigotry still existing in certain sections it might be unwise from a practical political standpoint to put him before the voters as a candidate for Governor no matter how much they would desire him to have that office for a full term. Such a course, it is alleged, would have a two-fold effect for according to their way of thinking, it would be a slap at Senator Colby, whom they allege could have been elevated to that high office had he been true to the rotten machine. But this is not to be, for according to the political informant, the machine is going to take no chances and will content itself by paving the way to have the Morris county Senator fill any unexpired term though he may only enjoy the title of Governor for a very brief period.

The Kean people it is argued to accomplish this end would throw their influence to Stokes. As Governor he would not take the office of Senator immediately the laws of the State preventing him from taking the oath of U. S. Senator. To overcome this obstacle, the plan is to have him chosen in January and then to have him hold off from leaving the Gubernatorial chair just exactly the way LaFollette did in Wisconsin. As his term expired in January, 1908, he could wait until the last few weeks of his Gubernatorial service and then resign. Hillery in the emanwhile having been chosen president of the Senate, according to this scheme, would immediately become acting Governor. As the U. S. Senate is the judge of the qualifications of its own members it could override the provision of the New Jersey constitution. In the event of its unseating him, Stokes could be renamed by a special session of the Legislature.

Just what disposal is to be made of Briggs' boom for Governor, the politician in question does not relate.

Demolishing a Landmark.

Work was started this morning tearing down V. W. Nash's old building on Park avenue, near the railroad, and some of the material will be removed to Prescott place to be used in building a house. The structure must be taken down and removed by December 1, the time fixed by the New Jersey Central.

Organ Recital.

The numbers to be rendered by William E. MacClymont, organist, at Grace church, tomorrow afternoon at 4:30 o'clock, are as follows: "Fantasia," Freyer; "Rhapsodie," Breton Melodies, St. Saens; "Meditation," Barlett; "Berceuse," Chauvet.

IS MR. STOKES ELIGIBLE?

Question Whether State Constitution Would Permit Him to Become a Candidate.

A NICE LEGAL POINT

As the U. S. Senate is Judge of Its Own Members, Governor Would Possibly Be Seated.

The State constitution would seem to bar out Stokes as a candidate at this juncture, for it says:

"Nor shall me (the Governor) be elected by the Legislature to any office under the government of this State, or of the United States, during the term for which he shall have been elected Governor."

Governor Stokes' oath of office requires him to support the Constitution.

As Stokes' term as Governor does not expire until January, 1908, it is claimed by some that Stokes is ineligible to the United States Senatorship until after the close of his Gubernatorial term.

On the other hand it is claimed that there is no insurmountable bar against the election of a Governor as United States Senator, and that the United States Senate has on at least least one other occasion received into that body as United States Senator a Governor who was elected in the face of a prohibition of this kind. The United States Senate is judge of its own elections, and if Stokes were elected by join ballot in Trenton it is quite certain that he would be received as a United States Senator in Washington.

This is the case because there is nothing in the United States Constitution to the contrary, and the Senate would not go behind the returns from the State in such a case; but the one consideration which might prove fatal to the candidacy of Stokes is that he stands noe before the Constitution of the United States, but before the Constitution of ew Jersey, which he swore to uphold when he was inaugurated. It is not within the possibilities of politics that the Executive of State would consent to the violation of the Constitution for his personal advancement. Exceptionally great powers are vested in the Chief Executive and it is tradition that this provision of the Constitution was put there to prevent the exercise of these powers for personal advantage. It is true that the Constitution of New Jersey does not control the United States Senate in passing upon the elegibility of its members, but it is assumed that it does control the Legislature of New Jersey in its acts attending the election of a Senator.

CASHIER RUNYON INJURED.

Knocked Down While Crossing Front Street this Morning.

In attempting to cross Front street, from the City National Bank corner to the First National Bank, where he is cashier, at 8 o'clock, this morning, David M. Runyon was run down by Leslie M. Cobb, the colored tailor, who was driving east on Front street. A Somerset street trolley car had just passed Park avenue on its way to the Watchung avenue stand, when Mr. Cobb came along.

Mr. Runyon was looking in another direction, and Mr. Cobb did not notice him on the crossing. The horse knocked Mr. Runyon down and striking on his head received a laceration of the scalp and his hat was ruined. Mr. Runyon was assisted to the bank, where Dr. D. C. Adams was summoned. The physician was obliged to take six stitches to close the laceration. Otherwise Mr. Runyon was not injured and he remained at the bank to attend to his duties. Mr. Cobb regretted the incident exceedingly and agreed to pay for all damage.

To Solve the Shot Mystery.

Since declaring that he was open to suggestions to stop the shot dropping mystery on Harmony street, Chief Weiss, of the borough, has been receiving numerous replies. One enterprising and deep-thinking boroughite sent him the following on a postal card this morning: "Dear Chief—Why not gather up the shot that has fallen; sell it to rabbit hunters and use the proceeds in having a metal ceiling put up." The chief has referred the suggestion to the Ayres family.

Dance and Vaudeville at P. H. S.

The Boys' Athletic Association of the Plainfield High School will hold a dance in the school hall Thanksgiving Eve, and at the same time the four upper classes will give various entertainments throughout the school year. These will be of a vaudeville sort. The proceeds will go to the athletic association.

IRELAND CHARMED HIM

One of the Sweetest spots on Earth According to a Newark Divine.

IN ENGLAND'S GRIP

Pictures Hardships Wrought On Its Good People By Landlord System and Other Discriminating Methods.

"What a Yankee Saw in Ireland," was the subject of a delightful informal talk given by Rev. W. H. Morgan, of Central M. E. church, Newark, before the Brotherhood, of the First M. E. church, in Vincent chapel last night. At the outset Dr. Morgan renounced all claim to being a Yankee. He said he was a Welshman, was educated in Minnesota and was saved in the Methodist church.

While walking along a street in Ireland upon his last visit there, Dr. Morgan said that he stepped into the gutter to let two or three women pass. The act so surprised them that one of them exclaimed, "He is a Yankee!" and it so amused him that he decided to tell the story when he returned home.

In comparing the advantages of today with those of the early times, the speaker said that the people of the present time do not appreciate them. He said that it took several days for Benjamin Franklin to make a round trip from Philadelphia to New York, while to day the trip one way is made in ninety minutes. In former days it required sixteen days to go from New York to Albany and back. Today one can go from Albany to New York, to London and across the continent in that time. Dr. Morgan spoke of the luxurious steamers that sail the ocean, with every modern convenience, making it possible for a man to have ten days of perfect ease and rest from all worry.

In referring to Ireland, Dr. Morgan said that nowhere else on earth does one see grass so green, such beautiful flowers, such sweet butter and such fat hogs. He described the country as one of the sweetest spots that God has put on the earth. During the course of his remarks he related many Irish stories to illustrate the rare wit to be found among the people of that country.

Looking on the other side, the speaker dwelt at some length on the poverty of the people of Ireland, referring to the fact that beggars are seen everywhere. He discussed the land question, declaring the English government has bled that fair country for centuries, and that it has discriminated against the Irish by its landlord system. "But," he said, "John Bull is waking up. It takes him a long time to get started, but when he does something will happen."

Dr. Morgan spoke of the difficulty the Irish farmers experienced in putting the products of their soil in the markets where good prices can be secured, all through alleged unfair and discriminating methods adopted by the English government. He declared that there is constant revolution in Ireland but that some day the people of that country will get their rights. In conclusion he said that Ireland will never be loyal until contented, and she will never be contented until her people prosper and they will never prosper under the landlord system. He referred to a proposed method whereby the occupants of land in Ireland are to pay 3¼ per cent. of the revenue from their farms for a certain number of years when they will become the owner of the land. This system, he said, bespoke for Ireland a glorious future.

Dr. Morgan described graphically his efforts to kiss the Blarney Stone, and closed his interesting talk by paying deserving tribute to the memory of the late John Valiant, of the borough, who was one of the party that made the trip abroad.

After the talk, J. Edmund Skiff, accompanied by Miss Agnes Bailey on the piano, sang several Irish songs. The rest of the evening was spent socially and refreshments were served.

Pitchfork Pierced His Hand.

Frank Reynolds, of Mountain avenue, while playing with some companions near his home a few days ago, accidentally ran his right hand into the tine of a pitchfork which was being used to collect leaves. The tine pierced the fleshy part of the hand a considerable depth. Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan dressed the wound.

Recorder Lee Imposes a Fine.

Arthur Johnanson, the beligerent Swede who was arrested on Somerset street as he was looking for fight, was fined $5 in the borough court last night. The amount was imposed by Councilman Lee who acted as recorder in the absence of Mayor Smalley.

HIS ECCENTRICITIES LANDED HIM IN A CELL

STRENUOUS BELGIAN MACHINIST UPSETS TENOR OF THE GLOVE FACTORY.

For his "eccentricities," as Superintendent Hippolyte Texier considerately put it in court this morning, August Leemon, a Belgian employed as machinist at the glove factory of V. Perrin et Cie, Washington avenue, was arrested yesterday. Leemon's "eccentricities" included chasing after Edmund Duchesne, another employe, with a gun, an attempt to terrorize the factory girls into endorsing him as shop boss, and sass to the superintendent.

The trouble started two weeks ago, when Leemon casually intimated to Mr. Texier that he knew more about the business than the superintendent. He followed the declaration up by doing things in his own way, without regard to Mr. Texier's orders. That led to a clash with Duchesne, and about a week ago he armed himself and ran out of the shop after his fellow-employe. He didn't catch up with Duchesne, and he said it was a good thing he didn't because terrible things would have happened.

Leemon followed this eccentricity up with the composition of a statement that he was fully capable of conducting the whole plant. He passed it around among the employes and insisted on their signing it. Yesterday he became so insistent on signatures that the girls became frightened and began to talk of running out. Panic was threatened several times, and the conditions were not improved when it became known that Leemon had a wicked-looking revolver displayed on the table in the machinist's room.

Leemon's commanding position suddenly melted from under him when Detective McCarthy appeared on the scene in response to a hurried call from the superintendent. The militant Belgian was pinched in short order, without regard to his qualities as a master-workman or a gunfighter. He was meek and subdued when arraigned before Judge Runyon this morning, and hastened to promise that he would leave the shop and the city by nightfall. Mr. Texier said he would drop the case with that understanding, but he insisted on having an officer detailed to see that Leemon did as he promised without making gunplays.

COUNCILMAN SMITH GETS ON HIS DIGNITY

SERVES NOTICE HE WON'T PRESENT FIREMEN ALARM RESOLUTION AGAIN.

For the purpose of deciding whether or not the New York & New Jersey Telephone Company should be paid $137.50 for overhauling the fire alarm system, the Borough Council held a special session last night. It lasted but a short time and was uneventful but Chairman Smith, of the Fire committee, stirred things up a little bit by a display of "mutiny" immediately after adjournment.

It was he who called for the meeting and presented the 'phone company's estimate, at the same time offering a resolution that it be accepted. He did not specify how much work would be done or the amount of material used for the money and Councilman VanArsdale suggested that it had better be embodied in the resolution. Councilman Krewson thought the same way, but Mr. Smith failed to give the desired information.

The interruption, however, led to a discussion of the proposition and in the end the Council voted against it. Mr. Van Arsdale then offered a resolution that the matter be laid over until next Monday night and the members voted for it and adjournment. As they began to leave the room, Chairman Smith held to his seat in a very dissatisfied frame of mind. When the opportunity offered he exclaimed with emphasis:

"This is the last time I'll present this matter. You people can do as you like about it."

The "people" were somewhat surprised at their confrere's display of temper but if it impressed them any, there was no outward sign and they filed out into the night in silence.

Vice-president Lee was in the chair in the absence of Mayor Smalley. Councilmen McGee and Van Winkle were not present.

Carl Lentz "Quits" Politics.

Carl Lentz yesterday resigned from the chairmanship and as a member of the Essex County Republican Committee, of which has been the head for fourteen years. At the same time he resigned as a member of the Republican State Committee of New Jersey.

SILENT ON SENATORSHIP

Governor Won't Talk Now But Says He May Issue a Statement Later.

FRELINGHUYSEN SEEN

Somerset's Senator Refuses to Talk —Hillery Says He is Unpledged—Other Interviewed.

When Governor Stokes was made acquainted with the purport of Mr. Ackerman's statement on the Senatorial situation and particularly the poll of Union county's representatives as told exclusively in The Daily Press yesterday, he was asked if he had any comment to make.

"I have nothing to say on that question now," he replied with a slight accent on the "now."

"Do you mean by that you will have something to say in the near future?" he was asked.

"I am preparing a statement on the results of the election," the Governor replied. "But I don't know whether I will make it public or not, or whether in it I will have anything to say on the Senatorial situation."

The Governor would not say, in so many words, that he was in favor of Mr. Dryden's re-election.

"Are you a candidate for United States Senator yourself, Governor?"

Immediately a smile that had illumined the Governor's face disappeared, and he said sharply:

"I tell you I have nothing to say on that subject at this time. I have to go out of town now and you must excuse me."

Assemblyman Elvins, of Atlantic, is quoted as making a similar declaration, and these three, with Senator Colby, of Essex county, and Assemblyman-elect Fake, of Bergen county, the original anti-Dryden men of each branch of the Legislature, make the total openly declared at the present time five.

It is almost certain that Senator Wakelee, of Bergen, who refused to vote for Dryden four years ago, will maintain the same attitude now, and Assemblyman-elect De Vine, also of Bergen, will probably join with his colleagues in the opposition. The same may be said of Perkins and Moxon, of Union, wh oare just as solicitous for the welfare of Mr. Kean as their fellow-members from Union.

In Morris, the only North Jersey county remaining for Dryden's friends to look to, Senator Hillery in an interview yesterday directs special attention to a declaration in joint debate with Senator Colby, in which he, the Morris Senator, said his vote was pledged to no man.

Senator Frelinghuysen, as a Central Jersey representative, refuses to discuss the situation, but his well-known friendship for Governor Stokes indicates where he is likely to stand in the caucus.

Senator Minch states that in South Jersey it seemed to be understood that Dryden was the man if he should carry his own county. Now that he has lost it and Colby has declared against him, Minch thinks Essex is without a candidate unless Colby has one.

All that Assemblyman T. C. Elvins, of Atlantic county, would say yesterday was that he had made no statement in regard to his choice for the United States Senatorship. He declared that he would abide by the Republican party caucus.

Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, of Somerset, when asked yesterday who the next United States Senator from New Jersey would be, smiled broadly and said:

"I positively decline to be interviewed on that subject."

The Senator expressed a willingness to discuss the operation of the automobile law or any other subject not appertaining to the Senatorship. His reluctance to speak at this time is probably due to his warm personal friendship for Governor Stokes. The latter conferred on Colonel Frelinghuysen the distinction of his personal aide and the only member of his staff except those detailed from the regular militia.

Assemblymen B. Frank Buck and Frank R. Potter, who like Minch are from Cumberland, yesterday declared their preferences for Mr. Stokes. There was no question in regard to Buck, for he is a protege of Stokes' and they are neighbors and fast friends. Potter, too, is a decided Stokes man.

Senator Thomas J. Hillery, of Morris county, who, presumably, has been counted upon as one of Mr. Dryden's supporters, is not pledged to the Prudential president. The Morris man was interviewed by a reporter yesterday on the Senatorial situation, but he was not ready to say whom he would vote for.

"I haven't talked with any of the leaders of the party since election day," said Mr. Hillery, "and the selection of a Senator is such an impor-

SCHEME TO ERECT A "TEMPLE OF LABOR" HERE

DECIDE ON AUTO LINE

South Plainfield Good Government Club Tired of Waiting For the Trolley.

WILL FORM COMPANY

Machines of Large Carrying Capacity to Run On Half-Hour Schedule Between the Village and This City.

Becoming tired of the Public Service Corporation's never-kept promises to connect Plainfield and South Plainfield by trolley, the Good Government Club of the latter place has taken steps to bind the two in another way. At a meeting held in the village last night, the members decided to incorporate an automobile company to operate a line of electric or gasolene 'buses. The scheme has been tried in other nearby places and has been made successful in practically every instance.

The plan was discussed thoroughly and the necessary steps will be taken at once to make the transportation matter a fact instead of fancy. It was decided to issue stock as soon as possible and as many Plainfielders are interested, it was believed there would be no difficulty in disposing of a sufficient amount to secure the necessary capital. When the machines are put in operation, a half hour schedule in either direction will be maintained. A committee was appointed to secure estimates on the cost of two automobiles capable of carrying from twenty to twenty-five passengers.

The late Alfred M. Foote, the well known journalist whose home was in South Plainfield, was one of the first to advocate an automobile line between the two places and just previous to his death a few weeks ago, urged the Good Government Club to drop negotiations with the trolley company and take up the horseless vehicle proposition.

THE WHITE-WINGED DOVE OF PEACE AT "THE CLANSMAN."

Performance Passed Off Without the Slightest Suggestion of Trouble.

Without the slightest hint of trouble of any kind or any more demonstration than attends the performance of one of Theodore Kremer's thrillers, "The Clansman" was presented at the New Plainfield theatre last night. The predictions of the know-it-alls that the city would witness a race riot that would stir the State and that everybody who entered the gallery would carry a gun, fell to the ground like a spent skyrocket. It is true several bluecoats were stationed about the house but they tired themselves out looking for something to do and the only good that came from their presence was a chance to see the show.

The play was given exactly as it was presented last year and gave satisfaction to the audience. There were exactly two colored people in the orchestra and a generous sprinkling in the gallery but they made no comment and none was made by the white for their benefit.

It is needless to say that Manager Counihan is fully aware of the size, shape and color of the acid fruit that was placed at his hand. The silly agitation against the production cut the attendance over last season more than half and he is out a large roll of real money. The attraction is one that would always draw a full house on its merits but the fear of getting a stray bullet or something in a mix-up had the effect of keeping hundreds of people away.

Plainfield Machinists' Union Appoints Committee to Consider Advisability.

FOR HOME OF ITS OWN

Lodge No. 167 Is One of the Strongest in the State and It's Treasury Is in Fine Condition.

Plainfield lodge, No. 167, International Association of Machinists, has under advisability the erection of a home of its own, or, as they are known in other cities, a "Labor Temple." At present its meetings are conducted in Trades Council hall on West Front street but it is not especially adapted to the organization's needs and the membership has been increasing so rapidly the quarters will soon be inadequate. At a recent meeting, the lodge officers appointed a committee to investigate local building conditions and present a report as to the cost, probable location and other matters relative to the erection of a suitable structure.

It was specified in the instructions to the committee that a three-story building in the business section of the city is what is needed. Stores for the first floor were to be considered; lodge rooms for the second and an assembly room for the third. The committee was also authorized to visit the temples in nearby places to secure suggestions and information.

Plainfield lodge, No. 167, is now one of the strongest branches of the order in the State, having over 500 members on its roll. It has had but little call on its resources since the machinists' strike five years ago and the excellent condition of the treasury is one of the reasons that induced the officers to consider having its own building. There is hardly a similar organization in the city that has its affairs better conducted and there is every prospect that the investigating committee will consider the matter in a full and impartial manner.

ANNOUNCE THEIR WEDDING.

Lawrence Miller and Miss Grace Murphy Were Married in New York on Aug. 22.

Lawrance Miller, son of Druggist Joseph G. Miller, of Union street, and Miss Grace Murphy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Murphy, of West Fifth street, announced today that they had been secretly married on August 22 last. The ceremony was performed in the City Hall, New York, by Alderman Romond, and was witnessed only by the groom's brother, Joseph Miller, and an intimate friend. Owing to illness in the bride's family, the announcement was deferred until the present time.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Miller are well known young people and the fact of the marriage has occasioned much surprise. They had been keeping company for some time and by their friends it was understood that they were to be wedded this month. They will make their home on Union street.

AT BROOKLYN BANQUET.

Forty Members of Jerusalem Chapter Attend Big Reception.

Jerusalem Chapter, R. A. M., sent forty members to Brooklyn last night to attend the reception tendered by Orient Chapter, No. 138, to Grand High Priest Derrick Brown, of Poughkeepsie, N. Y. Jerusalem was the only chapter invited in a body.

The reception culminated in an elaborate dinner, in the chapter banquet room, in the Johnston building, Nevins street, Brooklyn. Covers were laid for 360. Several grand chapter officers were present. B. Frank Corille, sojourner of Jerusalem chapter, responded to the address of welcome, speaking for High Priest Samuel Bingaman, who was unable to be present. The grand high priest was presented with a handsome jewel by Orient chapter.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

There are twenty musical numbers in "His Honor, The Mayor," all written in the best vein of Julian Edwards and Alfred E. Aarons. Many of them have proved to be the hits of the New York summer, especially "A Little Girl Like Me," with its refrain of "Kiss Me, Kiss Me, Kiss Me, don't be afraid I'll not say nay." They all will be heard at the New Plainfield theatre this afternoon and tonight, when "His Honor, the Mayor," reigns in Plainfield.

May Dunbar, in "His Honor, the Mayor," at New Plainfield Theatre This Afternoon and Evening.

A magnificent view of Pike's peak will be one of the scenes in "Caught In the Rain," in which William Collier will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre next Friday night. The story of the comedy is laid in and about the city of Denver and there is a real rain storm in the first act. The plot is woven about the love adventure of Dick Crawford (William Collier), a bashful young man whose mistake as to the identity of the girl he loves causes all sorts of complications. This mistake causes him to repudiate not only the girl but also a fortune and when he finds out his mistake he is heartbroken. In the end all comes out well, and the audience is sure to go away well pleased with the entertainment. Mr. Collier has long been recognized as one of the cleverest comedians on the stage and he is surrounded with a company of unusual merit including Nanette Comstock, Louise Drew, Jane Laurel, Helena Collier, George Nash, Wallace Eddinger, Grant Stewart (co-author, with Mr. Collier, of the play), and John Saville.

There are many vocations in life open to women, but there are others that would seem to be beyond the pale of feminine hands. Mme. Adelaide Herrmann, when she undertook to follow in the footsteps of her illustrious husband, attempted what was believed to be a herculean task. She is the only lady magician in the world and so great is her skill that few if any men, can compete with her. During her happy married life she was the constant companion of Mr. Herrmann, his only confidant, and to her he imparted all of the secrets of his profession. She will appear at the New Plainfield theatre, matinee and night, November 20.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY

Dunellen has again been first in paying her county and State school tax. H. Raymond Groves, the county collector, has sent Collector George W. Day a warm letter of thanks and commendation. By his promptness, Mr. Day has saved the taxpayers of the county $34.84 in interest money. The payment amounted to $4,180.69.

It is understood that no action will be taken by the Baptist church trustees toward securing a successor to Rev. Frank Fletcher until he retires on January 1. There is said to be a growing sentiment among the church members for a young and aggressive pastor.

The locomotive engineers and firemen and the conductors of the Central living in Dunellen are interested in steps that are being taken to have the road grant them a new schedule of wages. The trainmen and telegraphers have been advanced.

The annual mission Sunday will be observed at the Presbyterian church tomorrow. Rev. Dr. Robert Hamill Nassau will speak. Dr. Nassau spent forty-five years in Africa and his work there was surpassed only by that of Dr. Livingston.

"What Jesus Does for Men In Sorrow and Trouble," will be Rev. E. C. Dutcher's subject tomorrow morning. His evening discourse will be on "A Living Dog Is Better Than a Dead Lion."

The Y. P. S. C. E. held a business meeting and sociable at the home of the Misses Edna and Ethel Clum, last night. The social hour was much enjoyed. Refreshments were served.

David Bernard, the Levering & Garrigues employe whose leg was cut off as a result of injuries received at his work, has been donated a purse of $126 by his fellow-workmen.

The Presbyterian church is planning a two weeks' series of special services. Well known speakers will be heard on evangelical subjects.

Guns popped all about the outskirts of the borough and village this morning. Rabbits are reported plentiful and fat.

The churches will join in the usual union Thanksgiving service this fall. Rev. Frank Fletcher will preach the sermon.

D. F. Randolph passed his eightieth birthday last week. The day was quietly observed.

G. F. Giles, who was injured in a fall from a ladder, is able to go about.

Jacob Dobbin has moved to Somerville.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD

Services tomorrow at the Baptist church will be: Sunday-school at 9:30; morning preaching, 10:45; B. Y. P. U. meeting at 7:15; no evening preaching service will be held in the church on account of the congregation uniting with the Methodists in a union service at that church.

Excelsior Hook and Ladder Company has added a new hose cart to its working apparatus. The new cart is a great improvement over the old one, being more compact, only two wheels and can be handled to better advantage than the one that has been in service.

Today was dooms day for many of the "cottontails" as the open season started this morning. Many are contented to put in the day hunting in the woods and fields nearby, but there are several parties out for a stay of several days.

"The Clansman" was the attraction last night at the New Plainfield theatre. Tonight "His Honor, The Mayor." Manager Counihan is giving the amusement lovers the best attractions on the boards.

Manager Briant Johnston and Captain George Frentz, of the local ball team, attended the meeting of the new Inter-City League, held last night in the Y. M. C. A. rooms, Plainfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Hand, Mr. and Mrs. William Hull and Edwin Fancher comprise a hunting party that is trying their luck at Flanders, N. J.

Only the regular routine order of business and the filing of the election returns was transacted at the meeting of the Township Committee held last night.

Harold Todd, who has been spending several days at his home in the borough, has returned to his studies at Columbia College, New York.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Three members of the Morrison family at Oak Tree are ill with scarlet fever and the home is quarantined.

Mrs. W. E. VanCourt and children have been spending the week at Sewaren with relatives.

Sunday Roller Skating?

New York, Nov. 10.—Asserting that the purpose of the use of the Clermont Avenue Rink for roller skating on Sunday was to supply healthful exercise, Richard M. Cahoone, attorney for the management, applied to Judge Jaycox yesterday for an injunction restraining the Police Department from interfering in any way. Mr. Cahoone argued that there was no more reason why the place should be closed Sundays than that the parks should be closed. Judge Jaycox reserved decision.

—The Colored Diamond Star Band will hold a reception at the Plainfield Dancing Academy on West Front street, Thursday night, November 22. There will be music by the Twentieth Century Orchestra. Refreshments will be served.

Wings and Flies

By Tom Muir.

The New Plainfield theatre will have three dark nights next week, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. The most pretentious offering will be on Friday when Willie Collier returns to the city in his new play, "Caught in the Rain."

When the new schedule goes into effect on the New Jersey Central on November 18, the train now leaving Somerville at 6:45 in the evening will be put over to 7:15 for the benefit of those who attend the theatre in this city. The change is to be made by request and will afford the Somerset county playgoers an opportunity to make the trip easily and quickly.

In the matter of the legal complications which have arisen in regard to the title of May Irwin's new play, "Mrs. Wilson, That's All," which had its premiere in this city and is now playing at the Bijou theatre, New York, the Trademark Protective Association, acting for the Wilson Distilling Company, the complainants in the case, have withdrawn their application for an injunction on the promise of Miss Irwin to discontinue the use of the catch phrase, "That's All." In adopting the title originally Miss Irwin had no thought of infringing upon the rights of any one else, and while she believes that there are no legal restrictions to the use of it, rather than have any further trouble in the matter she has decided to make the change. Hereafter the play will be advertised as "Mrs. Wilson."

The likes and dislikes of theatregoers often lead to curious selections of plays. Some years ago, when Maude Granger, who is now appearing as Tante Anna with Miss Lena Ashwell, in "The Shulamite," at the Lyric, New York, was starring in "As You Like It," "Romeo and Juliet" and "Camille," she opened the new theatre at Colorado Springs, Col. It was left to the theatregoers of the town to select the play they most desired in her repertoire. It is rather curious that every sufferer from tuberculosis chose "Camille." When Kate Claxton appeared in "The Two Orphans" at Janesville, Wis., not long ago, the inmates of the blind asylum there expressed a desire to attend the performance. When Denman Thompson presented "The Old Homestead" at Los Angeles not long ago the inmates of the Institution for the Aged and Homeless were, by special request, allowed to see the performance. Misery evidently does love company.

Not in years has Frohman had such a superb list of attractions on "Broadway" as are being presented just now and that is saying a good deal. Among them are "The Hypocrites," the greatest dramatic triumph of a decade, at the Hudson; "The Little Cherub," a great musical comedy at the Criterion, with Hattie Williams; "His House in Order," A. W. Pinero's play, at the Hudson, with John Drew; "The Rich Mr. Hoggenheimer," with Sam Bernard at Wallacks; Montgomery and Stone in "The Red Mill" at the Knickerbocker; the "Yyon and the Mouse" at the Lyceum; William Gillette in his new place, "Clarice," at the Garrick, and Kyrle Bellew in Conan Doyle's new comedy, "Brigadier Gerard," at the Savoy.

Once when Chauncey Olcott was in Ireland he visited the Wishing Well at Killarney with two plain, elderly spinsters. Beside the well sat an old Irish woman, who looked up into Mr. Olcott's handsome face and asked:

"Phwat are you wishin' for?"

"What do you think I wish for?" he good naturely inquired.

"Och, thin, for a beautiful young swateheart, of course," said she.

He pointed to the two spinsters, who stood at a little distance, and said:

"Don't you see I have two with me?"

"Ah, then it's the grace o' God you'll be after wishin' for!" replied the sympathetic old woman.

Campbell Donald now plays the part of Laird O' Findon Haddock, in "About Town" at Lew Fields' Herald Square theatre, New York, taking the role temporarily filled by Joseph Herbert, author of the play. Mr. Donald is well known in the field of comic opera. He played four years with the Bostonians, was later with Henry Barnabee in vaudeville and supported Fritizi Scheff in Giorfie-Giorofia and other light operas.

American Volcano Starts Up.

Trinidad, Col., Nov. 10.—Culebra Peak, ten or twelve miles west of Stone Wall, Col., is reported in a state of eruption. The information comes from Postmaster Adolph H. Storz, who declares that smoke and vapor and huge tongues of flames hundreds of feet high were shooting into the air from the supposedly extinct volcano cone last night. The peak is in the great Sangre De Christo Range and is one of the loftiest in the United States, rising far above the timber line, so that the chance of the phenomenon being a forest fire is considered out of the question.

$2,000 Dog is Killed.

Lenox, Mass., Nov. 10.—"Tutu," William Pollock's Pomeranian dog, valued at more than $2,000, was killed today by two fox terriers owned by Marshall Kernochan. All the other dogs of the Pollock kennels seemed to like Tutu when people were present, but today, in the absence of Mr. and Mrs. Pollock, Mr. Kernochan's terriers pounced upon him and killed him in an instant.

Concrete Building Collapses.

Long Beach, Nov. 10.—Nine men were killed in the collapse of the Bixby Hotel, in course of construction here today. The structure is built of reinforced concrete, and faulty construction is alleged as the cause of the crash. The architect says the supports under the floors were not adequate for the mass of green cement above them.

Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Skillman, of this city, have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Charles Opie, of Harlingen.

Dr. and Mrs. T. S. Davis, of Park avenue, left yesterday for Atlantic City, where they will remain several days.

Mr. and Mrs. William Tunison, Jr., of East Fifth street, have returned from a visit with relatives at Somerville.

BARS FOR ASBURY PARK.

Republican Excise Board Favors Licenses.

Asbury Park, Nov. 10.—The election of the five Republican excise commissioners here Tuesday, if it is not legally interfered with, will result in liquor licenses being granted and the opening of bars for business on January 1, when the members go into office. The vote polled for the excise men was normally in line with that deposited for other candidates on the ticket, and opposition was confined to a series of sermons by local pastors for several days preceding the election.

The excise men's bonds and salaries will be fixed at the next meeting of council. They are pledged against the saloon and public bars, but favor licenses for regular hotels.

Trusts Raise Wages.

New York, Nov. 10.—It became known in Wall street yesterday that practically all the great railroad and industrial corporations of the country, the affairs of which the directed from this city, have decided to increase the prevailing rate of wages to their employees. It was predicted that the action of the Pennsylvania Railroad management in increasing the wages of its army of 165,000 men nearly $12,000,000 would soon be followed by all the important railroad and industrial corporations of the United States. The Standard Oil Company has decided to increase the wages of its 60,000 employees in different parts of the United States. The increases will be carried out through the company's subsidiary corporations.

FOOTBALL.

Alis is scheduled to play an game on Alis Common this afternoon with Roselle, and there promises to be a fine contest.

The Orange Field Club has practically decided to disband for the season. The club may be reorganized next year, but owing to the lack of good material it seems useless to continue longer this season.

Those who enjoy association football will have a chance to see a fine game this afternoon on the Clinton avenue grounds, when the Plainfield team will meet Clark's Field Club, of Newark.

Local Princeton graduates and enthusiastic admirers of the 'varsity football team are backing the Tigers for their game with Yale. The wearers of the orange and black certainly look about the strangest among the eastern colleges this year.

The record of the North Plainfield High School football eleven to date is an excellent one. The team has lost only one contest and that was to the Plainfield High School team before it disbanded. The records follows: N. P. H. S., 17; Holy Cross, 0; N. P. H. S., 4; Cedarcroft, 0; N. P. H. S., 0; Roselle, 0; N. P. H S, 5; Plainfield H. S., 10; N. P. H. S., 11; Westfield, 0; N. P. H. S., 4; Rahway, 0; N. P. H .S., 29; Roselle, 0; making a total of 70 for the borough boys against 10 for their opponents.

"After watching the game closely so far this season," says Dr. Huchins, coach at Wisconsin and a graduate physician, "I am convinced the new rules are beneficial to the players, for the reason that, though they tend to increase minor injuries, such as broken bones and strained tendons, the percentage of fatalities will be decreased greatly. I believe most of the injuries will be broken bones and twisted knee joints. The broken bones will come largely from being thrown hard in open field running, when a runner is tackled and thrown. The knee twists will come, I figure, more in the end runs and other line plays generally used this year. By dropping the old style of line plunging the danger of fatalities is greatly decreased. In those plays, when a man was called on to smash into the opposing line, almost like butting his head against a stone wall, something had to give way, and the result too often was injury to the head or neck that was far more serious than broken bones or twisted knees. Even the line men themselves were in danger in those plays, for where the play was piled up somebody was almost sure to be hurt, and the danger was that they would be hurt badly. I have talked with a number of other coaches in this section of the country, and I find they all hold practically the same views that I do in regard to the injuries. Of course, there have been some fatalities already this year, but I am confident that nine-tenths of the boys who have been killed should never have played the game at all, and would not have been permitted to do so had they had the examination to which a college man is subjected before he can play football. Such fatalities should not be permitted to weigh against the gridiron sport, for it is too often the fault of the parents, rather than the game, in permitting boys physically unable to stand such a sport to play it."

Coach Stagg, of the University of Chicago team, has at least seventy plays which he expects his men to use against Minnesota next Saturday. Stagg is a Yale man, and, like other Yale men, is keen to appreciate the possibilities of the new rules, whatever may be the actual success in drilling the players to make the most of them. Chicago's fleet halfback, Steffen, who, with Eckersall, is to be used extensively in carrying out the Stagg ideas, has a scheme of his own to practise broken field running. Two rows of posts about three yards apart are erected, and in and out between these Steffen, ball in arms, threads his way.

Walter McCormack, the former Northwestern University coach and old Dartmouth player, saw a game of Rugby in California recently, and was not impressed with it as a possible substitute for the American game. "Our American game," he said, "is greatly superior to Rugby in building up a young man." Western football coaches have been watching the progess of Rugby on the coast, there having been some talk of displacing the American game with Rugby among the Western "big nine," but the idea has not gained favor. It is even said that in California the students will petition for a return to the old game next year.

GOLF.

There will be only general play on the Park Golf Club course, this afternoon, the schedule for the season having been completed. In view of the interest aroused by the Hydewood cup competition it seems as though it would be a wise plan to occasionally have special events of that kind during the summer. No doubt something of that kind will be introduced next year. During October the attendance at the club was unusually large.

No doubt George L. Record has heard of the success of Charles A. Reed on the golf course this season, and the fact that he won three cups at the Park Golf Club, and for this reason refuses to play the former Senator from Somerset county. A match between these two distinguished golfers would be well worth seeing.

Events at the Plainfield County Club today inciude play for the November Handicap cup, the consolation and inconsolables' cup. The active season is rapidly drawing to a close and this month will see the finish of the schedule for 1906. It is understood that there will be many changes before the club opens next spring for the 1907 season.

The most important golfing event this week is the tournament at Atlantic City, which will be concluded today. The entry list was one of the largest ever received at the Country Club and the playing is unusually good.

"Marty" O'Loughlin is still keeping in condition by frequent playing over the Plainfield Country Club course. It is likely that he may take a trip south this winter to visit his friend, Eugene McCarthy, who was formerly the "pro" at the Plainfield Country Club. He is now in charge of all the athletics at the Columbia University, Columbia, S. C., and is meeting with success.

Rev. Dr. Carr, of Philadelphia, finished second in the opening day's play at Atlantic City on Thursday, with a score of 169, showing that ministers can play the game as well as any one else. It has been noted this year that ministers have been taking more interest than ever in the game. At the Park Golf Club, Rev. Dr. H. K. Carroll, Rev. C. L. Goodrich, Rev. J. O. McKelvey and Rev. L. R. Howard are among the most enthusiastic members of the organization and play every week.

Rescued From Inhuman Parents.

New York, Nov. 10.—Clad only in rags, his matted hair filled with dust and mud, his hands and face blue with cold, and demented, a six-year-old boy was found locked in a corn crib on the farm of his parents, Peter and Annie Nelson, in North Hempstead, yesterday morning by Detectives Lawlor and Bolton, of the Flushing police station. Neighbors had complained that the child had been kept in the crib for months and told of hearing his frequent cries of distress. The parents were arrested on charges of inhuman treatment. When the detectives entered the crib the boy pranced about on all fours, clawed at their clothes and jumped about like a dog, happy because he had been released. He spoke no intelligible words, but chattered in a jargon like that of a monkey.

Lord Mayor's Parade.

London, Nov. 10.—Sir William Treloar's term of office as Lord Mayor of London was inaugurated yesterday with the time honored pageant, but the usual symbolical cars were eliminated from the procession, which was representative of the civic history of London for the last seven centuries, each century being represented by a figure depicting the most famous Lord Mayor of the period, surrounded by his retinue, garbed in the dress of the period. The streets, as usual, were brilliantly decorated.

Poison Only Made Her Sick.

New York, Nov. 10.—Mistaking arsenic for a headache cure, Miss Ida McSweeney, of No. 218 Smith street, took so much of the posion yesterday morning that it only had the effect of making her very ill. She was taken to Long Island College Hospital, where it is expected that she will recover in a few days.

Rid Yourself of Unnecessary Burdens—A Plainfield Citizen Shows You How.

Don't bear unnecessary burdens.

Burdens of a bad back are unnecessary.

Get rid of them.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure bad backs;

Cure lame, weak and aching backs;

Cure every form of kidney ills.

Lots of local endorsement to prove this.

Mrs. E. Derflinger, of 219 Mansion place, Plainfield, N. J., says: "Several weeks ago I began to have heavy dull pains in the top and back of my head. Backache continually clung to me and it seemed to me that my kidneys were weak and gradually breaking down. I also had a tired feeling, with a sort of languor or general depression. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised, and as it was a case of 'any port in a storb,' I got a supply of this medicine at Randolph's pharmacy and before I had taken two boxes of it I found that my kidneys were acting stronger and better and the pains were leaving me. I continued with the treatment and am now able to say that Doan's Kidney Pills have cured me,—at least I am not troubled any more and feel well and strong in every way."

Medal for B. R. T.!

New York, Nov. 10.—Whether the improvements in its service announced by the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company are consequent upon the agitation against conditions that have existed or the result of encouragement given to the company by a jury of award at the Milan Exposition no one was able to say authoritatively yesterday, for the shock of the news brought from Italy by Dr. William H. Tolman, of the League for Social Service, seemed to paralyze the vocal cords of every Brooklyn resident who was questioned. "The exhibition of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company was composed mainly of photographs, showing what it had done to better the condition of its employes and the relations between them and their employers," said Dr. Tolman. Photographs of the bridge rush, the scenes of ten cent fare rows last summer, "strap-hangers" and a car in rush hours were not among those exhibited, according to Dr. Tolman.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 10.—Suit against the Standard Oil Company will probably be filed early next week by the government in St. Louis. Announcement of this effect from the Department of Justice today caused no surprise among those acquainted with the intentions of Attorney General Moody. This case, which will test the validity of the corporate existence of the Standard Oil Company and seek a permanent injunction against a cintinuance of its business, which the government maintains is in restraint of trade and in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law, will be a legal battle royal that will end only after the Supreme Court has finally passed upon the question.

Jockey Sewell Killed.

New York, Nov. 10.—L. Sewell, one of the best known jockeys on the American turf, died last night at fifteen minutes after eleven o'clock, in the home of his mother, Avenue U and Ninth street, Sheepshead Bay, as the result of injuries received in the sixth race on the Aqueduct race track yesterday. Sewell had the mount on W. S. House's bay horse Lichtmas. He had the horse in fifth position at the half mile post, where there was considerable crowding, and being on the inside position he was thrown on the rail, suffering internal injuries.

INCOMPLETE RETURNS CAUSING MUCH DELAY

PLAINFIELD AMONG THOSE WHICH HAVE NOT COMPLIED WITH LAW.

Owing to election officers not returning proper statements to the office of Union's county clerk as required by law, the county clerk is put to much delay and trouble in preparing the papers required of him.

The returns, according to law, should be in by 12 o'clock on the day following election. Election officers in many wards, townships and boroughs have failed to comply with the law.

No city returns from the First district of the Third ward, and First and Second districts of the Fourth ward, of Elizabeth, have as yet been filed. From the First district of the Tenth ward and First and Second districts of the Eleventh wards of Elizabeth no mention has been made in the returns regarding the vote cast for justices of the peace. The same is true of the following places:

Plainfield—Second ward, First and Second districts; Third ward, First and Second districts; Fourth ward, First and Second districts.

Summit—First ward, First and Second districts; Second ward, First and Second districts.

Westfield—Third ward.

Linden township, New Providence township, Fanwood borough, Garwood, Linden borough, Mountainside borough, New Providence borough and Roselle Park.

From the following places the proper returns have not been received of the votes cast for members of the Legislature and county officers:

Elizabeth—Third ward, First district; Sixth ward, Second district; Eleventh ward, First district.

Plainfield—Third ward, First district; Fourth ward, First and Second districts.

Failures to make proper returns for the vote cast for members of Congress are also reported as follows:

Elizabeth—First ward, Second district; Tenth ward, First district; Eleventh ward, First district.

Plainfield—Second ward, First and Second districts; Third ward, First district, and Fourth ward, First and Second districts.

Westfield—Third ward.

Springfield township and Fanwood borough.

The Union County Board of Elections will meet on Monday to canvass the vote. The board is required by law to meet on Monday at noon, and to adjourn from day to day until the entire vote is canvassed. It is possible that the board will be hampered by the failure of some of the election officers to make proper returns. But in this case constables will be sent after the delinquents. In some counties there is a fine if an election officer does not fill out all the returns properly and present them on time.

Gangerene Sets In.

John Sayre, a harness maker of East Front street, is in a serious condition at the hospital, suffering from gangerene. Two weeks ago he paired a corn on his toe, and being a sufferer from diabetes gangerene quickly developed. In his present condition amputation of the leg is impossible, and unless he gains more strength the physician in charge will not be able to remove the diseased member.

Italian Injured at Ponds.

Joe Mello, an Italian, aged 24 years, employed as a laborer at the Pond Machine Tool Works, had his foot crushed while at work this morning. He sent to the hospital in the ambulance, had the foot dressed and returned to his home in Westfield.

MACLAY LECTURES ON VALE OF KASMER

TALKS TO HIGH SCHOOL BOYS ON FAMOUS SPOT IN BRITISH INDIA.

"In the Vale of Kasmer," was the subject of an illustrated lecture given by Arthur C. Maclay before the pupils of the Plainfield High School, yesterday afternoon. With the aid of fine views he gave a vivid account of his own town, the Vale of Kashmer, which is located in the most northern extremity of British India, the most mountainous country in the world.

Mr. Maclay said that a good deal of traveling is done on moonlight night according to the custom of the country. His description of the crafty guide showed that even the Hindu is not free from graft. The period that the lecture covered was during a famine year, and the awful conditions of the people were shown in all their terrifying aspects. The inner history of the famine was touched upon, showing that in every decade occurs a famine and ten millions of people die.

Mr. Maclay gave a very comprehensive and interesting description of the wild and majestic scenery of the Himalaya Mountains, and showed conclusively that Thomas Moore's poem of the Vale of Kashmer is an utter impossibility and untrue to nature. In speaking of the slovenly habits of the natives Mr. Maclay said that the Hindu is as near hybrinating as a human being can. He rolls himself in a blanket and sleeps, rising only to eat. They are densely ignorant, he said, have no pity, and are superstitious. A Mohamadan will not drink after a Christian, and when in a starving condition will choose death rather than accept food from a Christian.

The majority of the buildings in the Vale of Kashmer are frail, being of the simplest forms of architecture. No industry is carried on, other than the manufacture of blankets and shawls which are made of the long hair of the native goat.

This was the first of a series of illustrated lectures which I. W. Travell has planned for the benefit of the pupils.

"A Young Man Who Turned Out Better Than His Mother Expected," will be the subject of the sermon by Rev. C. E. Herring at the First Presbyterian church tomorrow morning. In the evening, Rev. Dr. J. N. Sproull will talk on Y. M. C. A. work.

George A. Warburton, secretary of the railroad branch of the Y. M. C. A., will speak at Grace M. E. church tomorrow morning, and in the evening the pastor, Rev. Dr. C. W. Parsons, will preach on the subject, "Run, Speak to that Young Man."

Charles W. Deitrick, representing the Y. M. C. A., will speak at the Park Avenue Baptist church tomorrow morning. In the evening the pastor, Rev. A. E. Finn, will preach the third in the series of special sermons on "The Voice of God in the Way of Life," his topic being "What God Says to Me as a Young Woman."

Veteran of African Field.

The missionary anniversary of the Dunellen Presbyterian Sunday-school will be held tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock. The classes will bring their offerings for the year. An address will be delivered by Rev. Robert Hamill Nassau, M. D., S. T. D., who has spent forty-five years in pioneer missionary work in the Gabun district, West Africa. Dr. Nassau is regarded as second only to the celebrated Dr. Livingston in the work of Christianizing Darkest Africa.

Fred Reid has been appointed assistant business manager of the Plainfield High School basket-ball team.

tant matter that I think it should be made the subject of a conference. I would like to see a number of the representative men of the party get together and talk the matter over before any action is taken.

"You will recall," went on Mr. Hillery, "that during by debate with Senator Colby, when he asked me if I was pledged to vote for the re-election of Senator Dryden, I told him that I was not pledged to anybody; that I intended to keep myself free to vote for whatever man the sentiment of the people seem dto indicate would be most acceptable. If a prominent man, well qualified for the position, should come forward in my own county I would feel called upon to vote for him.

"However, January is a long way off, and the situation may be entirely changed by that time. I don't care to say anything further just now, excepting to repeat that I think there should be a conference of the principal men in the party to talk over the situation."

"You will say," the Morris Senator was asked, "that you are not pledged to Mr. Dryden."

"I am not pledged to anybody" was his answer.

Senator Bloomfield H. Minch, of Cumberland, in response to a query as to who he favored for Mr. Dryden's successor, laconically answered: "Myself."

"Then you are sure of at least one vote?" was suggested.

"Oh, no, I did not say I would vote for myself; when it comes to voting that is another matter."

When told of Senator Ackerman's declaration in favor of Stokes, provided South Jersey wanted the office, Mr. Minch became more interested and said:

"Well, that is encouraging news. The Governor, all of South Jersey and our home county of Cumberland ought to feel gratified."

"Down our way it seemed to be genearlly understood that we were all for Dryden provided he carried his own county. He failed in that, and it is not probable that Senator Colby will submit his name to our calcus. This would seem to leave Essex without a candidate, unless Senator Colby names some one else." And with that the Cumberland Senator closed the interview.

Senator Everett Colby was asked last night at his home in West Orange for whom he would vote for United States Senator. He declined to commit himself at this time.

Senator Colby said he would see personally every man who announces himself a candidate to succeed Senator Dryden before he decided upon whom he would vote for. He said he was especially interested to learn the attitude of the men who are being considered toward President Roosevelt's policies. He would not say whether or not he would support Governor Stokes.

In reference to the resignation of Lentz, Mr. Colby said: "I have no feeling of exultation at Major Lentz's retirement nor any feeling against him personally. I simply think he has done the wise thing."

Special Master's Sale.

There will be a special master's sale of real estate at the Somerset Hotel, 97 Somerset street, Wednesday afternoon, November 21, at 2 o'clock. A fifty-one acre tract located on the northwesterly side of Greenbrook road, near West End avenue; a second tract of fifty acres adjoining the first and a tract of woodland 19½ acres on the mountain top, in North Plainfield township, will be sold at public auction, pursuant to a suit for partition, John R. Stine and others being the complainants and Thomas A. Stine and others, the defendants. John H. Van Winkle is the special master.

Enormous Profit in Squabs

There is more than FOUR TIMES MORE MONEY IN SQUABS than in chickens with less than ONE-THIRD original outlay!

Being small and hardy, they can be raised easily with little cost in any disused shed, out-house or loft, and can be tended out of business hours.

DEMAND ALWAYS EXCEEDS SUPPLY—you can sell at your own door for as high as $1.50 a pair all you can raise, and they GROW TO MARKETABLE SIZE IN FOUR WEEKS.

How to start, how to fit your breeding pen, how to feed, and how to sell told in SQUAB RAISING FOR PROFIT AND PLEASURE, by K. Alexander.

Sent postpaid upon receipt of $1.00.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Rev. A. C. Attlee will occupy the pulpit in the Baptist church as usual tomorrow. The subject for the morning sermon will be "Emmaus," after which the ordinance of the Lord's Supper will be observed; evening subject, "Esther;" Christian Endeavor before the evening service, led by Mrs. Johnson, topic, "Bearing Our Sorrows."

Peter McDonough is building several houses on Clinton avenue. He is one of South Plainfield's most enterprising citizens and is doing much toward the improvement of the town.

The Piscataway school board held a meeting in Nelson's hotel yesterday afternoon, and business of importance was transacted.

The Valentine farm near Road Ending has been sold, and the family will move to Plainfield in the near future.

(Additional suburban news on page 2).

REVIVAL AT SCOTCH PLAINS.

Baptist and Methodist Churches Will Hold Union Services.

Believing that the time is ripe for a spiritual awakening in Scitch Plains, Rev. T. Moore-Smith, pastor of the Baptist church, and Rev. A. H. Cook, of the Methodist church, there have arranged to hold revival services for two weeks, commencing tomorrow night in the Methodist church. During the first week the services will be held in the latter church and Rev. T. Moore-Smith will preach. The services will be held at the Baptist church during the second week with Rev. Mr. Cook in charge. There will be several other and well-known speakers.

It is several years since revival services have been held at Scotch Plains. The series of special meetings in this city has had a tendency to stir the people of the village and awaken their interest in religious affairs.

Interesting Vacation Talk.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of Trinity Commandery, No. 17, K. T., met yesterday and enjoyed an informal talk by Mrs. Winfield S. Angleman, who told of her vacation trip which was spent at "Ontura Park," Tannersville, N. Y. There was some discussion as to an entertainment to be held next month. At the close of the meeting yesterday tea was served.

Hackmen Arrested.

Peter Seader and Charles Barry, hackmen, were arrested this morning on a charge of fighting at the North avenue station Thursday night. They will be arraigned before Judge Runyon Monday.

A Song Recital.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

THE CABINET AND STATES.

The proposed readjustment of President Roosevelt's Cabinet has called forth some talk about "geographical lines." An examination of the official record shows that Cabinet positions have since the organization of the Government been distributed as follows: New York, 30 members; Pennsylvania, 28; Massachusetts, 23; Ohio, 20; Virginia, 16; Maryland, 14; Kentucky, 12; Indiana, 11; Connecticut, 8; Tennessee, 8; Georgia, 8; Iowa, 8; Maine, 6; Missouri, 6; Illinois, 6; Wisconsin, 6; New Jersey, 5; Michigan, 5; Delaware, 4; South Carolina, 3; Louisiana, 3; New Hampshire, 3; District of Columbia, 3; Minnesota, 3; West Virginia, 3; Vermont, 2; California, 2; Colorado, 1; Arkansas, 1; Alabama, 1; Nebraska, 1; and Oregon, 1. In this office of Postmaster-General is not included until the Administration of President Jackson, when it was first raised to that dignity. No cabinet officer has yet been taken from Florida, Idaho, Kansas, Montana, North Dakota, South Dakota, Texas, Utah, Washington or Wyoming. Virginia was not without a place in the Cabinet from the organization of the Government until the administration of Andrew Jackson, when it dropped from the cabinet roll and was not restored until Tyler became President. Since 1860 the State has not had a member of the Cabinet, except for one month during Grant's second term, when James W. Marshall served as Postmaster-General for that length of time. It was not until Cleveland's first term that Arkansas had a Cabinet place, and not until his second that Alabama had that honor. Monroe was the first to call a South Carolinian into the Cabinet, and his choice was John C. Calhoun, who served as Secretary of War through both administrations. The State did not have another until Van Buren's time, when Joel R. Poinsett became Secretary of War. When Tyler's Cabinet broke to pieces he called Calhoun into the Cabinet again; this time as Secretary of State.—Elizabeth Journal.

Dryden and a Hint.

Unlike the man who was kicked downstairs from the second story, Senator Dryden, of New Jersey, cannot take a hint. That part of the State Republican machine with which he was most prominently identified, the machine which Major Carl Lentz ran so imprudently in Essex county for the exploitation of the public, collided with an enraged electorate last Tuesday and was dented, battered and smashed into almost unrecognizable vestiges. Yet here is Senator Dryden saying:

"The decision at the primaries, made by the Republican voters of the State at large, was by a large majority in my favor. I was therefore made the candidate of the entire party in the State, and having become such consider it my duty to be the candidate. It is for that reason that I am confident of the support of the Republicans in the Legislature."

One hardly knows what to admire most in Senator Dryden, his density or his bump of self-esteem. His assertion that his candidacy for reelection was indorsed at the September primaries is made against the plain facts. The only candidate who had come sufficiently forward to be counted as in opposition to him was George L. Record, and of Record it can be fairly said that while many Republicans were sure that they loved Dryden less they were not sure that they loved Record more. Again, a host of Republicans voted at the primaries without regard to Senatorial ambitions but solely according to excise law opinions and prejudices, and nobody should know that better than Senator Dryden himself, for his own personal property, the Essex county machine, made the Bishops' law the leading ante-primary issue, with the express aim of diverting attention from Senator Dryden.

Still, allowing Senator Dryden all the consolation he may derive from the September primaries, it is difficult to see how he can construe the result of the election this week as an expression of popular favor. That part of the Republican machine which operated in Hudson county went to worse smash even than did the Essex county apparatus, and Hudson county is the home both of George L. Record, who appealed for Republican support in the primaries as a rival to Senator Dryden, and Col. Edwin A. Stevens, who came out during the ante-election campaign as a candidate for Democratic and independent support to succeed Dryden. Moreover, the way in which the Republicans who follow Mark Fagan, the Hudson county leader of the New Idea or Colby movement, slaughtered the ticket put up by Col. Samuel D. Dickinson, the county machine boss, was quite as appalling, from the boss point of view, as the way in which the same kind of Republicans in Essex county eviscerated the ticket put up by Boss Lentz. Through all the upper part of the State only pieces of the Republican machine survive, and Senator Dryden's hope for re-election hangs on the slender control of the Legislature on joint ballot which is derived from the strongholds of Republicanism in the lower counties. Yet northern New Jersey has both Senators now.

If Senator Dryden cannot take a hint, perhaps the Republicans of South Jersey can. They have received no mandate from the northrne counties to send Senator Dryden back to Washington. In Dryden's home county he has been disavowed and the detested Lentz, held in power by Dryden and his associates, despite the twice-rendered verdict of the voters, appears at last to have been booted int othat nowhere from which beaten bosses rarely emerge. If the Republicans of southern New Jersey are wise they will insist on some other candidate than Dryden for the Senate. He has already cost New Jersey Republicanism dear, and the reviving Democracy, flushed with a success that must surprise them, may not have much trouble in making the reconquet of the State complete if the Republican party in general proves as impervious to a hint as Dryden in particular appears to be. —New York Evening Sun.

GOTHAM'S AMUSEMENTS

While Lew Fields acquired the Herald Square theatre, New York, he determined to give Broadway the strongest cast and the best value possible. The result was even more than was promised and the cemodian heads a phenominal cast, including Edna Wallace Hopper, Louise Dresser, Elita Proctor Otis, Louise Allen Collier, George Beban, Harry Fisher, Lawrence Grossmith, Jack Norworth and Campbell—all stars of popular prominence—with several lesser lights of ability and the prettiest chorus ever brought together.

Lew Fields's "bridget whist" burlesque of the popular game, in "About Town" at the Herald Square theatre, ew York, is not always a parody, for all four who take part in it are expert bridge players. Mr. Fields is still "sore" over a trick played on him a few nights ago. It was agreed that the hand should be played "on the square" for a lunch after the performance. In the latitude the stage game allows, Beban, Fisher and Norworth, "jobbed" the comedian and he was properly scalped by the conspirators. He paid the debt, but vows vengance.

Fay Templeton, who made a tremendous hit in George M. Cohan's music play, "45 Minutes from Broadway," at the New Amsterdam theatre last season is filling a brief engagement at the New York theatre in the same vehicle. Her supporting company is identically the same as when she played at the New Amsterdam, and will include Victor Moore as "Kid" Burns, Emma Littlefield, Julia Ralph, Marion Singer, Donald Brian, Charles Prince, James H. Manning and Louis Grisel.

Klaw & Erlanger's greatest production, "The Prince of India," will end its ten weeks engagement at the Broadway theatre Saturday evening, Nov. 24th, and on Monday evening, the 26th inst., will give place to Anna Held and her company in "A Parisian Model." "The Prince of India" could undoubtedly remain at the Broadway theatre till spring, playing to capacity, but as Klaw & Erlanger have made it a rule never to break a contract, the route booked before the Broadway theatre run began will be played without change and Miss Held will be given her New York date as originally planned. The week beginning Nov. 26th, "The Prince of India" will be presented at the Newark theatre in Newark; December 3d at the Broadway theatre in Brooklyn borough, and December 10th, for two weeks, at the Garrick theatre in Philadelphia. The great production will be staged in these theatres exactly as presented at the Broadway, with Emmett Corrigan, William Farnum, Boyd Putnam, Julius McVickar and Adelaide Keim in the leading roles. Beginning next Monday, "The Prince of India" will remain at the Broadway but one week longer.

Declares Cancer Curable.

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 10.—Cancer is far from incurable, according to Dr. Nicholas Senn. In a lecture on "The Problem of Cancer," in the University of Chicago, Dr. Senn declared fifty per cent. of the cases brought to the attention of physicians in the earliest stages might be cured.

THE DELUGE

By DAVID GRAHAM PHILLIPS, Author of "THE COST," etc.

(COPYRIGHT 1905 by the BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY)

Not until I had gone over the situation with Farquhar, and we had signed and exchanged the necessary papers, did I begin to relax from the strain—how great that strain was I realized a few weeks later, when the gray appeared thick at my temples and there was in my crown what was, for such a shock as mine, a thin spot. "I am saved!" said I to myself, venturing a long breath, as I stood on the steps of Galloway's establishment, where hourly was transacted business vitally affecting the welfare of scores of millions of human beings, with James Galloway's personal interest as the sole guiding principle. "Saved!" I repeated, and not until then did it flash before me, "I must have paid a frightful price. He would never have consented to interfere with Roebuck as soon as I asked him to do it, unless there had been some powerful motive. If I had had my wits about me, I could have made far better terms." Why hadn't I my wits about me? "Anita" was my instant answer to my own question. "Anita again. I had a bad attack of family man's panic." And thus it came about that I went back to my office, feeling as if I had suffered a severe defeat, instead of jubilant over my narrow escape.

Joe followed me into my den. "What luck?" asked he, in the tone of a mother waylaying the doctor as he issues from the sick-room.

"Luck?" said I, gazing blankly at him.

"You've seen the latest quotation, haven't you?" In his nervousness his temper was on a fine edge.

"No," replied I indifferently. I sat down at my desk and began to busy myself. Then I added: "We're out of the Coal combine. I've transferred our holdings. Look after these things, please." And I gave him the checks, notes and memoranda of agreement.

"Galloway!" he exclaimed. And then his eye fell on the totals of the stock I had been carrying. "Good God, Matt!" he gasped. "Ruined!"

And he sat down, and buried his face and cried like a child—it was then that I measured the full depth of the chasm I had escaped. I made no such exhibition of myself, but when I tried to relight my cigar my hand trembled so that the flame scorched my lips.

"Ruined?" I said to Joe, easily enough. "Not at all. We're back in the road, going smoothly ahead—only, at a bit less stiff a pace. Think Joe, of all those poor devils down in the mining districts. They're out—clear out—and thousands of 'em don't know where their families will get bread. And though they haven't found it out yet, they've got to leave the place where they've lived all their lives, and their fathers before them—have got to go wandering about in a world that's as strange to them as the surface of the moon, and as bare for them as the Sahara desert."

"That's so," said Joe. "It's hard luck." But I saw he was thinking only of himself and his narrow escape from having to give up his big house and all the rest of it; that, soft-hearted and generous though he was, to those poor chaps and their wives and children he wasn't giving a thought.

"You've done a grand two hours' work," said Joe.

"Grander than you think," replied I. "I've set the tiger on to fight the bull."

"Galloway and Roebuck?"

"Just that," said I. And I laughed, started up, sat down again. "No, I'll put off the pleasure," said I. "I'll let Roebuck find out, when the claws catch in that tough old hide of his."

XXVI.

A CONSPIRACY AGAINST ANITA.

On about the hottest afternoon of that summer I had the yacht take me down the Sound to a point on the Connecticut shore within sight of Dawn Hill, but seven miles farther from New York. I landed at the private pier of Howard Forrester, the only brother of Anita's mother. As I stepped upon the pier I saw a fine-looking old man in the pavilion overhanging the water. He was dressed all in white except a sky-blue tie that harmonized with the color of his eyes. He was neither fat nor lean, and his smooth skin was protesting ruddily against the age proclaimed by his wool-white hair. He rose as I came toward him, and, while I was still several yards away, showed unmistakably that he knew who I was and that he was anything but glad to see me.

"Mr. Forrester?" I asked.

He grew purple to the line of his thick white hair. "It is, Mr. Blacklock," said he. "I have the honor to wish you good day, sir." And with that he turned his back on me and gazed out toward Long Island.

"I have come to ask a favor of you, sir," said I, as polite to that hostile back as if I had been addressing a cordial face. And I waited.

He wheeled round, looked at me from head to foot. I withstood the inspection calmly; when it was ended I noted that in spite of himself he was somewhat relaxed from the opinion of me he had formed upon what he had heard and read. But he said: "I do not know you, sir, and I do not wish to know you."

"You have made me painfully aware of that," replied I. "But I have learned not to take snap judgments too seriously. I never go to a man unless I have something to say to him, and I never leave until I have said it."

"I perceive, sir," retorted he, "you have the thick skin necessary to living up to that rule." And the twinkle in his eyes betrayed the man who delights to exercise a real or imaginary talent for caustic wit. Such men are like nettles—dangerous only to the timid touch.

"On the contrary," replied I, easy in mind now, though I did not anger

him by showing it, "I am most sensitive to insults—insults to myself. But you are not insulting me. You are insulting a purely imaginary, hearsay person who is, I venture to assure you, utterly unlike me, and who doubtless deserves to be insulted."

His purple had now faded. In a far different tone he said: "If your business in any way relates to the family into which you have married, I do not wish to hear it. Spare my patience and your time, sir."

"It does not," was my answer. "It relates to my own family—to my wife and myself. As you may have heard, she is no longer a member of the Ellersley family. And I have come to you chiefly because I happened to know your sentiment toward the Ellersleys."

"I have no sentiment toward them, sir!" he exclaimed. "They are non-existent, sir — non-existent! Your wife's mother ceased to be a Forrester when she married that scoundrel. Your wife is still less a Forrester."

"True," said I. "She is a Blacklock."

He winced, and it reminded me of the night of my marriage and Anita's expression when the preacher called her by her new name. But I held his gaze, and we looked each at the other fixedly for, it must have been, full half a minute. Then he said courteously: "What do you wish?"

I went straight to the point. My color may have been high, but my voice did not hesitate as I explained: "I wish to make my wife financially independent. I wish to settle on her an income that will enable her to live as she has been accustomed. I know she would not take it from me. So, I have come to ask you to pretend to give it to her—I, of course, giving it to you to give."

Again we looked full and fixedly each at the other. "Come to the house, Blacklock," he said at last in a tone that was the subtlest of compliments. And he linked his arm in mine. Halfway to the rambling stone house, severe in its lines, yet fine and homelike, quaintly resembling its owner, as a man's house always should be paused. "I owe you an apology," said he. "After all my experience of this world of envy and malice, I should have recognized the man even in his caricatures of his enemies. And you brought the best possible credentials—you are well hated. To be well hated by the human race and by the creatures mounted on its back is a distinction, sir. It is the crown of the true kings of this world."

We seated ourselves on the wide veranda; he had champagne and water brought, and cigars; and we proceeded to get acquainted—nothing promotes cordiality and sympathy like an initial misunderstanding. It was a good hour before this kind-hearted, hard-soft, typical old-fashioned New Englander reverted to the subject of my visit. Said he: "And now young man, may I venture to ask some extremely personal questions?"

"In the circumstances," replied I, thing. I did not come to you without first making sure what manner of man I was to find." At this he blushed, pleased as a girl at her first beau's first compliment. "And you, Mr. Forrester, cannot be expected to embark in the little adventure I propose, until you have satisfied yourself."

"First, the why of your plan."

"I am in active business," replied I, "and I shall be still more active. That means financial uncertainty."

His suspicion of me started up from its doze and rubbed its eyes. "Ah! You wish to insure yourself."

"Yes," was my answer, "but not in the way you hint. It takes away a man's courage just when he needs it most, to feel that his family is involved in his venture."

"Why do you not make the settlement direct?" he asked, partly reassured.

"Because I wish her to feel that it is her own, that I have no right over it whatever."

He thought about this. His eyes were keen as he said, "Is that your real reason?"

I saw I must be unreserved with him. "Part of it," I replied. "The rest is—she would not take it from me."

The old man smiled cynically. "Have you tried?" he inquired.

"If I had tried and failed, she would have been on the alert for an indirect attempt."

"Try her, young man," said he, laughing. "In this day there are few people anywhere who'd refuse any sum from anybody for anything. And a woman — and a New York woman—and a New York fashionable woman—and a daughter of old Ellersly—she'll take it as a baby takes the breast."

"She would not take it," said I.

My tone, though I strove to keep angry protest out of it, because I needed him, caused him to draw back instantly. "I beg your pardon, said he. "I forgot for the moment that I was talking to a man young enough still to have youth's delusions about women. You'll learn that they're human, that it's from them we men inherit our weaknesses. However, let's assume that she won't take it. Why won't she take your money? What is there about it that repels Ellersly's daughter, brought up in the sewers of fashionable New York—the sewers, sir!"

"She does not love me," I answered.

"I have hurt you," he said quickly, in great distress at having compelled me to expose my secret wound.

"The wound does not ache the worse," said I, "for my showing it—to you." And that was the truth. I looked over toward Dawn Hill whose towers could just be seen. "We live there." I pointed. "She is—like a guest in my house."

When I glanced at him again, his face betrayed a feeling of which I doubt if any one had thought him capable in many a year. "I see that you love her," he said, gently as a mother.

"Yes," I replied. And presently I went on: "The idea of any one I love being dependent on me in a sordid way is most distasteful to me. And since she does not love me, does not even like me, it is doubly necessary that she be independent."

"I confess I do not quite follow you," said he.

"How can she accept anything from me? If she should finally be compelled by necessity to do it, what hope could I have of her ever feeling toward me as a wife should feel toward her husband?"

At this explanation of mine his eyes sparkled with anger—and I could not but suspect that he had at one time in his life been faced with a problem like mine, and had settled it the other way. My suspicion was not weakened when he went on to say:

"Boyish motives again! They show you do not know women. Don't be deceived by their delicate exterior, by their pretenses of super-refinement. They affect to be what passion deludes us into thinking them. But they're clay, sir, just clay, and far less sensitive than we men. Don't you see, young man, that by making her independent you're throwing away your best chance of winning her? Women are like dogs—like dogs, sir! They lick the hand that feeds 'em—lick it, and like it."

"Possibly," said I, with no disposition to combat views based on I knew not what painful experience. "But I don't care for that sort of liking—from a woman, or from a dog."

"It's the only kind you'll get," retorted he, trying to control his agitation. "I'm an old man. I know human nature—that's why I live alone. You'll take that kind of liking, or do without."

"Then I'll do without," said I.

"Give her an income, and she'll go, I see it all. You've flattered her vanity by showing your love for her—that's the way with women. They go crazy about themselves, and forget all about the man. Give her an income and she'll go."

"I doubt it," said I. "And you would, if you knew her. But, even so, I shall lose her in any event. For, unless she is made independent, she'll certainly go with the last of the little money she has, the remnant of a small legacy."

The old man argued with me, the more vigorously, I suspect, because he found me resolute. When he could think of no new way of stating his case—his case against Anita—he said: "You are a fool, young man—that's clear. I wonder such a fool was ever able to get together as much property as report credits you with. But—you're the kind of fool I like."

"Then—you'll indulge my folly?" said I, smiling.

The Constant Wearing of a Hat Propogates Dandruff Germs.

There are many men who wear their hats practically all the time when awake, and are blessed with a heavy shock of hair; yet if the scalps of these same men once became infested with dandruff germs, the parasites would multiply all the quicker for lack of air. Baldness would ensue as the final result. Newbro's Herpicide kills these germs and stimulates unhealthy hair to abundant growth. Herpicide is a pleasant hair dressing as well as a dandruff cure and contains not an atom of injurious substance. Sold by leading druggists. Pleased With The Prudential Dividend.
$416 Added To His Insurance.

Brooklyn, N. Y., July 18, 1906.
The Prudential Insurance Co. of America,
Newark, N. J.
Gentlemen:

I am in receipt of statement of dividend on my $8,000 policy, taken with The Prudential five years ago.

I notice I can have either $228.80 in cash or have $416 added to my policy, or reduction of premium for next five years of $48.86 per annum.

I desire to take advantage of Option No. 2 and have $416 added to my policy, which I consider a liberal amount and one which speaks well for the management of The Prudential Insurance Company.

I have recommended quite a number of my friends to take out a policy in your Company and shall certainly continue to do so.

Very truly yours,
(Signed) H. H. L.

BASEBALL LEAGUE SHUTS DOOR FINALLY

DENIES APPLICANTS AND DECIDES ON FIVE-CLUB RACE.

Admission was denied to the two Westfield teams and the All-Americans, a colored team, by the new amateur baseball league, last night. It was the consensus of opinion that a five-club league, as it is now constituted, is the best form of organization.

It was felt that Westfield was too far away for handy trips, anyway. With five clubs, the league season will not be unhandily long, and open dates, which all of the quintet want, will be available.

The league voted last night to penalize any team that fails to appear on the field, or leaves before a game has ended. To do either will cost a team $15. Stricter lines of amateurity were drawn. No league player will be allowed to continue with his club if he accepts a cent for his services anywhere during the season. All names must be in by June 1.

The schedule was talked over in a cursory way, but the make-up was left to a committee The latter is made up of the team managers and President J W. Gavett. The body will meet November 23.

ROD AND GUN.

John T. Case and Andrew Lutkins, of the borough, left last night for Califon, Hunterdon county, where they will spend several days hunting for cottontails.

Night Bank on Wheels.

New York, Nov. 10.—Customers of the Night and Day Bank had a new convenience at their service last night in the shape of a burglar proof automobile which the bank sends around at night for the collection and delivery of money and valuables. The vehicle is bullet proof, carries a large safe bolted to the running gear and when stopped cannot be started by a chauffeur not in possession of its secret mechanism. Since the bank began doing business last May, the number of night customers has increased to such an extent that for some time a small automobile has been used in making collections from the theatres and resturants. Automobile builders were set at the task of constructing a machine which could be handled by two men with comparative safety. There were two difficulties to overcome; first, to construct such a vehicle that the messengers could not run away with it, and, second, to have it so built that if robbers killed the chauffeur and messenger they could not get away with the money and valuables. The managers believe they have solved both problems.

Auto Travel for Big Circus.

New York, Nov. 10.—Barnum & Bailey's "Greatest Show on Earth" has sounded the doo mof the picturesque six, eight and ten horse circus driver and of the gorgeously caparisoned and plumed steed of the parade. The organization will tour the country in mammoth automobiles, beginning next year, it was announced by "Tody" Hamilton yesterday afternoon. With the news of this radical departure from all custom and tradition came information of the dissolution of the Circus Trust and the resumption of the old time hostility. This will mean a renewal, after this year, of the bitter warfare which characterized circus conduct until the late James A. Bailey formed a friendly business union.

METROPOLITAN GOLFERS TO DINE AT DELMONICO'S.

Leighton Calkins Issues Notices of Annual Meeting to Be Held on December 11.

The annual meeting of the Metropolitan Golf Association will be held at Delmonico's, Fifth avenue and 44th street, New York, Tuesday night, December 11, at 8:30 o'clock, Leighton Calkins, the secretary, having sent out notices to the members. Each club is entitled to be represented by two voting delegates and they must be certified to be club secretaries. The following nominations have been made by the nominating committee:

President, William Fellowes Morgan; vice-president, Arden M. Robbins; secretary, Leighton Calkins; treasurer, Frank C. Jennings; executive committee, the above officers and Simeon Ford, Paul Wilcox, Geo. T. Brokaw, John R. Maxwell, Jr., and S. Vilas Beckwith.

The following amendments to the constitution have been proposed and will be voted upon at the meeting.

1. Section 1, of Article III, which now reads as follows:

"The membership of this Association shall be limited to the associate and allied clubs of the United States Golf Association within fifty-five miles of New York, including the whole of Long Island."

To be amended so as to read as follows:

"The membership of this Association shall be limited to clubs located within fifty-five miles of New York City, including the whole of Long Island."

2. Add the following as a new section to Article III:

"No player shall be eligible to compete for the amateur championship of the Association unless he is a bona fide resident of the district covered by the Association and a member in good standing of a club belonging to the Association."

3. Article VII, which reads as follows:

"The fiscal year shall end on the 30th of November. The yearly dues shall be $10.00, payable on the first day of January in each year."

To be amended so as to read as follows:

"The fiscal year shall end on the 30th of November. The yearly dues shall be $15.00 payable on the first day of January in each year."

4. Article VII, which now reads as above stated, to be amended so as to read as follows:

"The fiscal year shall end on the 30th of November. The yearly dues shall be $20.00, payable on the 1st day of January in each year."

Although each club in the Association can be represented by only two voting delegates, all members of clubs belonging to the Association are cordially invited to be present at the meeting.

Russian Train Robbery.

Rogow, Russian Poland, Nov. 10.—Cossacks have thus far been unsuccessful in their pursuit of the revolutionist train robbers, numbering a hundred well armed men, who surrounded this station Thursday night, threw a bomb at the mail car of a train, derailed it, killing or wounding several soldiers of the escort, and fled with a sum of money now said to amount to $650,000. The robbery was well planned. It occurred at 9 p. m., while the train was changing engines. The station master declares the revolutionists hid in the neighboring forests and were excellently disciplined, their commander giving orders through bugle signals. When the robbery was completed the revolutionists transported their booty to two wagons and marched off in military order, singing socialistic songs. Rogow is now occupied by troops.

A Wife's Devotion.

New York, Nov. 10.—All the persuasions of her wealthy kin cannot induce Mrs. George W. Palmer to desert her husband, although in his old age he can provide no better home for her than the back room of a stove store where he is temporarily earning a pittance. Palmer less than ten years ago was a member of the firm of Palmer & Pasco, contracting plumbers and dealers in supplies, but owing to a shift in his fortune be became a wanderer. Although they have been obliged to seek shelter in Bowery lodging houses and have often had only the sky for a roof and a park bench for a resting place, Mrs. Palmer has always remained at his side. Not many years ago they enjoyed an income of $15,000 a year, lived in the Hotel Endicott and had a country house.

N. Y. C. Must Vacate.

New York, Nov. 10.—Determined that the New York Central Railroad Company shall abandon the city's streets, the Board of Estimate and Apportionment yesterday supplemented efforts being made by the Rapid Transit Commission to compel the company to remove its tracks from Eleventh avenue by ordering it to cease operating trains in and to remove its tracks from Twelfth avenue between Fifthy-eighth and Sixtieth streets. William B. Ellison, corporation counsel, advised the Board that the tracks had been put down without authority from the city, and that the company had no legal rights in the case.

Lone Train Robber.

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 10.—The passengers in the rear sleeper of the Golden State Limited, east bound, were robbed Thursday night by a train bandit, who held up the porter and conductor with a pair of revolvers and forced them to go through the car awakening the victims as he came to each berth. He is said to have obtained $65 and a number of watches. Other reports put the loss at $500. The robber sent a porter through the aisle before him, the negro waking up the passengers to say, "Here's a ge'man wants you' money."

Accused of German Murder.

Baden-Baden, Nov. 10.—Karl Hau, alias Stau, a lawyer, of Washington, D. C., who was arrested in London yesterday and held for extradition, is wanted by the local police on the charge of murdering his mother-in-law, Frau Molitor. His motive appears to have been insane greed of money. Frau Molitor, who was wealthy, refused many times to comply with Hau's requests, having given her daughter a considerable dowry and arranged that she should inherit part of her fortune.

Fagan Quits G. O. P. Organization.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Smith, of Central avenue, have gone to Cohoke, Va., where Mr. Smith will spend some time hunting for game. Next week Dr. D. C. Adams, of Grove street, will go to the same place. Mr. Smith and Dr. Adams will hunt on their game preserve.

Fond of Horse Flesh.

According to the official statistics, the people of Prussia ate 1,568 dogs in 1905 and 81,312 horses. Corparing these figures with the attendance at the various horse shows held in this country, it would appear that the Prussians are even fonder of horse flesh than we are. Those who have eaten horse say it is good, but the interesting feature of the Prussian statistics is that dogs are rapidly gaining on horses in the popular taste. Over here, too, "dogs" have achieved a dietary popularity with the patrons of night lunch wagons and little corner food shops. Perhaps there is less joke in this nickname than is generally supposed. Much of the "wurst" that is on the market is ouen to suspicion, and unfortunately the government furnishes no satisfactory statistics concerning the ultimate distination of the horses and dogs that go hence every year. Where is that hence? Possibly the Americans are eating more horse and dog than they suspect.—Providence (R. I.) Journal.

Rangers Shoot Straight.

Laredo, Texas, Nov. 10.—Four Texas rangers sent to Rio Grande City to quiet turbulent political conditions there and investigate the assassination of District Judge Welch, which occurred the night before the election, were ambushed by a body of armed Mexicans between Fordyce and Rio Grande City late Thursday night. The rangers were asleep in camp when awakened by a volley of shots from the darkness. A pitched battle ensued and four of the attacking party were killed, one fatally wounded and two captured. The rangers escaped unscathed.

Aid for Starving Family.

New York, Nov. 10.—Moved to pity at the sight of a frail woman and her seven children, ranging from two months to twelve years, sitting in the Flatbush court, while the husband and father, Frederick Parsons, of No. 18 Jardine place, was being sent to jail, pending hearing on a charge of swindling, spectators and persons attached to the court collected a purse of $33.50 for the half starved mother and children yesterday. Assurances of further aid were given to the mother as she left the court.

Georgia Lynching.

Valdista, Ga., Nov. 10.—A mob of several hundred white citizens from the northern part of Madison county, Florida, Thursday night, and, after disarming the jailer, took a negro prisoner charged with assault upon Miss Grambling, a young white woman, near Hanson. The crowd took the negro a short distance from the jail, where they hanged him to a tree and riddled his body with bullets. The negro had been identified and confessed his crime.

Damm's Feelings Hurt.

Cleveland, Ohio, Nov. 10.—Because a few adjectives were added to his name by a neighbor, Conrad Damm, of East Forty-fourth street, yesterday prevailed upon Police Judge Whelan to send his tormentor to the workhouse. Twice before Damm had haled his neighbor, Michael Rancher, into court for being careless in the manner in which he handled the Damm name.

Would Tie Up Thaw Fortune.

Pittsburg, Pa., Nov. 10.—The courts of Alegheny county have been asked to declare William Thaw, a young nephew and companion of Harry Kendall Thaw, a habitual drunkard, and relatives of the young man ask that his large estate be placed in the hands of a trustee, it being aleiged that he is unable to take care of his own affairs. He is said to be worth $2,500,000.

Churches Mark Thirty-Ninth Anniversary of the Association.

ITS WORK OF THE YEAR

President Gavett Reviews the Activities of the Twelve Months—Special Speakers Present Y. M. C. A. Claims in Community.

Nearly all the evangelical churches took part in the observance of Y. M. C. A. Sunday yesterday. Eight special church services were held, and a theatre meeting. A service was held at the Seventh-Day Baptist church Saturday morning. All but two of the church services yesterday were held in the morning.

At all the churches the following statement by President J. W. Gavett was read:

"Dear Brethren:

"Your familiarity with the organization and methods of the Young Men's Christian Association renders any statement of these unnecessary in this report. The prospectus distributed in the pews furnishes detail information of the work. Receiving its authority from the churches, and as their agent the association should report annually to its constituents who are naturally interested in all pertaining to its welfare.

"We have conducted 113 Bible classes during the noon hour in the different machine shops in the past twelve months with an average attendance of 49. Fifty-three gospel meetings were held with an average attendance of 150; two of these were theatre meetings with an attendance of about 700 each. Two Bible classes were conducted at the association, one taught by Mr. J. H. Manning with an average attendance of 9, and the other by Mr. William D. Murray, the average attendance of which was 12. We have this year also a Bible class taught by Dr. Jesse L. Hurlbut.

"One of our special features during the past year was the automobile class with an enrollment of 18 men. Another new department was the starting of an employment bureau. We have already found business places for a good many young men, and the constant call upon us for men to find different kinds of positions, convinces us that this branch of our work will have a prominent place in the future of our work. The annual Thanksgiving dinner for young men away from home was given as usual, 18 men aviling themselves of our hospitality. The Christmas dinner for poor boys of our city was appreciated by 50 boys.

"The boys' manual training school was well attended. We have had the best instructors, and hope to make this branch of our work a great benefit to that class of boys that cannot afford to go to school in the day time, and also to those who wish to add this kind of knowledge to their regular school work.

"Our association has pledged itself to the support of men in association work in foreign fields, and has forwarded to the association at Madras, India, $225, contributed personally for this object by our members. Two of our number have gone abroad to engage in this work.

"For a long time, we have realized that in conection with our men's Sunday afternoon meetings, we were not reaching the class of men we wanted to, and so have planned for six theatre meetings during the winter, and have secured the best speakers possible for the meetings. We are satisfield that many men come to these meetings that cannot be induced to enter our churches or even our own hall.

"The Women's Auxiliary with a membership of over 300 is of great assistance to us. In our boys' work, in looking after the furnishings and the general care of the building, and arranging our banquets and entertainments. A very important feature of our association is our boys' work. Mr. H. W. Barrows, our boys' secretary, is pushing this part of our activity in many new lines, and the coming year promises to be very successful. We have in this department 150 boys, but expect a larger enrollment this year. The boys had their regular summer camp, 18 members attending. Statistics show that the average boy is not up to the mark physically of the boys ten years ago, and we believe that renewed attentions should be given to the physical developement of children.

"Our new physical director, Mr. G. L. Listman, has put our gymnasium in first class condition, and some of the classes are the largest that we have ever had. A new feature this year will be the inauguration of many kinds of outdoor sports, cross-country running, games and field contests of various kinds not yet attempted.

"Many parts of our work we can-

DRUNKS AND SCRAPS FIGURE IN CITY COURT

SATURDAY NIGHT AND SUNDAY CROP OF USUAL SORT BEFORE RUNYON.

Joseph Lacey and Elisha McCready, arrested for fighting at Somerset and Front streets, Saturday night, were fined $3 each. McCready made a break for freedom when Officer O'Gorman broke up the scrap, zut he was captured over the brook by one of Chief Weiss' men, and handed over to the city authorities.

Michael Gleason, arrested Saturday night at 7:20 o'clock, at Front street and Park avenue by Chief Kiely and Roundsman Flynn, for drunkenness and disorder, won a fineless dismissal from Judge Runyon by promising to sign the pledge. To show he was properly impressed by the solemnity of the step, Gleason told the court he would wait until next Sunday before taking it and hike it for the higher life in a new suit.

Herman Lorsch, arrested by Chief Kiely Saturday night after the McCready-Lacey row, on Somerset street, was released under suspended sentence. He sassed the head sleuth when he was ordered to move on and brashly said he wanted to be arrested.

Arthur Scott, arrested by Officer Kelly, for drunkenness, was released under suspended sentence. Edward Kline, summoned by the Board of Health, for failure to connect his house with the sanitary sewer, was given thirty days in which to do it. He pleaded poverty but the court told him the law could take no cognizance of that in connection with his case.

MINISTER CONDEMNS ENDLESS PRAYER CHAIN

"PERFECT NONSENSE," HE SAYS, AND A DOUBLE BREACH OF POSTAL LAWS.

On three grounds, Rev. Charles E. Herring, of the First Presbyterian church, condemned the prayer-chain that is circulating through the mails in this section of the State, in his sermon yesterday morning. The prayer has been received by a number of Plainfielders in the past few weeks, and, as the papers have reported, nervous women have been upset by the hysterical tone of the letter accompanying them and the threat of dire punishment by Providence upon all who fail to help the prayer on its travels.

As far as its religious aspect went, Mr. Herring dismissed the prayer-chain shortly. "Perfect nonsense," he termed it.

He emphasized the fact that it broke two of the postal laws. In the first place, he pointed out, any endless chain of letters was forbidden. But beyond that, the law distinctly forbade the transmission o fa threat by mail, and the minister believed the prayer-chain letter broke that law.

MRS. H. J. LELAND DEAD; EIGHTY-SIX YEARS OLD.

A Resident Here For Thirty Years —Funeral Tomorrow Afternoon.

Mrs. Hannah J. Leland, widow of Benjamin Leland, died yesterday at her home on Madison avenue. She had been enjoying fairly good health until last Monday, when complications caused by her advanced age brought on a fatal illness.

Mrs. Leland was born in Holliston, Mass., eighty-six years ago, her maiden name also being Leland. She was married in the Bay State and with her husband removed to this city from Brooklyn in 1876. She was a member of the First Baptist church and was well known in various parts of the city. Both she and her husband were members of old Massachusetts families and though she was not affiliated with any of the Revolutionary organizations her antecedants were identified with the struggles of the Colonies.

She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. James Manning, of this city, and Mrs. (Dr.) Carman, of Brooklyn; also two sons, Elwin R. Leland, of Sandford avenue, and Henry Leland, of Newark.

The funeral will be held from Elwin R. Leland's home tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock and interment will be at Hillside.

Given a Surprise Party.

Miss Mamie Duffy, of Grove street, was tendered a surprise party by a number of friends Saturday night. Vocal and instrumental music and dancing combined to pass a pleasant evening. Guests were in attendance from Newark, Elizabeth and this city.

NEW GAS ERA IS NEAR

Local Plant To Be Abandoned For Trunk Line.

WITHIN TWO WEEKS

Coal Gas To Supplant the Naphtha Product—Coke, New By-Product, to Be Sold Here.

Gas-making will be ended in this city within two weeks. P. S. C. officials announced today that they were on the verge of connecting this city with the trunk line served by the big plant at Camden.

All the gas used here will be piped from Camden, and the plant at Washington and Third streets will be put out of commission. It will not be dismantled, because in an emergency it would be needed for supplying this territory. It is expected the connection with the trunk line will be made in two weeks, and coincident with that will be the abandonment of the local plant for manufacturing.

With the inauguration of the new service will begin an era of new and better gas for Plainfield. The Camden plant will make gas from soft coal instead of naphtha as has been done hitherto. Coal gas is better all around than oil or spirit gas. It is a gas of higher temperature, and clearer burning.

The difference in quality means something to Plainfield. There are fully 2,000 gas ranges to be served here, and housewives and cooks all over the city will be made more cheerful by the improvement in the gas.

As a result of the change in gas manufacture, a new line will be added to the P. S. C. business here. Coke is a by-product of coal-gas manufacture, and coke from the Camden plant will be sold here. It is expected coke sales in Plainfield will reach a considerable figure.

The trunk line, which has been building for about a year, runs through Trenton, New Brunswick, Somerville, Bound Brook and Metuchen. From New Brunswick to Camden the pipe is twelve inches; from New Brunswick to here it is ten inches. All connections are screwed fast. The screw feature is expensive, but it will prevent leaks absolutely, and save trees and verdure from death by poisonous fumes. Pending the completion of the trunk line, Plainfield has been serving Bound Brook and Somerville. The abandonment of the plant here will not affect many men; not more than three or four laborers will be dismissed.

The service in this city is directed by S. K. Campbell. He is one of the most efficient superintendents on the company's staff, and is as highly esteemed by the consumers and the workers under him as by the corporation heads.

The abandonment of the East Third street gas works will be welcomed by the residents in the vicinity. The odor and noise emanating from the place has been very annoying at times, particularly at night.

RAISING FUNDS TO REBUILD EDIFICES AT SAN FRANCISCO.

Rev. Dr. Hayshan Says That $185,000 Will Be Needed by the Baptists.

Rev. Theodore Heyshan, Ph. D., a class mate of Rev. A. E. Finn, now field secretary in California, having charge of the work of reconstruction of the Baptist churches there, spoke at the Park Avenue Baptist church, yesterday. He addressed the Sunday-school in the afternoon and preached at night. At both services he gave a vivid picture of conditions in San Francisco since the earthquake, and he also described the earthquake and fire as they impressed him.

Dr. Heyshan was formerly pastor of the Central Baptist church in Minneapolis, and was on a visit to San Francisco, when the earthquake occurred. He immediately volunteered to assist in the relief work there and afterward was persuaded to become field secretary in the interests of the Baptist church. There is needed $185,000 to rebuild the Baptist churches in San Francisco and thus far $150,000 nas been raised.

Local Couple Wedded at Elizabeth.

Don Muldowney, of West Fourth street, and Miss Elizabeth Hapney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Hapney, of Pearl street, were quietly married at Elizabeth, yesterday. Only the necessary witnesses viewed the ceremony. The young couple will reside on Manson place where the groom has furnished a home. Some time during the latter part of the month they will tender a reception to their friends at the Plainfield Dancing Academy.

PERKINS IS FOR STOKES

Assemblyman Said So Today After Reading the Governor's Statement.

THEN FOR MR. BRIGGS

Mr. Griggs Is His Second Choice—What the Governor Has Said.

Notwithstanding the declaration made by Mr. Stokes last night that he is not a candidate for the honor, Assemblyman Perkins told a representative of The Daily Press this morning that he still favors the Governor for United States Senator. "He is my first choice and should he decline, I'm for Mr. Briggs," said the Westfielder. "My second choice is Mr. Griggs," he added. Mr. Perkins does not take Mr. Stokes' statement to mean that under no circumstances in the future will he be a candidate.

In an interview last night the Governor said:

"My attitude on the Senatorial question has been consistent with what I believe to be my duty as Governor of this State. I was elected by the people to administer the office of Governor in their interests and not to use it to advance myself to other honors. In my official acts I have kept this duty steadily in view. Before the primaries I persistently refused all overtures for the use of my name in connection with the United States Senatorship. Since that time my interviews on that subject have been clear and explicit.

"The use of my name in connection with the Senatorship has been entirely without inspiration or suggestion on my part, directly or indirectly.

County Chairman Smith said today that the fact that Union's legislators had come out for others did not mean that they were against Dryden.

FOWLER'S PLURALITY TAKES ONE MORE TUMBLE.

It Now Appears That Martine Lost the District by Only 414 Votes.

It now appears that Charles N. Fowler's plurality in the entire congressional district is 414. This is the unofficial figure and may possibly be changed when the various boards of canvassers go over the counts. It is said that 169 votes cast for James E. Martine on an independent ticket in Rahway is responsible for the still further shrinkage in Fowler's plurality, announced on Saturday to be 610. Martine's majority in Union county is placed at 241.

The Union County Board of Elections and Registry, consisting of Robert McAdams, chairman; Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., Frederick Zior and George L. Stewart, convened at Elizabeth this morning for the purpose of canvassing the vote in the county. It is estimated that the work will require at least four days.

HIS HONOR, THE MAYOR, SCORES

Greatest Laughing Show That Has Yet Held the Local Boards.

When "His Honor, the Mayor," played a return date at Wilkes-Barre, Pa., recently, people smashed each others hats and tore each others clothes to get inside the Nesbitt theatre, so great was the crowds. Those who witnessed the show at the New Plainfield Saturday are not a bit surprised as the widest stretch of the imagination fails to recall a better musical comedy that has yet visited this city. It is a sucession of laughs and tuneful music from start to finish and as a cure for the blues has no equal.

Harry Kelly, as "Deacon Flood," was a show by himself, but the rest of the cast had not been pared any to get him in the spotlight. There were a dozen other good specialty people and the crackerjack English pony ballet, which dances with untiring energy, dresses prettily and sings well. There were scores of people who saw the show in the afternoon who returned for the night performance.

Who Lost These Keys.

Lieutenant Campbell, of the borough fire department, found a bunch of keys in front of the Somerset street house a few days ago. There are five in the bunch, each one numbered. The owner may have them by asking.

Held for Trial on Nov. 15.

James Trimmer, of Plainfield, indicted on a charge of assault on Joseph A. Wright, also of Plainfield, was arraigned in the Union county court, this morning, and held in $200 bail for trial on November 15.

—A young son arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Beekman, of Park avenue, Saturday.

EDWARD F. MILLIKEN DEAD

Passed Away Suddenly In New York Hospital Following Operation For Appendicitis.

A FORMER RESIDENT

Was Vice President and Director of the Milliken Brothers' Big Steel Plant on Staten Island.

Edward Fullerton Milliken, vice-president and director of the Milliken Brothers steel manufacturing concern and a former local resident, died in the New York hospital, Saturday morning. He suffered an attack of appendicitis three weeks ago and was operated upon but complications followed, causing death.

Mr. Milliken was the son of Hettie Fullerton and the late Samuel Milliken and was born on Spruce street, Philadelphia, in 1864. In 1870 Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Milliken moved to Plainfield and purchased their home at 830 Central avenue, where Edward was brought up, and which his father and mother occupied until the death of the former in 1898. He was educated in the Plainfield schools and afterward attended Columbia University.

In 1879 he entered his father's business and two years later was admitted into partnership. About this time his brother, Foster Milliken, entered the business. In 1887 his father retired and Edward and Foster Milligan continued under the firm name of Milligan Brothers until January of this year, when, owing to the tremendous growth of the concern's output, they found it necessary to incorporate, which was done, the company being called "Millikan Bros. (Inc.)" At present they have just completed their large rolling mills at Milliken, Staten Island, where they occupy and own about 200 acres of ground for the steel works.

Edward F. Milliken did a large share in promoting the firm's standing and his activity, ability and fairness earned him the esteem and regard of both his employees and his many friends.

He was one of the organizers of the Boys' Club, now on Symacore street, and it was largely due to his interest and assistance that the club was able to continue its useful work. He was also interested in Muhlenberg hospital. He was married two years ago to Cecile Guggenheimer, of Lynchberg, Va., at St. Margarett's church, London, England, and his bride returned to New York, where she was taken ill, and Mr. Milliken devoted his whole time to his wife, giving up his business for two years and accompanying his wife to the various resorts recommended by her physicians. She died the 13th of last August, so that Mr. Milliken only survived his wife by three months.

Mr. Milliken was a civil engineer and a member of many clubs and societies, among them being the Metropolitan Musuem of Art, the City Midday Club, the Municipal Art Society, the Chamber of Commerce, the Lawyers' Club, the University Club, the Racquet Club, the Larchmont Yacht Club.

He is survived by his brother and his mother, Mrs. Samuel Milliken, who resides with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. James W. DeGraff, of Central avenue.

Rv. Dr. William R. Richards, Mr. Milliken's old friend and former pastor at the Crescent Avenue church, will officiate at the funeral in New York tomorrow and Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie will perform the commitment service at Hillside cemetery.

DINNER TO MR. COLTON.

Was the Guest of Y. M. C. A. Committeeman Saturday Night.

E. T. Colton, the most prominent of the Y. M. C. A. men gathered for the anniversary Sunday of the local association, was entertained at dinner in the small hall at the Y. M. C. A. Saturday night. Covers were laid for twenty-five, and practically all the guests were Y. M. C. A. committeemen.

Mr. Colton spoke on the foreign work of the Y. M. C. A. The Plainfield association has been a liberal contributor to the foreign work for several years.

The dinner was prepared and served by the Women's Auxuliary. Mrs. L. M. French was chairman of the committee in charge.

In Recorder Campbell's Court.

Recorder Campbell, of Dunellen, had two prisoners before him this morning. One of them, Tom Johnson, colored, of this city, was sent to jail for thirty days. He was arrested for disorderly conduct at the trolley loop last night. Gus Peterson, of Dunellen, who was drunk and disorderly Saturday night, had sentence suspended.

CHILDREN AND MATCHES FIRE CHAS. BARRY'S BARN

STRUCTURE AND SIX TONS OF HAY ARE CONSUMED.

Children and matches are ascribed as the cause of a fire which destroyed the large barn of Hackman Charles Barry, situated at the rear of his residence on Howard street, Saturday evening. The blaze was first noticed shortly before 6 o'clock and had evidently been smoldering for some time. A man passing turned in an alarm from box 145 at Somerset street and Hudson lane but it failed to work. By the time another attempt was made at Somerset street and Grandview avenue and box 143 was pulled, the structure was wrapped in flames and the firemen saw it was beyond saving.

The barn contained about six tons of hay and a quantity of grain, all of which was consumed. Neighbors got out a depot wagon and a mixed collection of small articles. There was no live stock in the structure at the time the fire started.

With the arrival of the borough fire department, which made a record run to the scene, the members devoted their attention to saving two dwellings, located dangerously near the blazing barn. They worked rapidly and beside keeping the houses from getting any more than a scorching, had the original blaze out in short order.

Barry puts his loss at $2,000, partially covered by insurance.

COAT THIEF BREAKS FROM DUNELLEN JAIL

FISHES SUCCESSFULLY FOR AXE WITH A HANDY BROOM.

After the Plainfield police had caught him for them, the Dunellen authorities were unable to hold a slick prisoner Saturday afternoon. He broke jail, and is still at large.

Samuel Howard is the slick one. He stole a coat at Taylor's Hotel, Dunellen, belonging to H. C. Stebbins, a travelling salesman. Howard lives on Jefferson avenue, and he disappeared in that direction. The Dunellen authorities telephoned Chief Kiely to look for him and the Chief sent Officer Kelly out on the trail.

Kelly caught Howard near Albert Rajotte's brickyard. The prisoner was turned over to the Dunellen marshal and locked up in the borough jail.

Near Howard's cell door was a broom. A little way beyond that lay an axe. Howard could reach the broom and did. With the broom he could pull in the axe, and he did that. Then he chopped out a transom, and sloped. The Dunellen police have found no trace of him yet.

HOLY CROSS BOYS HOLD A JOLLIFICATION.

Address by Rev. Mr. Warner and Refreshments the Features of the Affair.

The Boys' Club of Holy Cross church gave a reception to new members Saturday night, about fifty boys gathering in the parish house. The football eleven, a little late in arriving home from Orange, was given a rousing welcome, which became uproarious when it was learned that Orange had been defeated b ya score of 20 to 0.

Rev. G. A. Warner, rector, called the meeting to order and welcomed new members, briefly outlining the ideals of the club and progress made since its organization. He informed the boys that arrangements had been made for the basketball team to practice at Co. K's armory. It was noted that the baseball team had won twenty-two games and suffered no defeats and the football team had seven victories and only one defeat to its credit. The library now has 120 volumes of selected books. The reception concluded with refreshments.

"New Idea" Meeting.

A regular meeting of the Fourth Ward Granch of the Union County Republican League for Equal Taxation will be held tomorrow evening at 8:15 o'clock, at Reform Hall, for the purpose of considering the adoption of an amendment to Article V of the by-laws of said branch relating to committees, two proposed new articles providing for the organization of the city committee, and the appointment by it of certain committees, and the changing of the number of the present Article VII to Article IX, the adoption of which amendments has been recommended by the city committee; and transaction of such other business as may properly come before said meeting. A meeting of the executive committee will be held at the same place at 7:45.

SOCIETY AT HYDEWOOD

Gather as Mr. and Mrs. F. DeL. Hyde's Guests to Meet Mr. and Mrs. L. K. Hyde.

ABOUT 400 PRESENT

From Far and Near—Beautiful Decorations and Music—Those Who Were There.

For the purpose of introducing Mr. and Mrs. Louis Kepler Hyde, who recently removed from Titusville, Pa., to this city, Mr. and Mrs. Francis DeLacy Hyde gave a large reception at their beautiful home, Hydewood Hall, Saturday afternoon and evening from 5 to 7 o'clock. There were present about 400 well-known society people from this city and out-of-town, and the affair was a brilliant one.

Especially attractive were the decorations, consisting chiefly of magnificent chrysanthemums. There were about thirty dozen chrysanthemums, principally yellow and white used throughout the house. Many of them were raised by Japanese. In the dining room pink chrysanthemums and oak leaves were used in profusion and with good effect. During the hours of the reception delightful music was furnished by the Neapolitan orchestra, of New York. Maresi was the caterer.

Those assisting in the receiving party were Mrs. Charles Hyde, Mrs. Chapman Fisk, Mrs. E. H. Ladd, Jr., Mrs. Percy H. Stewart, Mrs. Pierre Mali, Mrs. Dorsey Hyde, Miss Maida Hyde, Miss Jessie Munger, Mrs. J. Kirtland Myers, Mrs. Benjamin Arrowsmith Hegeman, Mrs. Evarts Tracy, Mrs. Daniel F. Ginna, of this city; Mrs. Morton Nichols, Mrs. Hood Wright, of New York; Mrs. Louis Brenneman and Mrs. Thomas Bakewell, of Pittsburg.

Since coming to Plainfield to live Louis Kepler Hyde has been elected president of the City National Bank, and he is in many other ways identified with the business interests of this city. He recently completed the building of a handsome home on Mountain avenue, where he and Mrs. Hyde now reside.

There were guests at the reception from Philadelphia, Pittsburg, New York and this city, among them being the following:

Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Abbott, Mrs. Warren Ackerman, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Arens, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick H. Andrews, Mr. and Mrs. Albert H. Aterbury, Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Adams, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Mrs. Joel Giddes has been ill for several days.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD

The two weeks of special services of the Baptist and Methodist churches began last night in the Methodist church. Rev. T. Moore-Smith, of the Baptist church, preached. Considering the inclement weather the attendance was very good. Service will be held every night this week in the Methodist church and next week the meetings will be held in the Baptist church.

The result of Saturday's hunting reduced the number of rabbits considerably. Nearly all the hunters had good luck, each returning with from one to ten rabbits as the result of the day's sport. No accidents were reported.

The rainy weather yesterday made automobiling anything but pleasant and the result was that the familiar "Honk, Honk!" was missed by the residents.

The result of the election Tuesday will not effect the Bishops' law, so the 'Plains will probably continue to enjoy Sundays like the rest of the universe.

"His Honor, the Mayor," at the New Plainfield theatre, Saturday night, pleased a large number of the local amusement lovers.

John E. Flannery, of East Second street, spent yesterday with his daughter, Mrs. George H. Johnston, of Westfield avenue.

A number of young people from here attended an invitation dance at Berkeley Heights Saturday night.

The weekly meeting of the B. Y. P. U. was held last night in the parlors of the church.

John Rickerson has returned from a visit with friends in Elizabeth.

Miss Hogan was the guest yesterday of friends in Elizabeth.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The local school, it is alleged by some, is sadly in need of two higher class rooms so that those who have passed out of the primary and intermediate departments need not seek instruction elsewhere. As it is now a number go to the High School in Plainfield, some to Leals, and others to New Market, while our village should provide instruction for all who reside within the district. The cost to send one pupil, a year, to the High School is fifty-two dollars, and it makes it quite expensive, where families have three or four children who cannot be accommodated in their home school.

The tax bills have all been sent out, and many are kicking about the taxation for electric light and yet now that we have the public highway lighted, who would be willing to dispense with the luxury or a necessity so long felt. The road is lighted from the village to Plainfield and we should consider ourselves favored and willing to pay the extra taxation for Park avenue (an equally public thoroughfare) is devoid of light, after leaving the city limits.

Gunners were seen in every direction on Saturday when the season opened for rabbits, and it really looked as if there was a gunner for every rabbit.

"His Honor, the Mayor," attracted quite a number of residents to the Plainfield theatre, Saturday, and was greatly enjoyed by those who attended.

The Art ..of.. Expression.

The art of expression is possessed by jewelry just as in a human being. Nothing so well expresses one's tastes and characteristics; nothing so strongly conveys one's regard for another as a beautiful piece of jewelry. And no other gift requires so much exercise of good taste in the selection.

All our jewelry will be found of sufficient range and completeness as to meet every varying requirement as to taste and price. Our smaller pieces of jewelry, no less than the larger ones, are just as rich in expressiveness. Every line and every style is distinctly artistic, modern and exclusive.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

"Caught in the Rain," the new three act comedy written by William Collier and Grant Stewart and in which Mr. Collier will star at the New Plainfield theatre next Friday night, may well be termed a "romance of the Rockies." The play opens in a street in Denver during a rainstorm and finishes at a hunting and fishing club in the mountains. There is a splendid view of Pike's Peak and the stage setting throughout is said to be unusually attractive. Collier as a bashful young man who falls desperately in love with a girl and then deliberately throws away girl and fortune because he has mistaken the identity of the former has a great opportunity for both serious and comedy work and a delightful entertainment is promised. Of course in the end the bashful young man gets both girl and fortune but only after many most amusing situations. This will be Mr. Collier's first appearance in the East since his thrilling escape in the San Francisco earthquake and his great triumphal tour of Australia. After a few weeks on the road in his new comedy he will produce it in New York city for a run and later take it to London. Manager Charles Frohman has given the star a splendid supporting company and invested the production with the handsomest of stage settings.

Only those artists and entertainers, who by achievements that are truly remarkable, have won recognition and the approval of the public, can couple their names with a title which shall have more significance than a mere combination of euphonious words. Madame Adelaide Herrmann, the gifted widow of Herrmann the Great, received sometime ago the title of "The Queen of Magic." Has this remarkable lady entertainer—entertainer, yes, accomplished artist of the highest standard, earned her title rightly? She is the only lady necromancer in the world. From the greatest of all magicians, Alexander Herrmann, she learned the marvelous science of legerdemain and how to accomplish the feats of magic, which made his name one without a peer. With the training she received from her husband, having been his assistant and sole confidante, Mme. Herrmann has continued his life work on the same elaborate scale he successfully prosecuted. She has visited every civilized country under the sun and everywhere received only praise and approval. Members of the royal families of Europe and Asia, as well as men and women of the best class in America have bestowed upon her words of genuine regard. Her many scrap books best testify to the unlimited amount of favorable even flattering criticism, that this lady has received since she began the work left by her illustrious husband upon his death. Preserving many of Herrmann's best illusions and tricks, Mme. Herrmann has perfected many new ones, including startling novelties that never before have been attempted upon the stage of magic. Her personality is of a charming type. She gowns in superb costumes and all of the enchanting scenic effects employed in her acts are creations of her own ingenious brain. Associated with Mme. Herrmann are several artists of unusual excellence, so altogether the performance of the "Queen of Magic" and her company will be one of rare enjoyment when they appear here at the New Plainfield theatre on November 20, matinee and night.

President Rush Rhees to Speak.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

GOLF.

James G. Batterson, of the Fox Hills Golf Club, won the chief cup in the open tournament on the links of the Country Club, Atlantic City, Saturday. He defeated W. C. Legg, of the Lawrenceville School, by 5 up and 3 to play in the final round. With the exception of Batterson, the New York golfers fared badly, although George C. Bunn, another Lawrenceville student, won the Atlantic City cup.

Ford P. Smith won the eighteen-hole handicap prize at the Wee Burn Golf Club on Saturday. The prize was presented by Walton Ferguson.

Another man of cloth distinguished himself on the golf course Saturday. Rev. Dr. J. E. Adams won the championship of the Eastern Parkway Golf Club, defeating W. H. Harding, Jr., in the final round by 5 up and 4 to play.

Although no events have been scheduled, if the weather is favorable no doubt there will be some special play at the Park Golf Club on Thanksgiving Day.

The active season at the Westfield Golf Club will soon end, but as usual, the course and clubhouse will remain open practically all winter, except when heavy snows may prevent play.

Despite the fact that the Plainfield Country Club has been under more than usual expense this year, the club has been more successful and the season will end with a good condition, financial and otherwise. This is largely, if not wholly due to the careful management of the officers, all of whom are successful business men.

FOOTBALL.

It has been definitely decided to disband the Orange Field Club football team for this season. Several members are on the injured list and besides the season thus far has not been a success financially. The club has decided to pay the medical expenses of the injured players on its team.

The Alis eleven will play Dunellen at the latter place on Saturday and there is unusual interest among enthusiasts of the game here. These teams are evenly matched and a lively game should result.

Neither Harvard or Princeton have much to crow over in their victories on Saturday. It was by the merest chance that Harvard was able to defeat the Indians, while West Point gave the Tigers the closest game of the season, making them feel mighty uneasy over their approaching contest with Yale. At New Haven Brown came very near defeating the wearers of the blue, the score being 5 to 0, but all newspaper accounts say that Brown exhibited the best form and should have won. It was not until the second half that Yale could get across the Brown line.

Pennsylvania and Lafayette had a hard game on Franklin Field Saturday. Neither team was able to score. Pennsylvania, however, came the nearest to scoring and on one occasion had the ball on Lafayette's one-yard line, where the latter made a great stand and threw the Pennsylvania attack back.

Alis and the North Plainfield High School elevens are the only ones left here to finisn the season. The borough school boys have decided to complete their schedule and Alis will probably do the same.

IT WAS Y. M. C. A. DAY

not mention in this short report, and all details respecting personal work by our secretaries and others must also be omitted. We should be glad to have more of our friends call and examine our building, and look over our work. All the reports of the different departments are on file, and can be examined by anyone.

"Regarding our financial condition, our total expenses will be about $9,000, and our receipts from members, rentals, etc., $5,000, leaving about $4,000 to be covered by personal contributions, a proportion in line with the majority of associations in this country.

"We believe that the generous support given to our association during the past thirty-nine years is a fair measure of its value to the community. We are assured of the continuance of such confidences in the future as our work we hope will broaden out to answer new calls. We try to make the spirit of the association such that all the surroundings will call men to right living, each department contributing to this end. We realize that our work is to fit men for the largest possible life in spiritual, social, physical and intellectual activities, and we know many young men have discovered what they were capable of by joining our association. Our great need is our lack of workers, and we feel if more young men would come to our assistance it would be a blessing not only to those that they help but also to themselves.

"While recognizing the value of all human agencies, we realize the need of Divine Guidance as the complete guarantee of success."

The usual collections for Y. M. C. A. work were taken up. The total amount contributed will not be known for several days.

There was a good-sized attendance at the theatre meeting. The rain stopped, and symptoms of clearing appeared in the sky shortly before the hour set for it, and when Charles W. McCutchen opened the meeting at 4 o'clock, the orchestra was well-filled. E. T. Colton, secretary of the Y. M. C. A. foreign work committee and an associate of John R. Mott in the evangelization of the world "in this generation," was the speaker.

The musical features of the meeting were deserving of a crowded house. The First Baptist church choir, with Organist Howard Case at the piano, sang two anthems splendidly. The solo part of "Seek Ye the Lord," by Roberts, was rendered by George Smith with noteworthy excellence. The Y. M. C. A. brass band swelled the hymn music, and Edson C. Martin led the singing.

In opening, Mr. McCutchen congratulated the community on having had such a strong, earnest religious institution as the Y. M. C. A. within its borders for thirty-nine years. He considered the anniversary a peculiarly felicitious one, because it was just inside the dead-line that separated the young man from the old man. Mr. McCutchen read the scripture lesson, and W. D. Murray offered a prayer.

Mr. Colton's theme was the unceasing battle between the good and evil forces of Matthew, and the conquering strength lent to the good by Christ. He emphasized the fact that all men, good and bad, were tempted, but laid co-relative stress on the fact that the right-living man was winning against temptation, while the other sort was being defeated.

All men, in the battle against evil, were in one of four classes, the speaker said. In the first class was the intelligent fighter, drawing in all the resources at his command, who was winning victories right along. The man in the second class was fighting with less persistence, less intelligence, less energy and the battle was a draw. In the third class was the man who fought with still less intelligence, who did not draw on the resources designed to aid him, and who was steadily losing. In the fourth class was the man who had ceased to fight. He was not tempted much, because he had given way. He had lost his will and stopped fighting; and his way of life spelled ruin.

The men in the last three classes could be brought up into the first class, Mr. Colton continued, by Christ. Through Him the loser could be made the winner. Not lose temptation, but overcome it. Courage could be restored to the faint-hearted. Christ so understood the case of a tempted man that He sympathized with him. More than that, he offered him a new start. The record of the past did not stand against the fight for morality. Each day, the striver had a new beginning in his effort to cleanse his nature of sin.

Emphasizing the constancy of temptation, Mr. Colton declared that the man who had done the best within him did not live. The man who tried to build up his character with his sense of sin unsatisfied would do little. Christ made the realization of such ideals assured. Character was something more than swearing off this or that. It was the strong expression of the heart of man.

Not only would Christ enable man to realize his ideals, Mr. Colton continued, but He would elevate those ideals. Our ideals needed spurring. To be a force, man must hate the lower things steadily and consistently. Sin was not attractive, except when the tempted man looked at it from the head of the procession. When the line of the procession was followed to its other end, sin's true aspect was seen. Sin was cruel, hideous, and malignant; it tracked the man who come under its influence relentlessly. Above all the other things, Christ made man hate sin.

First Presbyterian Church.

J. T. Sproull, of Arlington, president of the State Christian Endeavor Union, spoke on the unique position of the Y. M. C. A. as a religious and moral force in a community at the First Presbyterian church, last night. It occupied a place that the churches could not fill, and that no other organization could assume. It sought the young man out and made it easy for him to find religious influence without wrenching his life up by the roots. The speaker instanced the theatre meetings. They drew people who instinctively shrank from going to church or to a place like the Y. M. C. A.

Mr. Sproull spoke of the commanding influence of the young man in the country, and how important the work of the Y. M. C. A. was in raising the ideals of young men. He dwelt on the necessity for supporting the local association, which requires about $4,000 a yea more than come to it from dues and assured sources.

First Baptist Church.

In the interest of the manfold activities of the Young Men's Christian Association and upon the occasion of its anniversary, E. T. Colton, who is the assistant to John R. Mott, the head of the Student Volunteer Movement, spoke at the First Baptist church, yesterday morning. Kenneth Robbie, secretary of the local association, first read the annual report of the association, telling of the various branches of work being carried on with success. These included Bible and educational classes, gymnasium work, employment bureau and the work of the Women's Auxiliary.

Mr. Colton devoted his remarks solely to the foreign mission work being carried on under the direction of the association by the Student Volunteer Movement, and spoke of the great success attending the efforts in China, Japan, India and other foreign countries. While he made no appeal for funds, a collection for the work was received. He said that at present there are sixty-five student missionaries abroad and constant calls for helpers are received.

Mr. Colton also spoke at the First M. E. church, last night, his remarks being along the same line. He was heard by a good-sized congregation and all were deeply impressed with what he had to say. He gave many facts and figures to show to what extent the students in the colleges throughout this country and abroad are engaging in Christian work.

Park Avenue Baptist.

W. F. Hirsch, secretary of the Brooklyn Y. M. C. A., eastern district branch, spoke at the Park Avenue Baptist church, yesterday morning in the interest of the association work. Out of his large experience in this work, especially in Brooklyn, he was able to present an attractive side of the question. He told what the association has and is doing for young men of the country and in foreign fields and urged greater support from all Christian people.

Grace M. E.

George C. Warburton, secretary of the railway branch of the Y. M. C. A. in New York city, spoke in connection with the anniversary at Grace M. E. church in the morning. At the Epworth League meeting in the evening J. R. Harden was in charge, while the subject was :"Run, speak to that young man."

Congregational Church.

Ben M. Lewis, secretary of the East Side Branch of the Y. M. C. A., New York, spoke at the Congregational church, in the morning. He told of the work being done by the association in the large cities, particularly in New York, and how that work was always being extended. He touched on the developement of new fields that was constantly going on, and the growth of Y. M. C. A. influence.

Physical Director G. L. Listman, of the local association, who is a Congregationalist, and attends the Seventh street church, read President Gavett's report.

Trinity Reformed Church.

The pulpit of Trinity Reformed church was occupied in the morning by F. W. Pearsall, who spoke in the interests of Y. M. C. A. work. At night Dr. Schenck preached a sermon from an appropriate text: "Four Young Men Who Stood."

Railroad Labor Restless.

New York, Nov. 12.—Developments yesterday in the controversy between the railroads and their employes indicated more strongly than ever that the possibilities of trouble are not confined to the dispute between the Erie and its firemen, but that demands for higher wages and shorter hours are general East and West with the engine drivers, firemen, trainmen and all branches of the service. Announcement was made by Warren S. Stone, grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, that the engine drivers on forty-seven railroads west of Chicago had made demands for better terms, and that the time in which the officials were to give their answer had been extended thirty days from November 10. At the expiration of that time he said it was probable that most of the roads would grant what the men asked.

Thugs Rule Pittsburg.

Pittsburg, Pa., Nov. 12.—Pittsburg of today is as lawless as the frontier towns of a score of years ago. Human life was never held cheaper anywhere in this country. The community has long been used to its two or three murders a week, where Slavs, Italians or negroes kill each other, but now it is the better and more wealthy class that it furnishing the victims. No man who returns to his home in the residence sections after dark cares to walk on the sidewalk. He takes the middle of the street and keeps his hand on his revolver. House doors are double locked and shutters barred. Women, who have also been victims of hold-up men, dare not go out alone even in the early evening.

Kiss Causes Death.

Trindad, Col., Nov. 12.—Because she kissed the face of her dead father, whom she had nursed until death claimed him, Emaline Martinez, twenty years old, yesterday followed him to the grave. A few days ago Isadore Martinez died from blood poisoning. When he had been prepared for burial his daughter could not resist the impulse to kiss him. The next day she became ill with the same disease.

Married In Fifteen Minutes.

New York, Nov. 12.—After three years of courtship by letter, neither ever having seen the other, Bartholomew Morse, forty-one years old, who lives on Long Island, and Cinderella Parmlee, forty-one years old, of Kansas City, Mo., met by appointment in the Grand Central Station Saturday afternoon and n fifteen minutes afterward were married. She carried a cage in which a big green parrot was shrieking and had a cat under her arm.

Enormous Profit in Squabs

There is more than FOUR TIMES MORE MONEY IN SQUABS than in chickens with less than ONE-THIRD original outlay!

Being small and hardy, they can be raised easily with little cost in any disused shed, out-house or loft, and can be tended out of business hours.

DEMAND ALWAYS EXCEEDS SUPPLY—you can sell at your own door for as high as $1.50 a pair all you can raise, and they GROW TO MARKETABLE SIZE IN FOUR WEEKS.

How to start, how to fit your breeding pen, how to feed, and how to sell told in SQUAB RAISING FOR PROFIT AND PLEASURE, by K. Alexander. Sent postpaid upon receipt of $1.00.

Must Abate Mosquito Nuisances.

Elizabeth, Nov. 12.—The Board of Health, at its meeting Friday night, directed the health officer to notify the owners of the salt water meadow lands to the east and south of the city fronting on Newark Bay, which are the breeding places of millions of mosquitoes, to abate the nuisance within sixty days. The principal owners are United States Senator John Kean and United States Senator Wetmore, of Rhode Island. If they fail to take action the health officer will proceed, under the provisions of the new law, which became effective on November 1, and the supervision of Professor John B. Smith, the director of the State agricultural experiment station, to do the necessary work to effect relief.

Crippled by Dog.

New York, Nov. 12.—Without provocation a brindle bulldog owned by Joseph Kreidel, a chemist, of No. 553 West 183d street, attacked May Carney, eight years old, last night, and tore her right leg so severely that physicians at the Pasteur Institute believe she will be a cripple for life. Not until he had been beten almost insensible by a policeman's club did the dog release his grip on the screaming child, and then he turned on Mrs. Mary Fluhl, of No. 350 Audubon avenue, the mother of the child, and tore her clothing. The dog rushed madly at its master and Policeman Shannon, of the 152d street station, but was beaten off by the two men.

Her Death Recalls Tragedy.

Rahway, Nov. 12.—Mrs. Mary Force Clark, who died yesterday in Milton, was the widow of Amos Clark, whose tragic death is still the talk of the older residents of this city. He was firing a salute from a cannon in honor of the signing of the peace declaration at the close of the Civil War. The cannon exploded and the ramrod passed through his body, killing him instantly. In his study, near at hand, Rev. B. O. Parvin was writing at his desk. The ramrod passed directly over his head and buried itself in the wall back of him.

"GRAND OLD NAME"

"GEORGE" A PATRONYMIC HONORED ALL OVER THE WORLD.

Mr. Ade, Successful Author and Humorist, Gives Many Reasons Why This Should Be So—Historical "Facts."

To the anniversary number of his friend, George M. Collins's cheerfully crazy press sheet, "The Spot Light," George Ade contributes some reflections on the name George, the sum of his argument being that it's a grand old name for actor, author, manager or anyone.

Have you ever figured out why people who wish to be emphatic say, "By George!" To swear by the Deity would be profane. To swear by Oscar or Herbert or Randolph would mean nothing. "George" has been adopted as the most important and attention-spiring name that can be borrowed from the original human list.

From the original St. George, patron saint of England, who is shown in his favorite lithograph to be fighting the syndicate, down to George Wilkes, the great trotting stallion, the name of "George" has always been the trademark of a live one. Every good Pullman porter is named George. If, when alighting at a one-legged stand, you insist upon being hailed by "George," you will invariably get an upholstered hack, with the blanket neatly folded, and not as much hay as you might expect.

George III. would have won if he had not given away so much weight in meeting the other George, adopted stepfather of George Washington Jr.

George is from the Greek, meaning "husbandman" or "farmer." "My parents were in right but how about George Marion, George Beane, George Nash, George Considine and George Caine?

When you begin to count them, it is wonderful how the Georges loom up. There has been one George Francis Train in the last century, and George Alexander is to the English stage what George Dixon was to another department of art in this country.

When a woman wants to write under a man's name, she hurries to get in with the real Georges. Take the three greatest—George Eliot, George Sands and George Fleming.

Some people ask: "What's in a name?" Answer—"Everything." Can you see the Chicago public fighting to get into a show-shop to see a piece written by Egbert M. Cohan? And if my name had been Wilfred Ade, would I have been invited to write for the Spot Light? Suppose that George Bernard Shaw had been christened Sam Bernard Shaw, would "Man and Superman" have run all winter in New York? Think it over.

There's no use talking. "It's a grand old name."

Too Big a Field.

Years ago, while Reverend Shandaloupe was a student at the seminary, he undertook, one vacation season, to sell fire extinguishers.

His pleasing address and affability enabled him to make many sales. However, he encountered the usual rebuffs, which are the experience of all agents.

The theological student had gained access to the office of a surly broker, and forthwith began expatiating on the deluging powers of his incomparable fire extinguisher.

"To hell with it!" roared the broker, fiendishly.

"Oh, my dear man," expostulated Shandaloupe, "this extinguisher does not deserve the extreme virtue with which you credit it."—Harper's Weekly.

The Pope's Wardrobe.

The outward robe of the pope is red and made from the wool of the lambs of the convent of St. Agnes, near the Porta Pia. The cloak and cape are lined with purple and trimmed with gold lace; the sombrero, or hat, is red and has a gold cord and tassel. Beneath the cloak is worn an alb, made also of wool of the lambs of St. Agnes, and girt about the waist with a sash of white moire antique, garnished with gold fringe. The pope's hands and feet are covered with kid mittens and his feet are burdened with a pair of slippers worn over his ordinary shoes. The total value of his wardrobe is said to be $150,000.

Where Titles Mean Much.

The question of title is one of the most delicate in Germany, a fact of which the stranger is constantly reminded in intercourse with the people, particularly with the women. Frau Professor, Frau Director, Frau Doctor are most particular about their husband's titles when attached to their own names. But when it comes to military circles it is different, and both men and women protest vigorously against this sharing of titles. Lieut. von B—— objects to having his wife addressed as Frau Lieutenant, which title belongs as well to the wife of Lieut. Schmidt or Haft of a less aristocratic regiment.

Knew of One or Two.

"Is there any available substitute for rubber?" asked the instructor of the class.

"Yes, sir," answered Miss de Muir, one of the fair coeds. "I think 'stare' or 'gape' is just as good."

DECAY OF IMAGINATION.

Assertion Made That Civilization Is Not Only Killing Poetry, But Sense of Humor.

An Italian scientist thinks that civilization is not only killing poetry, but the sense of humor. Both depends upon the seen object suggesting other things to the mind, in one case congruous, in the other incongruous. Science has made our minds more rigid so that we see only what we see. "More rigid" means less vitalized.

Under new conditions at hand, we shall get back our vitality, shall once more have some to spare, once more be able to see the naked visible in its proper robes. Imagination is the seeing of real relations. It is seeing what we feel ought to be, which, when sane, is a deeper seeing of what they are. Humor is imagination relaxing herself and playing the caricaturist. While she lives at all, she must be permitted to recreate. She thrives on the surplus age of mental vitality.

Nordau dwells somewhere on the tendency of artists he calls degenerate to paint everything more or less violet. One would suppose that every color, like every sound, must be yielding its overtones. Any one can see the color as it stands. It takes an artist to see—feel, "imagine"—its overtones and bring them down for us.—Student in the New Century.

INFERENCE WAS GOOD.

Dull Pupil Amazed Teacher by Giving Proof of Average Reasoning Power.

A Baltimore school-teacher was telling one day of how often the instructor of "the young idea" is astonished by the quickness of wit exhibited by the pupil who is otherwise deficient.

One day, says this teacher, she had encountered such a degree of ignorance and mental obtuseness on the part of one of her boys that she became disheartened. So it was with considerable sarcasm that she said to the youngster:

"I wonder if you could tell me whether George Washington was a soldier or a sailor."

The kid grinned. "He was a soldier, all right," was his reply.

"How do you know?" asked the weary teacher.

"Because I seen a picture of him crossin' the Delaware," explained the boy. "Any sailor'd know enough not to stand up in a boat."

HARVARD MAN'S GRACE.

Familiarity of Petition Shocked Arizona Men Gathered for Thanksgiving Dinner.

A story is told about a young fellow just out of Harvard, who went to Arizona to find out what it was like. He was affected in his manner, after the English fashion, and around the neighborhood soon became something of a joke.

When Thanksgiving came, all the men without homes dined together, and before the feast it was arranged that the Harvard youth should be asked to say grace. The boys wanted to find out what sort of training he had received. When the gentleman at the head of the table requested the favor of him, he hesitated a moment, smiled weakly and lisped:

"Ouh Fatheh!" with uplifted finger, and then "Jolly good lunch; thanks awfully, old chap."

Putting Her Foot in It.

Two girl friends met in the street and stopped to shake hands.

"So glad to see you, Grace," said the tailor-made Alice. "Was just on my way to ask you, as my oldest friend, to be one of my bridesmaids."

"Bridesmaids! How lovely! I did not know you were engaged," replied Grace.

"It's sudden, very sudden, but he's awfully in love, and is just too sweet to live. Will you act?"

"Act? Of course. I'll be charmed. But," moving forward and speaking in an undertone, "do come round the corner and tell me all about it. There comes that idiotic, irrepressible donkey, Jim Berton. He's grinning as though he meant to stop, and I don't care to be seen talking to him."

"Jim Berton? He's the man I'm going to marry!"

Vaudeville In Church.

New York, Nov. 12.—Vaudeville turns, as an adjunct to religious service, have been introduced by the Rev. Dr. Frank M. Goodrich, pastor of the Central Baptist church, in West Forty-second street, and last night the congregation listened with what were apparently feelings of mingled interest and surprise while Miss Eethel M. Palmer, "a woman whistler," warbled three tunes in the intervals between the reading of the Word and the sermon. Dr. Goodrich believes in the efficacy of advertising, and the last number of Gist, his church's paper, announced that it was the purpose of the trustees to do all that could be done to make the services of the church attractive.

PLAINFIELD LIBRARY NOTES

New Books on Fine Arts Recently Added to the Public Library.

Cox, Kenyon.—Old masters and new: essays in art criticism.

Cram, Ralph Adams.—Impressions of Japanese architecture and the allied arts.

"The author, who ranks among the leading architects of America, lays special stress upon the chapter on 'The Genius of Japanese Art,' and dwells upon the necessity of understanding the different quality of the civilization of the East in order fully to appreciate the splendor of its architecture. Fifty illustrations."

Davenport, Cyril.—Mezzotints.

"....The first volume to be published of 'The Connoisseurs' library' is by the editor of the series, Mr. Cyril Davenport of the British Museum."

Doat, Taxile Maximin.—Grand feu ceramics: a practical treatise on the making of fine poreclain and gres.

"This treatise by the well known French potter appeared in the form of articles in the 'Keramic studio.'"

Gamble, William.—Process year book for 1905.

"Everyone interested in the subject of process work, and who wishes to know its position today, cannot do better than examine closely the examples displayed throughout the pages of this volume."

Gardner, Ernest Arthur.—Handbook of Greek sculpture.

Hasluck, Paul N.—Book of photography.

A comprehensive work on present day photography.

Heath, Dudley.—Miniatures.

"Mr. Heath has done his work with exceptional thoroughness and skill. The closing pages are given up to foreign miniaturists and we read of Italy, Germany, and France, but not a word of America or the United States."

Kellogg, Alice M.—Home furnishing: practical and artistic.

"Different parts of the house are considered in turn—the hall, 'den,' library, living room, dining room, kitchen, etc, and appropriate furnishings and decorations suggested for each."

Lanteri, Edward.—Modelling, a guide for teachers and students. 2v.

"It would almost be superfluous to praise a guide to modelling by Prof. Lanteri. In this work the student may follow the whole process through a series of remarkable photographs from the construction of the armature to the finished state of the figure or bust."

Maskell, Alfred.—Ivories.

"....The author has endeavored to give a comprehensive sketch of ivory sculpture, confling his examples to those found in the British Museum, South Kensington, Wallace and Mayer collections in England. Chapters are devoted to prehistoric ivory carvings, consular diptychs and other Greek and Roman carvings, early Christian ivories, etc."

Moore, Mrs. N. Hudson.—Old pewter, brass copper and Sheffield plate.

Study of pewter ware, nor eagerly collected and highly valued. The details of manufacture, style of decoration and correct weight are given, illustrated by pictures of hundreds of examples. Also a list of the names of continental, English, Scotch and such American makers as could be found, to facilitate classification."

Potter, Mary Knight.—Art of the Louvre.

"In her classification and treatment the author has been guided by the great art critics of the Western world, from whose opinions she has aimed at choosing what seemed to her most generally true and reliable, and of special value to readers who are not connoisseurs or deep students of painting."

Redman, William.—Marks on old pewter and Sheffield plate.

"The connoissuer will be glad to know of this volume which contains a complete account of the various periods of old pewter and Sheffield plate, indicating the varying values of the different marks which those periods bear. .....The search for real old pewter is likely to last for a long time with a certain class of people .....because it can never be reproduced with its original old-fashioned appearance."

White, Mary.—How to make pottery.

"The author .... here treats of pottery-making in a simple, practical manner. Chapters on clay and tools, glaze, the kiln——etc., present the essentials of the art so that any one of average intelligence and deft fingers may learn how to work in clay."

PERSONAL NOTES.

Albert Morton Lythgoe has been appointed curator of the department of Egyptian art of the Metropolitan Museum, New York. He will leave shortly for Upper Egypt, where he will superintend excavations for ancient Egyptian art treasures.

James T. McDermott, who will represent Packingtown, Ill., in the next Congress, began life as a messenger boy, picked up telegraphy and left the city to begin the campaign which won for him a seat in the national House of Representatives. He is 34 years old and a Democrat.

Francis Wilson, the actor, is well known as a collector of paintings. Recently he purchased a picture from a dealer in New York supposed to be by Mauve, for which he paid $5,375. In Mr. Wilson's own words it turns out to be "a worthless imitation," and he has had the art dealer arrested to recover his money.

Dr. Karl Muck, of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, was a distinguished pianist before he became a famous conductor. Soon after arriving in Boston Prof. Willy Hess, concertmaster of the orchestra, asked Muck to play the piano in one of the modern work which the quartet is to give. After looking at the score he said: "I will, if you put it into your last concert. I'll have to take a course of scales before the concert and you must give me time."

Philip B. Lehmann, of La Crosse, Wis., has invented a new system of phonetic spelling, which increases to forty-three letters the old alphabet of twenty-six letters. Congressman John Esch, of La Crosse, is very much interested in the new system and will bring it to the attention of President Roosevelt and Andrew Carnegie. For fifteen years Lehmann was a telegraph operator, in which work he conceived his new system of stenographic reform.

WOMEN THE WORLD OVER.

Emily Soldene, who was the queen of opera bouffe in the early '70's in the United States as well as in Europe, will have a benefit at the Palace theatre, London, on November 13.

Mrs. Elizabeth Crowe has been fined $3 at Ottawa for kissing her own child. She had been divorced and when she met her child in the street she kissed it. Her husband charged her with assaulting it.

This tempting advertisement appeared in a London paper: "Home offered to musical lady (young) willing to pay 10s weekly, and give boy seven music lessons, and teach little girl four, and be as daughter to young widow. Needlework desired."

Queen Maud of Norway—King Edward's youngest daughter—is a lady of many hobbies. One of them is to collect ivory tucks, of which she has a goodly number, many given her by kings and emperors. An amusing fad of hers is a book of newspaper cuttings labeled: "Things We Have Never Said or Done," in which she roguishly pastes all sorts of fictions about herself, King Haakon and her friends, which find their way into the public press.

Girls seeking employment in Paris should exercise great caution before taking an engagement—from the legal point of view, for instance. The secretary of the Ada Leigh homes quotes the case of a girl who had been with a Parisian family for twelve months. At the end of that period she was turned out in the street without a penny, and had no legal remedy, for, according to French law, if application is not made monthly for wages due, they need not be paid.

A woman has been arrested in Paris carrying in her arms a 4-year-old child which had been trained to snatch watches and scarfpins, as its mother carried it through the crowd. The child was seen to annex two watches and seven pins in less than half an hour.

THE DELUGE

By DAVID GRAHAM PHILLIPS, Author of "THE COST," etc.

(COPYRIGHT 1905 by the BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY)

After we had arranged the business—or, rather, arranged to have it arranged through our lawyers—he walked down to the pier with me. At the gangway he gave me another searching look from head to foot—but vastly different from the inspection with which our interview had begun. "You are a devilish handsome young fellow," said he. "Your pictures don't do you justice. And I shouldn't have believed any man could overcome in one brief sitting such a prejudice as I had against you. On second thought, I don't care to see her. She must be even below the average."

"Or far above it," I suggested.

"I suppose I'll have to ask her over to visit me," he went on. "A fine hypocrite I'll feel."

"You can make it one of the conditions of your gift that she is not to thank you or speak of it," said I. "I fear your face would betray us, if she ever did."

"An excellent idea!" he exclaimed. Then, as he shook hands with me in farewell: "You will win her yet—if you care to."

As I steamed up the Sound, I was tempted to put in at Dawn Hill's harbor. Through my glass I could see Anita and Alva and several others, men and women, having tea on the lawn under a red and white awning. I could see her dress—a violet suit with a big violet hat to match. I knew that costume. Like everything she wore, it was both beautiful in itself and most becoming to her. I could see her face, could almost make out its expression—did I see, or did I imagine, a cruel contrast to what I always saw when she knew I was looking?

I gazed until the trees hid lawn and gay awning, and that lively company and her. In my bitterness I was full of resentment against her, full of self-pity. I quite forgot, for that moment, her side of the story.

XXVII.

BLACKLOCK SEES A LIGHT

I was nxt day, I think, that I met Mowbray Langdon and his brother Tom in the entrance of the Textile Building. Mowbray was back only a week from his summer abroad; but Tom I had seen and nodded to every day, often several times in the day, as he went to and fro about his "respectable" dirty work for the Roebuck-Langdon clique. He was one of their most frequently used stool-pigeon directors in banks and insurance companies whose funds they staked in their big gambling operations, they taking almost all the profits and the depositors and policy holders taking almost all the risk. It had never once occurred to me to have any feeling of any kind Tom, or in any way to take him into my calculations as to Anita. He was, to my eyes, too obviously a pale understudy of his powerful and fascinating brother. Whenever I thought of him as the man Anita fancied she loved, I put it aside instantly. "The kind of man a woman really cares for," I would say to myself, "is the measure of her true self. But not the kind of man she imagines she cares for."

Tom went on; Mowbray stopped. We shook hands, and exchanged commonplaces in the friendliest way—I was harboring no resentment against him, and I wished him to realize that his assault had bothered me no more than the buzzing and battering of a summer fly. "I've been trying to get in to see you," said he. "I wanted to explain about that unfortunate Textile deal."

This, when the assault on me had burst out with fresh energy the day after he landed from Europe! I could scarcely believe that his vanity, his confidence in his own skill at underground work could so delude him. "Don't bother," said I. "All that's ancient history."

But he had thought out some nes to his ingenuity; he was not to be deprived of the pleasure of telling them. So I was compelled to listen; and, being in an indulgent mood, I did not spoil his pleasure by letting him see or suspect my unbelief. If he could have looked into my mind, as I stood there in an attitude of patient attention, I think even his self-complacence would have been put out of countenance.

With his first full stop, I said: "I understand perfectly, Langdon. But I haven't the slightest interest in crooked enterprises now. I'm clear out of all you fellows' stocks. I've reinvested my property so that not even a panic would trouble me."

"That's good," he drawled. I saw he did not believe me—which was natural, as he knew nothing of my arrangement with Galloway and assumed I was laboring in heavy weather, with a bad cargo of Coal stocks and contracts. "Come to lunch with me. I've got some interesting things to tell you about my trip."

A few months before, I should have accepted with alacrity. But I had lost interest in him. He had not changed; if anything, he was more dazzling than ever in the ways that had once dazzled me. It was I that had changed—my ideals, my point of view. I had no desire to feed my new-sprung contempt by watching him pump in vain for information to be used in his secret campaign against me. "No, thanks. Another day," I replied, and left him with a curt nod. I noted that he had failed to speak of my marriage, though he had not seen me since. "A sore subject with all the Langdons," thought I. "It must be very sore, indeed, to make a man who is all manners, neglect them."

"I am strong and secure," said I to myself as I strode through the wonderful canyon of Broadway, whose walls are those mighty palaces of finance and commerce from which business men have been ousted by cormorant "captains of industry." I must use my strength. How could I better use it than by fluttering these vultures on their roosts, and perhaps bringing down a bird or two?

I decided, however, that it was better to wait until they had stopped rattling their beaks and claws on my shell in futile attack. "Meanwhile," I reasoned carefully," I can be getting good and ready."

Their first new move, after my little talk with Langdon, was intended as a mortal blow to my credit. Melville requested me to withdraw mine and Blacklock and Company's accounts from the National Industrial Bank; and the fact that this huge and powerful institution had thus branded me was duly given to the financial reporters of the newspapers. Far and wide it was published, and the public was expected to believe that this was one more and drastic measure in the "campaign of the honorable men of finance to clean the Augean Stables of Wall Street." My daily letter to investors next morning led off with this paragraph—the first notice I had taken publicly of their attacks on me:

"In the effort to discredit the only remaining uncontrolled source of financial truth, the big bandits have ordered my accounts out of their chief gambling-house. I have transferred the accounts to the Discount and Deposit National, where Leonidas Thornly stands guard against the new order that seeks to make business a synonym for crime."

Thornley was of the type that was dominant in our commercial life before the "financiers" came—just as song birds were common in our trees until the noisy, brawling, thieving sparrows drove them out. His oldest son was about to marry Joe's daughter—Alva. Many a Sunday I have spent at his place near Morristown—a charming combination of city comfort with farm freedom and fresh air. I remember, one Sunday, saying to him, after he had seen his wife and daughters off to church: "Why haven't you looked out for establishing these boys and girls of yours?"

"I don't want my girls to be sought for money," said he. "I don't want my boys to rely on money. Perhaps I've seen too much of wealth, and have come to have a prejudice against it. Then, too, I've never had the chance to get rich."

I showed that I thought that he was simple jesting.

"I mean it," said he, looking at me with eyes as straight as a well brought-up girl's. "How could my mind be judicial if I were personally interested in the enterprises people look to me for advice about?"

And not only did he keep himself clear and his mind judicial but also he was, like all really good people, exceedingly slow to believe others guilty of the things he would as soon have thought of doing as he would have thought of slipping into the teller's cage during the lunch hour and pocketing a package of bank-notes. He gave me his motto—a curious one: "Believe in everybody; trust in nobody."

CLEANLY WOMAN.

Erroneously Thinks by Scouring Her Scalp That She Cures Dandruff.

Cleanly woman has an erroneous idea that by scouring the scalp, which removes the dandruff scales, she is curing the dandruff. She may wash her scalp every day, and yet have dandruff her life long, accompanied by falling hair, too. The only way in the world to cure dandruff is to kill the dandruff germ, and there is no hair preparation that will do that but Newbro's Herpicide. Herpicide by killing the dandruff germ, leaves the hair free to grow as healthy Nature intended. Destroy the cause you remove the effect. Kill the dandruff germ with Herpicide. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

GOLF SEASON DRAWS TO A CLOSE HERE

SMALL FIELD AT BOTH COUNTRY CLUB AND PARK GOLF COURSES.

There was not a large field out at the Plainfield Country Club, Saturday, and it was probably chiefly due to the fact that the active season is drawing to a close. However, there was considerable interest in the events scheduled, which included play for the November Handicap cup, semi-final play for the Golf Committee, consolation cup and the inconsolables' cup, although only one match was played in the last named event.

Edward J. Patterson returned the best score for the November Handicap cup, a 78. At the end of the season those who have made the lowest scores for this cup will compete at match play for the trophy. These scores were returned on Saturday for the cup:

Edward J. Patterson, 92, 14—78; Hugh F. Fox, 99, 18—81; Edward T. Wilson, 93, 10—83; Frank C. Talmadge, 83, 0—83; Arthur Murphy, 92, 7—85.

In the semi-final for the Golf Committee consolation cup, Frank C. Talmadge beat L. A. Chase by 3 up and 1 to play, while Arthur Murphy and Howard W. Beebe will play their match today. The winner of the match will play Frank Talmadge on Saturday.

In the semi-final for the Inconsolables' cup, Morris J. Dumont beat W. D. Riggs 2 up and 1 to play, and E. B. Shoemaker beat E. A. Stevenson, by default. The final play for this cup will take place on Saturday between Dumont and Shoemaker.

There was just general play at the Park Golf Club on Saturday, no events being scheduled for the day. A number took advantage of the opportunity to get the exercise. The clubhouse is practically closed for the season.

ROD AND GUN.

J. A. Staats and Fred Sandford left this morning for Little York, where they will spend the week hunting game.

A. M. Vanderbeek, of the borough; Rev. E. E. Roberson, of Monroe Avenue, and Elmer Volk, of West Second street, spent Saturday hunting at Cherryville, Hunterdon county. They returned with thirteen rabbits.

John Ross, A. J. Leader and W. H. Kirch, all of the borough, returned Saturday from a successful hunting trip on the farm of Mr. Kirch's father near Warrenville, Somerset county. While away they bagged a big lot of game.

Machinists' Annual Ball.

Plainfield lodge, No. 167, International Association of Machinists, will holds its fourth annual ball in Saengerbund hall on Friday, November 16. The proceeds will be for the benefit of the Labor Temple fund. Suhr's Imperial orchestra will furnish the music and the following committee has charge of the arrangements: Robert Sowden, John Clinen and James Smith. The lodge gave a ball last spring for the benefit of the San Francisco relief fund which netted $200.

Perth Amboy's Odd Problem.

Perth Amboy, Nov. 12.—There is an odd problem for the authorities of this city to solve. Mayor M. H. Bryce died last January and his place was filled, under the laws of 1905, by Alderman-at-large John Pfeiffer. The law says that the head of the Board of Finances shall act as Mayor until the next State or general election. This fact was overlooked at the election when Albert Bollschweiler was chosen Mayor, to take office January 1. That leaves a vacancy of two months, according to the wal it is figured out here, as Pfeiffer's term ended at election and the new Mayor's does not begin until New Year's Day.

Makes Charge Against Servant.

Whitehouse, Nov. 12.—Constable John H. Reed, of Whitehouse Station, has arrested Myrtle McFeilicus, fifteen years old, who was a servant in the home of Rev. Dr. John P. Krechting, pastor of the Lutheran church at New Germantown. Dr. Krechting says that the girl is incorrigible and declares, because of threats made by her, she is a dangerous character. Three months ago the girl came from a home in Delaware, O., and when she went with the Krechting family at first it seems she got along nicely, but now Mrs. Krechting charges that she refused to mind and threatened the lives of the members of the Krechting family. The girl tells a story to the effect that she could not please the mistress, and says they quarreled. She is in the county jail at Flemington.

Rumor of a King's Death.

New York, Nov. 12.—Unfounded rumors that King Alfonso of Spain had been assassinated were current in this city last night. They arose from the fact that a Paris despatch stating that the rumors were persistently circulated there became known. The deepest concern was felt until a report arrived from London saying that there was no basis for the Paris cable despatch. In Washington the Spanish Embassy received no news, and the State Department only knew of the report through the press despatches.

George Granville Damon.

George Granville Damon, head of the firm of Damon & Sons, formerly Damon & Peets, one of the best known printing supply houses in the country, died Saturday afternoon at his home in Cranford, aged sixty-seven years. He was taken ill on September 21 as he was returning from Atlantic City. A sciatic trouble was the nature and complications followed, keeping him confined to his home all the time. He enjoyed a wide acquaintance in this city. The funeral will be held at his late home tonight at 7:30.

Want More Gas Used.

To induce consumers to use their gas ranges through the winter, the P. S. C. has announced an offer to connect an apparatus that will warm the kitchen and keep hot water in the boiler by the utilization of waste heat from the furnace. The device will be put in for a nominal cost. The householder is supposed to save in the elimination of the kitchen coal range from the domestic economy.

An Early Morning Fire.

Some one passing along Greenbrook road about 3 o'clock, yesterday morning, noticed a dangerous dry grass fire just back of the barns and outbuildings on Den Gavin's place. Whoever it was turned in an alarm from box 154 at Rockview avenue and Rockview terrace and brought out the borough department. The flames were put out by the use of the chemical engine.

Hunt and Dinner.

The Hunt Club met at New Market Saturday afternoon. The run was from New Market bridge to Metuchen and from there to the clubhouse at Colonia. The club members were entertained at dinner in the evening by Charles W. Fisk and Harvey iFsk. Covers were laid for twenty-five. The roms were prettily decorated, and cneerful log fires blazed in all the fireplaces. Everybody made speeches.

Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Dietz.

Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Dietz, aged eighty-four years, died yesterday morning at the home of her son, Frederick A. Dietz, of Summit avenue. She had been an invalid for many years. The funeral will be held at he son's home tomorrow morning and will be private. Interment will be at Somerville.

Farm Hand Injured.

Bavel Smozsonick, employed by a farmer on the Rahway road, sprained his wrist on Saturday, while at work in the field, and the injury was so severe that he went to the hospital for treatment. He was able to return home afterwards.

Mrs. Hall's Latest Books.

Mrs. Florence Howe Hall's latest work, "Social Customs at Washington, D. C.," will be issued by the house of Harper Brothers in about ten days. "Flossie's Play Days" by the same author was received from the press of Dana Estes & Co. two weeks ago.

The Ladies' Foreign Missionary Society, of the Monroe Avenue church, will meet at the home of Mrs. Robert L. Lee, of 810 West Sixth street, tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. Gilbert Fletcher, of West Seventh street, is ill at her home with typhoid fever. Arrangements have been made for her young son to live for the present with his grandparents, Rev. and Mrs. Frank Fletcher, at Dunellen.

Miss Caroline Minturn Hall, who has been spending the summer and autumn months with her grandmothers, Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, at Newport, R. I., has returned to Plainfield, where she will spend the winter with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. P. Hall, at 910 Madison avenue.

Mrs. Russell Sage announced today that she had determined to give away to thousands of the poor the vast fortune of $80,000,000 left her by her husband—a task as stupendous as it is unique among the possessors of such wealth.

It was Mrs. Sage's first statement of the manner in which she intended to dispose of the late financier's many millions.

Painter Kills Himself.

Califon, Nov. 12.—John H. Trimmer, a painter, of this place, committed suicide today. He was about thirty-seven years old. Trimmer, it is said, was subject to the morphine habit, and had been taking freely of that drug yesterday. Death was due, it is believed, to an overdose of morphine, and the contents of a bottle of horse medicine found by his side. His lifeless body was found by his sister upon going to his room. He resided with his parents, Constable and Mrs. Philip S. Trimmer, in Railroad avenue. Five years ago he was run over by a Central Railroad train at Hampton Junction and had a leg amputated.

Painter Breaks Arm by Fall.

Glen Gardner, Nov. 12.—Jacob Castner, fifty-five years old, of this place, a painter, fell Saturday and broke his left arm between the wrist and elbow. He was upon a ladder painting the new creamery at Hampton Junction when the ladder slid throwing him to the ground, twenty feet below. He was taken to the office of Dr. T. B. Fulper, in that borough, who set his arm and dressed his other injuries.

New Bowling Club.

Miss Goddard with several others has about perfected plans for the organization of a bowling club to comprise a membership of about twenty-five young people. The club will meet at the Casino each Thursday night for bowling and a tournament will be arranged for the winter.

Borough Police ote.

Michael Lacey and Steve Bolan got drunk in the borough, Saturday night, and played the part of villaage cut-ups. Marshal Pope put them both in cells but they were released later on bail for apeparance in court tonight.

Newarkers at Pedeflous.

The run of the Newark club to Pedeflous Mushroom farm yesterday was an event of importance. There were forty or fifty cars making the trip, and nearly 200 sat down to table.

J. M. Whiton will deliver an illustrated lecture on Sicily at a meeting of the Men's Club of Grace church tonight.

OLD WHALING MASTER

CAPT. F. C. SMITH, OF NEW BEDFORD, MASS., A VETERAN.

Has Encircled the Globe Three Times During His Career—Aided in Producing 29,000 Barrels of Oil —Never Shipwrecked.

Boston.—One of the veterans of the sea, who is living in retirement at his home in New Bedford, is Capt. Francis Cottle Smith, who only a short time since celebrated the ninetieth anniversary of his birth.

In a way, Capt. Smith is a remarkable man. He has seen four score years and ten, and yet to-day he is as hale and hearty as many another 30 years his junior. His only infirmity is a slight trouble with his eyes.

He is a Vineyarder by birth, and first saw the light of day in Chilmark March 16, 1816.

At the age of 16 he went to sea in the old ship Java, out of New Bedford, and in less than nine months the vessel was back in port with 2,000 barrels of oil.

His promotion was rapid, and when in 1839, just after his twenty-third birthday, he was given command of the ship Heroine of Fairhaven, he started in on a record which stamps him as one of the most successful commanders of the old school.

He is the oldest master mariner in New Bedford, and with the death of Capt. Charles Grant, of Nantucket, which occurred March 18, he is the oldest whaling master in the world, and boasts of the longest term of service of any man who ever trod the deck of a whaleship.

Other successful voyages were in the Eliza Adams and the James Allen.

While master of the James Allen in 1843, cruising in the Arctic ocean, he made a landing on Herald island, the first white man to step foot on that rocky formation in the far north.

Another voyage made by this veteran of the sea was in the ship John and

CAPT. FRANCIS C. SMITH.
(He Is One of the Oldest Whaling Masters Living at Present.)

Edward. He was a large owner in this vessel, and when he returned on December 10, 1858, with a valuable cargo he little dreamed that most of it, together with the ship, would go up in flames.

Fortunately the bone had been removed to a store house, but the oil was stored on a wharf at the foot of North street, the same wharf where the John and Edward made her berth. On August 24, 1859, occurred the greatest conflagration ever known in the city of New Bedford and the John and Edward and nearly everything Capt. Smith owned went up in flames.

He then tried his hand at steamboating for a short time, taking command of steamer Mt. Vernon, which plied between New York and Washington, D. C., but he didn't take kindly to this sort of a sea life, and in 1864 he was again found in command of a whaleship, this time master of the ship William Thompson, one of the largest vessels in the whaling fleet.

While cruising in the Kamchatka sea the following year, he was overhauled by the confederate cruiser Shenandoah, the ship and her cargo burned, while he and his crew were held as prisoners on the cruiser. His ship was destroyed on June 21, some time after the civil war had ended.

He was brought down to San Francisco with other whalemen who had suffered similar loss, and, returning home, was given command of the ship Janus December 6 of the same year.

This was his last voyage, and leaving the Janus at Honolulu he returned east and took up his residence on the Vineyard. At one time he was extensively engaged in real estate transactions at Cottage City, and for nine years during his residence on the island he was sheriff of Dukes county.

Capt. Smith was never shipwrecked, but he has had his share of losses.

He has sailed around the world three times, around Cape Horn 11 times, around Cape of Good Hope seven times, whaled it in four of the five oceans on the globe, and during his long service as a sailor has helped in the capture of 29,000 barrels of oil, to say nothing of the whalebone taken when cruising in northern waters.

As a disciplinarian he had few equals in the service, one illustration of which he proudly boasts of to-day. While in command of the ... ov. Morton, from New Y... San Francisco, he encountered ... off Cape Horn, so disa... he Morton that he was compelled ... Montevide for repairs, an... ort for months before ... pleted, and yet ... h not lose a man ... continually lost ... crews.

WOMAN HAD FORETHOUGHT

Got Transfer for Expected Friend with the Idea of Saving Herself Much Trouble.

"Ingenuity, thy name is woman!" said the conductor, as a plump woman laden with packages alighted from his car. "Do you know what she did? Well, after she had stowed her packages in her lap, she opened her bag, dug down into it, brought up her purse and gave me ten cents. 'For two,' she said. I thought she intended paying for the bundles and was about to tell her that it was needless extravagance, when she said: 'I'd like two transfers.' I grinned.

"'Are you getting a transfer on your parcels?' I asked.

"She replied in a very matter of fact way: 'Oh, no; but, you see, a friend of mine is going to meet me at the corner and I want to pay her fare; but it'll be an awful nuisance for me to get my purse again with all these bundles, so I thought if you'd give me two transfers I'd save all that trouble.'

"I gave her two transfers. The company won't lose anything by it, and if the friend doesn't happen to be waiting on the corner, it'll be something in."

WARNS BEARDED MEN.

Physician Points Out Extreme Importance of Keeping Whiskers Free from Dampness.

"It is well that old men should wear beards," said a physician, "for when one becomes old one should be spared the exertion of daily shaving. But I would like to issue a warning to all beard wearers. I would like to shout 'Keep your beards dry,' in a voice loud enough to be heard around the world. Were those words heeded many cases of sore throat, cold and influenza would be avoided and many deaths would be indefinitely put off.

"So many men with beards neglect, when they wash their faces, to wipe their beards dry. A beard a foot long demands a lot of toweling. It should be toweled after every wash a good five minutes. Otherwise it is damp. The owner goes about with this damp thing upon his delicate and sensitive throat. Then, if he takes tonsilitis or influenza, he blames the American climate. There are too many damp beards among us. Too many men, washing their faces three or four times a day, have their beards damp and clammy a good three hours daily."

CARRY SMALLER BIRDS.

Eminent Ornithologist Asserts Larger Species Assist Smaller in Their Annual Migrations.

It was an opinion held by many in ancient times that small birds in migrating were often carried on the backs of the larger. In Egypt, for example, it was held that wagtails were thus carried by storks. And many years ago a Swedish naturalist, Hedenborg, made some remarkable observations on the subject. During the arrival of the flights of storks at Rhodes from oversea, Hedenborg frequently heard the voices of singing birds without being able to see them. At last, after careful observation, when a flight of storks had just alighted, he saw that they had small birds perched on their backs. The writer of a recent book, "Recreations of a Naturalist," Mr. J. E. Harting, has some interesting remarks on this subject. Most ornithologists probably regard the idea as a myth, but Mr. Harting's remarks seem to admit a possibility that there may be some truth in it.

The Talking Chickens.

A woman has been much annoyed by the trespassing of a neighbor's chickens.

The other day she tied with stout thread to large grains of corn cards whereon was written:

"Please pen us in better. We are spoiling Mrs. Dash's garden.

She scattered these contrivances over her lawn. The chickens, trespassing as usual, ate the corn, and from their mouths that night they spoke the woman's message to their shocked master.

Thereafter they trespassed no more.

What It Sounded Like.

"Oh, what do you call those things you hang clothes on?" said Dumley, who was trying to think of "clothes tree."

"What things?" asked Jiggins.

"Why, they have arms that stick out like this and—"

Fruit Cure for Drinking Habit.

There is but one sure cure for the drinking disease or habit, and that is the simplest of all. The cure consists in eating fruits. That will cure the worst case of inebriety that ever afflicted a person. It will entirely destroy the taste for intoxicants and will make the drunkard return to the thoughts and tastes of his childhood. No person ever saw a man or woman who liked fruit and who had an appetite for drink. No person ever saw a man or woman with an appetite for drink who liked fruit. The two tastes are at deadly enmity with each other, and there is no room for both of them in the same human constitution. One will surely destroy the other.

Chief Engineer Says Bridge May Be Erected at Rock Avenue—Maps Filed.

For the purpose of acquainting the Common Council with proposed improvements to be made in the railroad bridges throughout the city by the New Jersey Central, Chairman Gloak, of the street committee, presented maps at the Common Council meeting, last night, to be filed in the office of the city clerk. An effort was made once before to file these maps, but the question of liability on the part of the city was raised at the time, and the matter was held up for further consideration.

Since the street committee held a conference with Joseph O. Osgood, chief engineer of the New Jersey Central, and after an explanation on the part of the latter, it was learned that the filing of the maps was to let the city know what is proposed to be done to the bridges, it being the company's desire to make the bridges absolutely safe for traffic.

By way of explanation Mr. Gloak stated that Mr. Osgood informed the committee that the company expected to expend about $200,000 in the improvement of the bridges in the city between Leland and Rock avenues. There are thirteen bridges and it will cost the company between $20,000 and $30,000 for each bridge. The idea is to make these structures absolutely water-proof and as near soundproof as possible.

At the conference there was some discussion regarding the unprotected grade crossing at Rock avenue, and Mr. Osgood assured the members that the company is anxious to do something at that point to protect the lives of people obliged to cross the tracks there. He said that the civil engineering department is now considering plans for such protection, and it had not been decided yet whether it would be best to build an overhead bridge or make an undergrade crossing, but proper protection would be given at the earliest possible date.

At present the company has a large force of men at work in the East End of the city building an interlocking switch tower to handle the large increase of traffic through the city. The company is also getting ready to put in an extra side track extending from the freight house to the Netherwood station over land recently acquired from the Plainfield Hygeia Ice Company and David T. Kenney.

TWENTY-FIVE PRISONERS PLEAD TO INDICTMENTS.

Those Who Confessed Will Be Sentenced on November 28.

In the Union County Court at Elizabeth yesterday twenty-five persons, against whom indictments were found by the October grand jury, were arraigned and pleaded. Most of the indictments were simple assault and battery cases. The prisoners who pleaded guilty, about half the entire number, will be sentenced November 28. The others will be tried on November 15, 16 and 20. Bail was fixed at $200 in nearly every instance. The most important indictment today was that of Thomas Girard, of Roselle Park, charged with selling liquor without a license. His bail was fixed at $300 and his trial set down for November 16.

There are still a number against whom indictments were found who have not yet been arraigned.

Aged Woman Buried.

The funeral of Mrs. Blandina E. Vredenburgh, eighty-six years old, was held yesterday afternoon at her late home at Somerville. She died Friday from a complication of diseases. Her husband was a direct descendant of Mominie Vredenburgh, one of the original settlers of Somerset county, and was closely allied with the Frelinghuysen and other families that arose to prominence in the county's history in the old days. A daughter and one son, La Rue Vredenburgh, a State bank inspector, survive her. Rev. Dr. William S. Cranmer, pastor of the First Reformed church, officiated at the funeral services, and burial was in the new cemetery.

First McIntyre Concert.

Joseph McIntyre's first chamber concert will be given at the Casino on Friday night. He has arranged a programme of rare excellencne and included among the artists will be Paul Dufault, the well-known tenor soloist. Mr. Dubinsky, whose playing was so much enjoyed last season, will appear again and with Mr. McIntyre will play the famous Rubenstein sonata for piano and 'cello.

COMMUTERS WANT A TRAIN AT 8:10 A. M.

ROAD MAY BE ASKED TO PUT ON AN EAST BOUND MORNING SPECIAL.

The rumor that the New Jersey Central proposes to operate a second section of the popular 7:55 morning train to New York, which will leave here at 7:45, has brought forth considerable discussion on the part of the commuter element. It is a question in the minds of some as to whether the proposed 7:45 train will not relieve the fast and popular 7:25 train more than it will the 7:55.

For years many wealthy commuters have endeavored to secure a fast morning train to New York leaving Plainfield about 8:10 or 8:15 which will land the business men in New York at 9 o'clock. This would give them ample time to reach Wall street and attend to important business before the Stock Exchange opens. At present there is no fast train leaving Plainfield in the morning which reaches New York at 9 o'clock and now that there is talk of a change in the running of the 7:55 efforts are being renewed to have a train leave here between 8 and 8:15 o'clock. The matter will probably be taken up with the officials of the railroad.

STATIONARY ENGINEERS MEET.

President of National Association Tells of Founding.

A meeting of the National Association of Stationary Engineers was held in the rooms of the Newark local No. 3, on Saturday night. The president, T. N. Kelsey, from Lowell Union No. 17, and Vice-President Joseph F. Carney, of New York, who are here on their official State visit, made addresses.

Mr. Kelsey spoke on the foundation and advancement of the order during the twenty-five years of its organization. Mr. Carney told of the good the association had done for engineers throughout the United States.

Representatives were present from Hoboken, Jersey City, Plainfield, Perth Amboy, Passaic and Elizabeth. Short addresses were made by William Reynolds, of Hoboken; William Cronley, Jersey City No. 1; John Calligan, Jersey City No. 10; Carrol Runyon, of Plainfield, and W. C. Tucker and J. MacMorran, of Newark No. 3.

Jefferson Recitals.

Those who are interested in true drama have a treat in store. George Klernan, the well-known Pittsburg actor, who is a representative of the Joseph Jefferson school, will be heard in recitals to be given in December. He will present "The Rivals" and "Rip VanWinkle," two of Mr. Jefferson's best known plays. Mrs. Mary E. Lowry, representing Mr. Kiernan, has made arrangements for a series of recitals to be given at the Casino on December 14 and 18.

Their Engagement Announced.

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Elizabeth Dencklau, of Fairview avenue, to Herbert Sander, of Paterson, formerly a member of the faculty in the North Plainfield High School. No date has been set for the wedding.

G. O. P. Committee to Meet.

HOMEOPATHS RECOGNIZED

Muhlenberg's Board Lets Down the Bars for Others Besides Allopaths.

DR. DAVIS APPOINTED

Selected As a Special Attending Physician Holding Membership In Regular Board.

The Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital, at its November meeting at the Casino, last night, adopted this resolution:

"That any medical case in the regular service who shall, on or before admission, either personally or by a properly authorized representative, notify the superintendent that he or she desires to be treated homeopathically may be so treated by an attending physician especially appointed for this purpose; and that a physician, residing in Plainfield or North Plainfield, practicing homeopathy, shall be appointed by the Board of Governors as 'special homeopathic attending physician,' whose duty it shall be to attend the above-mentioned cases; such homeopathic attendant shall be a member of the medical board of the hospital."

By subsequent action of the board, Dr. T. S. Davis was appointed 'special homeopathic attending physician of the hospital.'

This important action is the result of long and persistent effort on the part of the homeopathic physicians to secure recognition at the hospital. Heretofore, a homeopathic physician was privileged to take a patient to the hospital for treatment, but there has been no representative of that school of medicine on the medical board and no homeopathic physician had any say regarding hospital affairs. Last night's action on the part of the board is the first step toward a recognition of the homeopaths and will likely make many friends for the hospital.

It was expected that the board would also fill the place on the medical board left vacant by the resignation of Dr. W. C. Boone, but no action was taken, the matter being laid over until a future time.

The monthly report of patients at the hospital for October is as follows:

Patients reamining at last report, 22; admitted, 53; discharged cured, 41; improved, 3; not improved, 1; died, 2; total number treated, 75; remaining, 28; hospital days, 815; operations, 42. In the dispensary there were 79 patients; visits of patients, 315, and 21 operations.

GROWTH OF Y. M. C. A. WOMEN'S AUXILIARY

ANNUAL MEETING FINDS IT STILL THE LARGEST IN THE STATE.

With its position as the largest organization of its kind in the State unshaken, the Y. M. C. A. Women's Auxiliary began a new year yesterday. The annual meeting was held at the Y. M. C. A. in the afternoon.

Mrs. H. M. Maxson, who was president from the start of the auxiliary three years ago, asked to be relieved as head of the organization, and Mrs. L. M. French was elected in her place. Mrs. Maxson, Mrs. Walter Freeman and Mrs. J. W. Gavett were elected vice presidents. Mrs. F. J. Hubbard and Mrs. Harry C. Runyon were elected secretary and treasurer respectively.

Highly gratifying reports were received from all departments. The membership has grown in a year from about 200 to 300, and the treasury is in excellent condition. During the year $600 has been spent on local and State M. Y. C. A. work. Reports on the work of the devotional committee, by Mrs. George H. Babcock; the membership committee, by Mrs. J. Harry Manning; boys' work committee, by Mrs. Walter Freeman; social committee, by Mrs. L. M. French; flower and sick committee, by Dr. Martha Rose Stillman, were read.

After the meeting light refreshments were enjoyed. Mrs. L. M. French and Mrs. Walter Freeman were in charge of the social hour.

The work for the new year has not been mapped out yet. The plans will be shaped up when the new committees are made up.

The Old Story.

Again The Daily Press want ad. has demonstrated its great value. Louis K. Hyde advertised the loss of his thoroughbred setter dog Saturday. A Press reader returned it to him the next day. It was found at the Groszmann School, Watchung Crest.

OFFICIALS ARE INCENSED

Borough Councilmen Angry Over Wierd Tales as to Condition of Fire Department.

MAYOR'S BLUNT TALK

Mr. Smalley Declares There is a Time and Place for Discussing Opinions and Its Not the Street.

The Borough Council held another adjourned session, last night, and in the space of a few minutes passed a resolution to accept the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company's offer to repair the fire alarm system at a cost of $137.50. By the same resolution, the fire, water and lamps committee was authorized to furnish all the material necessary.

During the meeting, Fire Chief Woolston took occasion to inform the Council that he needed more men in the department and that at times its efficiency was hampered for this reason. He cited as an instance that at the Barry barn fire, Saturday night, so many call men were either away gunning or visiting that outsiders took a hand and as a result water was turned on too soon, the hose got kinks and various mistakes were made. Replying to the chief, Mayor Smalley said:

"The fire department is exceeding its appropriation and for general purposes the men now under salary ought to be competent to take care of all fires. Unless I am instructed by a majority of the Council, I shall make no more appointments, either for house duty or otherwise. We don't want to get into competition with Plainfield or any other place. The department as it stands now was put in under strenuous conditions and we've got to crawl before we jump. I think two men are able to do the work in the house despite the fact that the ordinance calls for three; if the two men think the work is too much let them complain."

At this juncture the mayor grasped the opportunity to take a "shot" at the officials who have been passing out wierd statements to an overzealous reporter about the "inefficiency" of the department, "the deplorable condition of the alarm system" and the "men at headquarters being dissatisfied with the way the department is run."

"If there is anything wrong with the department," said the executive, "there is a time and place to discuss it. There is a committee which oversees its affairs and the street is not the place to air views. We don't want this friction—there is no kick coming from the Mayor and Council and if the companies are dissatisfied let them present the names of competent men for appointment."

Chief Woolston replied that the brunt of complaint fell on him and that he had all sorts of difficulties with the men but that "he was willing to take it all for the taxpayers."

Following the meeting, a majority of the Councilmen held a short indignation session at which they openly expressed regret that such stories as had been given out had made their way into the columns of another paper. They were unanimous that erroneous statements of this nature worked harm to the community and that officials or firemen had ought to think carefully before giving them out. As Borough Electrician Searing expressed it, "because a box failed to work Saturday, the whole system was condemned."

Dog Owners in Panic.

Dog poisoners have thrown the owners of canine pets and house guardians in New Market into a panic. It is reported that ten dogs have been poisoned fatally in a week, and others have been sickened to the verge of death. Dog owners have taken to keeping their animals tied in the house, and allowing them to exercise only from the end of chains. From the ruthlessly indiscriminate way in which the poisoners worked it is suspected that boys are at the bottom of the crimes.

Will Repeat Entertainment.

The social committee of the Epworth League of the First M. E. church has prepared a fine programme for the monthly social to be held in Vincent chapel, Friday night. The programme will be a repetition of the one given last month, which was greatly enjoyed, with instrumental and vocal selections and readings. Refreshments will be served. Miss Helen Whitney is chairman of the committee, and a good time is assured all who attend.

Hope Chapelites Plan a Fair.

The Ladies' Aid Society of Hope chapel has planned to conduct a fair on December 13, 14 and 15 for the benefit of the organ fund. It will be one of the most pretentious undertakings of the season at the chapel. The society will be assisted in its efforts by the Men's Club.

STOKES VIEWS ELECTION

Points Out Facts Following Results of a Week Ago.

INDEPENDENT FACTORS

State Republican on Popular Side for Assembly—South Jersey Is Solid.

Trenton, Nov. 13.—Governor Stokes, who has been frequently asked for an expression of opinion as to the results of last Tuesday's election, broke the ice for the first time yesterday, when he expressed his opinion in the following authorized statement:

"Election returns are apt to be interpreted, according to the individual point of view. There are two significant facts, however, in connection with last Tuesday's result. South Jersey has stood solidly Republican and the State is Republican on the popular vote for Assembly.

"This, too, in spite of the fact that the Democratic majorities in Passaic, Hudson and Essex were abnormal, and probably reached their high water mark. There are numbers of Republicans in those counties who, regardless of issues, voted the Democratic ticket because of local dissatisfaction. These men are still Republican and believe in the party and its policies.

"It is evident, therefore, that New Jersey is safely Republican on State or national issues, with a proper recognition of the independent vote which the Republican party must always accord. The independent element is and always has been a determining factor, and it is the influence of this vote that has raised political standards and ideals in our State.

"I believe that party policies should be framed with due consideration to the independent voters, not because they are independent voters, or as a matter of political expediency, but because as a rule their principles are right.

"Notwithstanding the prosperity and excellent business conditions prevailing, there is an undoubted spirit of unrest and disquiet pervading the country. This grows out of conditions for which neither the Republican nor the Democratic party is responsible. There are ills that grow with the growth of civilization.

"The great corporate and industrial enterprises that have developed our trade and commerce and have made this country what it is, beget a spirit of greed and ambition that is too often forgetful of the rights of the public at large.

SENATOR JOHN KEAN'S VIEWS OF SITUATION

DRYDEN MUST LOOK TO SOUTH JERSEY —PLENTY OF OTHER GOOD MEN.

Senator John Kean, Mr. Dryden's colleague, in an interview, yesterday, after saying that he believed John F. Dryden would be successful if South Jersey remained loyal to him, declared that Mr. Dryden, however, could not expect much from North Jersey after the result of last Tuesday's election, and must base his hope on the other part of the State. Senator Kean remarked he could not see how Governor Stokes could be a candidate, as there was a clause in the State Constitution which acted as a barrier to his candidacy.

This clause, however, would not have any bearing on his eligibility with the United States Senate if the State Legislature saw fit to elect him, but it would be a doubtful question if the Legislature would deliberately vote to override a part of the Constitution which debars the Governor from being a senatorial candidate while holding his present office.

When Senator Kean was asked who, in his opinion, would be the candidate if it was not Stokes or Dryden, he shrugged his shoulders and smiled and remarked: "Oh, there are others who are eligible and I have no doubt could satisfactorily fill the bill.

"Personally, I would like to see Senator Dryden re-elected, but he has a hard fight on his hands, and as I said before, it altogether depends on the strength he shows in South Jersey, whose legislative representatives hold the key to the situation."

Will Canvass the Vote.

Senator Ernest R. Ackerman was among the Senators named yesterday by Governor Stokes to canvass the result of last Tuesday's election. The others named are Senator Bradley, of Camden; Senator Minch, of Cumberland; Senator Minturn, of Hudson, and Senator Cornish, of Warren.

INJUNCTION MIGHT DEFEAT GOV. STOKES

MR. REED SAYS SECRETARY OF STATE MIGHT NOT ISSUE CERTIFICATE.

Even should the Legislature override the constitutional barriers and select Governor Stokes for the United State Senate, it would be possible that he could not get his necessary credentials such is the opinion of Charles A. Reed, former president of the Senate. The Senator says that the Governor might perhaps be estopped from procuring the required certificate from the Secretary of State through recourse to law. An injunction he believes might issue in such case and the proceeding would effectually debar the Governor-Senator from appearing at Washington.

Mr. Reed was seen by a reporter yesterday. "Suppose," asked the newspaper worker, "that in spite of the constitutional declaration that the Governor shall not be elected by the Legislature to any office under the government of the United States, the Legislature should elect Governor Stokes, what, if anything, could be done to prevent him taking his seat?"

"When an United States Senator is elected," said Mr. Reed, "the Secretary of State or other proper officer, issues to him a certificate of election. This certificate he presents to the United States Senate as his credentials. It might be possible to obtain from the chancellor an injunction forbidding the Secretary of State from issuing such a certificate.'

"I do not know of any precedent for such an injunction," he continued, "but it seems reasonable that some method of enforcing the Constitution could be devised by the courts." Mr. Reed declined to make

RETURNS INCOMPLETE; CANVASSERS ADJOURN

SOME PLAINFIELD ELECTION OFFICERS BUNGLE UP THEIR WORK.

The Union County Board of Election and Registry commenced yesterday its work of canvassing the vote at last Tuesday's election. Owing to the failure of the officers in several election districts, including Plainfield, to make full returns, the board was unable to complete its work. It will probably be next Tuesday before the official count is announced.

The Congressional vote in the First district of the Second ward, was not filed yesterday, with the other returns, and another error detected was that the board had tabulated the total registered vote for the total vote at the election. The county board has since received the Congressional vote and the other correction has been made.

In the First district of the Fourth ward the tally sheet did not show the total vote polled.

The board in the Fourth ward of Rahway is sadly mixed and it has been summoned to appear before the county board at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning to explain maters. The returns show that James E. Martine received 169 votes and that 169 Independent Democratic tickets were polled. This together with the vote given the other candidates would show 100 more ballots than were really cast on Tuesday.

The board in one ward at Summit and in two wards at Elizabeth failed to make complete returns. In one of the Elizabeth wards the election officers locked up all the statistics in the ballot box and changed the combination. The county board will resume its labors this afternoon.

MICHAEL HUGHES.

Died Yesterday at His Daughter's Home In His 76th Year.

Following an illness of some duration from chronic gastritis, Michael Hughes, an old resident of the city, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. John J. Kenney, of East Second street, yesterday afternoon. He was born in Ireland seventy-six years ago bu tcame to Plainfield when he was a boy and always remained here. He was a member of St. Mary's church and in the early days of the parish was one of its most energetic supporters. Beside Mrs. Kenney, he leaves a son, Thomas Hughes, of East Second street, the well known photographer.

The funeral will be held at St. Mary's church Thursday morning and interment will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

Lectured on Scicily.

John M. Whiton gave his lecture on Setelly before the Men's Club of Grace P. E. church last night. He showed about seventy-five slides. The attendance was large.

SLAPS HUSBAND'S FACE

Mrs. Olive B. Dunn Resents Alleged Insult With Vigor.

IN A BARBER SHOP

Then She Has Him Arrested—Is Suing For a Divorce and Wants His "Scoffing" Stopped.

Mrs. Olive B. Dunn, who is suing her husband, Wesley J. Dunn, for divorce, on the ground of extreme cruelty, appeared against him in the City Court this morning to press a charge of disorderly conduct. The charge grew out of an encounter between the two at Alfred Seidel's barber shop, Park avenue, Saturday night, in which Mrs. Dunn slapped her husband's face before the usual Saturday night barber-shop crowd.

Mrs. Dunn alleged that, as she passed the barber shop, her husband put his head outside the door and said, loud enough for everybody to hear, "That's the cat." She went on at that time, but her anger over the alleged remark led her to return in a few minutes with her mother. She went into the shop and walked swiftly to her husband. "You'll call me a cat, will you!" she exclaimed, and slapped him in the face. The smack was heard all over the shop. Then Mrs. Dunn swept majestically out to the arm of her mother.

Dunn testified this morning that he did not use the word cat, or make any reference to his wife as she passed the shop. Dunn drove to the barber shop in one of his father's grocery wagons, and he said the remark his wife heard was called forth by a compliment paid to the horse by one of the men in the shop. Just as she approached the shop this man said the nice thing about the horse. She was passing by, Dunn said, when he remarked, "That's my pet," referring to the horse. He said nothing about cat, he swore, and all the men in the barber shop at the time assured him they were ready to swear he hadn't when his wife retired after the slapping episode.

Judge Runyon sent out for Mr. Seidel. The barber corroborated Dunn's story.

Dunn charged his wife with annoying him persistently. He said she hung about the barn where he worked just to nag him. Mrs. Dunn indignantly denied the charge.

The two exchanged passes all through the hearing. Mrs. Dunn was seconded by her mother, who accompanied her to court. The latter declared Dunn was not even on speaking terms with truth, and threatened to bring the law on him herself. Dunn smiled, and Mrs. Dunh's indignation increased.

"Look at that," she said. "That's the mean grin he always shows. That is why I slapped him."

"Because he smiled?" queried the magistrate.

"Well, he has no right to scoff at me. He has attacked my reputation and made it a matter of talk all over town."

Judge Runyon withheld his decision on the case. He said the charge was evidently brought simply to bring an end to clashes between the two, and he believed it best to let the case rest with the understanding that both sides to the unpleasantness stay away from each other.

Infant's Body Found.

A dead infant, newborn, wrapped in a sheet, was found behind Dr. Frank Clawson's barn, West Seventh street, yesterday afternoon. The police were notified and Dr. C. B. Lufburrow, city physician, was asked to examine it. Death was due to natural causes, but the police began a hunt for the one responsible for the abandonment of the body, which is against the law. The body was taken to Cole's undertaking shop.

His Seventh Natal Day.

In honor of his seventh birthday, Harold Mantz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Mantz, of Grandview avenue, entertained twenty little friends, Saturday afternoon. The guests enjoyed themselves with games until thoroughly tired and then partook of supper. The table was prettily decorated and was graced in the center by a cake with seven candles. The young host received numerous presents appropriate to the event.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The Union Bible class taught by Rev. D. M. Stearns will meet in the Y. M. C. A. hall this afternoon at 2:20 o'clock.

Rev. J. A. Cubberley, of this city, will have charge of the prayer-meeting at the Park Avenue Baptist church tomorrow night.

The Sunday-school of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, will send its Christmas box to Mr. McCombes, its representative in Minnesota.

Ernest W. Bogart, conjuror and wonder-worker, will appear at the Men's Club meeting in the Congregational church tonight. Refreshments will be served.

Joseph M. Hawkins will lead the Christian Endeavor Society meeting at the Park Avenue Baptist church Friday night. There will be a consideration of temperance topics

Rev. A. E. Finn, pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church, will deliver an address at the State Sunday-school Association in Somerville, this week, on "The Home Department."

R. B. Tolbert, the supply in charge of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, New York, will exchange pulpits with Rev. George B. Shaw, of the local Seventh-Day Baptist church, Saturday morning.

The Boys' Mission Band, of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church will meet in the large parlor of the church Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The subject for consideration will be "Korea."

There will be baptism of children at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church on Sunday morning, November 25. Parents wishing to present their children for baptism at that time should communicate with the pastor.

Rev. Hugh Black, M. A., of Edinburgh, will preach in the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church on Thanksgiving Day morning. Mr. Black came to this country to become a member of the faculty at Union Seminary.

The Christmas committee from the Park Avenue Baptist church Sunday-school is gradually completing details for the annual entertainment. Rehearsal of the Christmas music will soon begin under the direction of Charles L. Lewis.

Miss Ola Bidwell, an entertainer, will appear in Vincent chapel on Thursday night, November 22, at 8 o'clock under the auspices of the Young Ladies' Mission Circle. The entertainment will consist of readings, baritone solos and violin selections.

The monthly meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church will be held Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of Mrs. F. T. Ostrom, 748 Carlton avenue. A large attendance is desired as decision will be made at that time regarding the new church carpet.

The Women's Home Missionary Society of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church will hold its meeting for sewing in the church parlor Friday afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock. The society is preparing to send a box of useful articles to a missionary in Kansas before Thanksgiving.

The Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church will meet this afternoon in the chapel. Mrs. Hutton, of New Brunswick, will speak and give an account of her tour around the world in visiting missionary stations. An offering will be received for building the Chinese Home in San Francisco.

The Young People's Association of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church will meet Friday night for the Mission Study Classes. The attendance at these classes has shown a most encouraging increase and the influence of them has spread to other churches so that there has arisen a demand to have the story of this work presented in other places.

Photographic Exhibit.

A large collection of photographs possessing superior merit rewarded the many friends who visited the exhibition given yesterday afternoon by Miss Edith Tracy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Evarts Tracy, at her home on West Eighth street. Miss Tracy's variety of subjects is large and the artistic quality of her work, whether in human likeness or landscape rendered the exhibition a very attractive one. Some of Miss Tracy's best work is in her studies of children whose natural poses and unconscious grace are full of charm. Tea was served by Miss Emily Tracy, assisted by Misses Margaret and Harriet Goddard, Laura and Helen Lovell. The exhibition will continue this afternoon from three to six o'clock.

Mrs. Hall Will Speak.

Mrs. Florence Howe Hall, of Madison avenue, will be one of the speakers at the combined annual fall meeting of the New Jersey State Suffrage Society and the Essex County Suffrage Society, which will be held at the Woman's Club house, Newark, Tuesday, Nov. 27.

Yearly Meeting at Shiloh.

The yearly meeting of the New Jersey and New York City Seventh-Day Baptist churches will be held at the Marlboro church, Shiloh, November 23-26. There will be a large representation from the Plainfield and New Market Seventh-Day Baptist churches.

INCORRIGIBLE TWINS TAKEN TO THE REFORM SCHOOL.

The Ten-Year-Old Pair Will Be Kept at Jamesburg Until of Age.

The coal-dust twins, George and Irving Blaney, were taken to the Reform School at Jamesburg Saturday and the authorities of Somerset county are rid of the mischievous pair for some time at least. Their mother appeared against them and told Judge Schenck that when they were home they made life miserable for her. She declared they are incorrigible.

The twins, who are ten years old, are small in stature, and during their confinement for a month in the county jail have been up to all sorts of pranks. They have stood at a window of the jail and screamed for hours at a time, hoping to excite the sympathy of casual passersby; have fought and literally torn the clothing from their backs, and to cap the climax set fire to the jail building by throwing red-hot coals from the corridor stove on mattresses in the cells. The charges of larceny and attempted arson against the boys were dropped, as they would require a trial by jury, and it was thought best to have the youthful culprits placed under the restraining influences of the Reform School as soon as possible.

TWO VILLAGES TO USE ONE $25,000 SCHOOL HOUSE.

Peapack and Gladstone Vote to Jointly Erect a Modern Structure.

Peapack and Gladstone are to have a new school building, which, when completed, will have cost about $25,000. At a public meeting held at Larger Crossroads Saturday afternoon the proposition to construct a modern school house for the joint use of the two villages was voted on and was carried by a majority of the taxpayers of the township of Bedminster voting in favor of it.

County Superintendent H. C. Krebs, of North Plainfield, presided at the meeting and he declared that the purpose was to erect a building with four class rooms on the ground floor and two class rooms and an assembly room on the second story. The township already owns the ground on which the building is to be built and will furnish it with the money derived from the sale of the old building. A ventilating apparatus, approved by the State Board of Education, will be installed in the new structure at a cost of several thousand dollars.

Brooklyn Engagement Announced.

An engagement of interest in Brooklyn and to some friends in this city is that of Miss Ethel E. Gardiner to Harrison Clark, Jr. Miss Gardiner is a sister of Alfred Paul Gardiner who occupied for a short time his house corner of Grove street and Park place.

Lace Curtains

If new curtains are to be hung this season at all, it is certainly advisable to have them up before feast day. Doubtless you are going to have the house looking spic and span—the best you know how to make it look. Why not get the curtain question settled this week? Why not choose from the greatest lines to be found anywhere—the largest variety of styles, qualities and prices?

The Hahne & Co. stocks, always immense, have never been greater than this season.

Irish Point Curtains—The best knownand most popular of all the laces because they are both beautiful and exceptionally serviceable; here in no less than 250 patterns; the designs copied from hand-made laces; sash and long curtains; prices ranging from $2.50 to $25 the pair.

Real Arabian Lace Curtains—Hand-made laces are here in over 90 patterns, all carefully selected; charming for parlors, libraries and for rooms in which mission furniture is used; made in sash and long curtains, 3 to 4 yards long, 36 to 60 inches wide; prices range from $12 to $225 the pair.

Brussels Curtains—Daintiest of all the laces—are shown in no less than 75 designs, and no matter how delicate or heavy the furnishing scheme you can find patterns that will harmonize. Prices range from $4.50 to $75 the pair.

We have these in Sash Curtains as well as full size.

Lacet Lace Curtains—A variety of 70 designs; some for parlors, others for libraries, others for sitting rooms. These have deep, heavy borders and are made in Arabian colors, sash and long curtains; prices range from $6 to $75 the pair.

Ruffled Bobbinet Curtains—Full ruffle, useful in almost any room in the house; at prices ranging from $1.25 to $13.50.

Italian Filet—Hand-made curtains in the largest assortment ever brought to Newark; fully 30 patterns of these very high-class laces are here to choose from. We cannot begin to describe their beauty. Prices range from $20 to $200 the pair.

Nouvelle Effet—Very dainty—something new, white only. 20 patterns here at prices ranging from $2.75 to $15 the pair.

Novelty Curtains in over 150 patterns, good for any room in the house, prices ranging from $2 to $60 the pair.

Colored Madras Curtains in conventional, Cathedral, Gothic and floral designs, in many colors and combinations—beautiful things, many of them; fine for use with mission furniture; prices running from $3.50 to $30.

Nottingham Curtains—The most serviceable curtains made, largely used, an enormous assortment—not less than 300 patterns here to choose from; prices run all the way from 50c to $8 the pair.

Renaissance and Marie Antoinette Curtains—Suitable alike for parlors, libraries, living rooms or bedrooms; one hundred designs at prices ranging from $2 to $55 the pair.

Storr's Bonne Femme Sash Curtains—The most elaborate showing to be found in Newark or New York; fully 150 designs to choose from in sizes made to fit any window; prices ranging from $1.50 to $37.50 each.

Russian Laces, $17.50 to $38.

Cluny Lace Curtains for sitting or dining room; $3.50 to $20 the pair.

Dentelle Arabe—Fine imitation of hand-made lace; very heavily corded; very serviceable; in fifty pretty designs; prices $2.50 to $20.

Antique Curtains with scrim or bobbinet center; prices range from $2.50 to $18 the pair.

Egyptian Lace Curtains, $10 to $15 the pair.

Soutache Laces for sash or long curtains for dining room or living rooms—white, ecru, red or green, $3 to $16.75.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

GOLF.

Special events will mark the play at the Plainfield Country Club on Thanksgiving Day, and with the play on the next two Saturdays the season will close. Many of the members regret that this is so, but when it is considered that the season starts pretty early in the spring, the schedule is long enough to satisfy most of the players.

The attention of the members of the Plainfield Country Club will now be directed toward the annual meeting to be held in the near future, when officers will be elected and plans laid for next year. No doubt efforts will be made to prevail upon George P. Mellick to take the presidency for another year. He is popular with the members and has rare executive ability not to be overlooked.

The Park Golf Club will also hold its annual meeting within a few weeks to choose officers and plan for next year. The club has had a successful season and will no doubt arrange an attractive schedule for 1907.

As a feeder to the U. S. G. A., conditions having changed since the early days, it is now thought more important for the M. G. A. to build up the smaller clubs and leave it to them, in later years, to become also a member of the national association.

The Country Club of Lakewood's fall tournament on Thursday, Friday and Saturday will close the open competitions of the M. G. A. for the year. The programme is the same as last fall, four sets of sixteen to qualify, and the entries will close with Jasper Lynch, the secretary, on Wednesday evening.

Season cups are now being awarded. At the Englewood Golf Club the prize presented by B. F. Reinmund for the best selected card of the season has been won by E. M. Barnes, with 58. The next best were: Murray Olyphant, 59; Oswald Kirkby, 60; Harry V. Keep, 61; F. Snare, 62, and H. M. Nichols, 62. The handsome autumn cups, the gifts of Arthur J. Billin and J. D. Probst, have also been won out. A. D. Southerland won the Probst cup, and in the final for the Billin cup Harry V. Keep beat S. Vilas Beckwith, by 3 up and 2 to play.

A stag dinner will be held by the members of the Brooklyn and Forest Park golf clubs at the Assembly, 153 Pierrepont street, on Saturday evening, December 1. The committee in charge are V. H. Seaman, W. Fitzerald, C. F. Whitbeck and Sam'l Stark, of the Brooklyn Golf Club, and J. A. Nichol, H. P. Kipp, C. C. Webster, H. D. Seaman and H. A. Warbasse, of the Forest Park Golf Club. The secretary is H. P. Kipp, 51 Quincy street, Brooklyn.

A three day open golf tournament for women will take place on the links of the New Haven Country Club, beginning on Thursday, November 15. Among the leading players who have already entered are the following: Mrs. Sanford, Mrs. Ingalls and Miss Ethel Check, Essex Country Club; Mrs. Lefferts, Mrs. Callan and Miss Mix, Englewood Country Club; Mrs. Clark, Mrs. Park, Mrs. Connor and Miss Hurry, Apawamis Country Club; Miss Shreve, Brae Burn Country Club; Mrs. Rogers, Baltusrol; Mrs. Tiffany, Nassau; Miss Van Ostrom, Watertown, N. Y.; Miss Helen and Miss Catherine Nettleton, Derby, Conn.; Mrs. Roger White, Mrs. H. O. Trowbridge, Mrs. William Shepard, Miss Elsie Trowbridge, Miss Elizabeth Chamberlain, Miss Helen Porter and Miss Edith Barnett, New Haven Country Club.

Alec Smith, of Nassau, the open golf champion of the United States, defeated Alec Campbell, the Country Club professional, by two strokes in their thirty-six hole medal play made over the Country Club course Saturday. Smith played the morning round in 75 and the afternoon round in 73, giving him a total of 148 for the match. Campbell made a 74 in the forenoon and a 76 for the second round, making his total 150. Had the men been playing match play Smith would have won by 2 up and 1 to play.

FOOTBALL.

The North Plainfield High School eleven will play the eleven from the Westfield High School at Westfield, tomorrow. The last time these teams met the borough boys were the victors, by a wide margin. The Westfield boys will probably be prepared for their opponents tomorrow.

Bert Banks, who fractured his collar bone while playing football recently, is able to be out, although it will be some time before he can return to work. The broken bone is mending slowly.

Alis will play Dunellen at the latter place on Saturday and this will probably wind up the season for the local eleven. It has been several years since Plainfield has witnessed so few football games as this season. The withdrawal of the Plainfield High School eleven has had much to do with a loss of interest.

Plainfield, N. J., November 13, 1906.

As an exchange remarks, it is up to Senator Colby to revise his opinion of Senator Ackerman.

There's a little man over in Morris county who would make a first rate Governor. His name is Thomas J. Hillery. Ever hear of him? Well, you are going to—mark that.

Unless we mistake not, Everett Colby is now thirty-three years of age. The Constitution of the United States says, as every school boy knows, that one of the qualifications for election to the Senate is that the candidate be thirty-five years of age. Under such circumstances why should ready letter writers spend their efforts over "suggesting" Mr. Colby for that office?

If there are men who want the office of United States Senator other than Mr. Dryden, why didn't they have the courage to appeal for the support of the people at the primaries?—Trenton State Gazette.

Good men do not spend their time office-hunting; they are not vainglorious and politically egotistical. As a great statesman once said, "The office should seek the man, and not the man the office."

MORE LEHIGH YARDS AT SOUTH PLAINFIELD

BIG TRACT OF GROUND BEING GRADED FOR TWENTY ADDITION TRACTS.

The recent purchase of a big wood lot back of the South Plainfield station, has given rise to the story that the Lehigh Valley Railroad is to add another freight yard to its trackage at that point. The new property has been stripped of its trees and they have been cut into ties and cord wood, the later intended for sale. Laborers are now at work grading the ground and it is declared that twenty tracks will be laid, the reception and discharge of freight at that point having increased to such an extent that additional facilities have become absolutely necessary.

South Plainfield is one of the most important freight stations on the line from Mauch Chunk to Jersey City and it is rapidly growing through the railroad's efforts. The constant switching and drilling is not liked by the residents, however, as the noise at night is not conducive to sleep and the company has paid no heed to complaints about unnecessary whistling and shouts of trainmen.

THE OFFICIAL VOTE IN MORRIS COUNTY ANNOUNCED.

Figures Show That Republicans Fell Behind Totals of 1904 and 1905.

Morristown, Nov. 13.—Morris County Board of Elections met at the courthouse yesterday and canvassed the returns of last Tuesday's election. The official returns are as follows:

For Congress—Fowler, Republican, 6,253; Martine, Democrat, 4,730; Vaughan, Prohibition, 299; Whitesell, Socialist, 327. Fowler's plurality over Martine, 1,463.

This shows a falling off in the Republican vote. In 1904 Fowler carried the county by 2,960. The total vote this year is about the same as last year, being around the 11,000 mark. In 1904 the vote was about 14,000.

Change in Date for Oratorio.

William E. MacClymont, organist and choirmaster at Grace church, announces that his choir will render Gaul's "Holy City," on Tuesday night, November 20, at Grace church, instead of Thursday night, November 22, as previously stated.

WORKHOUSE FOR COUNTY; CHARITY WORKERS' SCHEME.

Idea Is To Put Union Co. "Rounders" At Hard Labor for Punishment.

Mrs. J. Kirtland Myers, Henry M. Maxson, Hugh F. Fox, from this city, and Rev. Dr. Mott, Mrs. A. N. Trimble and Rev. J. R. Atkinson, of Elizabeth, were among those who attended the meeting of the Union County Committee of the State Charities Aid Association of New Jersey, held at the home of Mrs. Williamson in Elizabeth, on Thursday, November 8.

In the absence of Mrs. Tiffany, the chairman, Rev. Dr. Mott presided. The chief discussion entered on the establishment of a workhouse in Union county for men and women sentenced for short terms, the "rounders" which is one of the hardest problems with which the charitable socities have to deal, inasmuch as during confinement of such persons their families are thrown upon the community for maintenance.

It was proposed to establish workhouses, where work shall be so hard and comforts so few as to cause the place to be dreaded. Last spring a pamphlet by Dr. Mott on this matter was widely circulated in the county. Letters were read from judges and others expressive of hearty approval of the plan proposed.

Mr. Fox offered a resolution that the Board of Managers of the State Charities Aid Association be requested to appoint a committee to investigate the cost of a workhouse and put the plan into effect of dealing with short term offenders. It was also reported that a sub-committee with Miss Emma L. Adams, chairman, had been appointed to ascertain if it were possible to adopt the present traveling library system to the needs of the penal institutions of the State. The result was the passage of an Act by the Legislature empowering the State Travelling Library Commission to engage in such work. The close of the session prevented the making of the needed appropriation for the purpose, but Senator Ernest R. Ackerman had assured the committee that it would be made during the coming winter session.

RR. TAX CONSTITUTIONAL.

Supreme Court Hands Down Opinion Upholding It.

The Supreme Court at Trenton handed down an opinion yesterday declaring the Duffield Railroad Tax act, providing for taxation of second class railroad property at lacal rates, to be constitutional. The opinion was on the appeal of the Central Railroad from a decision of the State Board of Equalization of Taxes refusing to review the assessment against the railroad by the local board of Newark.

The act under which the Republicans of Hoboken began their "Lexow" investigation was declared constitutional by the Supreme Court. The act was passed in 1879 and amended in 1898. Efforts at similar investigations in Trenton and Atlantic City were nulled pending this decision on Hoboken's appeals.

PIONEERS OF WOMAN SUFFRAGE MOVEMENT

PAPERS ON LUCY STONE AND LUCRETIA MOTT AT LEAGUE MEETING.

The Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield was entertained by Mrs. Isaac L. Miller, of Watchung avenue, yesterday afternoon. Interesting papers were read on two of the pioneers of suffrage, Mrs. Lucretia Mott, a charming Friend of culture and distinction, and Mrs. Lucy Stone, who was at one time a resident of Orange.

Mrs. Stone was the first speaker who really stirred the nation's heart on the subject of women's wrongs, and to her force, energy, personal magnetism and remarkable voice the women of today owe more, perhaps, than can be realized. For instance, when Lucy Stone graduated from Oberlin College she was told that she might write her essay but that one of the professors must read it for her, as no woman could speak in public. Thereupon, Lucy Stone, having already acquired distinction as an orator in her debating society, declined to write her essay and, later, justified her action by her ability to control and fascinate large, and sometimes hostile, audiences.

In the discussion which followed the papers, one of the interesting points brought out was the sympathy and accord which existed between these gifted women and their devoted husbands. Following the discussion, tea was served and a social was enjoyed by the members and their friends.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Tomlinson, of East Seventh street.

SANITARY SEWER ORDINANCE THROUGH TO THIRD READING.

Southside Improvement to Be Adopted Finally Next Month.

No one being present to speak for or against the proposition to extend the sanitary sewer system on the southside of the city and install a pumping station on land to be acquired on Randolph road, the Common Council last night adopted the ordinance calling for the improvement. After adopting the ordinance on first and second readings it was ordered engrossed and advertised. It will come up for final adoption at the December meeting.

As stated before, this extension to the sewer system is planned to take care of the southside of the city which cannot be sewered by gravity. The contract for the sewer work has been awarded to Peter Morgan, of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., and Warren B. Travell, of this city, has received the contract for installing the pumping station, which will be of the Ingersoll-Rand Company patent.

It is now so late in the season that the work will probably not be started before next spring, as bad weather would be likely to interfere with its progress if commenced now. This sewer will cover a wide area on the southside of the city, something which has been needed for a long time.

DISTRICT COURT.

Dunham Grocery Company Gets Decision Over Paul Nachtwey.

Judge Newcorn went through the District Court calendar repadily this morning. Six cases were disposed of.

In Smith against Barrett & Stries, on contract, the plaintiff was awarded $23.88; judgement for $164 for the plaintiff in Harris against Miner; judgement for $68 in the case of Beck against Miner, on contract; judgement for the plaintiff for $64 in Staats against Grant, on contract; judgement for possession in the case of Ivenly against Applegate, landlord and tenant. Decision was reserved in the case of Hezekiah Hand against Charles Gould, of Cranford, on replevin.

In the case of the Dunham Grocery Company against Paul Nachtwey, decision on which was reserved two weeks ago, the court awarded the plaintiff $64.33. The case was tried once before and won by the defendant, but the latter's counsel consented to a retrial as a matter of courtesy to the other side, which claimed that undue advantage had been obtained in the preparation of the case. The action will probably be carried up.

The case of the Siche Gas Company against W. W. Warnock, which tangled a jury hopelessly in disagreement several weeks ago, was laid over for two weeks pending arrangements for a retrial.

Prudential Gets Duffield.

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Prudential Insurance Company, in Newark, yesterday afternoon, Assistant Attorney General Edward D. Duffield, who earlier in the day resigned the office, was appointed as general solicitor for the insurance concern. As a successor to Duffield, it was reported that Nelson B. Gaskill, a son of Judge Gaskill, would be appointed.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

An event of as much theatrical as sporting interest will be the first public presentation in Plainfield of the original Gans-Nelson Fight Pictures, which will be exhibited at the New Plainfield theatre Thursday afternoon and night. These pictures are the most complete ever taken of a pugilistic encounter, surpassing in clearness and vividness the remarkable pictures of the celebrated Fitzsimmons-Corbett fight at Carson City, March, 1897. Every move made by the principals in the ring, the referee and the seconds of the fighters is clearly portrayed, as well as many side-lights to the battle. There are shown, among other things, the large number of women who are at the ring side and the motley gathering of sporting men, miners, cow-boys and bronco busters of the West, who assemble at the mining camp in Goldfield to view the greatest light-weight battle of the age, for which a purse of $30,000 was hung up and at which the receipts exceeded $57,000.

"Caught in the Rain," in which William Collier will star here under the management of Charles Frohman at the New Plainfield theatre Friday night, is a brand new play. It is a three act comedy written by Mr. Collier and Grant Stewart of his company during their recent trip to Australia and is said to give the clever comedian the greatest opportunity of his life for the interpretation of clean-cut fun. The story is made up of the complications that arise from a mistake in identity of the girl he loves on the part of a bashful young man (Collier) and the rascality of the bashful young man's business partner. The first scene is laid in the streets of Denver, the second in a suburb of that city and the third at a hunting lodge in the Rocky Mountains, with a view of Pike's Peak. The play is full of the "atmosphere" of the Middle West and mining and love-making are at times equally interesting topics among the characters. It is needless to recall Mr. Collier to play-goers. If for nothing else he would be well remembered for his work in "On the Quiet" and "The Dictator" but as a matter of fact he is the hero of more than a score of delightful comedies and the announcement of his appearance here in a new play insures a splendid entertainment. With Mr. Collier will be seen Nanette Comstock, Jane Laurel, Louise Drew, Helena Collier, Grant Stewart (co-author with Mr. Collier), George Nash, John Saville and Wallace Eddinger.

A trip to New York is incomplete unless it includes a visit to the famous New York Hippodrome, the most wonderful amusement in the country. A great many people cannot afford the luxury of a New York trip, and therefore must forego the pleasure of the Hippodrome. To those a great opportunity is about to be offered on Saturday afternoon and night at the New Plainfield theatre when Felix Haney, who for two seasons was the principal comedian at the Hippodrome, will appear as Hez Huckins in "When the Harvest Days Are Over." Those of you who have seen him at the Hippodrome will be glad to laugh at him again, and for those who have not a great treat is in store.

RECORDS.

In the number of his titles the Duke of Atholl, with twenty-three, holds the record.

The record bean for costliness is the vanilla, which sells at $12 a pound retail.

The record for ham sandwich making is a thousand sandwiches in 11 hours 25 minutes.

The record lodging house is one for pilgrims at Mecca, which accommodates 6,000 persons.

The record steam heating apparatus cost $180,000. It is that which heats 11,000 rooms of the Vatican.

The record soprano voice was Lucrezia Agujardi's. This lady, who died in 17,88, could easily strike C in altissimo.

The record for millionaire honesty was held by the late Charles T. Yerkes, who, on recovering his fortune after his failure, repaid the claims of all his old creditors with 6 per cent. compound interest.

POINTS FOR THE BUYERS

Got any old clothes to sell? Ike Richards, of Somerset street, pays the highest prices.

If you don't own a home consult M. F. Gano, of Park avenue, and he will explain how you can.

Kirch & Zimmerman, the Somerset street cash grocers, always have in stock the best groceries at lowest prices.

Laury & Daudt, of East Front street, contract for all kinds of building work and also sell plain and fancy mantel pieces.

When you want any plumbing work done call on James Harper, of Manning avenue. He does all kinds of jobbing work and is an expert sanitary plumber.

Furniture values at Powlison & Jones are of the surprising sort. Not disagreeably surprising, but the other kind. You cannot understand how such admirable furniture is so sold at such reasonable prices. East Front street.

Fine feathers make people think the bird is fine. Good clothes increase the respect in which a man is held by the people he meets. The place in Plainfield to get the finest of clothes as far as appearance and fit goes is Harry Weiner's store, West Front street.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—A. D. Thompson has started the sanitary sewer construction on the new portion of Denmark road and Dixie lane.

—The sanitary sewer on East Sixth street is nearly finished. The contractor has Irving place, the Essex street and Darrow avenue jobs still to do.

—G. E. Garretson will present a sleight-of-hand and musical entertainment before the Boys' Department of the Y. M. C. A. next Saturday afternoon.

—Joseph G. Miller, formerly a druggist in this city, but who has been engaged in the business in South Orange during the past five years, has returned to Plainfield and is now employed at the pharmacy of John P. Powers on Somerset street.

—The Richmond street storm sewer was somewhat threatened by Sunday's rain, but the cave-in that seemed imminent several times did not happen. In the construction of the sewer the contractor is using a patent form, which sets three feet at a time.

—John Sayre, of East Front street, who has been suffering with gangrene, the result of paring a corn on his foot and whose life was threatened, is greatly improved today On Saturday the diseased leg was amputated just above the knee, and unless other complications develop the patient's chances for recovery are excellent.

AN EXPERT INSTRUCTOR.

Reginald Barrett, Composer and Teacher.

The training and teaching of a vocalist or an organist calls for a high degree of skillful persistency as well as technical knowledge. Mr. Reginald Barrett, of 6 East 17th street, New York city, has reached the enviable place in his profession where he can look back upon a seventeen years record of success. Mr. Barrett teaches and composes. His works are notable in church composition and over 100 already published indicate his active ability. Among many brilliant pupils have been Violet McCoy, whose recent theatrical triumph has made a celebrity. In another line could be mentioned Harriet Barse, who is well known as a recital organist.

Mr. Barrett was educated abroad. Guildhall, London and musical centres in Germany contributed to the knowledge that has made him so successful an instructor in New York.

A growing number of pupils in this vicinity makes Mr. Barrett seem almost a resident of this city.

THE DELUGE

By DAVID GRAHAM PHILLIPS, Author of "THE CASTLE"

(COPYRIGHT 1905 by the BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY)

"Only a thief wishes to be trusted," he explained, "and only a fool trusts. I let no one trust me; I trust no one. But I believe evil of no man. Even when he has been convicted, I see the mitigating circumstances."

How Thornley did stand by me! And for no reason except that it was as necessary for him to be fair and just as to be he. I shall not say he resisted the attempts to compel him to dismiss me—they simply made no impression on him. I remember when Roebuck himself, a large stockholder in the bank, left cover far enough personally to urge him to throw me over, he replied steadfastly:

"If Mr. Blacklock is guilty of circulating false stories against commercial enterprises, as his enemies allege, the penal code can be used to stop him. But as long as I stay at the head of this bank, no man shall use it for personal vengeance. It is a chartered public institution, and all have equal rights to its facilities. I would lend money to my worst enemy if he came for it with the proper security. I would refuse my best friend if he could not give security. The funds of a bank are a trust fund and my duty is to see that they are employed to the best advantage. If you wish other principles to prevail here, you must get another president."

That settled it. No one appreciated more keenly than did Roebuck that character is as indispensable in its place as is craft where the situation demands craft—and is far harder to get.

I shall not relate in detail that campaign against me. It failed not so much because I was strong as because it was weak. Perhaps, if Roebuck and Langdon could have directed it in person, or had had the time to advise with their agents before and after each move, it might have succeeded. They would not have let exaggeration dominate it and venom show upon its surface; they would not have neglected to follow up advantages, would not have persisted in lines of attack that created public sympathy for me. They would not have so crudely exploited my unconventional marriage and my financial relations with old Ellersly. But they dared not go near the battle field; they had to trust to agents whom their orders and suggestions reached by the most roundabout ways; and they were busier with their enterprises that involved immediate and great gain or loss of money.

When Galloway died, they learned that the Coal stocks with which they thought I was loaded down were part of his estate. They satisfied themselves that I was in fact as impregnable as I had warned Langdon. They reversed tactics; Roebuck tried to make it up with me. "If he wants to see me," was my invariable answer to the intimations of his emissaries, "let him come to my office, just as I would go to his, if I wished to see him."

"He is a big man—a dangerous big man," cautioned Joe.

"Big—yes. But strong only against his own kind," replied I. "One mouse can make a whole herd of elephants squeal for mercy."

"It isn't prudent, it isn't prudent," persisted Joe.

"It is not," replied I. "Thank God, I'm at last in the position I've been toiling to achieve. I don't have to be prudent. I can say and do what I please, without fear of the consequences. I can freely indulge in the luxury of being a man. That's costly, Joe, but it's worth all it could cost."

Joe didn't understand me—he rarely did. "I'm a hen. You're an eagle," said he.

CHAPTER XXVIII.
A HOUSEWARMING.

Joe's daughter, staying on and on at Dawn Hill, was chief lieutenant, if not principal, in my conspiracy to drift Anita day by day further and further into the routine of the new life. Yet neither of us had shown by word or look that a thorough understanding existed between us. My part was to be unobstrusive, friendly, neither indifferent nor eager, and I held to it by taking care never to be left alone with Anita; Alva's part was to be herself—simple and natural and sensible, full of life and laughter, mocking at those moods that betray us into the absurdity of taking ourselves too seriously.

I was getting ready a new house in town as a surprise to Anita, and I took Alva into my plot. "I wish Anita's part of the house to be exactly to her liking," said I. "Can't you set her to dreaming aloud what kind of place she would like to live in, what she would like to open her eyes on in the morning, what surroundings she'd like to dress in and read in, and all that?"

Alva had no difficulty in carrying out the suggestions. And by harassing Westlake incessantly, I succeeded in realizing her report of Anita's dream to the exact shade of the draperies and the silk that covered the walls. In pushing the work, I got the house done just as Alva was warning me that she could not remain longer at Dawn Hill, but must go home and get ready for her wedding. When I went down to arrange with her the last details of the surprise, who should meet me at the station but Anita herself? I took one glance at her serious face and, much disquieted, seated myself beside her in the little trap. Instead of following the usual route to the house she turned her horse into the bayshore road.

"Several days ago," she began, as the bend hid the station, "I got a letter from some lawyers, saying that an uncle of mine had given me a large sum of money—a very large sum. I have been inquiring about it, and find it is mine absolutely."

I braced myself for the worst. "She is about to tell me that she is leaving," thought I. But I managed to say: "I'm glad to hear of your luck," though I fear my tone was not especially joyous.

"So," she went on, "I am in a position to pay back to you, I think, what my father and Sam took from you. It won't be enough, I'm afraid, to pay what you lost indirectly. But I have told the lawyers to make it all over to you."

I could have laughed aloud. It was too ridiculous, this situation into which I had got myself. I did not know what to say. I could hardly keep out of my face how foolish this collapse of my crafty conspiracy made me feel. And then the full meaning of what she was doing came over me—the revelation of her character. I trusted myself to steal a glance at her; and for the first time I didn't see the thrilling azure sheen over her smooth white skin, though all her beauty was before me, as dazzling as when it compelled me to resolve to win her. No; I saw her, herself—the woman within. I had known from the outset that there was an altar of love within my temple of passion. I think that was my first real visit to it.

"Anita!" I said, unsteadily. "Anita!"

The color flamed in her cheeks; we were silent for a long time.

"You—your people owe me nothing," I at length found voice to say. "Even if they did, I couldn't and wouldn't take your money. But, believe me, they owe me nothing."

"You cannot mislead me," she answered. "When they asked me to become engaged to you, they told me about it."

I had forgotten. The whole repulsive, rotten business came back to me. And, changed man that I had become in the last six months, I saw myself as I had been. I felt that she was looking at me, was reading the degrading confession in my telltale features.

"I will tell you the whole truth," said I. "I did use your father's and your brother's debts to me as a means of getting to you. But, before God, Anita, I swear I was honest with you when I said to you I never hoped or wished to win you in that way!"

"I believe you," she replied, and her tone and expression made my heart leap with indescribable joy.

Love is sometimes most unwise in his use of the reins he puts on passion. Instead of acting as impulse commanded, I said, clumsily: "And I am very different to-day from what I was last spring." It never occurred to me how she might interpret those words.

"I know," she replied. She waited several seconds before adding: "I, too, have changed. I see that I was far more guilty than you. There is no excuse for me. I was badly brought up, as you used to say, but—"

"No—no," I began to protest.

She cut me short with a sad: "You need not be polite and spare my feelings. Let's not talk of it. Let us go back to the object I had in coming for you to-day."

"You owe me nothing," I repeated. "Your brother and your father settled long ago. I lost nothing through them. And I've learned that if I had never known you, Roebuck and Langdon would still have attacked me."

"What my uncle gave me has been transferred to you," said she, woman fashion, not hearing what she did not care to heed. "I can't make you accept it; but there it is, and there it stays."

"I cannot take it," said I. "If you insist on leaving it in my name, I shall simply return it to your uncle."

"I wrote him what I had done," she rejoined. "His answer came yesterday. He approves it."

"Approves it'" I exclaimed.

"You do not know how eccentric he is," she explained, naturally misunderstanding my astonishment. She took a letter from her bosom and handed it to me. I read:

"Dear Madam: It was yours to do with as you pleased. If you ever find yourself in the mood to visit, Gull House is open to you, provided you bring no maid. I will not have female servants about. Yours truly,

"HOWARD FORRESTER."

"You will consent now, will you not?" she asked, as I lifted my eyes from this characteristic note.

I saw that her peace of mind was [illegible]

HAIR TELLS CHARACTER.

Color of Hair Said to Indicate a Person's Temperament.

Many people believe that blonde, or light hair denotes affection and dark hair constancy. A person without hair is not devoid of character; far from it. The disposition of the average baldheaded man is to show such solicitude for the welfare of others, that he neglects himself. A germ causes baldness. Prof. Sabouraud, of Paris, France, inoculated a rabbit with Dandruff germs, causing it to become totally bald in five weeks' time. To rid the scalp of these dangerous germs it is necessary to apply Newbro's Herpicide.

"Destroy the cause—you remove the effect."

MARY A. BROWN—Telephone 377-L—218 W. SECOND ST.

She gave a great sigh as at the laying down of a heavy burden. "Thank you," was all she said, but she put a world of meaning into the words. She took the first homeward turning. We were nearly at the house before I found words that would pave the way toward expressing my thoughts—my longings and hopes.

"You say you have forgiven me," said I. "Then we can be—friends?"

She was silent, and I took her somber expression to mean that she feared I was hiding some subtlety.

"I mean just what I say, Anita," I hastened to explain. "Friends—simply friends." And my manner fitted my words.

She looked strangely at me. "You would be content with that?" she asked.

I answered what I thought would please her. "Let us make the best of our bad bargain," said I. "You can trust me now, don't you think you can?"

She nodded without speaking; we were at the door, and the servants were hastening out to receive us. Always the servants between us. Servants indoors, servants outdoors; morning, noon and night, from waking to sleeping, these servants to whom we are slaves. As those interrupting servants sent us each a separate way, her to her maid, me to my valet, I was depressed with the chill that the opportunity that has not been seen leaves behind it as it departs.

"Well," said I to myself by way of consolation, as I was dressing for dinner, "she is certainly softening toward you, and when she sees the new house you will be still better friends."

But, when the great day came, I was not so sure. Alva went for a "private view" with young Thornley; out of her enthusiasm she telephoned me from the very midst of the surroundings she found "so wonderful and so beautiful"—thus she assured me, and her voice made it impossible to doubt. And, the evening before the great day, I going for a final look round, could find no flaw serious enough to justify the sinking feeling that came over me every time I thought of what Anita would think when she saw my efforts to realize her dream. I set out for "home" half a dozen times at least, that afternoon, before I pulled myself together, called myself an ass, and, with a pause at Delmonico's for a drink, which I ordered and then rejected, finally pushed myself in at the door. What a state my nerves were in!

Alva had departed; Anita was waiting for me in her sitting-room. When she heard me in the hall, just outside, she stood in the doorway. "Come in," she said to me, who did not dare so much as glance at her.

I entered. I must have looked as I felt—like a boy, summoned before the teacher to be whipped in presence of the entire school. Then I was conscious that she had my hand—how she had got it, I don't know—and that she was murmuring, with tears of happiness in her voice: "Oh, I can't say it!"

"Glad you like your own taste," said I awkwardly. "You know, Alva told me."

"But it's one thing to dream, and a very different thing to do," she answered. Then, with smiling reproach: "And I've been thinking all summer that you were ruined! I've been expecting to hear every day that you had had to give up the fight."

"Oh—that passed long ago," said I.

"But you never told me," she reminded me. "And I'm glad you didn't," she added. "Not knowing saved me from doing something very foolish." She reddened a little, smiled a great deal, dazzlingly, was altogether different from the ice-locked Anita of a short time before, different as June from January. And her hand—so intensely alive—seemed extremely comfortable in mine.

"WAS ALTOGETHER DIFFERENT FROM THE ICE-LOCKED ANITA OF A SHORT TIME BEFORE."

Even as my blood responded to that touch, I had a twinge of cynical bitterness. Yes, apparently I was at last getting what I had so long, so vainly, and, latterly, so hopelessly craved. But—why was she giving it? Why had she withheld herself until this moment of material happiness? "I have to pay the rich man's price," thought I, with a sigh.

It was in reaching out for some sweetness to take away this bitter taste in my honey that I said to her, "When you gave me that money from your uncle, you did it to help me out?"

She colored deeply. "How silly you must have thought me!" she answered.

$1,000 FOR $95.48.

I. B. D., a carpenter of Paterson, N. J., aged 63, took out a Prudential policy for $1,000. He had paid only four quarterly premiums when, on the very eve of the anniversary of his taking out insurance, he met his death through falling from a roof. The full amount, $1,000, was promptly paid his widow. The Company received in premiums only $95.48.

Y. M. C. A. FIVE WINS EASILY FROM P. H. S.

SCHOOL TEAM FAST IN PASSING BUT INACCURATE AT BASKETS.

Basketball crept out of its 1906-1907 chrysallis at the Y. M. C. A. last night. What the game will develope into there this season is still a matter of conjecture, because the association team was not out in full, and the P. H. S. team offered no serious resistance to scoring. The final tally was Y. M. C. A., 57; P. H. S., 16.

Both teams suffered for lack of regular players, but the school team felt their ills the most. They made a gingery start, but couldn't maintain the pace. Before the Y. M. C. A. five had gathered themselves together, P. H. S. scored four points, and the school rooters chirrupped hopefully. Their chirrups died away before the half closed. The semi-score was 28 to 10 in Y. M. C. A.'s favor.

Leary was out on the Y. M. C. A. side, and the stern decree of the school board as to the nonparticipation of backward students in athletics did things to the P. H. S. line-up.

The association team were markedly accurate in shooting. All the players scored, and Scull got twelve goals alone. The school boys were fast in passing and had a number of chances to score that were nullified by poor throwing.

Between the halves the second team and the Consolidated five played a one-sided game, in which the second team perched unshakenly on the upper side. They scored 20 to the Consolidated's 10 in the first half, and took things easy in the second half. The second team lined up with Gilmore and Collier at forward; Aalholm, center; Hoagland and Munssy, guards; Consolidated, Douglass and Templin, forwards; J. Gavett, venter; Sebring and Waltrous, guards.

Score and summary of main game:

P. H. S.	Y. M. C. A.
Doane	Thompson
Line, Morris	Smith
forwards
Caldwell	Scull centre
Snyder	Gavett, T.
Freeman, Fountain	Jacot
guards

Goals from field, Doane (3), Line (2), Caldwell, Freeman, (2), Thompson (5), Smith (5), Scull (12), Gavett, Jacot (4). Goals from fouls, Thompson (3). Score end of first half, Y. M. C. A., 28; P. H. S., 10; second half, Y. M. C. A., 57; P. H. S. 16 Referee, Listman; timer, Doane; scorer, Woodhull

RELIGIO-ATHLETIC PLANS ARE ENLARGED.

Bible Classes Among the Grammar School Boys To Have Competitive Games.

Extending the Sunday-school athletics idea, Physical Director George L. Listman, of the Y. M. C. A., has made plans for competitive games between the members of the Bible classes among the grammar school boys. There are four such classes.

Basketball will furnish the chief competition between the class members, but other contests are to be arranged. The classes are taught by Stanley Robins and Lawrence Bromfield, Stanley Karner, Russell Morris, and Secretary Robbie.

To be eligible to a place on any of the teams, a class member must attend three sessions a month. Social affairs, as well as athletics, will be enjoyed by the members. A social committee will be appointed the same time the athletic committee is shaped.

HORSE SWAP MAKES TROUBLE.

It Wasn't Satisfactory and the Dissatisfied Man Had to Sue.

An interesting horse case occupied the attention of a jury in Justice Mundy's court in the borought, for several hours, last night. Suit was brought by Ernest T. Hand to recover from William Kirch for the value of an animal used in a trade and resulted in a verdict for the plaintiff for $75 and costs.

Hand and Kirch agreed to "swap" horses, it being understood that Hand was to have three days in which to try the animal secured by him. If it wasn't satisfactory, he had the privilege of returning it. The first day he hitched it up he discovered it was partially blind and had other defects so decided to swap back. When he broached Kirch on the subject, the latter couldn't see that there was anything the matter with the horse from his standpoint and besides, said he had sold the animal turned over to him by Hand. The latter accordingly brought suit.

Kirch was represented by John A. Frech, of Somerville, and S. S. Swackhamer, of this city, looked after Hand's interests.

E. F. MILLIKEN'S FUNERAL.

Committal Service Conducted at Hillside This Afternoon.

The funeral of Edward Fullerton Milliken, who died in the New York Hospital Saturday morning, was held at the residence of his brother, Foster Milliken, at 46 West Seventy-fourth street, this morning. It was conducted by Rev. Dr. William R. Richards, pastor of the Brick Presbyterian church and formerly of the Crescent Avenue church, who was a close friend of Mr. Milliken for many years. The body was brought to this city this afternoon and a committal service at Hillside cemetery was conducted by Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie. It was attended by many Plainfield friends of the family.

The body will be taken to Lynchburg, Va., for interment later.

Sunday-school Convention in Session.

The annual State convention of the New Jersey Sunday-school Association opened in Somerville today with a large number of delegates present from all parts of New Jersey. James L. SOME MINOR MATTERS BEFORE COMMON COUNCIL

SYDNEY T. PERRIN FILES COMPLAINT AGAINST C. M. MEEKER'S WORK.

The Common Council at its adjourned meeting last night received a communication from Sydney T. Perrin, of West Seventh and John streets, complaining that C. M. Meeker, who had the contract to repair the streets in the vicinity of his property, failed to do so as he had agreed. He stated that Mr. Meeker had contracted to take the surplus dirt from the streets and dump it on his sidewalks so that they might be brought up to grade. Mr. Perrin declared that he spoke to Mr. Meeker's foreman, but that he could get no satisfaction. Inasmuch as he is obliged to pay taxes on his property, he says that he thinks he is entitled to some consideration. The matter will be attended to by the street committee, to which it was referred.

The Public Service Corporation reported to the Common Council that one new light had been erected on Hillside avenue and another one on Prospect avenue. A. B. Davis asked for an adjustment of a tax matter, claiming that a tax of $10.27 has been paid twice, once by his wife and again by himself. He presented affidavits from Tax Collector J. W. Murray, Jr., to show that there was an error about the matter. The petition was referred to the finance committee.

On motion of Mr. Daniel, chairman of the finance committee, the sum of $3.92 was ordered returned to Walter L. Hetfield, Sr., it being a tax paid in error. Mr. Hetfield must furnish verification of the claim to receive the money alleged to be due him.

The communication from the Board of Assessors asking for an increase of salary were ordered filed on motion of Mr. Daniel.

CHIMES OF NORMANDY PRINCIPALS CHOSEN.

Miss Hortense Marie Sheldon to Appear as Serpollette in Operatic Production.

William Holmes, director for the Plainfield Operatic Association, has announced the principals for the cast for the opera, "The Chimes of Normandy," to be given early in the New Year. They are as follows:

Serpollette, Miss Hortense Marie Sheldon, of Cranford; Germaine, Miss Ethel Moore, of Cranford; Marquis, H. Raymond Loder; Grenicheux, Elmer D. Cutting; Gaspard, William N. Runyon; Bailli, Joseph C. Martin; Nortary, John V. Todd.

Miss Sheldon will be remembered as one who took the leading part in "The Pirates of Penzance," with so much success. She is a favorite and in fact everyone of the principals is sure to take his or her part well in "The Chimes of Normandy."

Last night the time was devoted to a rehearsal of the music to be given at the concert on Tuesday night, November 27, at the Casino. The rehearsal was satisfactory in every way. The association has arranged to engaged the Schill Stringed Orchestra, of Newark, to assist at the concert.

Hot Coal Fired a Bin.

Someone at the home of Mrs. Davis, 311 Madison avenue, pulled some hot coal out of the furnace because it was too full, this morning, and threw it back in the bin. It set fire to the woodwork and a still alarm was turned in. A hose wagon was sent out from headquarters and the blaze was extinguished with a few pails of water.

Handsome Display of Goods.

One of the most attractive business houses at this season of the year is "The White Store, A. E. Force & Co., proprietors. The show windows are especially attractive. One is devoted to a handsome display of white goods and linen, another one to yarns and woosteds and the third is filled with furs, women and children's coats and jackets.

FIRST BAPTIST MEN'S CLUB ELECTS OFFICERS.

Samuel St. John McCutchen Again Chosen Head of Organization.

Election of officers and a discussion of plans for the coming year was the chief business considered at the annual meeting of the Men's Club of the First Baptist church, last night. Reports of the club's condition showed a large membership, excellent financial standing and much interest and enthusiasm for the coming year's work.

These officers were elected:

President, Samuel St. John McCutchen; first vice-president, Edward T. Wilson; second vice-president, J. Herbert Case; treasurer, Dr. Norman H. Probasco; secretary, John G. MacLaughlin; Board of Governors, Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan, Geo. A. Chapman, J. Henry Crane, Alfred W. Day, Walter C. Dobbins, N. Douglas Drake, Alexander Gilbert, Stephen B. Joseph, Frank W. Jones, Charles W. McCutchen, James D. McNabb, Kenneth Robbie, Harold Serrell and George F. White.

While there was considerable discussion as to plans for the winter, nothing definite was decided upon. Now that the officers have been elected a meeting will be held soon to select a programme for the coming meetings, which are held every month.

Dryden Sure of Re-election.

Politicians from all parts of the State, including members of both houses of the Legislature and Senators Kean and Dryden, were in Trenton today at the first levee of Governor Stokes after election. Mr. Dryden contented himself with making a formal statement of his candidacy for re-election to the legislators. His election seems to be assured. Senator Kean is confident of it. The only Republican legislators who have come out against Mr. Dryden are Colby and Fake. None of the others have done so, and they are sure to support him when the other men mentioned for office are withdrawn, as they will be.

Wedding Announcement.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Eva G. Webster and William F. Anson, both of East Third street, which occurred on Saturday, October 27. The couple wac married by Rev. C. S. Kemble, pastor of the Methodist church, Elizabeth. The groom is employed at Garwood and he and his wife will reside at Bayonne.

Verdict for Plainfield Man.

Word has been received here that a verdict for $5,400 in favor of John W. Boyd, of this city, and against James C. Beebe, of Huntington, W. Va., has been returned in the West Virginia Courts. The action was brought to recover money loaned eleven years ago. The defendant put in an offset equal to the amount of the plaintiff's claim.

Funeral of Mrs. Mary E. Dietz.

The funeral services of Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Dietz were held this morning from the residence of her son, Frederick A. Dietz, 24 Summit avenue. Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, rector of Grace church, officiated at the service. The interment was in Somerville.

Chamber Music Concert.
